¶ A smart showman couldn't ask for a bigger box office "natural" than Harold Lloyd in his first all-talking pieture. ¶ You know the whole town will come to hear Lloyd talk. You not only attract all of your regular patrons; you sell your theatres to hundreds of new customers. ¶ Add the fact that everybody who has seen and heard "Welcome Danger" agrees it's the greatest Harold Lloyd ever! ¶ Booking Lloyd's latest is the shrewdest deal an exhibitor could make. ¶ And remember: If your house isn't wired, there's a silent "Welcome Danger" available that tops all previous Lloyds.

"Dwarfs all other Lloyds, Makes Harold monarch of comedians,"

"Will smash all existing box gest."

Western Electric quality in sound equipment assures trouble-proof operation and increased box-office

EXHIBITORS know that satisfaction with Sound depends largely on reliable reproducing equipment. 2600 large and small theatres, Western Electric equipped, are proving this every day through stimulated box office receipts.

Western Electric pledges itself to continue providing apparatus of high standard and to make no compromise on quality in order to meet a price.

The only laboratory in the world devoted exclusively to improving the quality of Sound Picture apparatus — the new 3-story addition to Bell Telephone Laboratories.

This policy is to the interest of every element of the industry. It would be useless for the producer to continue improving Sound pictures if such improvements are not properly reproduced in theatres.

The public's and critics' comments on the greatest box-office sensation to hit the screen in months.

GLORIA SWANSON

Singing, Talking in her first ALL-TALKING PICTURE

"The TRESPASSER"

DETROIT tells the world it's the greatest ever.

Detroit Daily: "Miss Swanson proves in this picture that she can hold her own in the talkies with any of our present day movie actresses and that she surpasses many of them with her naturalness in emotional scenes. She is the same Gloria of the "Humming Bird", "Manhandled" and many other pictures that made her the great screen star that she is. The picture is well directed and excellently cast. A picture well worth viewing."

Detroit News: "Gloria Talks — and Sings — and Triumphs. Not since the debut of Mary Pickford in voice has there been such a breathless moment for movie fans as that which occurred at the United Artists Theatre, Thursday, at the midnight premiere of 'The Trespasser' when the Glorious Gloria Swanson uttered audible sounds for the first time. Gloria not only spoke, but she sang—and great was the excitement and pleasure among her followers over the unanimous agreement that she really has a charming manner of getting her personality over through the medium of the sound screen. 'The Trespasser' is a complete triumph for Gloria in almost every respect and it should mark the beginning of new achievements for the star. 'The Trespasser' fills the Swanson requirements in every particular.'

Free Press: "She speaks from the screen for the first time and her voice proves to be pleasing and well-modulated with clear enunciation and diction. Then, she discloses the possession of a singing voice of operatic timbre, well trained and carefully handled. She sings two songs, one of which is 'Love.' Miss Swanson's gowns, coiffures and jewels in the picture are so gorgeous, varied and bizarre that the audience offered audible evidence of its astonishment and enthusiasm. The story has many pathetic dramatic moments, is so well acted, directed and mounted as to stand out as a real achievement for Miss Swanson and those with whom she was associated in its screening and production."

Evening Times: "Director Goulding has placed Gloria in a role that is most suited to her. 'The Trespasser' is a credit to Miss Swanson. Likewise it is a credit to Goulding. Miss Swanson has one of the finest speaking voices of any of the original movie stars that it has been your correspondent's pleasure to hear. Not only that, she sings a pleasant theme song about love quite agreeably. The picture is substantially built and should be good for at least a three-week engagement at the United Artists Theatre."

BUFFALO agrees and starts off to record business.

Times: "Miss Swanson worth your while. A charming Gloria Swanson made our last evening at the Buffalo a happy one. We thought her beautiful. We thought her photophone-recorded voice lovely and well used. We think you'd miss something should you pass up her first talkie 'The Trespasser' made by United Artists. She had us near breaking down and joining in the sobs of the women who sat all 'round us. Indeed we cannot deny that a tear or two trembled on the old lashes. You'd enjoy seeing and hearing Gloria. The Swanson songs are lovely. Her 10 gowns are exquisite."

Courier Express: "Everybody who's been eager to know what Gloria Swanson sounds like on the audible screen and hoping for the best, will find it's worth all the waiting. The stage has sent a lot of its stars to the talkies. Gloria's is as good as any of the voices that drew raves, and better than at least five that have been acclaimed as what the chatter-movies needed. Gloria talks and she sings, both excellently. A standout. Biggest of all the surprises is Gloria's singing voice. And let it be said there's no double. The phonograph records will prove that. It's remarkably well done. It's a truly great picture. And for the women, there are Gloria's clothes."

A New Parade—Get In Step! By William A. Johnston

66 T'M going to forget about mergers and tution in the business, large and small. The go to work," said a film man to me vesterday. "Whatever they do at the top, the box-office is going right on—and up!"

And this is the most sensible statement I have heard to date.

There is but one great, inevitable force in this business—and that is public demand.

Public demand moulds and swerves our trade structure this way and that; knocks down old edifices and builds new one; throws old machinery out in the scrap heap and okays new outfits.

We, within the trade, may not like it;

but we cannot help it.

As a matter of fact, we hate it; and we fight it.

We have built our business house one way and quite naturally we want to live in it, in peace of mind and prosperity. We object strenuously to the boss that comes along with blunt orders to get out and build all over

Just the same, we have that boss—the public. The smart thing to do is to obey The still smarter thing is to sense them in advance. But the hopeless thing is to continue to be deaf to them.

I dislike to use the General Film Company —one of the best organizations this business will ever see—as a horrible example. But it illustrates so well the all-powerful and remorseless sweep of public demand. Here was a great house built, apparently, on a rock foundation and ironclad with extraordinary bands of protection. Yet the moment the public got its taste of multiple—reel dramas the excellent edifice was rocked to final disintegration by the tide of public favor.

And so it has been with every other instientire history of the trade makes it clear that the trade structure is at the utter mercy of the box-office. Distribution once ruled the business; today it is theatres.

When sound picture dramas came, the business groaned from stem to stern, and cried out: "Give us time to put our house in order"! And the smaller houses cried out that they would perish. But no time or quarter was given and, remorselessly as ever, the reordering went straight ahead to its goal: a satisfied public.

The advent of radio and its immediate hold upon the public put fear and consternation into the trade-minded. Most people wanted to fight the interloper. Today we find radio a force not outside of and against but within and a potent ally in motion picture progress.

However we may, each of us and from our particular doorstep, view the changes within the trade, one thing is certain and that is that the picture box-office is soaring. Records of picture grosses will be smashed to pieces this year. What we considered, in times past, to be peaks will look like pretty small hills by comparison.

So our friend is right. The thing to do is to go to work, and fit into the present parade.

We have a much larger and at the same time a much more discriminating public. Theatres are going to need better and better men to run them. Theatre chains are frantically demanding better man power and finer organization. Advertising will be a factor as never before. So will be technical knowledge and ability. And finally, the best investment in theatres will demand for its black figures a variety and quality of entertainment that only many and the best creators and technicians can turn out.

Gloria Swanson May Desert Screen For Legitimate Stage Under Woods' Management

Joseph P. Kennedy Agrees To Let Her Have Stage Opportunity: Eugene Walter At Work On A New Play

AVING achieved a tremendous trimuph on the talking screen in her latest production "The Trespasser." Gloria Swanson may desert the screen for the letiginate stage. A. H. Woods is spoken of as her manager in the theatre through an arrangement with Joseph P. Kennedy and the vehicle for her debut is to be a play on which Eugene Walter is now at work. Miss Swanson will, however, make at least one more screen production before her stage appearance. That picture is to be produced some time between the present and the first of the year with the legitimate stage venture to follow in New York shortly after New Year's. In "The Trespasser" Miss Swanson dis-

In "The Trespasser" Miss Swanson displayed tremendous natural acting force, and a marvelous handling of the dialogue assigned to her, and disclosed a singing voice that is remarkable in its beauty. This all too rare a combination stamped her as the outstanding actress in America today either on the stage or screen, and when A. H. Woods saw a private screening of the picture he immediately went into a rave about the possibilities for Miss Swanson in the legitimate theatre.

Engene Walter, who returned from Hollywood about two months ago, was hard at work on a play for Woods, which the author knew would fit Miss Swanson perfectly, and it is predicted by him that Miss Swanson will prove an overnight sensation in the theatre.

A series of conferences between Joseph P. Kennedy, who has Miss Swanson under contract for a series of productions to be released through United Artists, and A. II. Woods have been held within the last week with the result that Mr. Kennedy has declared his infention of permitting Miss Swanson to make her debnt under the Woods management in the Walter play when it is completed, providing that the offering meets with the approval of the star.

In the meantime, however, Miss Swanson is to return to Hollywood in the near future and complete at least one more screen

Warners Starting A Third Hollywood Theatre In Spring

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—Warner Brothers will start construction of their second Hollywood Theatre in the spring, and are planning to operate it on a twice daily policy with a $2 top admission scale.

The site adjoins the present Warner house on Hollywood Boulevard, purchase of which was reposted by MOTION PICTURE NEWS several months ago. The theatre will be of Moroecan architecture, and will have a seating capacity of 3,500.

When the new theatre is finished it will give Warners full representation in Los Angeles and Hollywood, with a total of three houses.

"U" Satisfied With Foreign Versions: Will Make Shorts

Hollywood, Oet, 3.—Following experiments in making satisfactory German and Spanish versions of "Broadway" and "Show Boat" through word translation and voice doubling, Universal is gathering units of both German and Spanish stock players at their local studios to produce short reel subjects in both languages. Paul Kohner has been placed in charge of the foreign production department by Carl Laenmule, Jr.

Major Levinson, Erpi's Western Mgr., Resigns

Credited With Having Sold Talkie Idea To The Late Sam Warner

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—Major Nathan Levinson, western division manager of Erpi, in charge of both studio and theatre in-tallation and servicing, has tendered his resignation effective next week.

Levinson, as Pacific District manager of the radio division of Western Electric four years ago, is credited with having sold the idea of talking pictures to the late Sam Warner of Warner Brothers, and was mainly instrumental in having the Warner tieup with Western Electric consummated.

Following the phenomenal success of Vitaphone, Levinson was placed in charge of Erpi installations in both theatres and studies in the territory from Denver west, and has been looked upon as the foremost authority on technical and practical sound recording and reproduction.

Major Levinson has had a local staff of nearly two hundred engineers under his jurisdiction to take care of theatre and studio equipment installations. It is known that Levinson has had many offers to become head of studio sound departments, all carrying lucrative contracts, but he refused them while Erpi installations were at a high neak.

Levinson will take a vacation for about six weeks, and expects to decide his future association upon his return.

Selznick Appoints Hurley To Production Detail Job

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—David Selznick, executive assistant to B. P. Schulberg at the local Paramount Studios, has appointed Harold Hurley his assistant to take ear of production details on pictures Selznick produces. Hurley has acted in the same capacity during the past year for B. P. Fineman, and previously was assistant to Arch Reeve in the studio publicity department.

Paramount Signs Oakie And Gallagher For Cohen Story

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—Paramount will team Jack Oakie and Richard "Skeets" Gallagher in a talking production of "Marco Himself," from the Cosmopolitan magazine of the same title by Octavus Roy Cohen. The picture is slated for early spring production, after Oakie finishes the lead in Paramount's "Kid Boots," which will be made in the East.

"U" Making Talkie Version Of "Command To Love"

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—Regardless of the ban placed on the filming of "The Command to Love" by Will Hays, it is reported that Universal is preparing a talker adaptation of the property and plans to produce the picture as a special.

Under The Hollywood Lid

S impressive as progress in sound has been until now, it is entirely a safe prediction to make that only the surface has been scratched. Dealing in futures is always a precarious matter, yet a close serutiny of Hollywood, its executives and its studios result in an indelible conviction that the tomorrow hold in store for the exhibitor and his enstomer, the American public, an era of entertainment that outstrips the most imaginative of Producers, realizing to the full the possibilities as well as the tremendous responsibilities which have burdened their shoulders since the onrush of sound, are centralizing all of their efforts and the full measure of their resources to meet the prevailing condition.

Negative costs have risen, despite the fact that shooting schedules have been trimmed. Production authorities, while disliking to fix a figure which varies with each individual studio, agree generally that costs have risen from 15 to 30 per cent. Not only must each new picture be taxed with

The Trend

TOLLYWOOD is a gigantic experimental laboratory. Fared by the accessity of supplying a waiting market with product, the studios are at the same time endeavoring to discover short cuts and better cuts to improved production.

The back stage type of story is washed up. What comes next?

Technique is creating more than mild brainstorm. Is sound to flourish under a treatment of its onco? Is the answer stage technique; straight film technique or a composite of the best features of both?

What will the talkers of tomorrow look ood souod like?

Now that shooting schedules are shorter, why are costs higher? "Red" Kann, ia his second article from Hollywood, explains how the studios view these vital problems.

a pro rata portion of the carrying charges saddled onto production as a direct consequence of the sound era, but the costs involved in turning out each proaction have risen too because sound pictures, computing the period of preparation and actual shooting, take longer to make.

I NCREASES in negatives are partially traceable to the novitiate period through which all studios are passing. This is still very much the day of experimentation and, of course, experiments are expensive. Producers and directors, as a matter of fact, all of the human factors engaged in production are working infinitely harder than in pre-sound times. As far as this observer has been able to cross-section opinions and reactions on sound, Hollywood is sincerely diligent in its endeavors to learn as much as possible about this new-fangled mystery so often alluded to as "the squawkies."

To talk to prominent studio executives and directors is merely to discover how brimful, and often heartbreaking, has been the cup of experience and how hard the work entailed. The microphone has been a

"Sunny Side Up" a Money Picture; Swanson's "Trespasser" Clicks Loudly; Arliss Adds Distinction to "Disraeli"

Hollywood.—Three important pictures which reach the market this fall and winter: "Sunny Side Up." "The Trespasser" and "Disracli."

The first has been the subject of considerable talk and anticipation on the Fox lot where lavish praises made for it, it develops, are borne out by the picture itself. Secondly, interests centers around "The Trespasser" since it is Gloria Swanson's initial talker and the first to be delivered to United Artists since "Sadie Thompson." In "Disraeli," George Arliss makes his debut on the dialogue screen. Largely for that reason, this Warner picture is significant.

Through the box-office magnifying glass, these productions look something like this:

"Sunny Side Up"

JANET GAYNOR and Charlie Farrel — combination inimitable-playing it off against a hoke story, interspersed with music, dancing and charm. Sounds like a cure-all for box-offices and is.

Not a critic's picture, but our young-old head prompts us to defy any normal individual to sit through "Sunny Side Up" without enjoying himself. Janet is the East Side kid. Farrell, the Southampton society lad. They ofcer, fall in love, almost part and finally—as you must suspect-slide into the usual, satisfying clinch. But, as someone aptly said, it is not what you do so much as how you do it. That explains "Sunny Side Up.

De Sylva, Brown and Henderson supplied words and music. They did a good job. Assisting the young leads are El Brendel-always clever; Marjorie White, out of musical comedy; Frank Richardson, a warbler of promise; Joe Brown, Sharon Lynn and others. Dave Butler chaperoned and, for his direction, he rates plenty.

"The Trespasser"

IN which Gloria is destined to re-gain lost ground and clamber back to her spot in the front rank of money-getters.

The women of the land will go for this in a big way. We can imagine the smiles that must suffuse the boyish countenances of Messrs. Schenck, Kennedy and Lichtman. And here is why:

"The Trespasser," to begin with, is Swanson's first since "Sadie Thompson." It is her initial talker and in it she is given a warm, sympathetic mother role and a series of dramatic situations that offer a grand opportunity to demonstrate the full range of her undeniably pronounced histrionic capabilities.

The story is not new and occasionally skids, but Gloria's performance and able directorial treatment by Edmund Goulding carry it through to very much of a success finish. The ending is anti-climatic and a dramatic falsetto, but the heart throbs and tear ducts respond no end. A long time hetween Swanson pictures, but Gloria unquestionably make a strong return.

"Disraeli"

A DDING to the rapidly-growing dignity of talking pictures. George Arliss, a dean of the theatre, makes an auspicious debut in "Dis-raeli." This Warner picture carries the dignity of the play in which, too, Arliss appeared as the British prime minister whose statesmanship and acumen wrested the Suez Canal from Russia and crowned England's sovereigns the emperors of India.

Arliss does a splendid job of the title role. The experience of many years on the stage serves him in excellent stead. Every nuance, every movement, every voice inflection carries import. He is far and away the dominant note in the entire pro-stern taskmaster and its demands are not yet fully met.

One important studio, which must remain unnamed, is working on the densities of the sound track. Here the objective is to secure a better registration of voice frequencies and, at the same time, a more true reproduction. Practically all studios are doing amazing work in 'dubbing' sound into silent sequences and in juggling voices in order to make them fit into the dramatic construction of stories without sacrificing either lines or good music.

A particular problem which has caused much puckering of brows is how to combine dialogue with the accepted picture technique to the end that movement is not sacrificed for spoken lines. As the studios turn over product to distributors and these films, in turn, reach theatres, it becomes at once apparent that progress in this direction holds promise that the eventual result will be satisfying.

OX all sides speculation is rife about the technique which sound and motion pictures will finally assume. A definite division of opinion prevails. There are some and their importance must not be discounted-who adhere to the belief that the straight musical comedy and operetta formulas will find their level and this shortly, too. Their argument hinges principally around the theory that musical comedies and operettas both are successful on the stage when they are good. Therefore, why not in celluloid form, particularly when the rank and file of the theatregoers in the United States rarely see anything other than a No. 2 or No. 3 road company singing in average or less than average voice, performing in costumes no longer new against stage embellishments that are ragged and frayed?

Others—and they, too, are figures of weight—argue strenuously that logic and naturalness are primary rules on which motion pietures have been built up with the public; that to tear these down is to hit at a fundamental of the entire structure, that it would he well to bear in mind that, while sound is here, it must not and should not replace pictures, but rather add to their dramatic and entertainment ingredients. It has long been our own observation that the latter theory is correct and to it we again subscribe. The reasons why will be outlined at some future time.

Then, too, Hollywood wonders about the next cycle in production. Excitement over the back stage story has died down. Certainly the market has been surfeited with this type of picture. The musical comedy and the operetta are next destined to have their way, entering the arena of public favor hand in hand. Some studios are adamant on the idea of producing them with straight picture technique, embracing song and dance ensembles only where they logically belong.

On the one hand, you find a picture like "The Vagahond King" produced in Technicolor as a straight operetta with Dennis King and Jeanette MacDonald cofeatured. When the final fade-out was shot at Paramount the other day, the cost sheets read $1,200,000. That's a lot of money to spend on a theory. On the other, following the experience of "The Desert Song," the Warners have veered completely toward the picture formula. Universal is producing "La Marseillaise" with John Boles as a straight motion picture with musical interludes properly spaced. This, too, will cost $1,000,000 or more. On the M-G-M lot, Lawrence Tibhett, Metropolitan Opera luminary, is appearing in "The Rogue's Song," an all-Technicolor film utilizing the motion picture formula.

So it goes. One studio commits itself to one policy; another leans in a different direction. Nobody in Hollywood knows just what to do and everybody is experimenting. The anticipation is, quite naturally, that a scheme will be evolved for general use. In the meantime and while experimentation couples hands with pioneering, the studios are doing the best they can. In view of the problems, the worries and the terrific overhead, it is eminently fair to point out that producers at all studios are doing a Gargantuan job extremely well.

The industry at large, however, may prepare itself for one step immediately. There will be a limited number of straight musical revnes every year. Harry Rapf argued his way through at M-G-M for "The Hollywood Revne," but he demonstrated thereby what a smart young man he really is. M-G-M, as in the case of "The Broadway Melody," showed Hollywood and the world at large that in the revue was not merely a germ but a full-grown idea.

A T the outset, many of the Hollywood wiseacres figured one revue was sufficient to skim the cream from the milk. Now, however, it's different. Over on Marathon St.. "Paramount on Parade" is progressing. Two months or so will elapse before the picture is finished, and when the picture is spoken about it is in whispers. The Paramount crowd is throwing the entire studio into it; stars, directors, writers, song hounds and the rest of the line-up.

"The Show of Shows," which is the Warner offering before the revue altar, is in the laboratory. Fox plans a Movietone Follies of 1930 and has just started "New Orleans Frolie" in which all of that plant's notables will strut their stuff. Pathe has one in work and others will probably hit daylight ere long.

In other words, Hollywood has come to the sensible conclusion that revue in pictures, like revnes on the stage, are naturals every year, always assuming that they are elever. Each of the major studios, therefore, may be expected to produce one big extravaganza affair annually from now on.

Exhibitor Flies To Meet

Film Notables To Attend Dinner In Honor Of Kann

A.M.P.A. Testimonial To News Editor On October 10th Will Be Important Event

With approximately 150 reservations already made, including leaders in the producing, distribution and exhibition fields, the testimonial dinner-dance to be given by the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers on October 10th in honor of Maurice D. ("Red") Kann, Editor of Motion Picture News, gives promise of getting the Association's social season off to a tlying start.

The dinner-dance will be held at the Motion Picture Club, New York. Acceptances have been received from a large number of important executives of the industry, as well as those in allied scientific lines, including the electric companies.

The list of speakers will include film notables and important figures from outside the industry.

Paul Benjamin, Chairman of the A. M. P. A. House Committee, is in charge of arrangements and his committee includes Bruce Gallup, Thomas Wiley and Rutgers Neilson. Chairman Benjamin is handling reservations at Bryant 4900.

Academy Will Elect 5 New Directors Of Board Oct. 19

Hollywood, Oct, 2.—Annual election of branch executive committees and members of Board of Directors of Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has been set for Saturday, Oct. 19. Five members will be elected to the hoard to fill vacancies of those expiring this year. Executive committees of five members each will be elected to head actors, directors, producers, technicians and writers' branches.

Adolph Zukor Sails Late This Month To Join Wife

The report on the Coast that Adolph Zukor had left for Europe hurriedly last week was found to be erroneous. The head of the Paramount corporation intends to leave for the other side late this month and join his wife and son, Eugene, in Eugland. The trip is one combining both business and pleasure. There is a possibility that it may have something to do with the acquisition of the British Gammont houses by Fox.

Chillicothe Blues Licked

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 3.—Those opposing Sunday movies in Chillieothe, Mo., went down to defeat by score of 1,079 to 1,024 last week when that city went to polls. Hardpressed by ministers wrought up over public petition asking for Sunday shows, Chillieothe council decided to let voters settle question themselves despite fact that Missouri Supreme Court has ruled ordinances prohibiting Sunday shows illegal.

Fox and Zukor In Battle Of Giants For Nation-Wide Theatre Supremacy

THE WESTERN SECTOR

Franklin Guiding Huge Expansion Program; Publix Territory Invaded

HE gage of battle has been thrown into the ring and the two Titans are William Fox and Adolph Zukor.

In California, Fox West Coast Theatres which shortly are to be advertised simply as Fox Theatres, are in the midst of an intensive expansion program under the guiding hand of Harold B. Franklin. With consummation of the Midwest deal whereby Fox secures 60 theatres in 30 Missouri and Kansas towns, the phalanx is now moving into Publix territory hitherto un-touched by Fox. A tussle is impending between Fox and Paramount in Arizona and will undoubtedly extend into other sections of the intermountain territory as well. Fox further may be expected to move shortly into cities like Denver and Salt Lake City where Publix is active but where Fox has no theatres of his own.

Eastward Trend

The battle hinges almost entirely around theatres, whether built or acquired. At present, Fox West Coast is operating close to 400 houses in the western and mountain tiers. There will be many more. At the same time, it appears that holdings will be extended further East until a representative national chain is developed. Kansaborders on Colorado and Missouri on Kansas and thus, hy virtue of the deal with Shanherg in Kansas City two more links in the cross-country chain have been welded.

Computing from the West to the Middle West, there are a number of gaps existing today in the exhibition structure. From Missouri, the chain now jumps to Wisconsin where Fox Midwesco practically dominates the state. Universal owns a limited number of houses in the Badger State, but reports have been persistent for some time that Fox Midwesco will eventually acquire them, thereby obtaining practical domination of that zone.

Warners Sign Al Green To Forty Week Contract

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—Al Green has been signed to a term contract by Warner Brothers to direct, following completion of 'Disraeli,' starring George Arliss, and 'The Man' with John Barrymore. Green's contract takes effect in March of next year, following the reopening of Warner Studios, and calls for a reported salary of $2,500 for 40 weeks of the ensuing year.

RADIO DEAL ON

Seattle—While negotiations are under way, no deal is yet closed for acquisition of the bankrupt American Broadcasting Co. by Fox. The deal has been on for some time.

(Hollywood Bureau, Motion Picture News)
Hollywood—Observers hold the opinion that Fox will find it necessary to secure his own radio broadcasting outlet to counteract that Paramount tieup with Columbia Broadcasting and nation-wide hook-ups controlled by Radio-Keith-Orpheum.

Fox Acquires Midland Chain In Swift Move

Wesco Gains 60 Theatres Operating In Kansas And Missouri

Kansas City—In a lightning-like move, developed and closed in 24 hours, Fox West Coast Theatres have acquired the Midland circuit operating 60 theatres in 30 Kansas and Missouri towns. A new division will be created to supervise operations. Harold B. Franklin signed the papers for Fox West Coast and M. B. Shanberg for Midwest.

Approximately $3,000,000 are involved in the purchase which embraces the following points:

Iowa

Fort Madison, three theatres; Museatine, two.

Kansas

Chanute, two; Clay Center, one; Coffeyville, three; Concordia, two; El Dorado, two; Hutchinson, five; Lyons, one; Madison, three; Ottawa, one; Pittsburgh, three; Salina, two; Wichita, four.

Missouri

Boonville, one; Brookfield, one; Carthage, two; Kansas City, twelve; Marshall, one; Moberly, three; Nevada, one; Sedalia, three; Springfield, one; St. Joseph, two.

Most of these theatres are equipped for sound, but where no device is now installed arrangements to do so will be made at once.

It is reported here that Fox West Coast may augment this string in order to round out its Kansas and Missouri properties.

Nat'l Screen Appoints Murphy

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—Harold E. Murphy has been appointed west coast studio representative for National Screen Service, replacing Lester Blankfield, resigned after several years in position. Murphy was transferred from Chicago office of National Screen Service.

FOX EXPANSION

400 In West Coast Line-Up At Present; Several Hundred Others Are Sought

(Hollywood Bureou, Motion Picture News)

H OLLY WOOD, Oct. 3.—With roughly 400 houses in its line-up today, Fox West Coast Theatres are reaching out into many directions for new acquisitions. Several hundred additional are being sought.

In the last few days, the circuit has extended operations into Kansas and Missouri through purchase of the Midland Theatre and Realty Co. and has either bought or acquired houses in Arizona, Nebraska, Wyoming and Idaho all more or less virgin ground for the company.

Fox Bucking Publix In Arizona Theater Zone

Tueson, Ariz.—Harold B. Franklin, president of Fox West Coast Theatres on October 3 takes possession of the Diamas chain operating 14 theatres in Douglas. Bisby, Tueson, Nogales and Lowell. The deal is an outright buy by Fox.

A new theatre will be huilt in Phoenix on the site of the city hall, purchased from the municipal government there. Globe and Martin's two houses in Globe are also Fox acquisitions. Publix controls Rickards and Nace who run a string of theatres throughout the state. Competition between the two circuits is of the keenest.

L. A. Orpheum Goes To Fox For "Legit" Policy

Los Angeles.—The Orpheum has been taken over by Fox West Coast Theatres, will be remodeled and opened about Oct. 16 as Fox's Palace. The policy will be two shows a day at $1.65 top and the opening picture, "Hallelujah." This move is designed to offset the Warners Downtown which opened last week as a two-a-day house at advance prices.

Fox Active Up And Down Pacific Coast

San Francisco.—The Arkush circuit operating in Palo Alto and other cities in the San Francisco peninsula district has been purchased by Fox West Coast.

San Jose, Cal.—A 2,000 seat theatre is planned here by Fox West Coast.

Santa Barbara, Cal.—Joe Toplisksy will build a 2,000 seat house here for Fox West Coast operation.

Film Trade Commissioner Says Big Field Open; Speedy Wiring

Europe offers a big field for sound development from all angles, according to George R. Canty, film trade commissioner of the Department of Commerce, who arrived in New York this week from abroad. He will return to his post in November.

Slowly, but surely Europe is going sound, Mr. Canty pointed out. The wiring of houses is proceeding, and the pace will be greatly accelerated in the near future.

When the sound revolution came, Europe, like America, was unprepared for it and was on the silent picture basis. However, the American talkies which have already been shown abroad have proved great box office attractions, and producers in Continental countries, as well as the British Isles, will get into sound production on quite a scale eventually.

Mr. Canty believes that the making of talkies in the language of the country in which they are to be shown will be an inevitable development. He pointed out that while American talkies are great aftructions because of their novelty, the novelty angle will wear off, and it will be necessary to have foreign language versions if the maximum hox office intake is to be realized.

There is a great field also for theatre development in Europe, Mr. Canty added. While there are some fine houses on the Continent, Mr. Cauty believes the progress of the industry there will bring about the building of de luxe theatres in all the European key cities.

Guest Buys Vancouver Site For New $200,000 House

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 3.—A $200,000 theatre will be erected in Vancouver by Frederick Guest, of Hamilton, Ontario, theatrical operator. A building site on east Granville Street between Eleventh and Twelfth Avenues, Vancouver, has been obtained at cost of $53,000. Site has frontage of 81 feet on Granville St., with depth of 120 feet, Construction will begin next spring and the plant will include latest type talkie apparatus. House will probably seat 1,200.

Publix House For Lynn

Boston, Mass., Oct. 3.—Publix interests are to erect a $1,000,000 theatre in Lynn according to a permit issued by Supermtendent of Buildings Dennis J. Dunneen of that city to the Olympic Theatres, Inc., Publix subsidiary, Structure will be 118 by 325 and will seat approximately 2,500.

Eureka, Cal.—An 1,800 seat house now being built here by Fox West Coast is scheduled to open in nine months.

San Francisco.—The El Capitan, reported to be one of San Francisco's finest neighborhood theatres, has been taken over from Ackerman and Harris by Fox West Coast.

Moutana Chain Of Four Go Over To Franklin

Missoula, Mont, — Four of Missoula's principal theatres, owned by the Hansen-Simons interests, have been purchased by Fox West Coast.

Fox Washington Holdings Now Being Increased

Scattle.—The Kiggins interests have sold three theatres at Vancouver to Fox West Coast and a fourth is being constructed.

A 1,500 seat house is being built for the company at La Grand. With four theatres at Eugene and Corvallis bought from Universal and the latter's holdings at Scattle and Portland taken over on a management deal, Fox West Coast has now practically rounded out its position in the Pacific Northwest.

McCook and North Platte Now In The Fox Line-Up

Me Cook, Neb.—Glass and Chitwood, controlling four theatres here and at North Platte, have sold out to Fox West Coast.

Tax List Shows Assessed Value Of Film Houses

Location Counts; Loew's State Leads Roxy And Strand Is Next

A list of taxable properties in New York City with assessed valuation for 1930, made public this week, reveals the strength of real estate holdings of various film companies in the Metropolitan district.

Location playing the important part some contrasting figures come to light; for instance, Loew's State leads the Broadway houses, the Roxy is second, the Strand third, the Capitol fourth and the little Rialto fifth with only a hundred and fifty thousand dollars difference between it and the big Capitol. The Paramount's valuation is included in the assessment of $15,000,000 on the entire building.

The list arranged at the highest valuation follows:

Loew's State, $5,150,000; Roxy, $4,550,000; Strand, $4,000,000; Capitol, $3,350,000; Rialto, $3,200,000; Winter Garden, $2,500,000; Gaiety, $2,430,000; Century, $2,400,000; Astor, $2,000,000; Rivoli, $1,930,000; Globe, $1,300,000.

Zukor And Fox In Struggle For Chain Supremacy

In the South, the Hoblitzelle chain, newly amexed, gives Fox the beginning, at least, of a chain with which to buck the formidable Saenger string, which recently passed to Publix control and operation. With the Loew holdings in Texas key points, Fox, therefore, finds himself in a position which many construct to be strategically important

The speed with which the organization has been developed is being carefully watched by Zukor and other Paramount officials. Observers, noting the drift toward two outstandingly large organizations, are of the opinion that the current heetic activity in exhibition can result in only one eventuality; a race between Paramount and Fox all over the nation—and perhaps abroad—until company alignments within the industry assume their final form.

Pathe-Shubert Deal Almost Closed; P-V Merger Announcement Expected

FINAL SIGNING THIS WEEK

Kennedy And Shuberts Agreed And Will Form Holding Co. With $60,000,000 Capital

HE Pathe-Shubert merger is just about closed. The final signing of agreements may take place any time this week. Joseph P. Kennedy, head of Pathe and the Shuberts are in agreement as to the manner in which they will form a holding corporation which may be called General Amusement Corp., which is to be a holding corporation for the interests of both and which will have a capitalization of $60,000,000. A basis of exchange of stock of the now existent corporations for that of the holding company has been worked out to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The banking interests representing both sides are in accord and the deal when closed will give the Pathe organization entry to about a hundred and fifty theatres of the Shuhert organization in various parts of the country.

During the week a new phase entered the merger through the possibility that the deal might be expanded to an extent whereby Radio Pictures and the RKO theatres might be included. This would be in line with what David Sarnoff has in line for the future of his company and with the legitimate and vaudeville theatres at his command a third rather formidable chain of theatres with producing affiliations would enter the field in opposition to both Fox and Paramount.

The Pathe-Shubert deal has been on the coals for more than six months and only took final shape on the return of Joseph P. Kennedy from Enrope about two weeks ago. Kennedy is said to have personally worked out the details of the merger which has proved acceptable to the other interests.

On Thursday it was stated at the office of Pathe that the deal had not been definitely signed but that there was perfect harmony among those interested and that the closing might be expected at any moment.

Joseph P. Kennedy has been a most spectacular figure in the industry within the last three years since his taking over of the former F.B.O., and later disposing of it to the RCA interests, immediately after that taking over the Keith-Albee-Orphenn circuits and in turn selling those to RCA. In the past eighteen months Kennedy has pulled Pathe back into a place in the sun and the company is showing a profit. In the new merger Pathe will represent about $25,000,000 while the Shubert interests will be placed among the assets at $25,000,000.

Fox Starting Stock Sales In Theatres

Trailers With Women Handling Actual Selling To Patrons Plan Laid Out To Managers

The William Fox Corporation is reported to be starting an intensive stock selling campaign in all of its theatres in the Metropolitan District within the next week or ten days. The sales campaign will be directed at the patrons of the houses via the screen and in addition there will be saleswomen present at each of the houses to take subscriptions for Fox stock and to conduct the follow-np work of the eampaign.

Managers of the Fox theatres in the district were informed several days ago that they were to be on the watch for a special delivery letter which would shortly come to them from Mr. Fox. When the letter arrived it contained an online of the proposed sales campaign, together with the information that all of the houses would within the next few days receive trailers which they were to run according to instructions, also an order to the effect that they were to extend every conrtesy and co-operation to the women stock sellers who were to follow-np the approach made via the screen trailers.

The same plan was used several years ago in the sale of Loew stock in the Loew theatres, and patrons who held on to the stock over a period undoubtedly realized a big profit.

STOCK EXCHANGE SET

New Title May Be Paramount-Vitaphone; Details Closed At Zukor Estate; He Sails Soon For Europe

N official announcement of the closing of the merger between the Paramonnt-Famous Lasky Corp. and the Warner Brothers is expected momentarily. The final details, it is said, were worked out over the last week end at the Zukor country place where a gathering of all those interested was held. The various executives of both Paramount and Warner being present together with the bankers representing both sides. Unofficial report to the effect that Adolph Zukor is planning to sail for Europe the latter part of this month is significant in itself. The details of the hasis on which the stock of the two corporations is to be exchanged for that of the new holding company, which is to be formed, has been agreed upon.

"Paramount-Vitaphone"

It is stated that the identities of both companies are to be merged in the title of "Paramount-Vitaphone" with all other names dropped. Adolph Zukor is to be the president of the company and Harry M. Warner is to be vice-president and general manager.

According to one story, the handling of the actual business affairs of the organization are to remain in the hands of those executives now handling various departments. Thus Jesse L. Lasky is to be at the head of the combined production activities of both companies; S. R. Kent in charge of all distribution and Sam Katz in charge of theatre operation. Jack Warner will undoubtedly be associated with Lasky as first assistant in charge of production; Sam Morris in a like post with Kent and Spyros Skonras with Katz.

Jack Warner has made an enviable record for himself in the production field with Vitaphone and has several real achievements in his cap, having been the first in the field with a feature length talkie and likewise the first with an all color-all talk feature.

A series of final conferences are to be held during the next two weeks at which all the minor details will be ironed out.

'Soul Of France' To Open At The Film Guild Cinema

"The Soul of France," the Paramount all-French release, will be premiered in the United States at the Film Guild Cinema, N. Y., on the evening of Oct. 11. Its opening will be nnder the patronage of Paul Claudel, French ambassador to the U. S. An honorary committee, headed by Andre Bronzet, acting French connsel, is being formed. Proceeds of the premiere will be donated to Les Guenles Casses, association of French war veterans.

'Damns,' Divots And Rough Give Filmdom's Birdie Chasers Action At 17th Golf Tourney

Event Proves Bonanza For Makers of Trophy Cups And Prize Seeking Hook and Slicers

EX BEACH'S opinion of the story judgment of producers, Lee Och's' ambitions for the Motion Picture Club, Earl Guliek's dexterity with a teaspoon, Arthur Stebbins' efforts to gracefully bestow the broccoli of defeat on Elmer McGovern, and awards for fifty-seven varieties of eighteen hole arithmetic were among the highlights of the seventeenth semi-annual "Film Daily" Golf Tournament, held on Tuesday at the Gedney Farms Country Club.

Foregathering under the direction of Jack Alicoate, publisher of "Film Daily," and who was aided in his task by Dan Mersereau and James Cunningham, and with Bruee Gallup, director of advertising for United Artists as the master of seorimonies, approximately one hundred of the Hook and Slice contingent of filmdom spent a holesome day excavating fairways and chasing hirdies. Climaxing a full day of laughs and damns, the dinner provided several surprises. Earl Gulick functioned as toastmaster, wielding a coffee-soaked spoon in lieu of a gavel. Java-cyc developed at several nearby tables as Gulick used the eaffeine niblick to emphasize his comments of appreciation for the opportunity the tournament afforded for improving lies and acquaintances.

Rex Beach spoke of the possible impropriety of an anthor being present in a film gathering. He described the latest in private libraries in the Hollywood homes of producers, referring to recent importations of authors abroad, now adorning library shelves in place of books. He fairly knocked one of those present off his seat with his detailed explanation of the scientific and hygienic methods recently evolved in Hollywood for disposing of anthors' manuscripts. He also shattered the illusion alleged to be entertained by a producer that Rex Beach was a summer resort, or a service station.

Lee Och's gave a serious note to the occasion with a well-stated explanation of the real purposes and advantages of the Motion Picture Club. That his sentiments were in accord with popular opinion was evidenced by the applause that greeted his request for practical recognition of the

Hearst Metrotone News Reel Debuts; Interesting Issue

First Talking News Reel By International Has Lot Of Live Matter

The theatres received their first issue of the Hearst Metrotone newsreel this week with two issues being made. The issues are to be made twice weekly, released on both film and dise as to sound. The issues out are numbered 200 and 201. Both run a full ten minutes on the sereen.

The first issue contained five shots the first being an introduction to the stars of the Philadelphia Athletics and the Chicago Cubs the winners of the pennants in their respective leagues who are to play the World Series; the wedding of John Coolidge; lively shots of Washington, D. C., chorus girls on skates; then the real news wallop of the reel in the shots of Charles M. Schwab after he testified at the Senate proh into the Shearer activities. Shearer himself was the punch. The way he spoke and his personality marked him as as forceful as the late Teddy was on the screen. The final shot was the departure of the British from German territory.

The mid-week issue showed Italian War Veterans on parade in the Pacific Coast football teams in training; Elizabeth Arden in a reducing specialty for women, showing the exercises to reduce the waist line; the biggest locomotive in the world and the shots of the running of the St. Leger in England with a crowd of 1,000,000 present to see the race.

Paramount Will Make New Grev Story Into Talkie

That Westerns are not down and out by any means, although success of talkies seem to indicate as much, can be gleaned from fact that Paramount is planning to film "Fighting Caravans," Zane Grey's newest novel, as full dialogue production with Gary Cooper starred under direction of Otto Brower. This will be first time that one of Grey's works will be made into a dialogue film.

Control Of Independents By Allied Would Leave Chains For M.P.T.O.A.

AIM 75,000 PLAYDATES

Claim 60,000 Playdates Lined Up Under Tiffany-Stahl-Radio Franchise To Date; Coast Convention

H OLLYWOOD, Oct. 3.—Seventy-five thousand play dates and 5,000 franchised theatres by January 1 is the Allied objective. To date, claim is made that 60,000 dates have been lined up under the Tiffany-Stahl and R-K-O five-year agreements.

Al Steffes, Abram F. Myers' right-hand hower in Allied, and Osear Hanson, general sales manager for Tiffany-Stahl, are in Los Angeles arranging for a state-wide convention of California exhibitors to be held October 10-12, probably at the Ambassador. Allied leaders from all over the United States will attend, including:

Charles L. O'Reilly, of New York; Nathan Yamins, of Fall River; Joe Seider, of New Jersey; Jack Miller, of Chicago; H. A. Cole, of Texas; and H. M. Richey, of Detroit. The objectives are two. First, an effort to line up the California territory for Allied and its franchise plan. Secondly, to hold a general mass meeting at which Allied and its progress in annexing state units will be discussed.

Steffes declares that, with the exception of Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, and California, the entire nation west of the Mississippi has gone Allied. "And we're not through yet," he told a reporter for MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

The Allied Exhibitors' Association of the Northwest has been formed as a direct result of a meeting held in Portland a few days ago. Eighty per cent of the possibilities signed franchises, according to Hanson. An exhibitor meeting in Seattle terminated in formation of the Allied Amusement Association of the Northwest, thereby giving Allied two more states.

"We are meeting at a critical period as a constructive force. We are not chronic fault finders. We want to make things right and will spend the time doing that rather than in what might he fruitless hickering."

Camera Work In Coast Studios To Be Standardized

Important Move By Big Producers Will Help Sound Problems In Theatres

· (Hollywood Bureau, Motion Picture News)
Hollywood, Oct. 3.—All of the large producers on the Coast have agreed to adopt the recommendations of the groups cooperating through the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, whereby there will be standardization of camera apertures of one size in the production of current and future pictures.

The producers have further agreed to adopt the standard practice immediately, and are marking their ground glasses to conform to the new regulations.

Fox is the only producer not changing, and it is felt that Fox would not have to make a change in view of the fact that their former standard was within .006 of an inch of the new standards.

By the new practice in all studios, theatres using the small 3 by 4 aperture to fill the screen when projecting sound on film pictures, will know that they should use an aperture .6 by .8 as a basis; and then the projectionists will he certain that they will not cut off either the top or bottom of the photographed picture when projecting it in their individual theatres.

This is a big step forward in bringing the studios and theatres in closer contact to work out mutual problems; and demonstrates that studio technicians and officials are now working to help solve problems for the theatres.

The Academy is immediately sending out bulletins to all of the large theatre circuits in the country advising them of the new aperture standardization.

REPRESENTS BIG CIRCUITS

Only Seeming Chance For Body To Continue; Would Keep Arbitration Boards Alive

CONTINUANCE of the activities of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America depends entirely on the amount of support that will be thrown to the organizations through the various hig theatre chains now operated by subsidiaries of the producing organizations. There is no question that the Hays organization is keen to keep the M. P. T. O. A. in existence and functioning, as it will tend to keep the Arbitration Boards functioning.

With the Allied States movement now having reached most formidable proportions and continuing its swelling of ranks by the alignment of additional state organizations of independents all over the country, the control of the independent situation lies entirely with Allied. In a number of states where the present state body has joined with the Allied movement the chain houses are members of the existing organizations. Whether these houses will continue their affiliation is a question at this time.

In those states it would mean that the M. P. T. O. A. would have to build up new organizations to replace the defaulting ones and this would mean that the chain houses would have to be withdrawn from the bodies affiliated with Allied so that the managers of those houses would form the basis of exhibitor members in the various territories.

In one of the middle western states where the chain theatres are part of the state organization now co-operating with the Allied movement, the secretary of the organization stated that even were the chain houses to withdraw, the new members that have come to their banner since they linedup with Allied would more thau offset the loss of revenue that a withdrawal of the chain-operated theatres would mean.

Salem, Ore., Oet. 3.—The independent motion picture exhibitors of Oregon met here and have organized the Allied Exhibitors' Association of the Northwest, and will affiliate with the Allied States national organization. Frank Bligh, Bligh Theatre, Salem, was named president; G. E. Jackson, Circle Theatre, Portland, secretary and treasurer. W. A. Steffes, who was present, was made an honorary member, as was also Osear Hanson, general sales manager for Tiffany-Stahl.

An Average Week On B'way Without Outstanding Hit; Influx Of New $2 Specials

"Married In Hollywood" Only Oue Last Week's Crop To Show Life; "Rio Rita" Due Sunday

ROADWAY failed to have an outstanding box office hit last week. It was an average week on the street from the money viewpoint with nothing developing that stood out. The leader of the street was Fox' "Married in Hollywood," at the Roxy which did $116,972 and was held over for a second week.

Second money went to the Capitol with William Haines in "Speedway" a silent picture which came through to the tune of $77,094.55, while at the Paramount "Paris Bound" got $70,600. "The Careless Age" at the Strand played to $33,512, which is nice business there, but not any too hot, while "To-night at 12," a mystery thriller at the Colony, managed to get $13,643. "Seeds of Revolt," in its third week at the Cameo, droped to $4,467.

The Rivoli held "The Dance of Life" for its ninth and final week there with a hox office showing of $20,000, against which "Bulldog Drammond" at the Rialto in its fifth week returned $27,700. Goldwyn's end of the Rialto engagement will be in the neighborhood of $85,000.

New Specials Arrive

This week was a week of openings along Broadway as far as the extended runs are eoncerned. Five new offerings are being made. The first was on Tuesday night when Richard Barthelmess' "Young Nowhere' opened at the Central; Wednesday night George Arliss came to the Warner's in "Disraeli"; Thursday night "Sunnyside Up'' was offered by Fox at the Gaiety and on Friday night "Blackmail," a British made talkie, came to the Selwyn.

Radio's "Rio Rita" opens at the Earl Carroll Theatre on Sunday night. This opening is being awaited with the keenest interest for the picture has been heralded as the greatest of all outdoor talkie productions to date.

The "Great Gabbo" film moved from the Selwyn to the Globe this week, after having drawn $6,072 at the 42nd street The chances are it will do better at the Globe.

At the Astur "The Hollywood Revue" returned $22,905, which was a drop. "Fast

In the United States the number of In the United States the number of houses now wired with this system has reached a total of 2,539. These are well scattered throughout the States and are practically all film and disc devices. Seating capacity where they have been installed ranges from small projection rooms of branch ex-changes to houses of from 500 to 2,200 seats.

P. L. Palmerton, foreign manager for ERPI, announces that the first W. E. system in the Malay Peninsula, at Singapore, is being installed. The nearest wired houses to this point are in India where five are in operation.

Life," at the Central in its seventh and final week, did $7,680.50, while "Flight." the Columbia aerial feature, pulled $18,-194 at the Cohan, proving itself a hit of considerable proportions. "Four Feathers," at the Criterion in its fifteenth week, showed $10,500 and is leaving next week to be followed by "Applause."

"Hallelujah," at the Embassy, dropped off a little to $8,659, while the Grandeur showing of "The Movietone Follies" in its second week was a decided flop. The business was under $6,000 on the week.

"Street Girl," in its ninth and final week played to $10,516.

Al Jolson's "Say It with Songs" finished the run at the Warner with $14,-214.25 making way for "Disraeli," while "The Gold Diggers of Broadway" continued at the Winter Garden doing $26,-

Dual System Of Sound Acquired By Phono-Kinema

Phono-Kinema, a corporation recently formed in New York, has acquired a license to manufacture sound-on-film apparatus in the United States and Canada under the Nakken patents. This move will enable the company to include both disc and soundon-film with installations.

Deliveries of the dual system are at present scheduled for four weeks after receipt and acceptance of order and reproducers are priced at $2,950 installed. Amplifiention, monitor, control board and speakers are included in this figure but not cost of wiring between stage and booth. Exclusive of amplification, monitor, control board and speakers, sound heads are listed at $1,750 each per units of two. All equipment is sold outright, without service charge and a guarantee of patent protection.

100 Technicolor Feature Pictures On New Schedules

25 Color Cameras In Work; One Added Each Week: Plant Expanding

There will be at least 100 feature motion pictures photographed entirely or in part in Technicolor shown in theatres throughout the United States this season, was stated this week by Dr. Herbert Kalmus, president of the Technicolor Company.

Contracts have been signed, he says, with Paramount, Warner Brothers, M-G-M, First National, R-K-O, Universal and other companies for use of special camera equip-ment for more than fifty feature productions and these, supplementing completed Technicolor films or those now before the eameras, comprise the hundred pictures. Twenty-five cameras are working and this supply is being increased at the rate of Technicolor is engaged in plant expansion which will provide eight times the present production capacity, is making plans for a New York plant to handle color photography and negotiations are under way to establish a European plant with headquarters at London.

More than a score of the most important talking and musical films to be presented on Broadway during the next few months will be entirely or partly in Technicolor. Some of them are:

Paramount's "The Vagabond King," starring Dennis King in the musical romance which brought him fame; "Pointed Heels," with William Powell; "Glorifying the American Girl."
First National's "Sally," starring Marilyn Miller; "Paris," starring Irene Bordoni; "Song of the Flame," from the musical show "No No Nanette:" "Little Johnny Jones," starring Eddie Buzzell; "Footlights and Fools, 'starring Cldeen Moore and "Son of the Gods."
Warner Brothers' "The Show of Shows," a novelty revue featuring 100 stars of the screen, theatre and opera; "General Crack," starring John Barrymore; "Golden Plawn" and "Hold Everything."
Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Rogue's Song," starring Lawrence Tibhett; "Cotton and Silk," starring the Duncan Sisters; and "Lord Byron of Broadway," RKO's "Rio Rita," starring Bebe Daniels and others.

11 Distributors And Film Boards Of Trade Sued

A suit of injunction brought by the Byrd Theatre Co., Bluebird Theatre Co., the Brookland Theatre and Walter J. Coulter, all of Richmond, Va., and the Bluebird Theatre, Petersburg, Va., has been filed in Washington, D. C. Defendants in the action are the Hays Office, the Washington Film Board, James B. Fitzgerald, secretary of the Board, and 11 distributors who are charged with $5,700 damages in deposits which, declare the plaintiffs, were demanded before they could obtain films, in what they claim is an illegal combination of the Sherman anti-trust law. They ask that the awards be set aside.

The eleven defendant distributors in this suit attacking the legality of deposits demanded from exhibitors and exhibiting companies for alleged failure to comply with awards made by the arbitration board are: Interstate Film Co., Paramount, M-G-M. Talk In Hollywood

By Walter R. Greene

W ITH Van and Schenck starring in a talker at M-G-M studios, the latter organization is seething with baseball activity. Both vaudeville stars are rabid baseball players—and the same goes for Buster Keaton and his director, Edward Sedgewick. At present, both factions are preparing for a series of contests on the field adjoining the lot, and plenty of dough is heing put up by followers of each side. The Van-Schenck team has in its lineup Mike Donlin, former Giant idol; Jim Thorpe, Indian athlete; and Tilly Shaefer, formerly of the Giants.

FIRST NATIONAL has founded a vocal academy for the benefit of stars and players under contract to the organization. Alexander Gray, musical comedy leading man and contract player with First National, has installed a music studio in his dressing suite, and is donating his services as a courtesy to the company and to those who desire vocal training for the varions talker and musical production assignments. Gray has had previous voice coaching experience on the stage.

W HETHER or not it was a deliberate publicity plant, the fact remains that M-G-M secured great exploitation when the University of Southern California band of 125 pieces played "Singing In The Rain" between periods last Saturday at the football game staged at the Coliseum. A crowd of about 50,000 were present.

If memory is correct, the U. S. C. hand never played a popular melody during the Coliseum football games for the past four years, heretofore confining their selections to college songs and marching numbers.

L ARRY DARMOUR, producing Darmour-R-K-O comedies for R-K-O release, is reported planning a revue at the end of his present production season which will include all of his comedians and players that have appeared in his several series of comedies during the current year. The revue would run about six reels, with release through R-K-O.

Sono Art Lining Up 25 Pictures; Deal On With Roland

(Hollywood Bureau, Motion Picture News)

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—George W. Weeks, O. E. Goebel and Joe Skirboll are here lining up a Sono Art production schedule of 25 pictures. Reginald Denny will appear in four, Eddie Dowling in three, besides others.

James Cruze will personally direct two, and will deliver six more, personally supervised by him.

Additionally, Sono Art is negotiating with Ruth Roland for a series of starring talkies and musicals. The deal will probably be signed this week.

Hollywood Melody Makers

H ARRY TIERNEY, well known composer of operettas and musical comedies, is creating the melodies for R-K-0's "Dixiana," an original filmusical operetta which will star Bebe Daniels.

JACK KING composed "Paramount on Parade," which will be used in the forthcoming Paramount filmusical revue. The melody has been selected as the theme song for all of the producing company's national broadcasting programs for the coming months.

POUR new songs have been added to Warner Brothers Vitaphone operetta, "The Golden Dawn." Grant Clarke and Harry Akst wrote the new melodies which have been named: "My Heart's Love Call," "Africa Smiles No More," "Mooda's Song," and "In a Jungle Bungalow." The first will be sung by Walter Woolf; the second by Alice Gentle; the third is a duet for Miss Gentle and Vivienne Segal, and the fourth is a comedy number for Lupino Lane.

SIX original song numbers have been included in the Van and Schenck production for M-G-M, "Take It Big." The new songs, written by Milton Ager and Jack Yellen, are "Ain't You Baby?", "Does My Baby?," "Harlem Madness," "He's That Kind of a Pal," "Me and My Buddy," and "There Will Never Be Another Mary."

W. FRANKE HARLING, recent musiern studies, has arrived in Hollywood to join the musical staff of the company's Coast studies. Harling's initial assignment will be an original operetta to be produced early next year by Paramount.

I T is reported that one of the major producing commanies has offered George Gershwin $150,000 to compose an original nusical operetta for a well known film star. No information can be obtained as to whether or not the composer will accept the proposition.

NACIO HERB BROWN and ARTHUR FREED will compose the music and lyrics for Ramon Novarro's next M-G-M production, "The House of Troy." It is understood the story is similar to "The Student Prince," but having a Spanish locale instead of Austrian as in the original.

Hall Of Music Is Dedicated To Fox

Will Be Utilized To Unify All Movietone Dep'ts Of Company

WSIC appreciation throughout the the world was given added impetus with the dedication of the palatial new Hall of Music at Fox-Movietone City in Beverly Hills September 22, 1929. Nearly 27,000 persons were clocked entering the gates to hear the programs.

The new structure, the latest addition to the $8,000,000 studios, was built at a cost of $125,000 and will serve to unify all the functions of the music departments. Every possible aid, comfort and convenience have been provided for the composers, musical directors and others who have assumed a vital part in the making of motion picture entertainment for the sound screen.

Dr. Rufus B. von Kleinsmid, president of the University of Southern California, made the dedicatory address, paying high tribute to the manner in which the screen has spread "the language of the soul" throughout the world.

The soloists included Don Jose Mojica, lyric tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera Co., who sang the aria, "Salve Dimora," from "Fanst," by Gounod; Madame Elsa Alsen, dramatic Wagnerian soprano, who sang an aria from "Tristan and Isolde," and Lawrence Tibbett, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who presented the prologne "I Pagliacci," by Leoneavallo.

The Fox-Movietone symphony orchestra of 100 pieces, under the direction of Arthur Kay, opened the program with a medley of Victor Herbert airs. Next the orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner," during which a flock of white pigeons were released and fluttered over the huge throng.

Pitkin was assigned to the Universal scenario department during his stay on the coast, while Marston worked on preparation of productions before shooting actually started.

acted in the capacity of master of ceremonies, Dr. von Kleinsmid made his address.

Lenore Ulric, stage and screen star, then unveiled several sculptures especially executed for the Hall of Music by Mahomi Young. These included a bronze bust of Victor Herbert and placques of composers of many countries.

The concluding number was the rendition of Elgar's 'Pomp and Circumstance' by the orchestra of 100 with a chorus ensemble of 300 voices.

Sloman Directing Richman Film; Garnett Gets Release

Assignment of Richard Sloman to direct "Play Boy," Harry Richman's picture for United Artists release, has been definitely set. Tay Garnett had the original assignment, but feeling that the story was not his type, asked his release.

11 M-G-M Units Work As Fall Program Is Placed In Production

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has eleven units working on major productions at the present time. Of the number, but one is being made outside of the West Coast studios the exception being W. S. Van Dyke's unit filming "Trader Horn" in Africa.

The other productions, for which many elahorate and varied sets had to be constructed, are:

"Ship From Shanghai," "Lord Byron of Broadway," "Devil May Care," "Their Own Desires," "Cotton And Silk," "The Rogne's Song," "Duley," "The Bishop Murder Case," "Take It Big" and "The Bugle Sounds."

Gloria Swanson Will Sing Over Radio In Victor Hour

Two songs—"Love" and Toselli's "Serenade"—will be rendered over the Victor Hour on the night of October 10th by Gloria Swanson, who recently returned from Europe where she broadcasted her songs over the London station of the British Broadcasting Co. at the time of the premiere of "The Trespasser," her latest vehicle.

For New "Hollywood Nights"

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—Fox is lining up an imposing group of players for "Hollywood Nights," filmusical written by Andrew Bennison, to be directed by James Tingling.

Among players assigned prominent roles are: Joe Wagstaff, Whispering Jack Smith, Lola Lane, Sharon Lynn, Dixie Lee, David Rollins, Stuart Edwin. Music and lyrics are being composed by Con Conrad, Archie Gottler, Sidney Mitchell.

President Acts On Mayer's Motion For School Talkies

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—President Hoover has already appointed a commission to study the subject of educational pictures in the public schools, according to the statement of Louis B. Mayer during a speech at the Los Angeles Women's Breakfast Club last week.

Mayer declared that "a child can learn more in 10 minutes from a talking picture in school than in 10 hours from a textbook." He further stated that he had suggested the introduction of talking pictures in educational institutions to President Hoover, who appointed a commission within a few hours to investigate the matter. It is understood that Mr. Mayer has offered his fullest co-operation and support to President Hoover to further the project.

Talk In Hollywood

A CERTAIN production official who has made three trips to Europe during the past two years, recently returned to Hollywood. A friend greeted him on the street and said he would drop around the studio in a few days to have a chat. The official declared he had left the company.

"Why did you quit?" he was asked.

"I was tired of trips to Europe," he replied, "and walked out when they refused to send me to South America for six months."

A WELL known producer who participates in the big time poker games staged at frequent intervals by a group of producers and directors, sat in at one of the games recently. During his absence, someone telephoned his home asking for certain information. The producer's wife informed the caller that he could not he disturbed as he "was relaxing."

Inez Courtney will be featured comedienne in first National's Vitaphone and Technicolor version of the musical comedy, "Spring Is Here." Alexander Gray and Bernice Claire have the featured leads; J. F. Dillon will direct.

Paramount has placed Zoe Akins under a term contract to write originals and adaptations. Miss Akins, noted fiction writer, came to Hollywood three months ago for Fox, later moving over to Paramount to adapt "Sarah and Son," upon completion of which she signed the term agreement.

Pathe has assigned the leading feminine role in "This Thing Called Love," successful stage play, to Constance Bennett. Paul Stein will direct and Zasn Pitts will have a supporting part.

Paul Muni and Marguerite Churchill are to play the leading roles in "Seven Faces," an adaptation of Richard Connell's short story "A Friend of Napoleon," with Jack Viertel directing and Lester Lonergan handling the dialogue.

John Gilbert, who has played on the screen with such stage notables as Jeanne Eagels, has another gorgeous leading lady in the person of Catheriue Dale Owen, the feminine lead in 'His Glorious Night," a current release from Metro. It is the star's initial all-talkie and was directed by Lionel Barrymore

Lasky Details Plans For "Paramount On Parade" Film Special

Paramount's talking-musical production, to be known as "Paramount On Parade," is now being planned by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president, who is now in the East. All talent available in Paramount stock units will be included in the "cincphonic festival," states the executive, and all directors, anthors, etc., will contribute to the work. B. P. Schulberg, general manager of production on West Coast, will supervise "Paramount On Parade," being aided by Albert A. Kaufman, aide to Lasky, and Elsie Janis.

Production will present natural color as well as sound.

Blue Injured, Vehicle Is Delayed For Three Weeks

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—Due to accident last week in which Monte Blue was injured during water scenes for "Isle of Escape," production on picture has been delayed three weeks. While waiting for Blue to recover, Howard Bretherton, director of the picture, will direct a number of Vitaphone Varieties, first to be "White Lies," two reel comedy.

Betty Compson Will Star In "The Lie" For Radio Pict.

Hollywood, Oct. 3.—Betty Compson will be starred by RKO in "The Lie," as her next contract production. Story is adapted from play by Hugh Herbert, who is writing film adaptation and dialogue. Herbert was recently placed under term contract by RKO.

Radio's Coast Units Ready To Shoot On Season's Schedule

Radio's plans for studio expansion involving $2,500,000 having crystalized and with eight special talking-musical features in the offing, the Western studio of Radio is all set to embark on a busy season. One of the impending studio additions is a stage 150 by 500 feet wide.

At the present time one of Radio's principal offerings, Rudy Vallee and his orchestra in "The Vagabond Lover," is well into production and other Radio stars will face cameras and mikes within a few days. Scenarists are at work on important story material including "Hit the Deck," "The Case of Sergeant Grischa," "The Firewalker" and "Hunted."

Added to the roster of talent recently was Bert Wheeler, stage comedian.

Another production on which the studio will soon concentrate is "Dixiana," operetta being written directly for screen by Harry Tierney; Bebe Daniels will star.

ORIGINAL musical numbers have been written by J. C. Lewis, Jr., for "The Dancing Goh," which Christie is producing with Buster West starred. Two of the numbers are "Sailor Walk" and "Honest, Honey."

WITH the opening of "Gold Diggers of Broadway" at Warners Downtown Theatre last week, Al Dubin and Joe Burke are receiving congratulations on the quantity and quality of the original melodies during the filmusical.

A L BRYAN and EDDIE WARD are writing the original score for the new version of "Lady in Ermine," which First National will produce.

Fox's largest production unit since "The Iron Horse" to go on location is "Cameo Kirby" company which was transported to Sacramento River to film sequences for filmusical under direction of Irving Cummings. Harold Murray and Norma Terris co-star, with balance of cast including John Hyams, Douglas Gilmore. Walter Donaldson and Edgar Leslie wrote songs for production.

Harvey Thew and Robert Lord are adapting and dialoguing the film version of "Show Girl In Hollywood," which First National will produce with Alice White starred. Mervyn Le Roy will direct, while Bud Green and Sam Stept will write the songs and music for the production.

Bert Roach, Will King and Natalie Joyce have been signed by Al Christie to play with Ford Sterling in a Christie Talking play, "The Fatal Forceps." William Watson will direct with play credited to C. L. V. Duffy.

Major Edward Bowes, managing director Capitol Theatre, New York, arrived on coast to spend several days at M-G-M studios conferring with studio officials on production plans for next year.

Distributors Win Sweeping Victory As Judge Upholds Film Board Credit Rulings

Holds Means To Deal With Uncompleted Contracts A Justifiable Act

N important decision affecting all film distributing organizations was lately handed down by United States Judge Thomas D. Thatcher when he upheld the Credit Rules adopted by the Film Boards of Trade in the Government's suit against First National Pictures, Inc., nine other film distributing companies and the Hays organization, charged with engaging in conspiracy in restraint of trade and com-

Practically all of Judge Thatcher's decision is written around the acts of exhibitors either legitimately or for business reasons transferring theatres and all existing contracts to new owners. In the opinion of Judge Thatcher the new owner should be well aware that a theatre business would necessarily carry unfilled contracts and that the buyer should make it his duty to enquire as to the disposition of unplayed contracts. Then, in the event that he feel disposed to make new contracts with another film distributor, the necessary steps for a satisfactory cancellation could be carried out.

"It was alleged that in operation of the Credit Rulings that exchange managers went beyond these Rules and entered supplemental agreements more drastic in their dealings with new theatre owners," quotes the Thatcher ruling in connection with the deposit requisite and a decision made in a suit of the U. S. vs. Fur Dressers and Fur Dyers Asso'n, Inc., was cited as being precisely in point. In his opinion both cases related to extending further credit to a firm which had proven delinquent in payment of debts and held "that such a combination was not unlawful restraint of trade, the real purpose of the defendants not being to obtain security for the payment of rentals or other claims which might arise," but to induce the new owner to carry out obligations incurred by the former owner. For the latter no security is required, neither was he required to make deposits if he car-ried out the policy of "spot booking." "It should be remembered," Judge Thatcher further stated, "that when a theatreowner who has contracted to exhibit films in his theatre disables himself from performing his contractural obligations by conveying his theatre to another, his deliberate breach on contract is apparent.

It was remarked upon in Judge Thatcher's summing up of the suit that aggregate rentals involved in uncompleted contracts of theatres transferred to new owners in 1927 amounted to $7,297,374.13, and in 1928 the sum was $9,843,970.23, it therefore being

$100,000 Is Paid Toronto Union To Cancel Contracts

Sum Represents 50 Per Cent Of Wages Over Eleven Month's Period

Famous Players Canadian Corp., through its new managing director. Arthur Cohen, has paid $100,000 in a lump sum to the Toronto Musicians Protective Association, thereby securing cancellation of the remaining period of the three-year contract with the musicians at its 19 theatres in Toronto, the agreement originally having until September 1, 1930, to run.

The corporation was prepared to retain the services of the musicians for the third year despite the fact that andible film programs made their presence in the theatres practically unnecessary. The arrangement previously reached by the company was that musicians would be paid full salary but would be required to occupy their places in the orchestra pit for both performances and rehearsals-in view of the andiences.

The musicians objected to this "humiliaand the projection machine operators added punch to the situation hy issuing an altimatum that they would walk out within 10 days unless some other provision was made for the musicians.

Conferences were held at which it was agreed that the sum of $100,000 would be paid the 100 musicians affected, they would then be free men and could obtain such other employment as was available to them. The lump sum represents approximately 50 per cent of the regular wage provided by the contract for the next 11 months.

All Branches of Industry Interested in S. M. P. E. Toronto Meeting

EMBERS of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, founded in 1916, and since that time functioning as the source of information on technical matters and practices which have contributed to the advancement of the Motion Picture in its artistic, scientific and commercial application, meet for the Fall Convention in Toronto, Canada, on Monday, October 7th, to continue through sessions of 4 days.

Well in advance of the announcement of the program of Papers to be presented at the meeting, the Fall Convention of the Society was looked to with especial interest and anticipation by the motion picture industry at large. Startling developments suddenly have put into the hands of studio and theatre workers new and strange instruments, the effective application of which demand special skill and knowledge. As the art and craft of motion picture production and presentation has grown, the need for more and more specialized knowledge has grown, and so the industry's workers and specialists look with eagerness to this established and reliable source for technical information and guidance in the application and further development of new-found resources.

The attitude of considerable numbers expresses itself in the question, set forth and repeated in all branches of the industry, "what will the society do?" Special reference in the majority of cases is to subjects connected with sound recording and reproducing and the approaching change-over from the present standard of 35 mm. film to pictures of larger dimensions.

It has been suggested in many quarters that the Society might initiate steps toward a standardization of these new wide film developments-and Advancement in the theory and practice of motion picture engineering and the allied arts and sciences, the standardization of the mechanisms and practices employed therein, and the maintenance of a high professional standing among its members.

-from Constitution and By-Laws of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers

W. C. PORTER Edison Lamp Works of General Electric Company, President.

R. S. BURNAP Edison Lamp Works of General Electric Company, Secretary.

H. T. COWLING Eastman Kodak Company, Secretary and member of Reception Committee.

a surprisingly large number actually look for wide film standardization to issue as a result of efforts of the Society at this meeting in Toronto.

This, of course, the Society cannot accomplish, nor would its members attempt such an undertaking—because that is outside the province of the Society. However, the suggestion coming from ranks outside the Society but from within the industry with which it is concerned, pays a high compliment to the organization.

The Society serves its full purpose when it functions as an agency for the dissemination of technical information imparted by those whose accomplishments and backgrounds establish them as authorities on the subjects they discuss.

A glance at the program of Papers to be presented at the Fall Meeting is sufficient to assure the industry that the S. M. P. E. meeting in Toronto will be fruitful of much that will enlighten its workers on subjects of absorbing interest.

The subjects of leading importance in the industry today, sound and wide film, are prominently represented in the program of discussions that will occupy the engineers and technicians who gather at that convention. Their Papers will command a popular interest perhaps never approached in the past history of the Society.

Thus, owing to conditions which have been brought about by the Society itself through accomplishments since its foundation in 1916—accomplishments which have won the utmost respect and admiration of the industry—and new developments which increasingly stress the technical side of motion pictures, the S. M. P. E. convenes for its Fall Meeting of 1929 with a large and most interested gallery giving strict attention to its transactions. Under the circumstances which surround the Meeting, the Toronto convention truly is the most important that has been held by the S. M. P. E. since its inception.

The industry, as never before is alive to Society's importance—appreciates the value of its contributions to the progress of the Motion Picture—and sincerely wishes it to succeed and prosper in the expanded and enlarged undertakings to which the organization is applying its great resources in talent, learning and ability.

Carrier Centrifugal Refrigeration

Featured by Jefferson Theatre

The Jefferson Theatre, Beaumont, Texas, features Manufactured Weather as an added patronage attraction.

ANY theatres throughout the country have employed various exploitations stunts... but it remained for the Jefferson at Beaumont to feature, during a one-week Refrigeration Show held in the theatre, the refrigeration machine which operates in conjunction with the air conditioning system, to provide patrons with healthful comfort the year round . . . regardless of the weather, the season or the size of the crowd.

The Jefferson at all times features Manufactured Weather, as produced only through the Carrier System for Air Conditioning, as an added patronage attraction... but its Refrigeration Show proved to be such a novel means of exploitation that it drew thousands of visitors from the city of Beaumont and the surrounding countryside.

Publicity and Prosperity

Here was publicity of the most desirable kind. The engine room of the theatre was thrown open during the entire week... patrons were invited to make a tour of inspection of the cooling system. The Theatre Engineer was on duty and answered all inquiries about the great cooling system which makes "Every day a good day" in the Jefferson.

Thousands of visitors took advantage of their first opportunity to inspect the cooling plant . . . to have explained to them the various details of operation of this safe, silent refrigeration system. All of these visitors took home with them the desire and intention to patronize this theatre which has provided, for their health and comfort, Carrier Manufactured Weather.

A Neglected Field of Exploitation

Other Carrier-conditioned theatres throughout the country would do well to duplicate this method of exploitation. We believe that a great many owners who have invested in Carrier Systems for Air Conditioning are neglecting a field of exploitation which cannot fail to pay large dividends.

Throw open the doors to your engine room . . . invite your patrons in to inspect your refrigeration equipment in operation . . . encourage them to ask questions about its operation . . . have a competent engineer on duty to explain the importance of its absolute safety, its remarkable silence, even during the showing of a sound picture, its reliability and ability to create and maintain scientifically healthful conditions of comfort at all times.

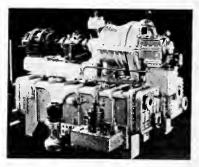

Carrier Centrifugal Refrigeration

Carrier Centrifugal Refrigeration, as employed in the Jefferson, is in use in more than 200 other theatres, public buildings and industrial plants throughout the country. It has met with remarkable success in the cooling and debumid-ification of these buildings because it was designed primarily to meet the many peculiar requirements of air conditioning and as an integral part of the air conditioning system. The machine is completely automatic in its control, assuming and releasing its load according to every fluctuation in weather conditions and the size of the crowd. It is absolutely safe for installation in public buildings since it uses a harmless liquid refrigerant. It occupies less than one-fourth the space required for other refrigeration equipment of like capacity.

The latest model Carrier Centrifugal Refrigeration Machine. Safe, simple, compact, automatic. The machine is complete as it stands. There are no external expansion or condensing coils or receivers.

If your theatre is not included in the ever-growing list of Carrier-Conditioned Houses, we should be pleased to have you ask for a visit from one of our engineers, who will present, without obligation, all of the essential facts underlying the successful application of air conditioning in the theatre. Ask, too, for the Book, "Theatre Cooling and Conditioning."

NEWARK NEW JERSEY

"Third Dimension" Lighting Produces All Colors on Four Circuit System

Brings Out Complementaries of Red, Blue and Green by Adding White Light—May Revolutionize Theatre Illumination and Design

NEW application of color lighting. producing effects the explanation of which are as mystifying to the expert as the results are to the beholder, has been developed by F. J. Cadenas, illuminating engineer of the General Electric Company. The discovery of new resources of lighting, which makes possible the production of an unlimited variety of colors and shades with a four-color system using, red, blue, green and clear lamps, will have a revolutionary effect on interior decoration and architecture, particularly in the theatre and the motion picture studio, according to lighting experts who witnessed demonstrations given by Mr. Cadenas at the recent convention of the Illuminating Engineering Society in Philadelphia.

The first practical and commercial installation of this new lighting is being completed in the Balfroom of the St. George Hotel in Brooklyn, N. Y., which will be demonstrated to the Illuminating Engineers Society on the night of December 12. The balfroom will be opened to the public thereafter. Extracts from the description of this installation as prepared by Mr. Cadenas may be of interest in giving an idea of how the system is applied, and may be applied to motion picture theatres, with certain necessary special provisions:

The Hotel St. George Ballroom will have an unobstructed floor area of 0,500 square feet, and a clear ceiling height above the floor of 20 feet 6 inches. There will be two tiers of balconies along the sides and back wall. The lighting system for the walls consists of a series of four separate and parallel coves fitted with vertically-pleated flutes in which are placed, both in the front and back of the flutes, clear lamps in various wattages equipped with color caps.

The first or highest cove surrounding the four walls, 325 feet all together, will be located near the ceiling and will require approximately eleven lamps per foot, the lamps ranging from 50 to 200 watts. The second cove surrounding only 3 walls, approximately 250 feet, will be in the balcony, while the third cove covering 3 walls also about 250 running feet will be placed on the outside of the balcony railing. The fourth cove also covers 3 walls and has the same number of running feet as the third cove and will be placed under the balcony ceiling to illuminate the portion of the ballroom which will not receive illumination from the main ceiling. On the front wall will be mounted graduA demonstration model of the new lighting system described in this article will be a feature of the display at the Graybar Booth at the Electrical Exposition which opens Monday, October 7, and continues through the week at the Grand Central Palace in New York.

The model was completed this week under the supervision of Mr. Cadenas, and will be capable of showing the actual application of the system to auditoriums, ballrooms, etc.

ating flutes, ranging in size from two feet to 18 feet in height.

The lighting system for the ceiling will be a series of five inverted troughs, ten feet wide and sixty feet long, placed symmetrically on 20-foot centers. These will have sawtooth openings along the sdies through which colored lights and shadows will be projected on the ceiling. In the bottom of the troughs will be roundels through which will be projected light in red, blue, green and clear. These roundels will be in groups of four and will be located along the center of the trough and spaced on 20foot intervals. The entire surface of the four walls and ceiling will be painted a flat white. Not a single decoration or fixture will be installed.

By a simple method of arrangement of the lamps of three colors and the clear lamps used, the operator can produce all colors and in a variety of designs which appear to have no limit. The system produces what has been termed the "third dimension in color," this being the complimentary of each of the three colored lamps used by adding white light, or light from the clear lamp. Also all of the pastel shades of each color are released by adding the white light.

The lamps are arranged in combinations in vertically-pleated flutes, the lamps being placed in the front and back of the flutes. In the demonstration model Mr. Cadenas used, the blue lamps were set in front, and arranged in back of the flutes were red, green and clear lamps. The fluting was set in a trough with a rounded cove at the back. All lamps are concealed, the light seen being reflected on the white surfaces. Dimmer controls are used to vary the intensity of the light from the lamps to produce the different colors and shades.

By using the blue light in combination with white, Mr. Cadenas produces a true yellow, the complimentary, which appears as a "Gothic" above the fluting. In similar fashion, he produced the complimentaries of the other two colors used, by adding white light. Dawn and sunset effects are equally easy to obtain and expert manipulation of the controls will produce all the effects of the Aurora Borealis. "In fact," said Mr. Cadenas in his paper read before the society of Illuminating Engineers, "if we but knew how, a regular symphony of lights could be produced, —here are the instruments for playing one which would be comparable in beauty and emotion with the greatest symphonies of music." The model used in demonstrating the "third dimensional lighting" for the reporter for this journal was small, but it sufficed to indicate the undreamed of possibilities that are opened up to the theatre, and the motion picture producer using color.

Under various combinations of the different colors with white, and with varying intensities of each, the range of colors defied enumeration, even a gray light, never before produced so far as is known, being introduced into the combinations.

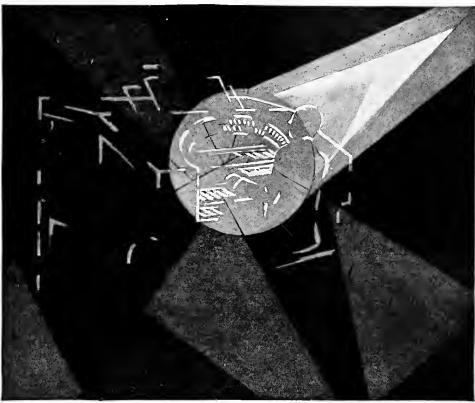

R QUALLY elastic in the hands of the operator is the production of designs formed by the reflected colors. Light shadows that formed "Gothics," pyramids, and hourglass designs were traced in solid colors or in layers of colors. Fringes, stripes and shadows of various designs are added to the predominating outline.

The vehicle required to produce the colors and patterns is white plastered walls. The invention opens up a brand new field for the architect and designer, little imagination being required to visualize the rich store of new designs that will be evolved to employ the "third dimensional lighting" system to masses and forms of the most interesting and arresting character. The system adapts itself admirably to the modernistic style now so popular, and it is not unlikely that it will prove a factor in extending the scope of forms now used in that style.

Since bare white walls, with designs only for the troughs or coves necessary, the invention may well develop the means for complete remodeling of older theatres now out of date, without structural alteration of the auditoriums.

Theatre Building Business Map

Including Analysis of Key City Attendance Averages

The map of the United States shown here is divided into seven territories, with colored shading indicating the division of new proposed theatre building as represented for the period from August 15th to September 15th. This new construction is represented in valuation of dollars and cents rather than number of projects.

The shading is in four densities; solid, which represents the greatest value of proposed theatres; heavy stipple, which is second in valuation of new construction; medium, which areas represent conservative building; and the very light areas, where the investment in new theatre projects is very light. The information used in compiling the statistics visualized by the map was obtained through several reliable sources, and the map is to be considered as very nearly accurate in representing comparative theatre building activities in various sections of the country.

The circles shown on the map are located in key cities and illustrate average of theatre attendance during the period from August 15th to September 15th, 1920. The diagrams indicate the relative attendance at the first-run theatres in these cities during the period covered. These are given by "averages," with symbols to indicate "Above Average" and "Under Average" box office returns. The term "average" as applied in this survey indicates satisfactory box office returns, based upon theatre expectancies, which, in turn, are governed by past earnings under similar or nearly similar conditions.

These attendance statistics were compiled from an analysis of the Key City Reports, published weekly by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, and other sources of information gathered by this publication

EAVY activities in new theatre projects are reported for this month. The curtailment in building apparently is at an end and the industry is well on its way to a program that will make up lost time during the past three or four months.

Concrete evidence to this end is shown through the 41 new theatre projects which we report for the thirty days ending September 15th. Furthermore, 13 theatres are scheduled for a thorough remodelling.

It is practically definitely established that the theatre field will experience the most comprehensive remodelling schedule that it has ever had in its history. Various factors have caused this to come about though sound can be credited with hastening the remodelling of a great number of theatres. It is anticipated that the number of theatres which will undergo remodelling will equal the number of new theatres that will be

The construction figures for new theatre projects announced for this thirty-day report are as follows:

In the United States and Canada, $13,407,000 will be invested in 41 theatres seating 54,325. Three of these theatres will cost over a million dollars and two between $500,000 and a million. The average for these houses show $328,000, seating 1,325 with an average cost of $247.

These figures broken down according to territorial divisions give the North Atlantic States the first place with a program of $5,005,000 for six theatres and a total seating capacity of 13,200. Reduced to averages each theatre will represent $834,000 with 2,200 seats and a cost per seat of $379. Two theatres in this territory will cost over one million dollars.

The Middle States call for $4,780,000 to be invested in

In the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, Heywood-Wakefield has reseated five theatres in less than six months! Heywood-Wakefield seats were selected for the State, Riviera, Granada, American, and Empress because of their beauty, comfort, and box-office appeal. All over the country leading exhibitors are installing H-W theatre chairs—Publix has purchased over 100,000 H-W chairs in two years; Warner Brothers recently installed H-W chairs in two, new 4,000-seat houses at Atlantic City and Philadelphia; Fox West Coast has just ordered many thousands of H-W seats for a group of new theatres. There is a good, money-making reason behind such overwhelming preference for H-W theatre chairs. twelve theatres seating 18,700, where one of the theatres will cost between $500,000 and a million and one over a million dollars. These figures make the average theatre represent $398,000 with 1,500 seats and $255 cost per seat.

An unusually heavy building program is reported for the Western States Division where $2,000,000 will be invested in ten theatres totaling in seating capacity 10,000. These theatres will be built on a conservative scale, the average house calling for an investment of $200,000 and 1,000 seats, making the average cost per seat $200,

A NOTHER territory which in our recent reports has been distinctive through its absence of building activities and which now is taking rank with heavy building is the South Eastern States. Here five theatres will cost $820,000 and will have a total seating capacity of 5,000. One of these projects will cost one-half million dollars. These theatres show an average of $164,000 per house, seating 1,000 with an average cost per seat of $164,00.

Four small houses will be built in the South Western States. $352,000 is required to construct these houses which together will seat 3.745. The averages for these houses are low as they give $88,000 per house with 870 seats and cost per seat of $101.

For the first time, in several months the West Coast reports a very light new theatre building program where $160,000 will be invested in three theatres seating 1,950. The averages for this group are $53,334 per house, seating 650, with an average cost per seat of $82.

One theatre is reported for Canada which calls for an investment of $350,000 and 2,000 seats.

No new theatres building projects are reported for New England States.

Among the states which lead in total investment required for new building. Ohio leads with 3 houses to cost $3.300,000 and seat 9,000.

New York is second with three theatres requiring an investment of $2,730,000 and seating 7,200.

Pennsylvania will build two theatres with a total cost of $2,-200,000, showing a combined seating capacity of 52,200.

Arizona takes individual honor in the largest number of theatres to be built as ten new houses will cost in the aggregate $2,000,000 and seat 10,000.

Illinois reports two new projects totaling $750,000 and seating 4,000.

The cost of remodelling the thirteen houses included in this report totals $565,000. This sum, while not particularly large, will, however, be devoted primarily for the purchase of equipment and appointments. As far as the equipment manufacturer is concerned, theatres which are remodelled represent very nearly the same purchasing power as a new theatre. Therefore, the total number of new prospects for the sale of equipment in this report is the number of new theatres plus those being remodelled which total together 54.

The heaviest remodelling will be done in the Western States and the West Coast while the Middle and North Atlantic and South Eastern territories report a light schedule.

The sale of equipment generally throughout the industry continues on a brisk scale. Undoubtedly the normal demand for equipment is greatly stimulated through the remodelling schedule which is now under way.

THEATRE attendance reached a new high peak during the August 15 to September 15 period at key city first-run theatres, thus making the Summer season of 1020 the greatest boom period in the annals of motion picture theatregoing.

As shown on the map there are 10 cities with ratings of Above Average business for the period, with three at Average. This sets a new record for general prosperity of theatres in the key cities throughout the country.

The three factors on which opinion agrees are the fundamental reasons for the record business first-run houses have done this season are:

1. General prosperity of the country as a whole.

2. Increasing interest of the public in talking pictures.

3. The favorable reaction to cumulative exploitation the hig theatres for the past few years have put behind their air conditioning and cooling plants.

Good pictures, or at least pictures that have shown a steady progress on the part of the producers and the studio forces in handling synchronized sound, naturally proved an all-powerful influence in maintaining the early interest of the public in talkies, and succeeded in carrying the talkies forward from the "novelty" stage to a place of established reputation and appeal to the mass of amusement seekers.

The one important business factor in the period under discussion was the Labor Day holiday. However, a terrific heat wave blanketed the country on that day, and in most localities continued through almost to the end of the week of September 1. Nevertheless, theatre business held to its high level over that period, and the comment of observers all over the country was that artificial theatre cooling was a big factor in bringing about this condition.

In isolated instances special exploitation campaigns were reflected in greatly increased business at the picture houses, but even in cities where nothing exceptional was done in the way of advertising, the attendance records held up to the general advance over the whole country. The Fox West Coast Greater Movie Season this year was remarkably well handled, and proved an important factor in building up receipts at the houses of that circuit. It was a case of an aggressive advertising policy very competently handled, making good business much better. Here and there there were instances where especially strong counter-attractions developed to threaten the movies with reduced receipts, but even so the picture houses managed to show Above Average business for the period. Baltimore offers a case in point. In that city there was staged a special civic eventthe Bi-Centennial Celebration, held during the week of September 9. It was an outdoor attraction and drew large crowds. Picture theatres, naturally, suffered, but a single week of slim returns was offset by three weeks of Above Average husiness and one week of Average box-office grosses.

OME remarkable records were hung up by pictures current at the first-runs during this period. The stand-out of the releases, of course, was "The Cock-Eyed World," which set up a four weeks' run to a gross of $654,046. From that running start the Fox sequel to "Glory" rushed into a lead which it held through engagements at Brooklyn, N. Y., St. Louis, Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, and other key towns around the country. As a result it holds the distinction of being the biggest money picture to be brought to the public without hencit of special road show or pre-release handling.

It is especially interesting to note that the two pictures which ran two and three to "The Cock-Eyed World" in this department's list of to leading firms for the period at first-run key city houses are both silent offerings. These are "The Single Standard" and "Our Modern Maidens." Both, of course, are offered with synchronized scores and interpolated sound effects. But hoth are strictly silent as to story construction, production technic and acting. "Single Standard" played two weeks at the Capitol in New York, gave Loew's State in Boston a new high mark for a midsummer week, and after being within a few hundred dollars of the high gross for the Chicago, in Chicago, moved over to the Oriental for a second week in the Loop, and played to exceptional business there.

"Bulldog Drummond" continued to hold a conspicuous place among the most important box-office offerings during the period. Other pictures that showed exceptional strength were: "Dr. Fu Manchu," "The Argyle Case," "The Greene Murder Case," all in the melodramatic mystery class which continues to hold a wide appeal for the average picturegoer.

The pictures which earned ratings among the ten most popular as shown by first-run key city engagements during the period are as follows:

- 1, "The Cock-Eved World."
- 2. "The Single Standard."
- 3. "Our Modern Maideus."
- 4. "Bulldog Drummond." 5. "Dr. Fu Manchu."
- 6. "Say It With Songs."
- 7. "The Argle Case."
- 8. "The Greene Murder Case."
- o. "Smiling Irish Eyes."
- 10. "Paris Bound."

The Question of the Hour is—

When Will the "New Era of Greater Films on Bigger Screens" Arrive?

DVERTISING on a huge sign across the front of the Gaiety Theatre on Broadway. and large space displays in the New York newspapers, heralded the showing of the Grandeur Pictures, offered for a limited run of two weeks opening September 17th, as the "Motion Pictures of the Future." And the film trade, as well as the reviewers for the newspapers, appeared to have no quarrel with the advertiser who coined that catchline —for the "hig screen" accomplished not by means of magnification in the projector but with a wider film, is looked upon as the next development that will find general application in the making of motion pie-

The question which interests motion picture men is "when will these motion pictures of the future' arrive at the point where we will have to make provision for their presentation in our theatres?" And the answer to that, as well as to many other problems that will rise to confound studio men, lighting engineers, cameramen, laboratory men, sound engineers, theatre architects, theatre owners, and theatre projectionists, must be answered by the future and the future only.

Certain it is from demonstrations of the three wider than standard film processes which have been given—Spoor - Breggen Natural Vision, controlled by RCA; Paramount

Magnafilm; and Fox Grandeur—that the means and methods to make motion pictures on a bigger scale and under a new standard have been developed well beyond the laboratory stage and arc ready for commercial application as soon as production on the new apparatus and studio programs can be laid out to provide films of the new dimensions.

The three processes mentioned use three different sizes of film. The Paramount Magnafilm is 56 nm wide; the Spoor 63 mm wide; and Fox Grandeur 70 mm wide. That, eventually, there will be a standard adopted there is no doubt. But this, too, according to those who, representing disinterested organizations concerned, in a commercial way, with the welfare of the industry, is something that cannot be brought about in the conference room, the studio or the experimental laboratory. This becomes plain when consideration is given to the factors involved.

The producers of the picture require larger space in which to compose their scenes—they know that. But what is the ideal based on the requirements of all? is something upon which agreement cannot be reached at present. The sound engineers can obtain better results with a wider sound track than is used at present -but, again, exactly what size of track will serve all purposes? It is the same with the laboratory man, and with all others whose specialized work must be considered in developing a new standard for films. Then there are the other factors of work already accomplished, investments made, in those processes now about ready for commercial application. Differences are the outcome of different objectives of the different specialists who developed the systems, and until their completed work is given a fair chance in actual application at the theatres and have had fair trial by producers and directors in actual production and presentation before the public, these differences which exist between one process or method and another will continue to be supported.

It is the opinion of many that the wide film will be simply a repetition of sound, in that public demand will be created for this or that system as a result of some outstanding achievement that will bring one system or the other to the fore with a rush. The theatre itself is the place where standards will be developed, which means that before wide film is generally used there will be several special showings in a limited number of big houses spotted here and there about the country.

What the popular reaction to the bigger screen will be in all quarters is indicated by comments in New York papers on the Grandeur showing at the Gaiety Theatre.

Quinn Martin, photoplay editor of the New York World, sees wide film pictures as demonstrated at the Gaiety as a natural "and, therefore, an unavoidable development in pic-ture-play making," and he is "obliged to conclude that these fullsized film screens will replace the former ones for the simple reason that they make for something a great deal more lifelike and dramatic." And in his comment regarding the effect of the development on the industry, and particularly the theatres, Mr. Martin sees the device as something that will turn the whole exhibitorial branch as completely over as did the sound films. "Now," he adds in this con-nection, "that Movietone and Vitaphone have just about got themselves lodged comfortably in the balcony and backstage, up comes another noble step of progress to start the poor showman's winter off with a bang—in the nose."

Rose Pelswick, New York Evening Journal, said "It's all a very grand idea, and a much needed one, too; for besides the fact that it gives promise of stereoscopic photography. Grandeur film takes in a greater visual area than was possible before."

"Not since the premiere of 'The Big Parade' has so much enthusiasm and comment been aroused among those connected with films as there was last night during the intermission at the Gaiety," said Mordaunt Hall in his review of the opening published in the New York Times of September 18.

Suggestion that the present standard is a thing of the past crops up in discussion of the Grandenr picture presentation by Creighton Peet in his article in the New

A popular form of merchant-theatre co-operation is the fashion show

Merchants Survey Shows Value of Movies to Business of Local Retail Stores

HAT is the effect in dollars and cents of the motion picture theatre on the business of local merchants in the larger towns of the country? It is pretty generally accepted that the major type motion picture theatre increases property values in the neighborhood of its location, and that crowds drawn to the theatre brisk up the business of confectionary stores, restaurants, etc., within that neighborhood. Some of the more progessive merchants of a town of the larger type will quite frankly admit that they frequently have had demonstrations of the effectiveness of direct tieup advertising with theatres along special lines. But while international bankers, and even statesmen, are declaring that "trade is following the films," there seems to be a lack of awareness of the value of motion picture theatres to the retail shops on the part of the merchants themselves. Much of the indifference to the situation that actually exists is demonstrated in the resistance which many stores offer to propositions looking toward co-operative advertising, window displays, etc., put up to the local merchants by theatre managers, and often the exploitation representatives of national distributors.

An important phase of the survey conducted in Watertown, N. Y., by the Curtis Publishing Company—quoted in an article on out-of-town theatregoing that appeared in this department last month—was an investigation of the influence of the motion picture theatre on local business.

The representatives of the Curtis Company had been told by the advertising manager of the Avon Theatre in Watertown, that the best theatres co-operated with the best merchants in helping each other bring more of the much-desired out-of-town purchasing to both groups. For the purpose of checking conditions on this point, and to determine whether the leading merchants were conscious of the benefits derived directly or indirectly from the theatre, the men who conducted the survey canvassed 37 merchants in Watertown with questionnaires designed to collect accurate data on this phase of motion picture theatregoing.

The individual questionnaires as presented in the Curtis report on the Watertown survey are especially interesting for the thoughtful general opinions and advice given by business men whose aims are close to those of the exhibitor. However, only their general conclusions will be given here.

Movie stars used to attract attention to window displays of merchandise

Most important is the fact developed by the merchant questionnaires that business increases were directly ascribed to the crowds brought to town by the motion picture theatres.

Twelve of fourteen merchants who measured their business increase in percentage had an average improvement in volume of 22.6 per cent during the week of the showing of "Wings" with sound accompaniment.

As set forth in the article last month, the Curtis Company selected Watertown out of 200 trading areas in the United States as the most typical of national conditions when it was decided to make a survey for the purpose of determining the effect of sound pictures on theatre business. The survey was conducted the week of December 1 to 8, 1-28, for the reason that the attraction then at the Avon Theatre, the largest house in Watertown, was showing "Wings" with sound effects. This was a special showing, due to the fact that it was the first presenta-tion of "Wings" with sound, and provided the needed opportunity to obtain data regarding the amount of out-of-town patronage brought to Watertown-largest town in the trading area-from the surrounding territory. Every effort was made to secure through this survey an outline of conditions that obtain with regard to the motion picture habits of the American people throughout the country.

A S already stated, twelve of fourteen merchants who measured their increase in percentage had an average improvement in volume of 22.6 per cent over the same week of the preceding year. One of these increased business 100 per cent, another 40 per cent. The weather had beer better then, but at that time there was no special motion picture with sound showing in Watertown.

Out of the total of 37 only three declared that they saw no benefit from the motion picture theatre to their business. The coments of the 34 who agreed that movies have a beneficial effect on their business, divide themselves as follows:

11—Get direct benefit in form of sales.

9—See benefit in business from farmers and small town people living outside of the city who are brought to town by the talkies.

6—Could not trace business direct, but said their volume would suffer if all movies were shut down.

2—Whose stores are closed weekday evenings, state their lighted windows work on movie crowds who come back later to purchase.

6—Had a general idea that movies are a good thing for the trade.

As the survey was made in December the larger stores were well patronized by Christmas shoppers, and most of the merchants could not tell whether their customers had any connection with the crowds from the Avon, because there were too many people in the store, though the majority, as already pointed out, did a bigger business on the week than during the same week of the previous year. Five attributed extra business to the large out-of-town crowds which the Avon attracted with the "Wings" showing, while twenty-two could not trace any business to that source.

N interesting feature of the merchants' survey are the suggestions regarding ways and means whereby the local theatres could help stores to get more business. Twenty-three out of twentyseven queried by the Curtis Company representatives had ideas on this matter, while the other four did not. Thirteen of these merchants made the statement that high-class feature pictures would do more to bring business to town than any other promotive schemes. Other suggestions were: Cover small towns more heavily with theatre advertising; stop showing major pictures in small towns first; put a string of lights from city square to the Avon Theatre to draw people in that direction when driving to town; theatre should help sell Watertown as best place to buy for all people in the trading area.

All those, showmen immediately will recognize, are accepted methods of good practice which have been employed by theatres for their own interests in any number of outstanding cases. Small towns now are being more heavily covered with advertising by larger theatres to capitalize on sound equipment; a theatre man in a small town in Texas interested the local bankers and merchants in financing a sound installation of his theatre for the purpose of "keeping the home folks home"; one of the moves credited with accomplishing the greatest amount of good in the campaign which Herb Jennings staged in Indianapolis to bring the Palace Theatre out of the red was the relighting of the street on which the Palace fronted and his successful selling of the idea to merchants to light up their windows brightly.

THE conclusion drawn from the report of the Curtis Survey is that what the talkies currently are doing for the movie theatres, the movie theatres for years have been doing for the business of local merchants. That is, attracting from the outling territory people who, before the popularity of picture shows and the facilities for transportation provided by autos and good roads lacked both the incentive and the means of travel to go distances from their homes in isolated sections and on the farms.

The necessity of the theatre of today, operating an increased overhead, due to sound equipment and rental costs, of reaching even further into distant territories for patrons is bound to have its effect in increased business at the local stores of the larger towns. And under such circumstances, it seems only reasonable that theatre operators will be aecorded more support by local business men and bankers than previously has

Is There a Good Reason Why I Should Reseat My Theatre?

LOOK FOR THE ANSWER IN YOUR BOX OFFICE RECEIPTS!

There you will find the figures that justify reseating

Research has shown that old, unattractive, uncomfortable seating is the most common cause for the downward trend of box office receipts.

Look over your chairs...examine them critically. Ask yourself if they are comfortable enough to rest tired bodies. Sit in them yourself. Be sure they are attractive, inviting, and modern. If not — invest in reseating. It will pay you in extra profit and patronage.

Comfort attracts patrons

Reseating brings comfort . . . and comfort brings patronage. That has been proved time and again where modern, attractive, comfortable "American" chairs have been installed. For comfortable seating ranks equally with fine projection and an entertaining show as an attraction to theatre goers.

Get the facts now!

The facts on "American" reseating service are available to you. Write us. We will be glad to send you all data on the logic of reseating and its value to you. There is no obligation to reseat unless it appears the advisable thing to do. Find out how between curtain and overture . . . without a show being interrupted, your theatre can be completely transformed into a favorite with the theatre going crowd!

Basement Garage Provides Parking Space for Patrons' Cars at Convention Hall

NE of many features incorporated in the design and construction of the huge Convention Hall at Atlantic City that has attracted particular attention of theatre builders is the selfcontained auto parking space, or garage provided for on the ground floor of the $10,000,000 municipal project at the famous Atlantic Coast resort. While the problem of providing parking facilities for those who drive their own cars is not by any means one that is exclusively faced by the large motion picture theatre -retail stores, etc., in downtown city locations are equally subject to the threatened loss of trade resulting from traffic congestion which causes motorists to avoid those sections of the town—the trend toward increasingly large motion picture auditoriums necessitates inclusion of every type of attraction to make theatregoing easy, comfortable and appealing to all types and classes of the population. And automobile parking facilities have a demonstrated value as a "box office" attraction at theatres.

Several newly built theatres in American cities have special auto parks owned and operated by the theatre company, but these, naturally, are houses located outside the downtown business sections.

The factor which has made the cellar parking space possible is development in ventilation methods designed for and applied to the construction of vehicular tunnels. Data obtained during experiments for the Holland tunnel were used by engineers who designed the ventilation system in the garage space under the main auditorium of the Convention Hall.

The garage space accommodates 400 automobiles. Owing to its location, in the first story below the main auditorium, and the comparatively low headroom, the ventilation problem assumed large proportions and many complexities, since the great quantities of engine exhaust gas necessarily must be rapidly withdrawn and fresh outside air brought in. Air is exhausted by 11 exhaust fans in two fan rooms on two sides of the building. Fresh air is carried into the garage space by two supply fans, each of 40,000-e.f.m. capac-They are multi-vane, double inlet, double width type, driven by a 15-h.p. variable speed motor at 200 r.p.m. These two fans are on opposite sides of the room and draw air from above the marquee, the supply being distributed through transverse ceiling ducts which connect in the center of the room to a longitudinal duct 40 feet wide by 2 feet deep-the maximum depth permitted by the headroom. The air supply outlets are in the bottom of the duct at regular intervals.

One-way traffic entrances and exists are provided by ramps at each end of the building, thus allowing patrons to arrive and depart without traffic confusion near the building. The entrance ramp leads into the garage from Georgia Avenue, running from the street level to the parking space below the auditorium. A similar ramp leads up from the garage to the street level on the opposite side of the building on Mississippi Avenue. Ramp platforms running from the Boardwalk grade extend the full length of the two sides of the building and serve as exit areas to the auditorium.

Inclusion of a garage space, along the same or similar lines, in the huge motion picture theatres that are discussed as projects to be developed in the near future by the leading theatre companies, would solve a problem which promises to seriously handicap the large capacity playhouses.

REMENDOUS overhead makes imperative the inclusion of every possible accommodation in order to bring the great crowds necessary to the profitable operation of the theatre with seating capacities ranging from 5,000 up—7,000 seat projects are now discussed as likely to take form in the near future, and several leading architects and showmen refuse to set a limit on the size to which downtown city theatres will be scaled in the future.

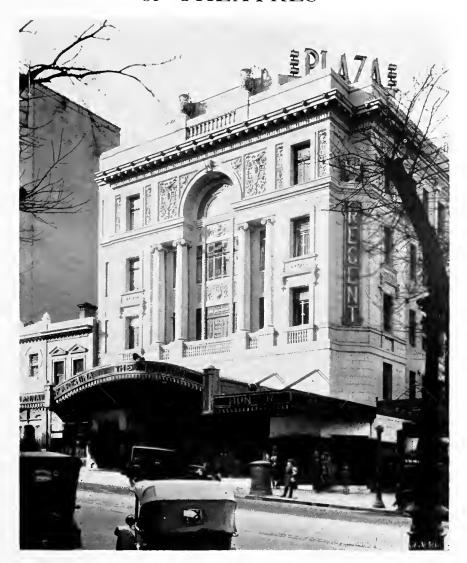

The importance to a motion picture theatre of nearby or at least reasonably convenient parking facilities was demonstrated during the overflow weeks of business drawn to the Roxy Theatre for the first two weeks of the engagement of "The Cock Eyed World," the Fox feature which set a new attendance record for the Roxy. The car park, at the rear of the Roxy was taxed to capacity and was forced to turn away hundreds of motor-

MELBOURNE'S "TWO THEATRES IN ONE"

Plaza and Regent Operated by Hoyts Theatres, Ltd.

THE unusual practice of erecting one theatre on top of another has been adopted with notable success by Architects Cedric H. Ballantyne and Associates of Melbourne, Australia. The project to which the two-inone theatre buildings was adopted is the newest building erected by Hoyts Theatres, Ltd., in Melbourne. This is the Regent Theatre, the main auditorium, which seats 3.500 persons, and is devoted to weekly change policy of de luxe picture and stage offerings, and beneath it the Plaza. seating about 1,500, and operating on an extended run policy. Views of the interior of the Regent were reproduced in the August issue of The Showman.

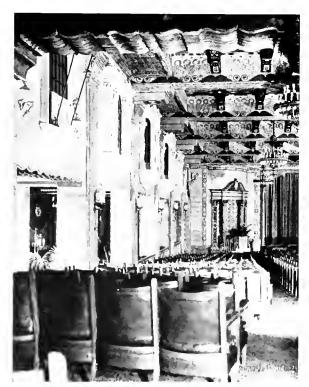

By a skillful arrangement of the entrances to both levels the impression is made that each of these two theatres are at the street level. The Regent entrance, 35 feet wide, leads up a short flight of steps through the ticket lobby into the grand fover with the stalls entrance beyond. The entrance of the Plaza adjoins that of the Regent, and is excavated to a depth of 40 feet below the stalls' level of the upper auditorium. The floor of the Regent is supported on built-up plate girders nearly 8 feet deep and having a clear span of 80 feet.

The type of decoration adopted for the Plaza is Spanish, with color used to the fullest extent in treating the heavily beamed ceilings of foyer and auditorium. The easy flight of steps leading from the street level enter upon the unusually commodious lounge foyer. The floor is laid with antique tile blocks in shades of warm browns and terra cotta. The walls are of textured plaster relieved with colored tile inlays.

A feature of the entrance is the effect of a high patio arcaded at the ground level with decorative windows and bright awnings over wrought iron balconies looking down from above. The wall fountain, of Spanish tile on one wall of this patio, lends an added atmosphere to the ensemble. The auditorium is of one level only. Surrounding both sides and near the rear is a wide promenade, separated from the main scating portion of the theatre by an arcaded colonnade.

Inditorium, Plaza Theatre

Sidercall and Ceiling

The feeling of the outer fover is maintained inside the auditorium, the richly decorated windows look down upon the patrons as from upper rooms in a huge country and in Spain.

The heavily beamed ceiling over the aduitorium has been richly decorated on color designs of Spanish motive, and it is the first time in Australia that such decoration has been attempted to this extent.

The soft, warm coloring of walls and ceiling, the grouping of appropriate furniture around the large open fire-places in the foyers and promenade, and the entire feeling of intimacy which this delightful little theatre gives is a unique contrast to its imposing brother overhead.

The Regent Theatre

The grand fover of the Regent measures to feet long by 50 feet wide, is roofed in one span by a groined ceiling of Gothic design, and decorated with mural painting of medieval character. The stairs leading to the balcony mezzanine rise either side of the grand fover behind richly carved columns in travertine stone, which support the magnificent ceiling. The travertine finish of the walls is relieved by grained Australian marbles of the staircases and floors, and the delicate lines of bronze grilles and lighting fixtures. The general lighting effect is in tones of warm amber, with deep red and gold accents in the hangings and decorations.

Ascending the main staircase to the mezzanine fover, which runs the full width of the theatre, the luxurious atmosphere is further enhanced by the rare works of art and excellent furniture it contains. The delicately modeled ceiling with the life-size figures depicted in the mural panels at either end from a striking feature.

Decorative Styles

Emerging into the balcony, the full beauty of the vast auditorium is realized. Here the style of decoration has changed to that of Empire, the transition of periods from grand fover to auditorium being so skilfully blended to leave no discordant note.

The balcony, which has a clear span of 100 feet, has seating capacity for 1,500 people, the total for the house being 3,500.

The orchestra, to accommodate 50 performers, is of the rising platform type with organ console alongside. The stage is fully equipped for large performances with dressing rooms for chorus and principals.

Both of these theatres, located under the one roof but different in architectural style as well as the style of entertainment, so far as distinctions are possible with the one form of theatrical offering as the main attraction—motion pictures—have attracted a great popular patronage in Melbourne.

The theatre was opened last March, with special ceremonies to mark the introduction of a new era in motion picture entertainment and motion picture theatres in Australia.

In the technical equipment installed at both theatres, these leading cinemas of Melbourne are as advanced as the most modern and up-to-date film playhouse can be made with apparatus and systems available to the theatre builder.

THE STATE, SYDNEY, IS NEWEST HOUSE BUILT BY UNION THEATRES

the famous fan pendant ceiling in the Henry the Seventh Chapel in Westminster Abbey.

Proseculum arch and side-wall treatment of the State's auditorium, in which height is accentuated by sweeping arches and the striking color scheme featuring red, gold and ivory

In the centre of the floor is a giant floor clock, the first of its kind, with gilded hands and numerals in mosaic tiles under a plate-glass face.

From the Gothic Hall the scene opens on the Grand Assembly, notable for the delicacy of its luminous and multi-hued Louis coloring, the grand sweep of its marble balustrades and murals in painted tones.

With its Royal Mezzanine Circle the State introduces an entirely new note in theatre construction in Sydney, for it is the first theatrei in the Southern Hemisphere to adopt this outstanding feature of the "de luxe" style of construction which has enjoyed such popularity in the United States.

And because it is a new departure, the Royal Mezzanine has been fashioned and furnished on a scale of comfort, lavishness and splendor hitherto not attempted in Australia.

Striking Decorative Scheme

In the Royal Mezzanine the splendor of the general Louis decorative scheme of gold and ivory with its delicate and pleasing relieving colors is heightened and accentuated. Magnificent wall treatments with panels of figures and flowered tapestry, gilded embrasures for marble pieces and cardinal red hangings flowing down in tremendous color cascades, are some of the things that feature the Royal Mezzanine.

Despite its spaciousness and the great sweep of its semicircled balustrades, the State's Dress Circle gives an immediate impression of intimacy and cultured charm, and evokes an atmosphere of comfort and refinement. Here sweep upon sweep of the Louis treatment stretches out before and on all sides in burnished gold and gleaming ivory, relieved with the delicate pastel tones of the period and giant cascades of cardinal red velvet draping tapestry work.

The Stalls of the State introduce a far-reaching change in the accepted standards of comfort and convenience of that part of a theatre devoted to meeting popular requirements.

Music and presentation at the State are under the direction of three well-known theatrical figures. The presiding genius of the theatre's large orchestra and stage

Since its opening early in June of this year, the State Theatre in Sydney, Australia, has played to grosses that exceed even the optimistic expectations of those who sponsored the erection of a playhouse that takes rank among the most elaborate built for motion picture entertainment in any of the world's large cities. The State, in conjunction with the State Shopping Block which houses it, represents an investment of four million dollars. It was built and is being operated by Union Theatres, Ltd., controlling a large circuit of pictures houses in Australia.

This unique project, combining a large theatre and a shopping center in a building with 11 floors of "street space" above the street level, materializes an idea and an ideal of the Directors of Union Theatres, Ltd.: Edwin Geach, W. A. Gibson and Stuart F. Doyle, well known to theatre men in this country through their achievements in the field of motion picture showmanship.

The Shopping Block was described in an article published in the July 6 issue of The Showman Section. The State Theatre has a seating capacity of nearly 4,000 persons, and operates on a policy of all-talking features, with stage band entertainments and talking short subjects comprising the first half of the program.

Architecture in Gothic Style

The theatre was designed by Henry E. White of Sydney, Australia, in association with Union Theatres' American Architect, John Eberson. Stuart F. Doyle personally supervised the construction, decoration and furnishing of the theatre. It features Gothic style of architecture.

The entrance is through its Gothic Entrance Hall. This recreates the interior decoration of the best Gothic period. Bas reliefs, more than life-size campied statues of King Arthur and England's Patron Saint, St. George, and other mediaeval figures famed in song and story adorn massive panelled oak walls, while high aloft is a reproduction of band is Will Prior, formerly at Warner Bros. Theatre, Hollywood. Price Dunlavy, formerly of Grauman's Theatre, Hollywood, operates its great four manual Wurlitzer, while Clyde Hood, late of the Capitol Theatre, Chicago, and other leading American houses is in charge of the presentation.

No description of the State would be complete without special mention of the theatre's thirteen enormous chandeliers hanging in the Auditorium and Grand Assembly, Each of these separate pieces constitutes the rarest gem European palaces and salons had to offer. The largest, the scintillating "Koh-i-Nor" hanging from the center of the dome, weighing three and a half tons in all, is a replica of that which was the wonder of connoisseurs the world over when it hung in the Reception Hall of the Hapsburg Emperor in Vienna.

Work of Artist Craftsmen

In their class the State's thirteen chandeliers are regarded among the best examples of the work of artist craftsmen in glass the world has yet seen, and a small fortune was spent to acquire them for the theatre.

No small amount of labor and money has been expended in making the six atmospheric lounges of the State the epitome of comfort and select refinement.

The Pompadour and Empire Builders' Lounge off the Royal Mezzanine Foyer mark an entirely new departure. On the Dress Circle floor are the Futurist and College Rooms, while the Butterfly and Pioneer Rooms adjoin the Stalls.

Personal Service as given by the State's Attache Corps is but one of the features the management has planned for greater comfort and convenience. Special tuition extending over some months has resulted in the creation of a unique body of young men whose chief duty is to act as hosts on behalf of the management. Specially selected for appearance and physique, the Corps has had a thorough training in Courtesy, Efficiency and Good Conduct.

The collection of statuary and objects d'art represents one of the largest and choicest assemblage of art treasures established for the adornment of a theatre. Here are displayed reproductions by the best craftsmen of Europe and America of the priceless statuary in the Louvre and other continental Meccas of the connoisseurs of plastic beauty.

Development of Large Cities

The State Theatre and Shopping Block is a natural development of the large city with its huge population existing within limited areas and thus putting an ever increasing premium on ground space. The idea incorporated in the Shopping Block is simply a building with 11 floors of "street space" by means of upstairs areades affording window display space and accessibility to shops located on upper floors of a building. Space is thus provided for 150 separate shops.

In order to carry out the uniformity necessary to accord with the general scheme of the building all shop fronts have attractive standard designs, and it is insisted that tenants shall attractively dress each shop window as a means of making each shopping floor ppealing to visitors. No plain windows are permitted in the arcade shops.

The front three floors have display windows fronting on Market Street, and the top floor is occupied exclusively as a cafe. The two basements have separate entrances with independent show windows.

HARMANUS BLEECKER HALL Albany, N. Y.

Auditorium as It Looks Since Remodelling

HARMANUS-BLEECKER HALL REMODELLED

Famous Albany Theatre Built In 1888 Rejuvenated And Now Operates As First Run Motion Picture Playhouse

A S an example of what can be done in remodeling and modernizing an old theatre, C. 11. Buckley presented Harmanus-Bleecker Hall, in Albany, N. Y., to the theatregoers of that city on Labor Day, and scored one of the most remarkable theatre openings in the State.

The theatre was scheduled to open at 10 A. M. on Labor Day morning, a day when the mercury mounted quickly to the nineties, and a day on which a great majority of persons travel. Despite the heat there were over 2,000 persons in line in front of the theatre when the box-office opened.

Although the house accommodates 2,200 persons, the crowds were so large during the day it became necessary to turn thousands away, but these were later on accommodated during the week when a new record in attendance was hung up for this district.

Harmanus-Eleccker Hall was built back in 1888, and was owned for a number of years by the late F. F. Proctor, being bought by Mr. Buckley last June for a price said to be in the neighborhood of $400,000. The theatre is rather peculiarly located, being neither a downtown house nor a strictly residential one. It had been operated as a double feature second-run house until Mr. Buckley took it over, and decided to operate it as a first-run theatre in direct competition to those in the business center.

In its remodeled form the theatre is one of the most attractive houses in this section of New York State. Artists were brought from Boston, and the entire interior was redecorated in a combination of brown and gold, subdued with deep tones of blue, red and green. All furnishings were new. The entire system of lighting was changed, adding much to the attractiveness of the theatre. In the lobby there is a statue in bronze which came from the London home of Baron Rothschild, a well-known figure for years in international banking circles. There are two carved urns of bronze and gold at the entrance which came from the gardens of Fontainblean in Paris.

Over thirty baskets of flowers were received by Mr. Buckley on the day of the opening. In addition to the opening feature, which was "The Cock-Eyed World," Mr. Buckley presented Herb Gordon and his orchestra, which is playing at the Hotel Ten Eyek roof. Among those present on the opening day was Mrs. Milton Schwartz, daughter of William Fox, who was passing through Albany on her way home.

Mr. Buckley has fixed his admission prices at 35 and 50 cents, and his policy will be straight week runs. Alec Sayles, who has been promoted to general manager of the Buckley chain of houses, will make his headquarters at the theatre.

Mellaphone Introduces New Model Synchronous Device

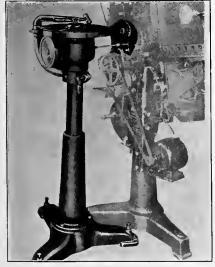

A NEW model called the Super-Mellaphone reproducer, recently was launched on the market by the Mellaphone Corporation, Rochester, N. Y.

The machine incorporates features designed to prevent flutter or sound vibrations, which are described by the sponsors of the Super-Mellaphone as follows:

"First, the Mellaphone equalizer-filter, consisting of a series of well constructed springs; and second, 2 balanced flywheels and specially cut gears, are new developments which enable the machine to withstand vibration and prevent effects of them reaching into the sound reproducer.

"The new machine has a new style Tone Arm and Pick-Up which insures perfect tracking for all records. Connection with the projector is made to the main drive shaft. Ball bearings are used throughout."

The company recently has made shipments of the new monel Super Mellaphone Turn Tables to France, Holland, England, Belgium, Australia, and Mexico.

Royal Amplitone Dual System Reproducer Incorporates New Features of Design

THE Royal Amplitone sound reproducer is one of the first systems to be brought on the market to supply the demand for synchronized reproducers. Originally it was a single-system disc reproducer, but this year the sound-onfilm reproducer head was developed by the company's engineers, under Rudolph Miehling, engineer who specialized in theatre work before his entry into the field of sound reproducer design and construction.

The Royal Amplitone main amplifiers operate from current, eliminating all batteries. There are two types or models, the 20-S the larger is designed for theatres up to a capacity of 4,000 seats, while the smaller unit, the 12-S is for auditoriums with a capacity up to approximately 1,000. Both have amplifiers that are of the 110-volt, A C operating type, and use standard commercial vacuum tubes throughout.

The film reproducer has been developed for Simplex projectors. The sound head is attached to the bottom of the projector head mounting place by bolts. The lower magazine is dropped only about two inches, which allows ample space for convenient threading. When silent or disc pictures are projected, the film does not thread through the film sound attachment, but is threaded directly into the lower magazine. When film recordings are used, the film leaves the last sprocket in the projector head and passes over an idler under spring tension, a feature exclusive with the Royal Amplitone device, and designed as a means to minimize flutter. At that point the film is intercepted and aligned by a guide roller and then enters the sound gate. It is then pulled through the sound gate and aligned by means of a sprocket driven from the main projector drive shaft, then passing over another idler into the lower magazine.

The optical system is adjusted at the time of installation and locked into the gate assembly. The assembly may be removed at any time to clean the lens without disturbing adjustments of the optical system. The exciting lamp adjustments are controlled by means of thumbscrew adjustments. The photo-electric cell is located at the top of the sound head and the voltages as received from the cell pass into the film amplifier located on the front wall of the booth.

New Type Sound Screen Made by Process for Coating Silk With Glass Beads

IGH reflective quality without sacrifice of sound porosity of screens designed especially to meet the requirements of talking pictures, is claimed for a new type of material developed by the Beaded Screen Corporation and called Vocalite.

The Vocalite material is the result of extensive experimentation directed toward the development of a reflective surface that would give the greatest light value while providing for extreme sound permeability. It is manufactured by a new process that applies glass beads of the smallest size obtainable from foreign glass makers—the beads are no larger than grains of fine beach sand—to a silk fabric of coarsely woven texture providing for porosity to sound. The glass beads form a coating over the threads that produces a glistening surface, having high reflective qualities, but leaving a large quantity of openings, irregularly scattered, between the threads. The screen is a cream white color and projects a soft pure white.

The manufacturers claim that Vocalite will give one-third more light and from five to six times more sound permeability. The material is fire proof, and is easily cleaned. Owing to the highly polished surface given the threads by the bead coating, dust will not adhere to the material. The process used in applying the beads makes them adhere permanently to the silk fabric base, and permits rolling the material without damage to the surface, the character of which is such that the light projected thereon will not refract.

The Vocalite sound screen may be cleaned by scrubbing with soap and water or going over the surface with a vacuum cleaner. The principles involved in the making of the screen are an entirely new development in the use of glass beads for this type of material construction.

Waxing Process to Protect Sound Film Positives

P ROCESSING methods to give motion picture prints longer life and greater flexibility have come into much wider use since the introduction of sound, with its requirements for well conditioned positives. One of the methods now in use in laboratories and exchanges of a great number of the bigger production and distribution organizations is the Liquefied Film Waxing Process, manufactured by the Rex Film Renovator Manufacturing Co., of Columbus, Ohio.

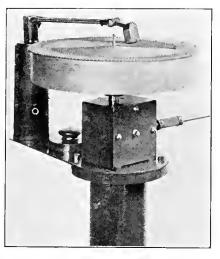

The process is designed to reduce to a minimum difficulties and added expense arising from cracked sprockets, buckling of the prints and oil stains. It consists of applying to the print a coating of wax, which gives greater flexibility to new prints and equips them better to stand the strain of the projector than prints not so protected. Older prints that crack and break in the projector can be given new strength and toughness by the processing, it is claimed by the sponsors of this longestablished method. The protective coating prevents oil from permeating the base. and a special absorbent paper has been developed with which it is possible to blot the oil that finds its way to the processed print in its passage through the machine,

Electric Radiators Supply Heat to Ticket Booths

A VARIETY of designs suited to different types of architectures and interior decoration is a feature of the new lines of stock models of electric portable radiators now offered by manufacturers. In the theatre field, the portable electric radiator has been used extensively for heating outside ticket booths, and now are coming into more general use for emergencies arising from extreme weather conditions or temporary disorder of the main heating plant in supplying warmth in rooms or corner adequately radiated or supplied.

Simplimus Turntable and Pick-up

Simplicity Aim of Designer of Disc Reproducer

MECHANICAL design that makes use of "natural forces—gravity, inertia, momentum—in preference to complicated mechanisms" to overcome common difficulties encountered in talking picture installations, it is claimed by A. Des Biens, president of Simplimus, Inc., of Boston, Mass., and designer of the Simplimus synchronous disc reproducer, is the principle upon which he has produced a machine that is simple in construction and makes for the greatest simplicity of operation.

"Among the most common difficulties that it is most desirable to overcome in talking picture reproducer design," Mr. Des Biens says, "are the following:

"I. Most projection booths are shaky, due to vibrations from motors, generators, etc. This difficulty has been overcome by putting a lot of weight in Simplimus equipment. Weight is the enemy of vibration.

"2. Most projectors have considerable gear back lash, causing flutter in the tone. This we correct by momentum, the turntable is not only heavy but the weight is at the outside, on the flywheel principle.

"3. Reproducers that render musical sounds with good tonal quality often produce muffled qualities in human voice reproduction. Clear diction is the result of distinct rendition of the consonants, or lip sounds, like "s" and "th," which are in the region of high frequencies. Here is a problem to be taken care of by good engineering practice in the design of the electrical end of the system. Simplimus uses the Audak Pick-up, which renders the high frequencies, in connection with a Fader of correct impedance to match the pick-up to the input of a Pam 10 Samson six tube amplifier, which in turn is designed to work into the input of the Wright De Coster Speakers, with Voice Coil, used in the Simplimus system."

Quartz Lens Feature of New Kinoplay Sound Head

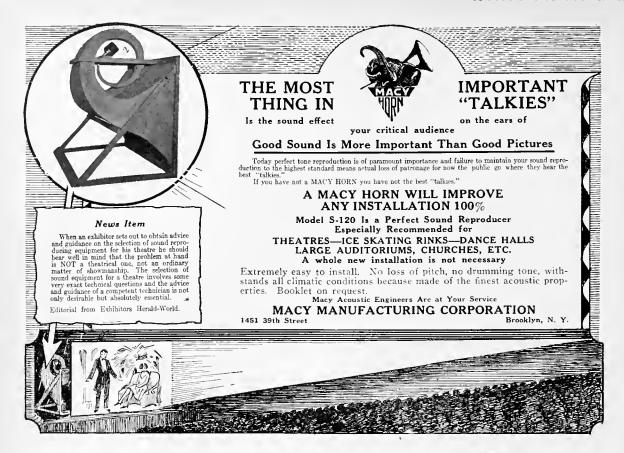

K INOPLAY is the name of the new sound-on-film reproducer attachment that has been developed by the organization that introduced the Biophone disc machine, and is offered for installation in combination with the disc unit, an improved design and marketed under the name of Multiphone, or individually. It is also available as added equipment to Biophone disc machines now installed at a special price, as well as to disc reproducers of other makes.

The Kinoplay equipment is distinguished by a sound head that differs from the usual design in that there is a cromium nickel and steel aperture plate, and a special Bioconoc quartz lens for focusing the exciting lamp. The latter eliminates the process of focusing when a new exciting bulb is inserted. A shielding device against vibration noises coming through from the photo-electric cell, and arrangement enabling the operator to cut out the threading of the film through the sound compartment when silent, or discrecorded film, is used, are other features. The head amplifier is contained in a cabinet shielded against electrical interference, and mounted on rubber cushions to absorb vibrations.

The Multifone, disc, equipment consists of two turntables adjustable as to height; two pick-ups equipped with ball bearing tone-arm action to allow free movement; a Fader provided with an arrow marked knob and containing a surface scratch filter; booth monitor; amplifier made by the Samson Electric Company; directional air column exponential horns with dynamic units; rectifier for the dynamic unit of the horn where the house has A. C. current.

THE plate voltage battery eliminator is nothing more than the conventional B eliminator so common in the independent and in some of the other installations. Its function is to replace the hattery or generator form of plate voltage supply. The eliminator as a unit consists of three sections. The first is the transformer-rectifier system, wherein a power transformer supplies A. C. to the rectifier tuhes and the tubes convert this energy into pulsating D. C. as mentioned in page No. 600.3. The second section consists of a number of chokes and condensers so arranged that the complete system constitutes a filter circuit, its function being to separate the A. C.

and the D. C. found in the rectifier output and to pass the D. C. to the output system of the eliminator. This act of separating the A. C. and the D. C. is the act of filtering. The third section is the voltage divider, consisting of a number of resistances arranged to distribute the eliminator output voltage according to the requirements of the tubes employed in the amplifier.

The power transformer as a rule is of such design that it supplies filament voltage for the tubes in the amplifier, in addition to the plate voltage. Whereas individual windings are employed to supply filament voltage for tubes of different voltage and current specification, the lone plate winding supplies voltage and current for all the tube plate circuits.

After rectification and proper filtering, the voltage is apportioned by producing definite voltage drops at certain values of current output across sections of a number of resistances connected in series, the entire combination being connected across the filter circuit output. The voltage divider as the strate network is known being predesigned for use with certain tubes and for certain current loads and employing fixed resistances of predetermined value, does not permit the haphazard changing of tubes nor the haphazard replacement of resistance units. Furthermore, the current and voltage output at any one tap are definitely predetermined and tubes constituting a load cannot be added simply because they will be operated at the voltage available at the tap or binding post.

In contrast to the battery type of installation the magnitude of current available from the eliminator displays an effect upon the voltage. In other words the vacuum tube rectifier is not a constant resistance structure. The greater the current drain, the less the output voltage. A definite value of current and voltage are available, but as either is increased or decreased, the other varies inversely, although not exactly in proportion.

TESTING TUBES.

W HAT is the best method of testing tubes? has been a frequent question. The answer must be qualified for the men who are not in a position to make their own determinations but who are advised as to the correct method of testing the tubes furnished with the amplifier.

Sometimes we cannot help but wonder how a simple tube testing device is not a part of the amplifying equipment. The cost is non-prohibitive to say the least. Inquiry along these lines solicited the information that the average operator would not know the function of the tester. . . This is difficult to believe. If a man can operate and test or measure voltages on a standard sound amplifier panel and interpret the meter readings, he can operate a set tester.

However, the usual test for plate current is quite satisfactory, considering that the two best tests are beyond the average operator because he does not possess the required equipment.

Relative to the plate current test, many men are confused in the correct interpretation of the readings secured on the plate milliammeter in a push-pall stage. "Which tube is the best, the one which has the greatest effect upon the meter, or the one which has the least effect?" has been asked. . . . The tube with the greatest effect, assuming normal operation and not extreme load when one of the tubes is inserted. The tube with the least effect shows minimum emission, consequently lowest plate current.

In the event that two tubes are employed in a rectifier and one overheats (the plate becomes red during operation) whereas the other remains cool, the tube with the cool plate is defective and is causing overload of the remaining rectifier.

Queries have been voiced relative to the correct interpretation of plate current indicated with normal filament potential and with less than normal filament potential. Suppose that two tubes A and B show normal plate current at normal filament current. However when the filament current is reduced, say 20 per cent tube A shows higher emission than tube B. Which of these tubes is suitable for use. Under the circumstances both tubes are suitable for use. The fact that one tube shows higher emission at the low value of filament current indicates a superior filament, but this condition does not signify that the other filament is defective. If the emission at the rates value is satisfactory the tube is satisfactory. Of course the tube with the low emission will "go" first but under the condition stated above, the tube is still suitable for use.

Without a special tester, the suitability of a tube is usually determined by observation of the normal plate current. While this method serves its purpose, the meter reading is not an absolute indication of the condition of the tube because a defect in the plate circuit of the system will cause a similar reading.

EFFECTIVE AND PEAK A. C. VOLTAGES

W HAT is to follow is of interest in connection with A. C. voltages and the measurement of such voltages.

The value of D. C. potential indicated upon a D. C. voltmeter is the maximum value found in the circuit and this value remains constant during each instant that the potential is present across any two points in the circuit. The same, however, cannot be said about A. C. potentials. A study of the usual illustration of a sine wave of A. C. potentials shows that it varies between zero and maximum and has three points of zero during a complete cycle and two points of maximum. At all other instants it is of some value between zero and maximum. The same is true with A. C. current.

Under the circumstances it is necessary to decide upon a certain value of potential or current which may be represented as the value of potential or current which actually does work in the circuit, since the voltage and current are ever changing in magnitude. In other words it is necessary to decide upon an effective numerical value of current or voltage, the value usually indicated upon an A. C. current or potential meter. If the above is true it is evident that both A.C. current and voltage have two values. First the maximum or peak value and second, the effective value.

Assuming the application of A. C. potential to resistance, A. C. emrept will flow through the resistance, the magnitude of A. C. current varying in accordance with the instantaneous values of applied potential. Yet, an A. C. current meter gives a steady deflection. . . . The heating effect of current being independent of direction of flow gives a very convenient method of deciding upon the value of A. C. voltage and current which actually does work in a circuit. This method of procedure involves a comparison between alternating and direct or continuous currents. As a matter of fact the unit alternating current is chosen as the current which will produce the same heating effect as unit direct current.

With respect to current flow in a circuit, such as the filament circuit of an amplifier, it is unnecessary to consider the ''peak'' value of current, since the ''effective'' value of current causes the heat and the diameter of the wire is chosen on the basis of the ''effective'' value of current in the circuit. Hence for all calculation, the current indicated upon a current meter is used as the basis. The same is true of the voltage in such circuits, since the effective value of voltage governs the effective value of current. The only place that it is necessary to consider the ''peak'' value of voltage present in the circuit is where rupture of insulation or a dielectric is the hazard. Such cases are rectifiers, rectifier tubes, condensers, the insulation of cables which carry A.C. voltages, transformer insulation, etc. A special item is the grid bias of a tube. The bias is equal to the ''peak'' signal voltage which may be applied to the tube.

FILTER SYSTEMS.

THE occasion frequently arises when it is necessary to employ a filter system to eliminate an undesired frequency, such as the scratch frequency in sound on disc systems or perhaps a peak in the loud speaker response curve. The application of such filters is simple and the calculation is likewise not difficult.

In view of the circuit structure and the need to eliminate just one frequency or to attenuate just one frequency, series resonance is employed; the resonant circuit being connected across the pick-up unit or across the loud speaker coil. Since the function of this circuit is to offer a path for the current at the resonant frequency, the action is to bypass some or all of the current, so that less or very little will flow through the regular element. Absolutely short circuit is impossible because of resistance present in the coil of the cliter, but very satisfactory current attenuation is available.

In the case of the speaker filter it is necessary to know the amount of attenuation desired, in other words, the cequired reduction of current flow through the speaker. Where the response enrye of the speaker is available and the amplitude of the peak is known, in T. U. or DB, the impedances are so arranged that the current divides between the speaker coil and the filter. Because of this impedance relation the filter structure is slightly altered. A resistance is connected in series with the filter. The value of this resistance is government by the filter impedance required for the work and the D. C. resistance of the coil.

Suppose that we are working with a speaker coil rated at 200 ohms at 600 cycles and that it is necessary to reduce the height of the response curve at this frequency. Suppose further that the current in the speaker coil must be reduced to one-half of its normal value. This means that the impedance of the filter at resonance (600 cycles) must be equal to the impedance of the speaker. If the coil is a 100 milhenry homeycomb type of unit, the capacity required for resonance at 600 cycles is approximately .725 mfd. However the resistance of this circuit would be very low, an dsince a 200 ohm impedance is required, the value of the series resistance would be 200 ohms less the D. C. resistance of the coil.

Equipment Sales Prove Theatre Men Have Been "Good Sports" in Backing Sound

Walter E. Green, Head Of National Theatre Supply, Says Showmen Have Gone All The Way In Revamping Theatres For Talkies

THEATRE men have given a mot convincing demonstration that they can be "good sports and stand ready to give tangible support to movements that promise improvements in screen art and entertainment." said Walter E. Green, President of National Theatre Supply Co., in an interview with a News representative in which he discussed the present status of the theatre equipment business.

Thus far, 1929 has registered as the peak year in both gross and net business done by National, he said. However, he added, the equipment necessities of new sound installations alone do not account for the large amount of new supplies the theatres have bought this year.

The showmen, he said, "have gone all the way in supporting sound. They have installed new machinery and bave not stopped there, but have put in new furnishings, new up-to-date seats, new drapes and stage rigging." The influence of this on theatre attendance, greatly increased at the more important houses where sound pictures are presented, should be taken into consideration of the box office value of sound as figured in terms of enhanced returns at the picture house, he said.

The head of the National company pointed out that sound, just like everything else, had to be sold to the public, and the theatre men evidently gave sound everything with which "to make good," This, he said, was reflected in the large volume of equipment business done in 1920 despite an appreciable temporary let-down in new theatre building in the middle part of the year. The mouth of August, when new theatre operations were at the lowest ebb for the year, proved to be the banner month of the banner year registered by the equipment distributors.

This phase of the sound develorment is one that has received very little attention in the trade discussions of various factors connected with the mushroom growth of talkie popularity. Many commentors have advanced numerous reasons for the solid popular establishment of sound within a comparatively short time, usually connecting the growth of this new form of entertainment with synchronized sound and vision; in the unique character of a star; the clever exploitation by producers and distributors. Those, naturally, are fundamental, but showmanship on the part of theatre owners and operators, particularly in their willingness to conform everything to the atmosphere of "newness" produced by the talkies, even at a large added expense to them, makes logical claim to rank as an important contribution to the development

Sound itself as a new attraction and a factor increasing the enjoyment of motion picture entertainment was given the spotlight in the theatre exploitation just as it has been in the trade. Under other conditions, the theatre frequently has found justification in public reaction to special campaigns of an institutional character when some new equipment was put into the theatre. But everything new that has gone into the playhouses-carpets, seats, new projection apparatusmuch of it not necessary to the installation of sound, but, according to Mr. Green, put in by the theatre owners in order to get the best possible results for amplified reproduction in their housesare items which considered alone have been widely publicized as "new and improved features of the theatre." year, all of these things have been put into theatres on a larger scale than ever before, and have been publicized less in theatre campaigns-which have given everything to "Sound" and "See and Hear" in their exploitation.

T remains for the record of equipment business done by the leading distributors to reveal the amount of money that the theatre men have put up to give the fullest support to the new pictures. Mr. Green said that in a large number of the theatres where sound systems were installed the projection machines then in use were adaptable to the apparatus 1equired for reproduction. Nevertheless the theatre men, instead of using this equipment which had done several years' service, decided to "go all the way" and installed brand new projectors along with their sound systems. Furthermore, the occasion was taken to brush up the houses by the replacement of other old equipment, and give the public every reason to react favorably to the "new era in picture entertainment and theatregoing.'

The replacement of projection equipment before it had reached the point of unserviceability is a rather new development. Up to the time when sound installations were being made on a large scale in existing theatres, there were about 2,500 projectors sold each year. The number of new theatres, many of them the de luxe type in which three machines were installed, accounted for the bulk of these new projectors. It was frequently pointed out by equipment men that projectors, though machine with that projectors, though machines with many working parts and therefore certain to wear out, there was little evidence that they ever did wear out, because there was never any considerable replacement of projectors in old theatres.

HOWEVER, the large amount of new projector equipment in theatres this year hardly can be attributed to necessary replacement due to entirely worn-out machines, because the majority of the theatres equipped with sound during the period were of the newer type, and the bulk of the new equipment purchases were made by houses that were newly wired.

Under the conditions revealed by the large amount of new equipment sold to theatres there is no escaping the fact that the relationship between house furnishings plus the mechanical efficiency of the "show shop" and box office returns asserts itself more emphatically with audible picture presentations than it did even in the days of the silent film. Good projection no longer is a luxury, nor is it something that will serve as an added attraction at the de luxe theatre-it is a necessity of motion picture theatre operation, now that sound has introduced the need for absolute precision machinery and operation in the projection room.

Recognition of that fact by leading showmen led to a thorough revamping of projection rooms when sound installations were ordered, with the result that equipment sales this year have gone far ahead of any period since 1925, despite the fact that in the middle part of this year new building projects have fallen below marks set up in similar periods of some of the intervening years.

While the public is paying more into the box offices of the bigger theatres showing talking pictures, the public is getting more for its money, and a very considerable contribution to the added quality of entertainments offered film patrons is the voluntary offering of theatre men who have "gone all the way to support sound"

GUARANTEED to make your theatre SOUND PERFECT

The way to make your theatre right for sound pictures without taking a chance on poor results is to apply Acoustex. Acoustex is installed with a guarantee of perfect hearing for every seat in the house.

Acoustex is applied to the ceilings and walls of your theatre. It is the sound absorbent that soaks up the sound when it hits the ceiling. No echoes—no reverberations. If your theatre is a box of echoes now, Acoustex will make it a "natural" for the talkies.

Acoustex is decorative. It comes in colored tiles-colors to your specifications. The designs that can be worked out are pleasing to the eye. Acoustex can be vacuum cleaned to remove dust and it can be redecorated by spray gun painting. With Acoustex your investment is permanently safe.

Now is the time to make your theatre acoustically correct. Acoustex engineers and erectors can do the job without elim-inating a single performance. Send us the convenient coupon below for complete information. Give the public what they want-good sound reception!

New Recognition for Roxy as Authority on Stage Design

His Name Appears Among Contributors to the New Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica

OWING to the wide popular interest in stage lighting as an art and craft, the publishers of the Encyclopedia Britannica accord to this subject a special article in the new edition of that work, and as author of the treatise there appears the name of S. L. Rothafel—Roxy, who thereby is accorded the distinction of rank as an international authority in matters pertaining to the stage.

Those who are familiar with Roxy's accomplishments in the field of stage lighting have been quick to agree with the publishers of the Britannica that the means of obtaining the most widely recognized name and one of the foremost authorities on the subject found its logical end in the invitation to Roxy to contribute the article on this new subject for scholarly treatment.

The very reason for inclusion of a special article on stage lighting—that widespread interest in the subject exists—no doubt is the outgrowth of the popularity of the movie theatres, where lighting has been employed on a scale never attempted in the legitimate playhouses, which for many years carried on with lighting plants and lighting methods that were strictly utilitarian.

The de luxe motion picture theatres, free of history and traditions, were not only entirely at liberty but were thoroughly eager to adopt everything new, and create the new for adoption later by others. Foremost among these imaginative showmen, whose demands for greater resources in the theatre challenged engineers and technicians to develop the machinery presently employed in the playhouse, was this same Roxy who contributes the first article to be devoted to the subject of Stage Lighting in the new edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

In his article Roxy deals with the psychology of color, its practical application to the theatre, and the technical equipment required to produce the various effects which give life to the stage scene, which interpret the musical composition, and which enable the showman to produce those audience reactions which make for the successful appeal of a stage number, an orchestral rendition, or a picture presentation.

The fundamentals of the language of color are set forth. Roxy tells the reader that

RED produces a premonition of danger; red with amber and white—illusion and speed; yellow with red and supplementary white—a definite atmosphere; blue, suspense; purple, atmosphere of majesty; etc.

The method of focussing attention on the orchestra for the overture is outlined. First, the attention of the audience is secured for the orchestra. The house lights are dimmed and a burst of light envelops the front part of the house, flooding the orchestra as it is brought up to stage level on the elevating platform, while lights in the dome flood the musicians with a colored light expressive of the mood of the composition they play. Behind the orchestra is the curtain which forms the ideal background for light interpretation of music. With the approach of the finale and the marshalling of all the musical forces the lights expand accordingly, the closing chords find both the music and the lights finishing in perfect co-ordination. All this, of course, plotted in advance and rehearsed to perfect the timing and the light interpretation of the music.

One of the most sensational demonstrations of stage lighting offered by Roxy to his patrons was presented at the big playhouse during the showing of "The Cock-Eyed World." As a presentation for this picture Roxy staged a production that ran only four minutes and yet was set to a pace that brought into its handling all of the great resources of the theatre in costuming and lighting. Both the rear projectors, with which the Roxy is equipped, and the booth machines were used, as well as spots, floods, foots, bridge lights, and all of the other devices for lighting that form the tools with which Roxy works in staging his "pictures." Everything offered in his theatre, he contends, is a motion picture—not all of them on celluloid, of course, but he thinks in terms of pictures and produces them with lights, dancers, musicians, choristers. He uses light on the proscenium as well as the stage during the projection of motion pictures-such lighting being totally indirect.

Of course, much of the article deals with the equipment used to produce lighting effects on the stage. The heart of the system is the switchboard of the modern type, its dimmers and facilities for scene pre-setting. At the Roxy there is one of the largest switchboards ever built for a

No Lobby Entrance Into Stores

No Lobby Entrance into Stores
Dear Mr. Rigaumont:
Our backers are extremely anxious to obtain some show windows in our theatre lobby. On one side they want to get the entrance door to a candy store.
There is lots of epace to do it and they believe it would be a good husiness move because there ere a lot of people that pass the stores up after they get out of the theatre.

E. H.

Answering E. H.:

You may get more people in the candy store and the other stores through the door and displays but the benefits you would accrue would be negligible compared to the possible damages you would suffer in case of a panic because of a fire originating in these stores. Furthermore, the law will not let you do that. The law distinctly specifies that the theatre portion must be segregated from the merchantile portion by a 13 inch brick wall or an 8-inch concrete wall. There is no alternative, or any possible way that you will be allowed to place any show windows or entrances from your theatre lobby into any merchantile section.

You are far better off the way you are, from the theatre standpoint of view. Furthermore, lubbics nowadays are the show windows for the theatre and not the location for show windows for stores. That is why we always design such claborate displays and frames and other attraction features because, after all, as I have said before, it is your show window and your product is on the inside—in your theatre.

Impractical To Build Small Theatre

Dear Mr. Rigaumont:
I am interested in presenting to the town of
.... a memorial theatre scating about 600 or 700 people and I plan to spend about $200,000.00. or 700 people and I plan to spend about $200,000.00. It is my intention to create free shows on certain days. The other days the theatre is intended to be rented out to an operator. The idea of renting the theatre to an operator is to get some income which will carry the interest of the building costs and the land charges. I would appreciate your suggestions regarding what type and size of theatre you deem suitable because I own several sites in the city which could be used very well for this purpose.

J. F. C. Answering J. F. C.:

Investigating the other theatres in your town, I find that you have a good bit of competition and, furthermore, that this competition has more seats than you want and that they are pretty well supplied with products. It is very thoughtful of you to build a memorial theatre and present free shows as far as the people are concerned, but to spend $200,000.00 for only 600 seats in a town of your population is just something that is not being done any more. These days we are trying to get theatres built as reasonably as possible, so that the showman ean bave some profit after he has bought his products-inasmuch as everything costs money nowadays. For $200,-000,00 you could get a gorgeons theatre with 600 seats. As far as renting it to somebody else and making money on it, it is difficult to make money on 600 seats with such building costs. Therefore, your idea of obtaining interest charges on your rental may or may not be practical.

If you have the ground, I suggest that you build a bigger theatre for the same amount of money and do not make it so gorgeons. First of all, interview the other showmen in town and ascertain whether or not they, who are in business and established, will consider running your theatre, with your option of free shows that do not interfere with the shows that they are carrying on. I shall be glad to hear further from you when you obtain concise results as to the marketability of your enterprise, which should be not only a memorial but a successful, paying theatre venture as well.

Determining Decoration Costs

Dear Mr. Rigaumont:

We intend to build a theatre about sixty fcct wide and would like to find out whether or not it is cheaper for us to build a one-floor house, thau it is to build a one-floor house with a balcony, it heling understood that we have a stage. We would like to have about 1200 seats. Could you tell us in the next issue of THE SHOWMAN how much a theatre of this size would cost to decorate?

A one-floor house, sixty feet wide, with about 1200 seats would make your auditorium too long, especially in these days of talking pictures. It is preferable for you to build a balcony in this house with a single span. When scating capacity is not considered, a one-floor house is cheaper to build than a house with a balcony. But in your case, any money that you would save, you would quickly lose later because the rear seats would be too far away from the stage. If you had a greater width, say 80 feet, then you could obtain a one-floor house niecly.

Decorating a theatre is a question of how much money a person happens to have. I suppose your question is how economically you can decorate the theatre. By "Economically" is meant the use of good paint. good material, and plenty of it and in artistic fashion. On these grounds, I would say that a 1200 seat house would cost about $3,800.00 to decorate. Of course, you can get it cheaper. I have seen theatres of that size estimated at $1500,00, but that does not mean anything.

Remedying Talking Picture Echo

Dear Mr. Rigaumont:

The Theatre consists of one main floor with no balcony. Since the installation of talking pictures, we have discovered that there are certain portions of the auditorium where it is difficult to hear. The noise occurring seems to be an echo located about the fifth row from the back, in the center, and is also located along the side wall seats about halfway down. This puts about fifty seats out of commission and we are anxious to have this condition remedied because it is liable to do us a lot of harm. Is there anything that you can suggest?

R. McG. The . Theatre consists of one main

Answering R. McG.:

If your ceiling is curved at the side walls and at the rear, a great deal of your trouble may come from there. Another source of trouble may be the back wall which, most likely, is a hard surface and throws back the sound like a rubber ball. The fact that you do not have a balcony does not help you. Balconies are very beneficial for acoustics, if they do not overhang too much, inasmuch as they pocket any echo that may bounce back toward the

My suggestion is that you obtain an aconstical expert from one of the companies whose name you can readily find among the advertisers in THE SHOWMAN section. They will make the recommendations, free of charge, after a scientific study of your particular conditions. Acoustical fibre or plaster placed on the rear wall and on the curved sections of your ceiling, if such exist, will be very beneficial, and the use of draperies on those surfaces will also help to conquer the defects.

Plot Needed For 1600 Seat House

Dear Mr. Rigaumont;

Dear Mr. Ligamiont:

It is our desire to construct a 1600 seat theatre as economically as is possible and yet secure as dignified a building as is possible with a moderate expenditure. We should want a stage and a balcony, and figure that the balcony should seat about 400. We also want to have a set of stores in the theatre building running back for a depth of about 60 feet, with offices above.

We have looked over considerable real estate

We have looked over considerable real estate and have several lots in view for our theatre. However, before purchasing any land we would like to know how large a lot would be necessary for the accommodation of a theatre such as we have specified, it being noderstood that the building width in fied, it being understood blook that the theatre and front shall not exceed the width of the theatre and P. C.

Answering P. C.:

Figuring an eight foot court on each side of your theatre, 60 feet of stores and a 25 foot deep stage, you will need a lot approximately 96 feet wide by about 175 feet deep. In your location, it would be most desirable to spend as little money as possible on the enterprise and yet keep the architecture and decoration of your auditorium simple and dignified. You can elaborate more than ordinarily on the equipment and furnishings, because equipment and furnishings can be changed and made to look different as the years go by.

Why Projection Experts Choose Cinephor Lenses

Realizing how utterly the profits of sustained attendance depend on perfect projection, more and more leading theatre owners are using Cinephor lenses exclusively.

Here's how one of the best-known men in the industry explains it: "After extensive tests with both American and foreign-made objective lenses, we have installed your Cinephor lenses, and have found them far superior to any others. They give us a clear field, depth of focus, and I have especially noticed that the color correction is practically perfect."

Cinephors have PROVED their superiority again and again in tests before experts in projection. They offer you a sound, practical way to build sustained attendance in your own house through better projection. For information, write Bausch & Lomb Optical Co., 653 St. Paul Street, Rochester, N. Y.

THE BULLETIN BOARD

Notes, Reports and Ideas That Keep You Posted on the Trend of the Trade from Month to Month

NEW peak for theatre attendance during summer months is the public's response to current policies and the present standard of the motion picture and allied entertainments offered at the de luxe first run theatres in key citics. Naturally, the general prosperity enjoyed by America's population is an important factor in bringing this condition about. However, the fact remains that the picture shows have succeeded in winning a new degree of interest and patronage.

There is no escaping the significance of this great display of box office strength as a reflection on policies which have materialized as a result of the era of corporate consolidations on which the motion picture industry entered only a comparatively short time ago. When mergers elbowed one another in the rush some time since, it was said in many quarters, mainly financial, that the Spring and Summer of 1929 would tell a great deal about the wisdom, and practical value of these consolidations. The national chain, expanding and acquiring great numbers of big houses put theatre operation on a scale of unprecedented proportions, and the movement was viewed skeptically by many in the industry itself.

The answer is found in the business done at the box offices of the leading key city theatres—the vast majority of which are associated directly or affiliated with the largest circuits. Under the conditions it seems clear that the new order of big business in the movies has been tested and proof has been obtained. Thus the way opens to to further developments along the same lines.

The theatre in the big chain offers to the public a quality of entertainment at an admission price so low in comparison that, had it been attempted only a comparatively few years ago, would have brought gasps from showmen themselves and very probably quick financial ruin to any so daring as to try the experiment.

Palatial theatres, luxuriously equipped to afford the greatest comfort and convenience; screen, stage and musical presentations of a quality that a few short years ago was accessible only to the few; now are to be had in the de luxe picture houses at admissions ranging from one dollar down to thirty tive cents. Therein lies the answer to the questione now rather conspicuous by an absence not at all characteristic of it only a year or two since. Thou far can the chains go?

Grouping Amusement Lines

BASED on reports current in connection with reported new mergers and expansions the ultimate set-up will find the biggest organizations embracing three lines of amusement enterprises into which the American public pours a total of $2,500,000 annually, and the bill is increasing. These are Motion pictures, for which the public spends $1,500,000,000; Radio, the bill for which amounts to $750,000,000, and for which the disposition it seems is to spend even more each year; and Phonographs, pianolas, etc., which accounts for the other $250,000,000. All three tie in under the present scheme of things-talent, advertising, popular songs and music, etc. The effect of expansion along these lines, on the motion picture theatre, will be to bring it into even greater prominence and importance, and strengthen the position of the chain-operated theatre.

The Small Unit

THE evolution necessarily does not mean the elimination of the independently operated theatre, any more, it would seem, than the chain store would end independent operation of small retail units, and Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, insists that mortality in that field is due more to incompetence than to supercompetition from the chains. Dr. Klein in an address last August before the Chicago Association of Commerce stated that a recent survey showed that competition ac-counted for only 3.6 per cent of business failures in 1928, and that 31.4 per cent are charged up under the heading of "incompetence." Lack of capital he said is responsible for 35 per cent of American business failures, constituting the largest single factor among them. The cure for the major mulady of incompetence he prescribed for the American retailer was: "more rigid dosages of facts, and in particular of that carefully compounded, wonder-working pair of concoctions market surveys and cost analysis. " He advised retail store owners to make their shops attractive to women because '' with 85 per cent of the buying in retail stores today being done by women the far-sighted retailer is commercially at least, graciously considerate of milady's whims and foibles." The embarrassment of capital shortage, which is the cause of 35 per cent of the business failures, he said "arises very often from short-sightedness, 'starting on a shoestring, 'trusting to luck that the hreak may come.' They often do, but not always from the right direction.''

Grandeur Stirs New York

THE most important trade event of the month, no doubt, was the public presentation of the Fox Grandeur wide film at the Gaiety Theatre in New York, Though demonstrated under conditions that hardly can be called ideal (the main offering was the Fox "Follies" picture which was shot by Grandeur cameras merely as a side issue of a production staged with lighting and composition designed for the 35 mm cameras) the comment by reviewers, critics and the public was sufficient to show that the film wider than 35 mm stands in the wings, as it were, ready to march upon the stage and bow to the picturegoers of all cities and all lands. There seems little question in the minds of picture men that the 35 mm film is to be superceded—east into the discard as has been the silent filmand that the time is not far distant. What this change in the existing standard will mean to the industry is something that now appears in huge and almost grotesque proportions. New studio equipment, new projection equipment, a radical change in auditorium design, with the need for changed proportions in proseenium arches an immediate necessity for successful presentation—these are things that will have to be solved by the studios and the theatres.

Wide—But How Wide?

THERE has been much discussion of the necessity of "standardization" of wide film, serious proposals to that end being urged upon the producers and the experimental engineers now working on methods to produce wide film pictures. However, desirable that might be, however, much it can be arged that the industry will save millions of dollars by standardizing, the suggestion is highly impractical. As a matter of fact, there is as yet nothing on which to standardize. The picture producers know it is necessary now to enlarge the space in which pictures are composed. The sound engineers know they are cramped and the potentialities of sound are handicapped by the present size sound track. The laboratory men work under very trying conditions due to the proximity of sound tracks and scenes. But there lies ahead definite establishment of exactly how much more space is required for these particular

World Tour of Trackless Train Ends After Four Years of Travel

Interest of All Peoples Evidence of U. S. Leadership in Films and Equipment

OVIE fans and theatre owners of the whole world pay flattering tribute to American film producers and equipment manufacturers by the recognition, found in all lands and quarters of the globe, that so far as movies go "if it's American it's the best," according to the man who piloted the mobile ballyhoo that has set a new record for theatrical exploitation — the M-G-M Trackless Train that was brought back to New York last month by Edward Carrier after three and a half years of travel that took him around the world.

Carrier and his Trackless Train, accompanied by his wife, his son and mechanic William Parsons, "made tracks" over 15,000 miles of the earth's surface and shipped over 32,000 miles of water to visit Great Britain. Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark, France, Germany, Switzerland, Spain, Italy, South America, the Argentine, Uruguay, Brazil, Chile, China, India and Northern Africa, In every city and hamlet through which he passed with his mobile exploitation conveyance ballyhooing Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures, Carrier and his train were greated by crowds as large as the population of the places could make them. Everybody, it seemed was interested in this personal representative of American movies. "Theatre men throughout the world," Carrier said, "are equally enthusiastic about American-made theatre equipment and the American methods of operation."

This remarkable feat of exploitation was started in March, 1925. Launching out from Indianapolis, where the Trackless Train was built, Carrier and his mechanic began a tour of cities from there to New York. Then he set out for the West Coast, which according to the original plan was to be the final objective of the tour.

However, after a zig-zag tour across the States, the evidences of public interest in the Trackless Train decided William Ferguson, exploitation chief of the company, to interest officials of the organization in continuing the tour about the States and then shipping to Great Britain and from there continuing around the globe.

Accordingly in May 1926 the Train was put aboard the S. S. Minnewaska and with Carrier in charge started around the world. The crowds that gathered to view the unique conveyance at cities in the United States and Canada, were duplicated when the Train appeared on the streets of European cities, and later on the other continents it visited.

Under its own power it traveled 15,000 miles, carrying on over the sands of the Sahara and the mountains of South America as faithfully as it did on the improved motor roads of America and Europe. The result was that of all the appointments which Carrier made to appear in different cities and towns on an appointed hour to participate in a civic demonstration in honor of the Train's visit, only one such appointment was not kept on time. Carrier and his train arrived an hour or so behind schedule in one of the German cities, after a mishap caused by a bad spot in the road going over a mountain.

In addition to receiving the honors of official visits from the royalty of many lands and the government chiefs of all, the Trackless Train went to work for the motion picture theatres in every locality it visited. Theatre men welcomed the opportunity to impress the Train and the veteran and skilled exploiteer who was in charge of it, to publicize their playhouses, and in many instances to act as ambassador to officials or groups not altogether in sympathy with pictures and therefore the source of many difficulties encountered by exhibitors.

In each country he visited, Carrier said, there was the most conclusive evidence from public and the theatre operators that the product of Hollywood represents the cream of the motion picture entertainment available in the world. Equally firm was the conviction that the best in theatre equipment and the machinery of presentation was designed and built by American manufacturers, and every effort to obtain it is made by theatre operators with sufficient resources and sufficient cause, based on the potential box office possibilities, to operate quality houses.

Carrier recites many exciting experiences, and there were many hardships as well as many occasions which called for a high degree of skill in diplomacy. He brought back with him an autograph book which contains the signatures of all of the world's leading figures as well as the important government officials of all countries.

Though it has traveled 15,000 miles, consuming 15,000 gallons of gasoline the

Improved Design of Display Banners for Theatres

M OSAIC mirrored lettering mounted on velour, or basket weave materials is gaining in popularity for use in connection with marquee valances and banners featuring special attractions in frontal displays at motion picture theatres.

A recent display at the Capitol Theatre in New York, featuring Yasha Bunchuk, director of the orchestra, and Walt Roesner, master of ceremonies and leader of the stage band, furnished an especially good example of the improvements that have been made along this line and the striking effects that are produced by mosaic mirrored letters. This was a valance, designed and executed by Henry Jackson, manufacturer of flags and banners, and was made in a width of three and a half feet, with velour front and a basket weave material for the back. The valance is illustrated on this page. The Yasha Bunchuk letters were 18 inches wide and 15 inches high, while the lettering below the name were 6 inches in height. On the sides the valance carried the name Walt Roesner in mosaic mirrored letters 16 inches in height.

(Continued from page 1210) York Evening Post, who in comparing the new wide film with the 35 mm film says: "In the past the motion picture has been a small, intense window through which you saw clearly but two or three things at a time. Mob scenes were jammed together and the figures were often infinitesimal."

The reviewer for the New York Evening Telegram said: "Last night marked the arrival of a fresh deck and a new deal in the movies. . . . Last night's dirty work at the Crossroads of the World kicked untold millions of dollars worth of already archaic equipment right square out in the alley with the old gin bottle."

John S. Cohen, Jr., in the New York Sun, said: "Naturally, when stunningly composed shots are shown on a wider film the illusion is greater and—here, at any rate, it is more impressive."

Thus, the enthusiasm of the newspaper reviewers, for this new development in picture production and presentation, equaled that which was eccorded the first

Says Radio Has Educated Public to Full Appreciation of "Sound" Quality

UE to the extensive use of radio receivers in homes throughout the country the American public is thoroughly "sound wise, and patrons of the theatre know more about the quality of amplified sound than they ever did about dramatic quality, and therefore will not tolerate in-ferior reproduction," P. A. Powers points out in a statement issued in connection with the announcement of the new "De-Luxe 1930 Model" Powers Cinephone.

The showman's problem, the head of the Powers company continued, is to give the very best of reproduction, for "programs may he changed and several good pictures offset the bad effect of a poor picture, but if the sound reproduction is of poor quality every program will be marred and its bad effects will be permanently reflected in poor box office receipts."

The new model brought out by Powers is offered in three separate forms: Disc, Sound-on-Film, or a combination of both systems. The units have been standardized to permit theatres installing only one to add the other attachment necessary to have a dual system at any time without discarding any part of the equipment already installed. New features of design include a motor drive that is a separate unit, to reduce vibration and eliminate breakage in photo-electric cells and exciter lamps. Large sprockets to give greater smoothness of tone and simplify operation, and gearings silenced by enclosure in grease-filled housing are other improvements made.

The turntable for the disc attachment is so designed that the discs fit down into a recess and are so protected without the use of a cumbersome guard rail. Amplifiers are especially designed instruments with circuit protectors guarding all main arteries from feed-backs and voltage fluctuations, and balanced to deliver accurate reproduction of all notes.

Free Coffee Popular Feature in Grand Lounge of Roxy

Motion picture patrons like their coffee, just as the English theatre-goer enjoys his tea between performances. At least that is the experience of the Roxy Theatre in New York which began serving free coffee in the grand lounge room more than a year and a half ago.

Serving coffee with the movies was pretty much of a novelty when Roxy started it. Some of the little theatres had done it to contribute to the club-like atmosphere. But Roxy was the first to establish the service in a big-time house.

The coffee, cream, sugar and service are furnished by a coffee roaster who considers his efforts repaid by the advertising given his brand. "We average between 1,800 and 2,000 cups a day," said Miss C. Lage, the coffee hostess. "One day we served more than 2,400 cups. We generally have a steady patronage from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock at night.

A SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA IN YOUR THEATRE THE YEAR ROUND

Picture Palace Designed By Rapp & Rapp Opened By Loew In Jersey City

JOURNAL SQUARE in Jersey City has another de luxe theatre that measures up to standards of luxury and capacity which characterize the most important picture playhouses in the theatrical district of the leading metropolises of the country. This is the new Loew's Jersey City Theatre, which is located in close proximity to the huge Stanley Theatre opened last year by the Stanley-Fabian interests.

The new theatre was designed by C. W. and Geo. L. Rapp, Architects of New York and Chicago. It was built at a cost estimated at $2,000,000 and has an auditorium that seats 3,300 persons. The theatre was opened to the public last Saturday morning.

The interior is designed in the lavish Italian baroque style. A large entrance opens on an oval-shaped lobby. This rotunda is three stories in height, with an observation gallery on the mezzanine floor completely girdling its circumferences, around which rise jade-green colonnades with Roman bronze royal red silk plush. This style and color is repeated in the drapings throughout the corridors and theatre auditorium.

Off the rotunda lobby is a foyer, richly furnished with carved and gold framed mirrors and consoles, bronzes, lounges and art objects. A stairway from the foyer leads to the mezzanine and promenade foyer, an informal lounge room. Off this promenade and extending back around the entire oval of the lobby is the observation gallery, from which the rotunda may be viewed. At the end of the gallery there is a music room, furnished with a reproducing piano and several striking art objects.

Luxurious Service Rooms

Off the mezzanine promenade, also, are the suites of rest rooms, telephone and check rooms and manager's office. The longe room of the women's suite is executed in the French period style, with apple green walls ornamented by gold mouldings and mulberry and gold brocade panels. The cosmetic room is Pompeian, with black marble wainscoting and pilasters. Its walls are Pompeian red, with ceiling richly covered with green bronze ornamentation.

The auditorium is executed in the intricate Italian baroque style. Overhead is a gorgeous and opulently decorated dome, colored in gold leaf and surrounded by an ornamental cornice and hands of ivory, gold and soft grey and rose. The vaulted ceiling has an all-over coffered surface in gold, ivory and blue, and is penetrated at the sides by six large arches in which elaborately carved walnut and gold canopies, draped with festoons of red velvet, trimmed with gold applique tassels and fringe. Back of these arch drapes are hangings of gold silk gauze and silver cloth. This whole treatment is delicately illuminated with concealed, multicolored lights.

The proseenium arch forms a beautifully carved framework over the stage, and is set off by scrolled and moulded cartouches and veined marble panels. The proseenium drape is a festooned redvelvet, with embroidered bands and magnificent appliqued gold shield. The lighting fixtures are crystal and bronze with illumination mainly indirect.

Urge All Theatres Use Same Size Sound Film Aperture

Recommendations for a correlation of practice on projector apertures at theatres where special apertures are used to restore the full screen proportion from sound-on-film pictures were made in the form of a resolution adopted at a joint meeting of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences Technicians' Branch, the American Society of Cinematographers, and the Los Angeles Chapters of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers and the American Projection Society, held at the Roosevelt Hotel, Hollywood, on September 19.

The resolution, based on the report of a joint committee which conducted a national survey of theatre chains, recommends that theatres making a practice of restoring sound film to full screen proportions, by means of special devices that mat off the top and bottom of the picture, do so by the use of an aperture whose size would be 0.600 by 0.800 inches on the basis of projection on the level, the horizontal center of the aperture coinciding that of the S.M.P.E. standard aperture.

The technical societies jointly recommend that studios compose scenes with an area of 0.620 by 0.835 inches in producing sound-on-film pictures so that in theatres which use a smaller aperture the heads and feet of characters will not be matted off.

Joint committees were authorized to investigate and make recommendations on release print standardization screen illumination. The present variation in the length and marking of the leaders on mints from different studios and laboratories and the difficulty encountered by projectionists when no silent frames are allowed at the beginning and ends of reels for changeover will be included in the investigation by the committee.

Represents Synchrodisk in New England Territory

The Weber Machine Corporation, Rechester, manufacturer of the Synchrodise turntable for synchronized disc reproduction, last week announced the appointment of a new district representative in the New England territory, where the Talking Picture Equipment Co., 44 Church St., Boston, will handle Syncrodisk installations.

The Synchrodisc equipment consists of two turn tables, two pick-ups and one change-over fader. The turntable may be attached to any make of projector for ynchronized reproduction of disc recordings. Features of the device are: gears submerged in oil to give quiet operation and long life; very heavy construction, the turntable weighs about 150 lbs., with spring suspension to absorb vibration; fly wheel on drive shaft; guard that has two pockets for needles, an advantage in booths where space is limited.

Problems of "Sound Merchant" Discussed by Specialist in Acoustics

T HAT there is a method of weighing and measuring every commodity offered for sale and that this "applies to sound as well as light, heat, flavor, etc.," is the contention of J. Harold MacDowell, specialist in acoustics, who has practiced the principle of sound control and direction in buildings of all descriptions. Mr. MacDowell is the author of a booklet entitled "Sound," which has been prepared by his organization, the Mac Dowell Associates, Inc., of New York, for distribution to theatre owners.

On the subject of "merchandising sound," the author says, "sound for sales purposes must be pleasing to the public. It costs money to produce. It must be sold at a profit. If the sound merchant does not know how to measure and weigh it, he is out of luck and his profit and loss figures will show up red.

Talking of the things that happen to sound in "the average moving picture house" the author "in the vernacular," lists the following:

"Bumpy melody. This is where the sound coming from the stage is bounced off walls, ceilings and other objects around the auditorium, including the bald heads in the audience, and when it reaches the ears of the auditors it arrives in sections, having lost its co-ordination en route.

"Acid Acoustics. Otherwise known as 'Sour Reception' is something an intelligent audience detects at ance. And any member of any audience who pays the box office real money may be classed as intelligent. It is not generally suspected that the theatre auditoriums may be responsible. In this case it is less the material from which the walls are fashioned than it is the shape of the room. You can't make a singer if the contour of the 'vox humana' is spoiled with adenoids.

"Dead spots. These cause arguments among the patrons of theatres and moving picture houses. One auditor says she hears and another auditor says she does not hear. Each of these auditors is in the same house in the same evening, but sitting at a different point. If a theatre is any good, the sound waves will reach each spot equally, not necessarily directly from the stage, but surely by reflection."

Basement Parking Space at Convention Hall

ists seeking parking facilities. The heavy attendance at the Roxy was reflected in the greatly increased demand for space at the auto park nearby. There is no way of gauging the added business that the Roxy was able to attract due to the convenience of the park to the theatre, but theatre men set a high estimate on the amount of business brought in which otherwise might be lost because people who habitually use their own cars will hesitate to start out for a theatre with knowledge beforehand that they will have difficulties in finding space to park near their destination.

Real estate values, of course, make it impossible to arrange for either open air parks or garages within easy walking distance of theatres in city locations. The self-contained garage, located below the main auditorium may offer a solution that will find application in some of the huge motion picture palaces that are to be built in the downtown sections of the large cities of the country.

Trackless Train Completes Tour Around World

Trackless Train may see further service, in another sensational idea of showmanship for motion pictures, however, no decisions have been arrived at yet. Its return to New York last month from Egypt was the signal for another demonstration in Manhattan. It was received at the City Hall and then paradeo up Broadway.

THE LARGEST HUB SWITCHBOARD OPERATES IN THE WORLD'S BEST PAYING THEATRE

THE world famous Roxy Theatre in New York City has grossed an average of more than $100,000.00 a week since its opening on March 11, 1927. It is, doubtless, the best paying theatre in the world—and its outstanding success is due to its excellent all-round programs—including its marvellous stage presentations.

And the gigantic Hub Switchboard—the largest we have ever installed has played an important part in the success of this theatre.

PROGRAMS

Why take a chance on a machine breaking down in the midst of a pleasant and profitable program? What is more aggravating to the audience and sponsors of a public program than delays and poor performance due to faulty equipment?

To insure a successful affair, it is important that every detail of equipment is properly taken care of. An amplifier which fails to function properly always mars the evening regardless of how perfect other equipment may be. Are you risking a good reputation to save money on old, worn out or inferior equipment?

The Webster Company and its competent and experienced engineers have spent time, money and effort to improve Webster equipment to the highest possible degree; and in the new types of amplifiers and faders. RP-250 and model "B" Fader Unit, their efforts have been realized. Webster power amplifiers are manufaetured in a variety of models to suit almost any require-needs. Over, and far beyond that, is the court of last resort-the theatregoing publie. The screen itself is the laboratory in which wide film will pass its final test. Very likely it will be a repetition of sound -the first company in the field setting the standards that others will accept, because the public has accepted them. Such outcome, naturally, would mean that the wide film eventually to issue as standard will be either Grandeur, or the Spoor Natural Vision, the former 70 mm wide and 35 mm high, and the latter 63 mm wide and 35 mm high. These two are regarded the first in the field, so far as production and public demonstration, at least, are concerned.

New Interest In Color

A NOTHER comparatively recent popular development for which the sound pictures are responsible is the use of natural color in photoplays. Work on new color processes goes on furiously in laboratories throughout the world. Report has it that Technicolor has solved the problem of adding the third color to films for natural color reproduction. The Technicolor process which came to the fore with a rush as a result of sound pictures, will be used extensively in productions to be made this year. According to an announcement from the Technicolor Corporation, there will be more than 100 talking pictures made during the current season with Technicolor used throughout, or at least for important sequences. These will include pictures made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Warner Bros., RKO, First National and Paramount, among showing of Vitaphone. If this portends a development for wide film as sudden and as rapid as that which followed the introduction of the present type of synchronized sound, then it will be only a short time before the machinery for exhibition -projection equipment and theatre design-will undergo a great and decided change from present standards.

The larger theatre organizations already are preparing for the arrival of screens of new and enlarged dimensions. Proscenium openings that are built to accommodate a screen twice as wide as it is high have been specified in commissions to some theatre architects for plans to be drawn for proposed new theatres by one of the big companies. That would indicate that the prospective builders are "playing safe." The Grandeur film is the largest that has been proposed—it is twice as wide as it is high-and thus if the final result is a film of those dimensions, these new houses will be ready with full provision for it as well as for other wide films of different proportions.

Roxy Manager Charts Characteristics of Motion Picture Theatre Patrons

BSERVATION of the 700,000 or so motion picture patrons who have visited the Roxy Theatre in its two and a half years' existance, and experiences at other theatres in which he held a similar capacity to his present post as house manager of the Roxy, have enabled Charles W. Griswold to formulate reasons for the fluctuation in motion picture attendance at various hours of the day and on various days of the week, says an article published in the motion picture department of the New York Times of Sunday, September 29.

"Saturday afternoon, for example, is almost universally devoted to one of two activities—the weekly tour of department stores or a visit to the theatre. Office workers have generally a half-holiday, and it is safe to assume that most of them alternate the prerogatives. The necessity of shopping is hurried to take an hour or so of entertainment. At the Roxy Theatre, the half-holiday coincides with the opening of a new production, and box offices are invariably highly active.

"Saturday evening, on the other hand, brings the motion picture theatre patronage to a peak. The audience is composed largely of people from the further reaches of the city, who take advantage of the fact that the next morning allows for the late rising of the Sabbath.

"Sunday brings patronage of a different type. From 11 o'clock in the morning to 3 o'clock in the afternoon, it is definitely from out of town. The overnight bag, the edge of a time-table showing out of a coat pocket, souvenir postcards and other accessories reveal the suburbanite. These early Sunday visitors almost invariably inquire as to the length of the performance so that trains may be made for their return to upper New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.
"Sunday afternoon and evening are busy periods for the uniformed staff. New Yorkers are returning from near-by beaches and week-end resorts, or they have just completed a day in the open within the limits of the city itself. Thousands come to the theatre to spend the remaining hours of the week-end.

Contrary to accepted notions of blue Monday, the matinee of that day produces the largest afternoon patronage of the week. Monday is the day for special sales in department stores and shoppers seek repose after spending several hours with the business of buying. Three in every five that come into the theatre, carry a variety of packages. The first working day of the week, however, finds many who journey into the shadow realms of romance to escape the more prosaic activities of business. Monday brings hundreds of salesmen to the Roxy. They are known by the brief-cases.

"Tuesday and Thursday, lodged as they are between what have become the more significant days of the week, are characterized by the even tenor of amusement business. Patronage is distributed without definite ebbs or flows throughout the afternoons and evenings. The only noticeable change in patronage on those days is one of age. School children predominate at the matinees; their elders go to the movies in the evening.

"The matinee on Wednesday, because of performances in the legitimate theatres, finds the motion picture theatre less patronized. But on Wednesday evening the box offices operate at full capacity.

It resembles Saturday by reason of the fact that most of the people come in pairs. The ushers find it the only time of the week that seats in the remote side sections of the theatre are in great demand, while those in the centre are patronized only when there are no others left.'

Lighting Art as Applied to Theatres Discussed by Publix Specialists

N a paper "Theatre Lighting—Its Tragedies. Its Virtues," presented before the recent Annual Convention of the Illuminating Engineering Society at Philadelphia, Frank Cambria, Director of Art and Stagecraft, and Francis M. Falge, Lighting specialist, of Publix Theatres Corporation, set forth the following as the most important considerations in the lighting of theatre interiors:

I. There should be a well-planned, single-circuit system of illumination for lobies, foyers, rest rooms, etc., which should be graduated in intensity from street to auditorium.

a. Lobies should be bright and cheer-

b. Many small bright sources of light are pleasing for lobbies.

c. Foyers should be of lower intensity with soft colored lights.

d. Rest rooms should be colorfully and comfortably lighted.

2. There should be a specially planned and controlled system of auditorium lighting so that the advantages of mobile color and variety of effects may be available together with a comfortable, glareless system for the showing of pictures.

a. There should be no bright light sources near the line of the vision of the

b. Stray light should be eliminated from the picture sheet as much as possible.

c. Sufficient light should be provided so people may easily locate seats, and to eliminate accidents.

d. Sufficient light should be provided so as to discourage undue familiarity but at the same time not so much that patrons are distracted by the movements of others.

 e. Aisle light and side-wall brackets should be on separate circuits controlled from the stage switchboard.

i. Cove circuits should be carefully planned so that many variations of quantity and quality of light may be possible. They should be on dimmers.

3. There should be a carefully devised emergency lighting system, separate and distinct from the other lighting arrangements.

a. Local, state, and federal codes must be strictly adhered to.

4. There should be a separate lighting system for cleaning, preferably a permanent one, but at least portable lights and conveniently located outlets.

a. It is preferable to have concealed units of high intensity which are operated by a switch.

b. This should include supplementary lighting for passageways and other places which might be included with other circuits not needed for cleaning.

Reduces His Sound Policy

Tracy Willard of the Temple Theatre, Willard, Ohio, has reduced his sound policy from seven days a week to three days a week, namely Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only.

The Proper Control of Light On Your Screen

Picture films very as well as current conditions. Your projectionist can adjust his arc current to always give you a clear, bright picture if you equip with PERFECTION. Current saving also is a result of PERFEC-TION equipment, for he need not use full current till the actual projection is started.

Synchronous Motor Drive (110 or 220 volts, 50 or 60 cycles). Prevents variation in speed from variation in line voltage, or projection load.

THE SUPER CFLLS used require only two stages in head amplifier, hence less distortion. Ease of Threading. When running disk or silent, the Sound-on-Film unit is not threaded. Sound-on-Film threads as easily as through a Powers gate.

TURN TABLE IS ACCESSIBLE, being up high at the side of the machine.

EASY TO INSTALL. Installation can be made by the ordinary operator, and wire man. PROJECTOR HEAD is driven by its main drive gear and is not required to drive any part of the sound equipment.

ONLY THREE SHAFTS: (1) Motor Drive Shaft, (2) Sound Film Shaft, (3) Disk Table Shaft.

Variable Speed can be used for making schedule by driving the head off the Powers Motor, when running silent. Change from synchronous drive to variable speed drive requires about ten seconds.

No Universals—No flexible couplings, flexible shafts, or long unsupported shafts are used, as these produce tremolo.

FIRE ILAZARD IS DECREASED by use of this equipment. Failure of take-up does not cause film to pile up in light.

Roxy Author Of Article On Stage Design And Lighting

Leonard dimmers of the newest design controls a lighting plant that is more extensive and more elaborate than that of any other theatre. It is set at the left side of the stage. There are 1,000 switching levers.

The light effects easily and smoothly controlled by this switchboard constitute one of the marvels of the present day art of entertainment. Every tone of light within the scope of nature or conceived by the imagination of man regales the audience of this modern house of entertainment.

Each scene is set up in advance, while one scene is in progress. The operator of the switchboard prepares for the next change and then by the manipulation of one switch takes the present scene out and brings the other scene in that has already been set up.

Due to the fact of its twin coil contactors, the board can be set in advance for different scene changes and lighting effects and the scene ended can be immediately brought back for encores. Each individual set up is clearly defined and in sight of the operators.

The board is capable of one-man control inasmuch as all master handles and control equipment for the various units is seggregated in the center section with full control from this point.

Survey Reveals Effect Of Movies On Local Stores

been the case in many of the towns where indifference to the welfare of the local theatre has resulted in mutual loss to the theatre and the merchants of the town.

The same conditions apply to the better type theatre in the small towns as obtain with the major type playhouse of the largest town of a trading area. There is in reality much "raiding" of the potential patronage of the small town theatre by the de luxe houses in adjacent cities. But the same attraction that enables the de luxe theatre to reach out to the smaller towns and farms for patronage will be available to the small town house. and with sound equipment, and the magic box-office magnet of "Talkies," the smaller town theatre in the same way well may be expected to reach out for new patrons from more distant points. The average distance traveled by patrons at the Avon, according to the Watertown Survey, was seventeen miles. This was for a special picture. But while business at the Avon was above the average, and far above that for the same week of the preceding year, according to the Survey, the small theatres in smaller towns of the trading area with ordinary bookings succeeded in holding to their figures for the same week of 1927, and a few hettered those figures.

We are not always the lowest bidder on a stage switchboard job—frequently we are the highest. Yet a majority of the switchboard jobs for theatres, schools and auditoriums we bid on are awarded to us—not because of price, obviously, but on account of the well-earned reputation for quality, stamina, generous capacity, scientific design, convenient arrangement and rugged construction of the Wurdack Stage switchboard.

If price alone was the consideration in buying an automobile there would be but one make of car on the streets—the cheapest. Except in rare instances, due to peculiar circumstances, a thousand dollar automobile cannot be bought for $500. You always get what you pay for—no more.

The same thing is true in stage switchboards. We strive to make the Wurdack Stage Switchboard the best one built. Naturally we cannot price it as low as a cheaper one. Nor do we have to compete with "price" equipment. We sell our switchboards on their merit and quality, and if this is what you are seeking, together with long, satisfactory service, specify just one make, the Wurdack Stage Switchboard.

The Trespasser

A Knockout, A Knockout, A Knockout (Reviewed by Freddie Schader)

A GLORIA more glorious than ever before in her long screen career—a Gloria who will be a revelation to her hundreds of film followers—a Gloria who is proving herself to be the greatest actress of the screen of all time—a Gloria who can at this minute step into a play on the legitimate stage and overnight become the sensation of the theatrical world, a sensation such as Leslic Carter was when she came to the fore under the banner of David Belasco in "Zaza." That is the Gloria Swanson of "The Trespasser."

This is a picture—a talking picture to be sure—but a picture in the fullest sense of the word. It moves with astonishing speed, covering a terrific lot of ground but at no time does it leap great gaps except in a most logical manner.

From the box office angle "The Trespasser" is going to be a knockout of a record breaker. In the days of the silent pictures Gloria, Swanson held the house record of the Rivoli. Today with "The Trespasser," if it goes into the Rivoli, which it may, she will undoubtedly again take the record of that theatre. A prediction is made herewith and that is that Gloria Swanson in "The Trespasser" will gross at least a quarter of a million dollars in a six-week rnn at that theatre. That's how strong "The Trespasser" is.

The story has a tremendous wallop. It is going to make the picture a whale of a hit with the women. After the star has received a full measure of credit for the tremendous work that she does in the pictnre, Eddie Goulding is next in line when it comes to bestowing laurels for work done. He wrote the story, composed the theme song and directed the picture. And what a job he has done! It is a job that marks him with the foremost of writer-directors of the industry. It is direct as to story writing and direct as to its talking via the andible screen. Punch after punch comes as the story unfolds and when one believes that he is going to go in one direction there is always a twist from the commonplace, and these twists are what continue suspense which has the audience on the edge of its seats at all times.

"The Trespasser" is an American "Madame Butterfly." We never knew "Madame Butterfly" might be as good with a happy ending, but "The Trespasser" proves it.

The opening scene shows Gloria Swanson as the secretary of a noted Chicago attorney. She has just wed the son of a famous mid-West millionaire. The two are leaving on their honeymoon which is spent at a lake resort. The father of the hoy breaks in on their hliss and rakes the boy over the coals for his runaway marriage, and likens the bride to a woman of the streets, an adventuress who is after his money. This failing to have its effect the father switches his tactics, and suggests that the marriage be annulled, a regular courtship to follow with a formal announcement of an engagement and then a remarriage so that the girl will be able to take her rightful place in society, guaranteed by the father's millions. But the girl will have none of this. She takes her stand and orders that her husband send his father away and that they start out in the world to make their own way. But the boy proves spineless, and the spirit of the girl is such that she walks out of his life after giving the father her opinion of him.

After a period of eighteen months, she is shown in a small apartment with a nurse and her baby. She has resumed her position in the law office, but her salary is insufficient to maintain her home for herself, the haby and nurse with the result that she is running helplessly behind in her bills. Finally, she has a breakdown and at that point her employer steps in and takes a hand. He establishes her in a lake front apartment and gives her every luxury. This is a rather delicate phase of the story and is most carefully handled, but when he is stricken and sends for her just prior to his death it is quite evident that the mother sacrificed herself in order that her child might have every advantage. But with her employer's death his will discloses that he has bequeathed her $500,000 and then a nasty scandal breaks, and in order to protect the name of her child she sends for the real father. Their marriage was annulled, the boy married according to his father's wishes, the bridal couple were in an automobile smash up which has resulted in making an invalid of the wife for life. When the boy's father discovers that there is a male heir to the fortune of the house by the first wife he calls on her and demands the child, threatening to take it from her through the courts unless she gives it up willingly. She prepares to fight, but when the invalid wife comes to her and offers to give up her husband to the first wife, because of her great love for him, the mother sees that she must again make a sacrifice because of her love for her offspring and she turns the youngster over to his father. The scene where she comes to this decision and that which follows when she sends the little lad away are the two most powerful in the picture and Miss Swanson rises to superb heights in their enactment. This is the "Madame Butterfly" punch carried to a great height. Then she disappears only to be brought into the picture again in a New York hotel, where she is a public stenographer. The final scene at which a reconciliation is brought about takes place here and ends the picture most logically.

(100% Talking)

H URRICANE, a thrilling story of the sea featuring Hobart Bosworth, is an average program picture. It provides plenty of storny excitement during a one-hour run. John Mack Brown and Leila Hyams furnish the love element.

Bosworth is east as a veteran sailing ship skipper of the South Seas. His principal objective in life is to find the sea captain who stole his bride and baby daughter twenty years before. Always he has just missed the others.

Some excellent storm shots with mountainous waves crashing over the ship serve to enliven an otherwise dull beginning.

The crew from another ship is taken aboard by Bosworth following the storm. Brown is in this gang as an unwilling shanghaied sailor—a nice hoy from the states who didn't want to be on the sea.

A double struggle element is injected into the picture when the rescued sailors, at the bidding of their captain attempt to take charge of the ship. The fight is rather well done with plenty of action, many killings, and several cracked skulls.

The other struggle element happens simultaneously when Bosworth recognizes the woman and girl he has rescued from a drifting lifeboat as his long lost wife and the girl as his own daughter.

Scenes ensure between the two with everything finally explained to Bosworth's satisfaction.

Brown has the role of hero, informing Bosworth of the proposed mutiny and fighting side by side with him in repulsing the villains. The scenes of strife lend the picture a plenty of spirit, giving the average fan all the action he could ask for.

Of course, he gets the girl, who also mixes into the battle and fights off the captain of the mutineers who makes advances toward ber

The picture will pass as an ordinary program feature. It is ideal for children who love sea thrillers of this type. Bosworth, Brown and Hyams do their parts well enough and may be of value in building up the "draw."

Illusion

Stage And Society Comedy Drama (Reviewed by Freddie Schader) (All Dialogue)

THIS might have been a much better picture than it is. However, does prove entertaining and it seems to have a really popular song hit in "When The Real Thing Comes Your Way," which is the theme song of the picture. The combination of Buddy Rogers and Nancy Carroll, after the hit that the pair achieved in "Close Harmony," is undoubtedly counted on to take the production considerable distance at the box office. It is a picture that will get by in all the de luxe houses, but it won't break any records anywhere.

Arthur Train's story of the same title was utilized as the story on which E. Lloyd Sheldon built the dialogue for the talkies. It is a combination of circus, small time vandeville and society in its background with the romance of a youthful pair of circus performers breaking into small time vandeville, with the young man finally breaking into society and almost establishing himself therein through his marriage to the daughter of an overnight millionaire who made his money in the trucking business, as the theme.

Of course, the young man doesn't marry the wealthy girl, for in the end he turns back to his former partner in a magical act and effects a reconciliation with her while she is lying on a hospital cot, this being the result of her trying to commit suicide through refusing to switch the bullets in the sharpshooting feature of the act and giving the marksmen the real bullets instead.

There have been tremendous production values given the picture, and the scene with the entertainment to the visiting Queen of a Balkan country is very big, as is also that with the circus as a feature of the opening function and housewarming of the trucking millionaire's country place.

Lothar Mendez, who handles the direction of the picture, manages fairly well once the story is underway, but the earlier scenes are entirely too episodic and that portion of the picture has been poorly edited.

Buddy Rogers and Nancy Carroll naturally walk away with the principal honors, but June Collyer is right behind them in the role of the society deb. It was smart easting to have selected her for this role for she can and does play it naturally because she is to the manner born. Kay Francis as a social adviser also fits the picture nicely, while Knute Erickson handles the role of the newly rich father in a most satisfying manner. Eddic Kane slips over a booking agent convincingly, while Emelic Melville as the "mother" of the theatrical boarding house proves to be all that could be asked.

By playing up Rogers and Miss Carroll as the stars of "Close Harmony" and with June Collyer to head the names of the others in the lengthy cast this picture will get by nicely in most houses.

Produced and distributed by Paramount Famous Lasky. From the story by Arthur Truin, adapted by E. Lloyd Sheldom, directed by Lothar Mendez. Length, 6,372

Silents Are Not Dead, Says Cecil B. DeMille

to say that the talking films have killed the silent screen," declared Cecil B. DeMille, motion picture producer for M-G-M in a personal expression of his views on the subject. "Some of the best stories can be told most effectivly in silent form," he declared, "others are twice as forceful with dialogne. The talking newsreel is a great step forward for the motion pictures. And the addition of good music is a boon to millions of persons who never had the benefit of the big city picture house orchestra."

De Mille believes silent films will experience a favorable adjustment to present conditions. "Perhaps it will be four or five years before we know exactly what proportion of silent and talking pictures is best," thinks the producer.

Screened grand opera is only a step away, he believes.

Three Live Ghosts

Cracker jack Comedy Talkie (Reviewed by Freddie Schader) (All Dialogue)

FREDERICK S. ISHAM'S story, "Three Live Ghosts," which Max Marcin adapted as a stage play, and which later was made as a silent picture, emerges again as a talkie. On this latest occasion it is Joseph M. Schenck who is the producer, and Max Marcin is credited with adapting and staging the picture, as well as writing the dialogue, and this makes it "A Max Marcin Production." It is the author's first adventure into the production ranks on his own, and he has turned out a well worth while picture that will get money anywhere.

The story is that of three British soldiers who have returned to London after they had been officially declared dead. They had been captured by the Germans, put into a prison camp, and finally made their escape. The trio comprises a half goofy chap, who finally has his faculties restored and proves to be of the peerage, an American who is dodging the law at home, and so enlisted in the English army, and finally a typical limey from London Whitechapel.

The troubles that they encounter because the American is wanted by the American police, and the fact that the limey's stepmother wants to give him up to carn the reward offered for him, the thieving proclivities of the goofy member of the three, and honest effort of the limey to protect his two buddies, are the hasis of the tale.

Beryl Mercer, as Mrs. Grubbins, the mother of the limey, gives the outstanding comedy performance of the picture, but Claud Allister as the goofy one runs her a close second for the honors. Charles Me-Naughton gives a corking characterization as the limey, and walks away with acting honors, while the romantic interest is carried by Joan Bennett and Robert Montgomery, the former as a starving painter of chinaware and the latter as the American.

Thornton Freeland is credited with the direction of the picture. He has handled the work nicely, but the fine Italian hand of Max Marcin is seen in the production and its staging.

If they like laughs in your house, and where is the audience that doesn't?, you can go right after this one and play it up strong. You have to go after the story itself, for other than Joan Bennett there is no one in the cast whose name has a box-office value.

Produced by Joseph M. Schenck and distributed by United. From the story by Frederick S. Isham; adaptation and dialogue by Max Marcin, directed by Thornton Freeland. Length, 7,486 feet, running time an hour and two minutes. Released, Sept. 15, 1929.

The Very Idea

Successful Funfest From RKO (Reviewed by Raymond Ganly)

(100% Dialogue) WILLIAM LE BARON'S play comes to the screen loaded with laughs, with bright repartee and good work from a capable east of troupers. The "idea" of the title refers to a couple's action in authorizing their chauffeur and maid to have a "eugenic baby," the couple to adopt the child whose parents will be rewarded with a fat check. Some really funny situations develop in the course of the yarn. And if you fear that it is one of those risque things that you couldn't afford to play without loss of prestige, drop the thought at once because this comedy obtains laughs not by the risque route but through the humor in its situations, the performances and dialog contributed by the players. It is fine fun and the censors couldn't afford to slice it, for it offers very little naughtiness throughout its length.

It can be played as a comedy that's just the thing for adult audiences. They will relish the predicament in which the couple find themselves.

The chauffeur and maid wed and carry out their part of the contract, but when the time comes to part with the baby they find that parental love is greater than they thought. The couple who were to have received the infant as their own had already told their friends of a stranger in the family, and you can imagine their plight when they have no baby to show. However, as the end draws nigh the idea is conveyed that a baby is on its way, and not a eugenic one, either.

Though it may sound a trifle naughty in the telling, don't have any qualms about playing this one for it's an unusually good dialogue comedy. The cast, particularly Frank Craven, are quite adept in their roles and LeBaron's conversations are really funny. A fine big laugh occurs when the husband who invited his friends over to see his (?) child finds it mighty embarrassing when its parents refuse to give it up, so much so that he has an orphan from a nearby asylum sent to his house, not realizing that he had told his friends about a year ago while he was enjoying a California vacation and that the orphan, therefore, is about a year too old for him to get away with his deception.

Skin Deep

A Different Underworld Picture (Reviewed by Freddie Schader) (All Dialogue)

M ONTE BLUE comes through in talkies and qualifies to stand up with any of the male talking stars. In this production he is starred in a somewhat different underworld story and in the earlier scenes he manages to out-Chaney Chaney in the matter of a repulsive make-up. For the picture houses you can average this somewhat above the average program picture and if you are in a neighborhood house located three or four blocks off the main drag where you get a little of the rougher element that like the underworld stuff you will have a surefire attraction in this one. For the first run de luxe houses the picture isn't up to standard, but the big town B houses and the subsequent runs should find it worth while.

It is the eternal triangle with a couple of gang leaders rivals for the hand of a cabaret queen. She is a hardboiled little gold digger who is after the crook that can endow her with the greatest amount of material wealth. Therefore she picks the scarfaced one, only to discover that his love for her is so great that he wants to turn straight and tries to. This enrages the wife who turns to the other leader and frames her husband and while he is "away" for five years she becomes the mistress of his former rival.

The husband in the meantime thinks that he was framed by the district attorney and when he is released from prison tries to kill the man he believes responsible for his arrest. When he tinally becomes aware of the true state of affairs he tracks down his wife and her lover, and when the lights are again turned up after a little gun play the wife is found dying on the floor and the lover is shot trying to escape from the scene of the gun tight. It was he that fired the fatal shot that caused the death of the former cabaret star.

A happy ending has been tacked onto this. For the crook on escaping from prison was in an auto smash-up and his face was remade in the hospital where he was taken, there he met and fell in love with the daughter of the surgeon who attended him and it is to her that he turns after the death of his wife frees him from his alliance with the underworld.

Betty Compson plays the unfaithful wife and John Davidson the rival gangster. Both give excellent performances. Miss Compson is finc. Georgie Stone and Bob Perry as a couple of gangsters give a good account of themselves.

Produced and distributed by the Warner Brothers. Story by Mark Edmund Jones, adapted by Gordon Rigby. Directed by Ray Enright. Length, 5,490 feet. Running time, an hour and seven minutes. Released, Sept. 7, 1929.

Hard To Get

Very Modern Comedy Drama (Reviewed by Freddie Schader) (All Dialogue)

Titls is one of those pictures of which it might be asked "Which came first the chicken or the egg?", only in this ease it would be "When came tirst the picture or the theme song?" The reason for this being that the theme song is a natural as far as the hit class is concerned. It is one of those sob ballad affairs that is bound to get over with the picture audiences and it is fitted perfectly in the picture. For the regular picture house audiences this picture will do more than just get by. It has a very well worked out comedy angle that will get laughs anywhere and Dorothy Mackaill has worked up a box office following by this time and that following will be more than delighted with her Cinderella characterization in the picture.

The story theme is that of Edna Ferber's "Classified" and the direction was in the hands of William Beaudine. Corinne Griftith played the silent screen version of this yarn and there is very little to choose between her and Miss Mackaill in the principal role. As a matter of fact the reviewer favors Miss Mackaill in it.

You know the story. It is that of the flip flapper daughter of a middle class family who works as a model in a smart Fifth Aveune modiste's, but who has aspirations to grab off a wealthy society youth in marriage, yet when she has the chance she turns one down to marry a young automobile mechanic. But this tale is told in a manner that will get to the picture fans.

The best moments of the picture are the dialogue duels between Miss Mackaill and Jack Oakie, playing brother and sister. Jack Oakie is proving himself a greater comedy bet with each picture that he has been doing in the last six months since he got his chance in front of the "mike." Miss Mackaill and he slip over a couple of comedy scenes that are wows. Charles Delancy plays the juvenile lad and manages to handle it very well indeed. Edmund Burns as the young millionaire is likewise very good indeed.

Louise Fazenda, however, does not register the full worth of the role beause of the fact that the low comedy was stressed far too much. Jimmie Finlayson as the father gave a much better performance.

The theme song is entitled "Things We Want Most In Life Are Hard To Get." Rather lengthy as a title, but a corking number with a catchy melody that will hit.

Produced and distributed by First National Pictures. From the story by Edna Ferber, directed by William Beaudine. Length, 7,324 feet. Running time, an hour and twenty-one minutes. Released Sept. 8, 1929.

"The Kid Comes Through" (Universal-Pioneer-Two Reels)

BACK in those bygone days of the silent picture this one would have been classed as an "average run-'o-mine" Western subject and that classification still goes to those houses that haven't any sound equipment and run these kind of pictures.

Contrast between this and the sound picture will be particularly noticeable to those who have passed up silent films over a considerable period. There was something emphatically lacking; players scurrying around at an unfamiliar pace, a rather ludierous motion of lips with no sound coming forth and a wondering of what it was all about when the finish arrived. Anyway, it's the old familiar Western type action story of a crooked express agent engineering a series of stage coach robberies and attempting to fasten guilt upon the innocent driver. Little hero Bobbie Nelson, wise-child actor, breaks up the scheme and saves hero Jim Ridgway, driver.—E. G. Johnston,

"Jingle Bells"

(Biophone Screen Song-One Reel)

ONE of the best novelties being utilized by the screen today is the song cartoon, of which this is a fine example. This type of offering requires an agile brain in production as it is a combination of song slides, cartoon embellishment both still and animated, harmonizing. synchronized orchestral score and sound effects. The Biophone unit employ a method whereby all the sound work is done before the cartoon work is begun. Which means that painstaking care has to be taken to turn out a really creditable job. This "Jingle Bells" is very good.

The refrain is decorated with animated snatches, such as a dog dancing and plebean marking time, then with the introduction of the bouncing ball which marks the tempo, the copy gest mader way. Maying growds like the song gets under way. Movie crowds like to join in on the choruses. This "Jingle Bells" is an incentive, doing that trick capably.-Raymond Gauly.

Charles Grapewin, former stage star and playwright, has been signed by Christie Film to occupy post of adaptor and dialoguer of Christie short features being produced for Paramount release. Grapewin takes over the duties formerly held by Alfred A. Cohn, who resigned to join Warner Brothers and First National production staffs.

Sally Starr, in a quiet corner of the set, goes over her lines for "College Life," Metro's new all-talking production of campus whoopee which Sam Wood directed with a cast that also included Eddie Nugent

Sound And The Short Subject Producer

OUND is apparently a made-toorder situation for certain short subject producers. For instance, Educational's offerings at last week's trade showing in the RCA studios. Three pictures were shown that deserve a prominent position on the bill of any de luxe theatre. They are: "The Golfers" (Sennett) "Fire Proof" (Lupino Lane) and "Peaceful Alley" (Lloyd Hamilton).

Not only do these comedies strike a new and higher grade note in short subject production, but what dialogue has accomplished for certain players is also particularly noticeable. Lloyd Hamilton and Lupino Lane, always featured as silent players, take to the new process film as fish take to water, and are more attractive film personalities than ever hefore.—E, G, J.

"Fire Proof" (Educational-Lane Talkie)

A WHALE of talking comedy that will absolutely click with any audience, that's what this Lupino Laue two reeler is and in the opinion of this writer Lane, like a number of other silent picture comedians, shines brighter than ever with the new process pictures. story not only gives this agile acrobat opportunity to do his stuff but the talkies seem to have transformed him into another and more versatile being. In addition to Lane, his brother Wallace Lupino, Betty Caldwell, Lorraine Rivero and other members of the east all give an excellent account of themselves. Charles La-Mont directed.

The story is written around a volunteer fire department of which Lane and Wallace Lupine are members. Lane, of course plays the clown and rivalry for department honors is intense. Eventually Lane is "fired" from the crew and organizes an independent outfit with antique equipment. The little sister of the heroine tries to help him along with a fake fire alarm. Both companies respond in a mad race to the residence. After the take is exposed a real fire breaks out and Lane emerges the hero.-E. G. Johnston.

"Fancy That"

(Pathe Talkie—Two Reels)
THE first of Pathe's "Folly" comedies on the 1929-39 program. It is a plebean unrefined affair in spots and, on the whole, it does not impress you as containing any class, originality or capabilities in its direction and acting. The theme song is "Dearest One."

It is a story that one hobo tells another in the park as to what he would do if he had one million dollars. He begins to relate the hig party he would throw and a fadeiu hrings in a long account of the doings at the hoho's mythical mansion, of how he meets the society queen and dazzles her with his hoboisms. It's crude and the hero eventually loses his pants before the assembled guests. Of course, vulgarism is rife-today in the movies and is often successful (wit-ness Flagg and Quirt's movie escapades), but this has little to commend it. It'll get by in most cases, but not in first run houses; it is decidedly out of their pale.

Produced and authored by Frank Davis. William Frawley and Earle Dewey are co-starred. Directed by Phillip Tannura. Raymond Ganly.

Taylor Holmes, now appearing locally on the stage in "The Sap," has been signed by the Christies, to play lead in "He Did His Best," short talker.

"Peaceful Alley" (Edneational-Hamilton Talkie)

LOYD HAMILTON'S work in talking talkies can mean to some silent picture come-dians. Here is a Hamilton which the public would have never had a chance to appreciate had it not been for the advent of sound. And what a corking little kid actor Hamilton has for support. Douglas Scott is the kid's name and he either received a wonderful piece of directing from Alf Goulding or just naturally does his stuff in a big way. This is good stuff don't miss it.

The Kid plays the part of a wise little street youngster, wise in all tricks to pick up any existence either by fakery or downright thieving. He is particularly adept at crying alongside a street grating, telling his sympathizers that he has lost a nickel. Hamilton comes along and befriends him after the kid tells him he hasn't any parents. A long series of difficulties ensue for his benefactor—right up to the time it is discovered the kid has escaped from a home for incorrigible children.-E. G. Johnston.

"Pathe Audio Review No. 22" (Pathe Photophone—One Reel)

FOUR varied offerings are tied neatly together in this sound Review which can be commended as suitable for the exhibitor's pro-

First subject is "Winter," scenes of Yellowstone Park in the bleak period of the year. This subject makes a fair appeal.

Second subject is "Hay! Hay!", a presentation of Eddie Worth and His County Fair Orchestra by Don Dickerman; this contains singing and band harmonies. Also fairly good.

Third subject (and the best of the lot) is "Pelican," showing this strange bird in the wild on the Texan coast. Some of the shots procured by C. O. Lee are very fine. Educational stuff that is not tiring but of genuine interest to the fans.

Last number is "Banzai," in which two Japanese indulge in a furious fencing match in the ancient costume of Japan. Contains a kick .-Raymond Ganly.

Footlights And Fools

Colleen Moore In Fine Musical (Reviewed by Walter R. Greene)

(All Dialogue)

"F OOTLIGHTS and Fools" not only supplies substantial entertainment, but presents a new Colleen Moore to picture audiences. A Colleen who renders several songs with a distinct personality; and a Colleen who will rank high among the stars of the talkfilms and musicals in the future.

Plenty of money has been spent on the production, but the results obtained provide a fine box office attraction in any spot. Miss Moore surprises with her French aceent as the star of a musical show-and will delight audiences with the pep and vigor she puts behind her song numbers. Her portrayal is up to the excellent standard she has established in many of her best pictures of the past tive years.

The story is rather slow in developing; mainly because the first few reels present several numbers of the musical show with Colleen taking the center of the stage in song and dance bits. After that, the story gets under way-and what starts out to be a very hackneyed plot, takes a sudden twist to a most unusual finish.

Colleen presents a fine impersonation of an Irish girl who assumes both a French accent and mannerisms when she is billed as "the sensation of Paris" in a Broadway musical. She is in love with Raymond Hackett, a youth who manages to make a eomfortable living through gambling. Frederic March, wealthy stock broker, falls for the star, and vainly attempts to meet her. Colleen finally informs her boy friend that he must get an honest job; and March is tipped off that Colleen would be pleased to see the kid get placed. So the broker has his manager call the boy downtown to put him to work.

Then the broker's offices are held up, and the boy is accused of staging the job. He runs to Colleen, claiming he was framed. The girl believes him, and the pair rush off to be married. March returns from an outof-town trip, and Colleen confronts him with the frameup. He protests his ignoranee, and goes with the girl to her apartment to talk things over with the boy. March finally tells the kid the charges against him will be withdrawn, and Colleen follows him to the door, asking if the boy was guilty. March reluctantly tells her the truth; and she confronts the boy with the faets. He tries to laugh it off, but she finally sends him away for a final fade

Colleen Moore delivered this production as the last under her contract with First National. On the strength of her performance in her initial talking musical, there is no question but what a new connection will be made immediately with one of the Miss larger producing organizations. Moore can be assured of not only holding, but increasing, her popularity in the new medium.

Raymond Hackett, Frederic March, and Virginia Lee Corbin have prominent roles in support, and deliver most eapably. Direction by William Seiter is excellent.

Half Marriage

Drama With A Wallop (Reviewed by Raymond Ganly)

(100% Talking)

A DRAMA of young love, with a tragedy to bring the hero and heroine into the final clinch, is told in this vehicle for Olive Borden who fares very well before the mike. Her role is that of an impetuous girl who enters in a companionate marriage with a young architect in her father's office. They become separated when the boy grows jealous of her popularity with other men. When the seducer of the piece who has been particularly obnoxious to the young husband attacks her in her studio where she has gone to meet the boy, she runs out onto a ledge overlooking the court with the man after her. She struggles with him on the ledge and he slips and meets his end on the pavement below. The boy, learning of his wife's plight, tries to assume the blame when the police and the girl's parents arrive. When the girl explains the facts and the fact that the boy is trying to shield her, the police depart satisfied with her innocence and the parents, after a brief bit of admonishment, also leave, leaving the boy and girl to realize that half marriage is not the real thing. Of course, the moral to be drawn is not one that would receive the approval of Judge Lindsey, but the idea of the story will get the attention of youth and folk who like a sex theme.

It is a better-than-average talkie and is quite exciting in its high spots. Has been neatly photographed and directed, the recording being first-rate. Ken Murray adds fine comedy relief and Morgan Farley, as the young husband, is competent.

Frozen Justice

New Star: Northern Scenes (Reviewed by Edwin Schallert)

(All Dialogue)

THE personality of Lenore Ulric, and her marked talents as an actress, will prove a sustaining influence for her first venture into the talkies. This stage star never succeeded in eausing any havoe in the old silents, although she made several attempts, but the odds are good that she can carve a niche for herself in the dialogue features. She has exotic as well as a human and pathetic appeal in "Frozen Justice." her first starring production.

The picture itself does not as a whole rise above the program level, despite that it incorporates various sensational effects like a shipwreck and the splitting of a mountain of ice. It contains plenty of good movie situations, and has a finish that will win the more critical audiences. The locale is unusual in the talkies, for Fox has essayed to depict the home of the Eskimo in all its snowy desolation, and for contrast gives an impression of Alaska in the days of the gold rush.

Miss Ulric portrays the role of a halfbreed Eskimo, who has a great yen to go to the world of the white man. She is married to a chieftain of the tribe, but is never quite happy with his people. Every ship that comes to the far northern region, she hopes, may bring some news of her father, a white sea captain.

Then finally the Eskimo land is invaded by an unscrupulous trader, seeking what plunder he may obtain by cheating the natives, and also what entertainment may be afforded by their women. He succeeds in luring the girl, Talu (Miss Ulrie) aboard his ship, but during the raging storm that follows she is discoverd by her husband and dragged back to their igloo and flogged. The following morning she beseeches the captain who is a survivor of the storm, which wreeks the ship, to take her away. There is an encounter between the captain and the chieftain in which the latter is thought to be killed.

Talu is no happier among the white men than she was among the Eskimos. She longs to return to her native heath, and is finally assisted to that end by an erstwhile associate of the captain's. But before their plan to escape can be carried out, the captain shoots her rescuer, and concealing from the girl his identity, drives away with her in the dog team in which she planned to escape. Her chieftain husband turns up about the same time, and starts in pursuit. Then occurs the break, and the captain's team falls into a crevasse. Talu is mortally injured. She dies in her husband's arms. The captain is crushed in the chasm of ice. Talu's final words are a pathetic expression of the half-breed's fateful unhappiness.

Outstanding performance in the film are given by Louis Wolheim, Ullrich Haupt and Robert Frazer in the order mentioned. El Brendel, Alice Lake and Gertrude Astor also fill important roles.

"Hot Lemonade" (Paramount-Christie Talkie-Two Reels)

R EALLY successful is this Christic talkie farce, eleverly gagged and handled with skill in its direction and acting talent. Speaking of the latter, a casting director would have to search a long time before he would come across a better pair of farceurs than Louise Fazenda and Johnny Arthur, who performed so well in "The Desert Song" and who here do justice to a little marital skit about a naughty husband and a wife who leave their respective better halves to board a steamer for the South Seas and love and romance.

They are actually on their way and both find that reality is not what they at all expected, for Arthur gets seasick and Louise very much afraid when they discover her husband aboard. The latter, played by Walter Heirs, finally manipulates things so that Louise is glad to give Arthur the razz and return, chastened, to home and

Yes, it goes over with a wave of laughs. Miss Fazenda scores the most with her quivering laugh and gurgles. Arthur is right there also with his comedy. And Heirs does all that's required of his role.-Raymond Ganly.

"Down In Jungle Town"

(Biophone Screen Song—One Reel)
SEEN on the same bill with "My Old Kentucky Home," "Jingle Bells" and "Summer Harmonies," Biophone screen songs, this subject struck this reviewer as being the best of the lot. Its cartoon work is mute humorous the air of Its cartoon work is quite humorous, the air of "Down in Jungle Town" is pleasing and general good points are discernible throughout. Recording has been nicely done.

Pinky the Pup, the character used by Cartoonist S. Roy Luby, goes through a few tricks as a prelude to the song, which, when started, has the usual bouncing ball to keep strict time. The first rendition over, the bouncing ball is replaced by a group of monkeys who grab plenty of laughs with their antics. The monkeys hold full sway until the end and are very effective in supporting the lyrics. The Roxy Quartet are also effective in rendering the song.

"Ace Of Scotland Yard" (Universal Serial—Chapter 5)

CHAPTER five of this Universal serial is titled "The Menace of the Mummy." The first three episodes having been reviewed several weeks ago by some one else this writer is trai weeks ago by some one else this writer is somewhat at a loss as to story, so will only touch upon production highlights. And there are some. This serial has a distinct tone lacking in other serials made in the past. It moves along at a nice pace, the musical setting is particularly noteworthy, it's finely photographed and is, all in all, a high-grade production.

The leavest in this heart straight and in the country of the country o

The big punch in this chapter arrives when a room filled with diners is plunged into darkness and one of those present does a vanishing act. Here, sound plays an important part. Ray Taylor directed—E. G. Johnston.

"Pilgrim Papas" (Universal—Two Reel Talkie)

BENNY RUBIN, whose voice was first heard over radio programs in short Milt Grossian dialogue, here embarks on one of his fantastic dialect yarns of the same nature. tory and its characters are strongly at odds but Benny bravely tells the schoolmaster his version of how Thanksgiving Day came to be named. The landing of the Mayflower, the Pilgrims' difficulties with the Redskins, Capt. Miles Standish and Pocahontas, Paul Revere and his horse, are all startlingly pictured. A "kosher" turkey is also introduced. Ray Taylor directed. It's funny.—E. G. Johnston.

"After Seben" (Paramount Talkie—Two Reels)

JAMES BARTON, one of the vaudeville J AMES BARTON, one of the vaudeville stage's best, stars successfully in this well stocked laugh maker. The comedian appears in blackface and has the support of colored actors. It really could be placed in the same class with "St. Louis Blues," except that its story is not very strong and it has not the motivating power of a famous song to increase its appeal. "After Seben" is a high class piece of goods, nevertheless, and Barton and the negro support put over their stuff exceptionally well.

There are some dancing scenes in which negro energy just overflows. Several couples swing into typical "nigger dances" and Barton himself does a characteristic step. The story, quite episodic, deals with a shiftless negro.

This one is good for first run showings and then all away down the line. It may be that it hasn't been "dumbed" down enough for the stick audiences. Then again some of the negro dancing is liable to offend some, for it is a fact that one of the dances bordered for a few section. onds on the obscene. Aside from that, the flaws in "After Seben" are negligible.—Raymond Ganly.

"Music Fiends" (Fox Talkie—Two Reels)

LARKE and McCULLOUGH have a funny vehicle in this one. Replete with laughs, particularly in the last half, it should easily breeze by.

The boys spend the last of their jack in an auction room, emerging with a fiddle and a few other trifles. While they're wondering where their next meal is coming from, they are mistaken by the butler of a wealthy dame for the musicians she is momentarily expecting at her party. The boys jump at the chance to grab some easy coin and have the nerve to pass themselves off as famous musicians.

The assembled society gathering politely listen to their violin-piano concert, but not for long because the boys have a tendency to break everything. With the elapse of a few minutes they have made a wreck of the room and have caused the guests to flee.

Not lean by any means; on the contrary it is well supplied with the laugh fat.—Raymond

Regulation Western (Reviewed by Raymond Ganly)

(Silent)

THE usual cut-and-dried Western, this time enlivened by the amiable Hoot Gibson, with Alberta Vanghn lending her presence as the helpless heroine. Hoot's following (and that includes thousands of small boys who are dying to see Western thrillers in this day of the talkies and find the supply all to short) will find his latest vehicle of the usual strength, it being equipped with an assortment of fisticuffs, treachery in the dark by the villain, mad riding and all the other ingredients that go to create the illusion on the silver screen of life as it was lived in the day of the real cowboy.

So this one should satisfy the bunch that like the horse opera. What's the use of telling the story? Let it suffice to say that Hoot gets his man and wins the girl, by fair means, of course, all the foul methods being exhausted by the villain in his efforts to escape the young cowpuncher whose role

"Boyhood Memories" (Pathe Sound Sportlight—One Reel)

THOSE memories of delightful boyhood of which Whitier sang are delved into by Grantland Rice and this Sportlight is rich, therefore, in winsome appeal. Any man whose youth was spent in the country will appreciate the gambols of a group of boys on a summer day when natural buoyancy and the joy of living called them to the ole swimmin' hole, invited them to a game of mumbly peg and initiated them into all the other attractions of boyish sport.

This Sportlight, enhanced with music, the conversation and snatches of laughter of the boys indulging in various games, is a sure thing in any theatre, with quality enough to enter the top-notch houses and to secure for it an appreciative response. It is one of the best Sportlights to make an appearance. And as this series has been particularly high in standard, calling it "one of the best" means a mouthful.—Raymond Ganly.

A Great Human Interest Talkie (Reviewed by Freddie Schader) (All Dialogue)

R ICHARD BARTHELMESS has undertaken a role and characterization in this picture that is entirely foreign to any that he has presented in any of his pictures in the past few years. It is so decidedly human and compelling in its appeal that it brings memories of his role in "Fury. The picture isn't one that cost a fortune to make, for the greater part of the story, but the star and Miss Marian Nixon, his leading lady, are the only two concerned in the action. But it's a picture that is going to give a lot of people in picture theatre audiences over the country a sob in the throat and a tear dimmed eye, and that always spells hox office.

A Saturday Evening Post story by Ida A. B. Wylie is the foundation for the film. It is the love tale of a night elevator boy in an apartment house and the maid of all work, who attends to the apartment of a bachelor in the building. Both are orphans, both are lonely, and the diffidence on the part of each in approaching an acquaintanceship is almost pathetic were it not for the comedy element that is permitted to creep in.

The story opens with the arraignment in the Night Court of the young couple on Christmas Eve. They had been discovered in the apartment of one of the tenants in the building during his absence. His unexpected return and his accusation that they were using his rooms to earry on an affair brings the hitherton drab night elevator boy to the defense of his girl, with the result that he is not only charged with unlawfully entering the apartment but with assault as well. The tale of the struggles of the two principal characters is supposedly related by the boy and girl, and advances stage by stage until the day that she was taken to the city hospital and placed in a charity bed suffering from pneumonia. It was on Christmas Eve that she was permitted to go home and the boy believing that the tenant of the apartment was still in California, has prepared a small tree and a little spread for his beloved. They are in the midst of this when the owner returns, discovers them and has them arrested.

After the story has been told the charges are dismissed and one of the tenants undertakes to give the pair a start toward a future.

Barthelmess is really great and Miss Nixon does a wonderful piece of work. Bert Roach and Anders Randolph both contribute worth-while performances. Mr. Roach's souse bit proves to be particularly entertaining and laughable.

Produced and Distributed by First National Pictures. From the story by Ida A. R. Wylie. Adapted by Bradley King. Directed by Frank Lloyd. Length, 6021 feet. Running time, an hour and four minutes. Released, Oct. 20, 1929.

Disraeli

Great Historical Romance (Reviewed by Freddie Schader)
(All Dialogue)

FOR the second time George Arliss ap-Pears on the screen as the star of his former stage success "Disraeli." The latest occasion is a talking version of the play and it is the first of the historical romances to be brought to the audible screen. The performance that Mr. Arliss gives is in itself sufficient to bring a big box office return. Arliss is a type of actor that does not hit one right between the eyes on his first appearance, but as he proceeds with his characterization he grows on one, until finally he has his audience completely won. That is as true on the screen as it was in the theatre.

Time and again on the opening night the conclusion of a particularly strong scene in the play was rewarded by spontaneous applause. It was the sort of applause that was given because of a piece of business well handled and dialogue well delivered and not tendered to the players beeause it was a first night audience of friends of the production management.

Mr. Arliss was superh and in his sup-port there were a round half dozen performanees that are worthy of more than passing mention. They were given by Joan Bennett as the youthful Lady Clarissa, Doris Lloyd as Mrs. Travers, Anthony Bushell in the juvenile lead of Charles (a young man who incidentally should be heard from in the future in talking pictures), Florence Arliss in the role of Lady Beaconsfield, David Torrence and Ivan Simpson as the rival bankers.

The others in the large cast of players necessary to portray the historical play all contributed effectively toward making the picture a splendid success. But to Alfred E. Green must go a full measure of credit for the splendid manner in which he, by his skillful direction, transferred to the screen the vital elements of the play and story. It was a difficult task and although the earlier scenes move from one to the other in rather abrupt manner, one sees as the story develops, that this was necessary in order to plant effectively a background for what was to come later.

Despite the fact that "Disraeli" is a historical romanee there is more than sufficient picture value in the production to make it decidedly entertaining for all.

Produced and Distributed by the Warner Brothers. From the play by Louis N. Parker, adapted by Julian Josephson, directed by Alfred E. Green. Length, 8,044 feet, running time, an hour and twenty-six minutes. Release date, indefinite. Silent version also. THE CAST

"The Golfers" (Educational Sennett—Two Reels)

THE large golfing fraternity and any number of others who don't know auvthing about this popular game will simply "eat" this picture up. It is another one of those highgrade two reel comedies, right up to par with the Edward Everett Hortons that Educational has been turning out of late. Get this and get it straight: the talking comedy producers, that is, some of them, have come into their own with the talking films. They have not only improved them 100 per cent but they now possess a tone they never had. They are distinctly worth a prominent position on the bill of any de luxe picture house.

Harry Gribbon, cast as the Know It All Guy about golf and everything else, teams up perfectly with Andy Clyde in as funny a foursome that ever appeared on the screen or anywhere else. It's a scream for those who know their golf and it cannot fail to go over with the uninitiated. Harry is a Big Money Man who is visiting his Banker Friend. The latter has to be nice to him whether he wants to or not. Despite the fact that a real champion player is present, Harry insists upon showing how it's done—and he almost gets away with it. Moved to desperation the Banker consents to a match for a $10,000 wager. Its a close one but Thelma Hill, the Banker's daughter, plays an important part in the decision. Other players include Charlie Guest, Patsy O'Leary and Bert Swor. Mack Sennett directed and story and dialogue are credited to John A. Waldron,—E. G. Johnston.

"Watch Your Friends" (Universal Talkie—Two Reels)

T'S a pretty good talkie comedy. Vernon Dent as one of the stars (other one is not credited). Direction by Dick Smith. Recounts the difficulties of four parties; a woman, her busband who comes back from jail to find a gunman intimately ensconced in his home, and a goofy little busybody who pals around with the jailbird.

The gunman resents their intrusion and when he begins to bully them the two boys get mad. So does the gunman when he finds out that the dame is anxious to duck him and beat it with her convict. When he gets too rough, the boys phone the police and although they're terrified almost to death when the bad man starts his guns, they breathe freer with the arrival of the police and the arrest of their

It's quite funny, the little busybody being responsible for plenty of fun. The work of this chap together with the seasoned portrayal by Dent and the gumman give this a hilarious tinge certain to please the movie mobs .- Raymond Gauly.

Alan Ilale plays the big husky boy friend of little Sally Eilers in "Sailors' Holiday," the new · Pathe comedy in dialogue

"Big Time Charley" (Pathe Talkie-Two Reels)

TEORGE LEMAIRE continues to be the busy bee on the Pathe talkie lot, this one being produced and directed by him under the label of: Manhattan Comedy. It features Lew Hearn, a sawed-off comedian. Eddie El-kins' band supplies jazz strains which filter through the night club scenes where Lew and some girlies are making whoopee. Cast, a large one, has Evelyn Knapp, Leo Kendal, Ida Fitzhugh, Shorty Biglow, Leoda Knapp, Dick Lancester, Jack LeMaire, Gordon Kelly, Terry Carroll and Phyllis Cameron.

Story has its climax when wife and Lew's boss visit the same night club and find him galavanting with the pair of females Production is tinctured with good total of laughs, especially in a scene where the night club proprietor, resentful of the fact that Lew has brought his own lunch, chides him rather forcefully. There's a splash of slapstick, night club revelry and a fast enough tempo. Should satisfy.—Raymond Ganly.

"The Revellers" (M-G-M Act—Two Reels)

THE four songsters deliver a trio of songs, among them the popular "Goin' Home." The voices are pleasing and blend nicely; their harmonizing is quite dexterous. The boys have to be all smiles with the constant close-up, but they manage that end of their assignment well and their singing brings good cheer. only a few male quartets that can rival them. Be sure to play up their fame on the phonograph and arrange a tie-up with music dealers in your neighborhood. This one makes good filler for a program in want of pep.-Raymond Ganly.

"My Old Kentucky Home" (Biophone Screen Song-One Reel)

Tills ever-popular song has been decked out with cartoon ornamentation as well as synchronized score and vocal harmonizing by the Roxy Quartet. The number is a well balanced and developed one that's sure to please any American crowd. It is one of the Inkwell cartoons, produced by S. Roy Luby and presented by Alfred Weiss. Good quality pervades it throughout.

There's no reason at all why these song cartoons can't successfully invade the foreign market, too. Cartoons and music make a good combination capable of breaking through the barrier of language. In this country this Biophone screen song should find a gratifying response.—Raymond Ganly.

"Berth Marks" (M-G-M Talkie—Two Reels)

T'S a strange thing but even the mighty have their weak moments. This Hal Roach com-edy is an example of how a slim idea can be stretched too far. Even if the stars are Laurel and Hardy and the reels are supplied with the Walker brand of titles, this comedy flops just the same. It even gets monotonous. Can such things be with a Laurel and Hardy opus?

The boys, who are this time musicians, get on a Pullman with their grip overflowing with sheet music and a bass viol of customary large girth. The two of them try to go to sleep in the narrow upper berth and the comedy consists for the most part of medium and closeup shots of the pair in the agonies of undressing. There's nary a variation, until their station is called and they rush out leaving their fiddle behind.

Even the great nod once in awhile. That must have been the reason why this two-reeler, which by the way has very little talking, is not up to the usual Roach standard. The idea of a crowd in a typical Roach comedy fight in a crowded car has also been employed for laughs. -Raymond Ganly.

"No Boy Wanted" (Universal Talkie—Two Reels)

OF more merit by far than "Baby Talks," first of the "Sunny Jim" talking comedies. Where that one was haphazard and sour, this one stands up as good movie fare for kids and adults alike.

The recording is good and so is H. Beaudine's direction. About the only fault apparent is that Sunny Jim speaks with too much restraint; his diction is clear but it shows that he has received some stiff coaching. A more naturally childish delivery would suit him better.

The story has to do with the kid's efforts to be adopted by a couple, the feminine half of which doesn't like boys. The youngster has a happy time pestering the hubbie, giving the butler hysterics and finally being adopted by the lady into the home where in a short space of time he has caused a near riot.—Raymond Ganly.

"Summer Harmonies" (Biophone Sereen Song-One Reel)

THIS is one of the Inkwell song cartoons, produced by S. Roy Luby for presentation by Alfred Weiss, with orchestral work under the baton of Carl Edouarde. Pinky the Pup, Luby's character, is used in the brief comedy introduction to the song proper. Recording, which was done at the Metro Studios, Fort Lee, N. J., is well done.

After a brief cartoon interlude during which Pinky works up to the song, the tune itself is intoned with great volume, the bouncing ball inexorably maintaining the rhythm, and the cartoon figures tripping gaily along the lyrics when the bouncing ball has done its work. The action is well worked out and goes hand and hand with the words and music.
A good novelty.—Raymond Ganly.

"Emil Boreo" (M-G-M Act—One Reel)

K NOWN here and abroad for his work in "Chauve Souris," this star has a chance only in the cities in the U.S. where the Baileff production played. As for movie audiences, whose proportions are so much vaster than the few who support the stage productions. Boreo won't mean a thing and even if he did his stock would drop after the movie bugs got a look at him in this Movietone act. He's not so hot, not by any means.

Audiences won't get het up about this one. The overwhelming majority won't enjoy sitting through it. If you are located in a French section, then play up the star.—Raymond Ganly.

"Don't Give Up The Ship"

T must be stated in all truth that the house manager of today is passing through some pretty tough times when one stops long enough to consider what some of the boys must go through.

From "nowhere" there are springing into existence all kinds of "bosses" in the guise of supervisors, district managers, division managers and what not. All in addition to the regular quota of stockholders, general managers and other such, apparently, necessary adjuncts to our most gracious show business.

But I would like to pass a word or two along to the boys in general to keep their shirts on, as the saying goes, because while some of these "bosses" are genuine showmen who mounted the ladder through real ability there are still some others, unfortunately, who "got there" through politics or marrying the "big-shot's" daughter. But regardless of how they got there, they are "there" nevertheless and must be taken into consideration when they start coming round to the theatres and telling real managers and real showmen how to handle their jobs.

Don't, for the love 'a Mike, lose your heads and fly off the handle by having some sort of a run-in with your "superiors."

I was rather depressed during the last week or two to learn that some mighty good men "walked the plank" because they talked back when they should have remained silent.

Not that I would encourage anybody to be a "yes" man.

But I would encourage tact. And plenty of it.

Things will be getting down to bed-rock before many more moons, and it is far more advisable to stand by the ship and weather these squalls and storms than to be tossed about on the treacherous waves of jumping from job to job.

"Ît's An Ill Wind That Blows No Good," as the saying goes.

Well, perhaps all these mergers, consolidations and what-nots will kick up wind enough to blow some of the real managers into the positions they are entitled to.

And perhaps the same wind will blow some of the excess baggage back to their old callings, where they are far better off than monkeying around in this show business, where at their best they are always at their worst.

Stick to your guns and try to keep your heads (and your jobs) whenever you are tempted to throw up the sponge and tell one of your bosses to go jump in the river.

May I offer a bit of advice?

WHILE IT IS HARD TO LIVE WITHIN ONE'S INCOME LET US BE SOOTHED BY THIS COMFORTABLE REFLECTION—IT WOULD BE HARDER TO LIVE WITHOUT IT.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

Mr. & Mrs. Murphy Present Us With Another Member

The MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB hastens to extend its heartiest congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Murphy (Manager of the Community Theatre, in Catskill, N. Y.), who just announced the birth of a son, born on September the eighth.

If the youngster grows up to be any sort of a chip of the old block then you can enroll him for membership right now, "E. T.," because we are always on the lookout for showmen, and we don't care how young we get 'em.

Just the same, best of luck and health to the whole family.

"Fair Week" Helped Business For Mgr. R. S. Roddick

In addition to his many other fine activities, Manager R. S. Roddick of the Capitol Theatre, London, Ontario, Can., prepared and executed an unusual FAIR WEEK policy.

All visitors to the Fair were invited to attend a special morning show before they went to the Fair grounds, and he coined a new slogan "Rest at the Capitol."

This slogan was stressed, and resulted in the Capitol Theatre being mentioned quite as often as the Fair itself.

We are certainly glad to pass on any of Mr. Roddick's activities because we know that he is on the job, and that many other managers can use his ideas to good advantage.

H. C. Roemer Finds Club Columns Of Great Value & Aid

Filing his application for membership in the MAN-AGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB, H. Conrad Roemer, who conducts a motion picture column in the Southeast Herald, a weekly publication in Washington, D. C., informs us that he expects to become a Press Agent and Publicist in one of the first run theatres in Washington.

We certainly are delighted to welcome Mr. Roemer into the swelling ranks of the ROUND TABLERS, and we feel that his contributions to these pages will make mighty interesting and profitable reading to every one of us.

We shall look forward to hearing from this new member in the immediate future, and we sincerely trust that he will include a photograph of himself with his first article. In this way we will feel that we know him better.

How about this, H. C., don't you think you ought to get right in the swim? Thanks anyway in advance.

Clarence Dolan says:

"I have been following this section of MOTION PICTURE NEWS with more than usual interest. Conditions as they have been for several months make any suggestions that might prove a stimulant to the box office more than welcome. And that is just what this section of the NEWS has been."

Manager, Legion Theatre, Wayland, N. Y.

G.B.Odlum A Well-Known Figure In The Show-World

In furnishing your photograph for possible reproduction on the CLUB pages in the NEWS, it should not be construed as being "free" publicity.

We rather take the attitude that in this business a man is far better off when we broadcast his accomplishments, his ability and his experiences, and we are able to show what he looks like.

Very often we form an entirely wrong impression of a man and make up our minds, prematurely, as to what he really looks like when reading about his various exploits and activities,

All of this preamble leads us up to the point where we want to introduce to our many members and readers Mr. G. B. Odlum, the progressive resident manager of the Capitol Theatre, in Elmira, N. Y.

G. B.'s experience in the show business is mighty well-known around the Eastern part of the country, and since he joined the CLUB, he is becoming equally as well-known in the West and South. This is exactly as it should be, because the CLUB is the Manager's mouth-piece with which he is able to broadcast what he is doing. Not only, for the sake of what benefits he personally may derive, but for whatever value or use it may be to his brother members.

After all it is but another way of saying "ALL FOR ONE AND ONE FOR ALL."

We couldn't possibly conclude a story about "G. B." without saying that his latest little stunt was an unusually attractive telephone index for the home with the Capitol Theatre prominently displayed on the front cover and for which the merchants paid all the charges while he did the distributing of it.

You probably heard of this one many times before, but if you want to see something that really is outstanding and above the average, drop a line to "G. B." and ask him for a copy of it.

More about "G. B." later on.

I. L. Morton Combines Youthful Pep With His Job

This story is just by way of introducing to you another "young" blood in the show business, so step up and make the acquaintance of Mr. I. L. Morton, the energetic manager of the Carolina Theatre, in Hamlet, N. C.

We were sort of hoping to dig up some "dope" about this young chap to pass on with this story, but unfortunately we did not have the time to dig into it right at this particular moment.

However, Morton, you can come to our rescue with a short letter, telling us a lot about your past experiences and what you are doing to sell the pictures and the shows down in Hamlet. Come along, and don't keep us waiting.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

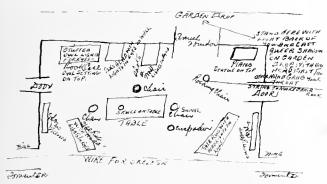

H. L. Laurence Suggests A Novel Gag For Mystery Angle

If you have any sort of a stage at all, then we certainly suggest that you pay a little attention to a stock presentation for any mystery picture that you may have booked in your theatre, and when you stop to consider the number of pictures based on the mystery angle, then you shouldn't have to wait very long to try this one out.

The sketch, while rather rough, is nevertheless plain, and if you study it a few moments, you will find that it is an easy matter to follow. Any theatre with a fair size stage and a lot of old scenery, (plus a manager's ingenuity) can step out and put this one across in great shape.

Open at rise of curtain with vivid lightning and thunder storm. Chair rocking, skull on table, eyes blinking. Use small red globes in eyes. For photo on wall use wierd-looking one sheet in handsome frame. Cut out eye balls and use small white globes, having them blink all through presentation. The same with elk's head, owl's head, bear head and tiger head on rugs. Use a little powder in cuspidor on a fuse, so when a switch is turned on it will throw out a puff of smoke.

Use a green spotlight from booth or balcony. Spot each separate piece

Use a green spotlight from booth or balcony. Spot each separate piece of furniture and prop on stage. As one spots the door it opens and shuts; spot on rocking chair, it rocks; spot on French window, a head appears. (Use a wax head. You can get one from any department store.) LOUD SCREAM as spot leaves head. Spot photo on wall, eyes in head blink; spot other door, it opens and mysterious looking deformed hand and arm appears. Run hand up and down door casing; hand disappears, door closes. Spot cuspidor, turn switch and powder goes off; spot swivel chair; it turns round.

Throw three black cats on stage—one through window and each door. For finish of act or presentation, use skeleton walking across the stage. A skeleton can be secured from any doctor; strings attached to each foot will make it walk. Ilave skull hanging from wire. One man pulls skeleton, other man pulls strings at feet. Use red lights in skull's eyes, green spot on skeleton.

We are grateful to Mr. H. L. Laurence, the manager of the Capitol Theatre in Paris, Tenn., for this suggestion and we certainly hope that many of our members and readers find it worth while to try it.

This, by the way, will give you some idea of how neatly Mr. Laurence keeps the front of the Capitol. You will note that the display frames, signs, under - marquee sign, etc., are all attractive and do not leave an impression of "too much" when you see the theatre.

Just another proof that you don't need fifty thousand dollar theatre fronts to make a nice looking theatre. Take what you have and work out the best layout feasible. That's the best advice we can offer, and here is visible proof that it can be done.

Let's hear from you again, H. L., and tell us how things are going down your way.

Richard Dorman Uses Theatre Front For Good Displays

Manager Richmond Dorman used a teaser stunt to drum up the mystery angle of "Dr. Fu Manchu" playing at the Florida Theatre, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Five days in advance of play date flasher buttons were placed in the lights of the windows of the Plaza Theatre (another house) directly across the street from the Florida.

As the Plaza Theatre has been closed since early Spring, these lights blinking at different intervals caused much speculation even to the extent of queries being received at the newspaper offices as to what was wrong at the Plaza.

Dorman also projected a shadow of a huge hand on the side of the Plaza at nights and this coupled with the lights made a distinct impression on everyone passing the theatre.

During the showing of "Dr. Fu Manchu" a card announcing the picture was placed up with this display.

The front of the theatre was modeled to represent a Chinese house which helped add the proper atmosphere to the picture as well as cause favorable comment.

Dorman's activities have always commanded a lot of attention from our many members and readers because of the fine thorough way that he seems to have in the engineering of whatever he sets out to do.

If for no other reason we would be glad to give Dick all the space he wants to tell about his different stunts and campaigns. It's up to you Dorman, and if you have something else to pass along, remember we are here waiting for it.

In case you don't believe he had that vacation, he has furnished us with evidence in the form of a snapshot showing him devastating a perfectly good fruit tree.

By the way, F. M., outside of eating fruit, you might tell us what else you were doing to kill time and to accumulate a lot of surplus energy while on your vacation.

Coughlin has made us a promise some day he will sit down and write us a nice long letter, which will tell us all about the northern part of the country and here is something that we shall look forward to. Thanks, for your invitation and I will certainly keep in mind to pay you a visit if I am ever around Duluth.

"Novelty"-Keynote Of Abe Cohen's Many Activities

These few photographs will give you a faint idea of how Abe Cohen, Manager of the Strand Theatre at Massena, N. Y., exploits his attraction.

We were particularly impressed with his thorough campaign on "The Broadway Melody," and show three photos dealing with this particular subject.

The top shows the effective marquee sign hanging under his canopy, the second a truck advertising the picture which was cruising throughout and around the city, and the lower photo shows a very attractive window setting dealing with the records and sheet music from the attraction.

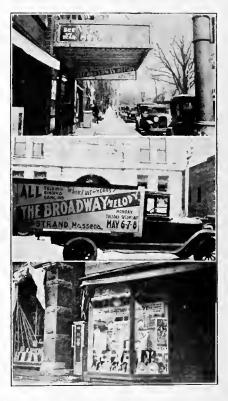

Another interesting phase of Mr. Cohen's ballyhoo and exploitation work, shows the impressive front as he had it dressed for "The Patent Leather Kid" last winter and what we particularly liked was the temporary but attractive electric sign built above his marquee. As you will note, the cutout and entire dressing of the front, regardless of its rather small size, is nevertheless of the kind that will attract passer-by.

We certainly like the way Abe has been handling his job up there in Massena, and we know that our members will be just as pleased to read more about this energetic manager as we are.

Oliver certainly would show just how far he has progressed in the way of showmanship if he would but keep us posted on some of the interesting exploitation and advertising which we are certain he is putting across out there on the Coast.

Although new to the CLUB and fresh from "collitch" (as he puts it), we should certainly like to pass on some contribution from him to our other members and readers.

And, by the way, Oliver, a photograph of yourself would just top the story off to perfection. What do you say?

Grand Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa. The Creed Of The Round Table Club:

"ALL FOR ONE AND

ONE FOR ALL"

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

Some men are such natural born showmen, that we just sort of take it for granted that everything they put their shoulders to will turn out successfully.

Of just such stuff is a fellow named Williams out in the American Theatre, of Colorado Springs, Colo., made of Let us tell you just this much about this man:

He was sent to the American Theatre from Florida some ten weeks ago to take hold of a theatre that has been losing all kinds of money, and he had been in Colorado Springs only a short time when he had the whole town and the surrounding neighborhood talking about him and the theatre, Just how he created this remarkable interest in a theatre which was none too popular with the theatre going public was the result of proper management, creating and working out an organization with his staff and, chiefly, pulling something new with every show that came into the theatre.

The population of Calorado Springs is 38,000. The Annetes Theater seats 800, and by running 5 shows a day can accumodate 4,000 people a day and in 7 days can only seat 28,000 people a Coording to these figures there will be 19,000 people in Colorado Springs that are going to be disappointed on the bing able to see

At the AMERICA THEATRE for One Week STARLING SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 22nd

Just one example of this man's remarkable s h o w m a n s h i p is shown with this article in the way he set up an envelope which he uses on his mailing list. Incidentally this envelope went out to 9,000 addresses and you can figure out the interest he created.

In addition to his regular exploitation work, he has created and executed fronts for the theatre and marquee that compare to Broadway or the Loop.

Realizing the terrific task he has before him, he is constantly on the job and trying to get the house in just the condition where he can relax a little bit. He has a reputation in Colorado Springs for being at the bank, newspaper offices and the theatre all at once, and the janitor gets many surprises when he sees his boss walk in and open up the house.

He possesses one particular qualification which perhaps stands out above everything else that any man can do, and that is: HE NEVER ASKS ANY ONE TO DO A SINGLE THING THAT HE WOULDN'T DO HIMSELF.

We shall be glad to tell you a lot more about Manager Williams, of the American Theatre in Colorado Springs, as soon as we are able to learn a little bit more about him.

Wally Baker Is Gen. Mgr. For Two Houses In England

It seems that when we announced the formal introduction of Wally Baker on the CLUB pages, we did not have the correct information on hand as to his position in England.

In order that we may set you straight regarding this livewire ROUND TABLE CLUB member, we want you to know that he is the general manager of two picture theatres in one of the most important industrial counties in England, namely, Lancashire, where he operates the Palladium, in Oldham, and the Palladium, in Stockport.

Britain, which says, "What Lancashire thinks today, England does tomorrow." And it is Wally's intention to live up to it in everything he does in the show business.

Mr. Baker has promised us in his letter that he will send particulars on everything that is going on at both his theatres, and we thank him for the good wishes for the success of the ROUND TABLE CLUB members and extend to him our best wishes for all the success he so well deserves.

We will certainly look forward with interest to the contributions from this English manager.

Non-Sync. Organ Specialities Used At B'klyn Avalon

Just because your theatre may not carry an orchestra or organist is no reason why your patrons cannot continue to enjoy the illustrated song specialties, which for a while were so popular in any theatre throughout the country.

Harold Garfinkle, Manager of the Avalon Theatre, in Brooklyn, N. Y., successfully met this situation by securing a phonograph record, a set of slides and with a few rehearsals had them both synchronized perfectly.

We witnessed one of these specialties and the audience reaction was tremendous. They applauded for several minutes after the specialty was over, with the result that the Avalon is going to continue using this fine specialty.

There are many other theatres throughout the country, who would welcome a suggestion of this kind because they had to drop singing specialties from their programs when they let the orchestra and organists out for "sound," and we suggest they give this a little consideration, and if necessary drop us a line and we will gladly furnish fuller details regarding same.

Canadian Members!

You have probably noticed that we have not grouped your material on a special page during the past few weeks.

The reason for running it as we do, (several items distributed throughout each issue) is to give our Canadian members representation in every issue, if possible, and not place their material aside until a page or two accumulates.

We believe our members in Canada will approve of this method of handling their contributions to the Club pages.

MANA

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

"Community Spirit" A Vital Factor Says Pete Egan

Herewith we present, with great pleasure, a subject on which Pete Egan, of the Capitol Theatre, Regina, Saskatchewan, addressed the Western Division Managers' Convention at Vancouver just recently.

We believe that the keynote of this article is of vital importance to every real theatre manager and showman

A few days ago I drove through two Saskatchewan towns. One was larger than the other it is true. But none the less one would be blind, deaf and dumb, and totally paralyzed not to notice the difference between these two unnamed places.

In one there were very few trees—many unpainted houses—few signs of energetic action on the part of the people to make their town attractive. In the other well-planned streets were lined with trees, the lawns were green and abundant, the business section was very much alive, and everywhere were many evidences that this town was on the map. What is the cause of all this? I feel that I am safe in saying that 75 per cent of the explanation lies in this—a proper community spirit.

A proper community spirit can transform a village into a town that is talked about—a town into a city, and it can and does keep a city before the eyes of the public. The lack of it can ruin the best place on earth. Now if this thing we call a proper community spirit is so valuable it would be well for us to consider for a little just what it is. Can you buy this spirit in the market of the world? Are you able to import it from other countries? Can you erect an institution in which this strong spirit may be distilled for public use? This necessary factor in a community's life is neither bought nor sold, for it costs nothing, and yet it is one of the most valuable of all the assets of any place.

It is as contagious as measles, and yet the health department of every city lives in hope that it will always be at the epidemic stage.

It is given freely by the right-minded people of the place and withheld sometimes as though it cost the world's wealth to give it. The name of its mother is co-operation. Let a city develop the factional spirit—the spirit of distrust and jealousy—the knocking attitude and the false methods of the gang, and that city is really on the fair way to min.

gang, and that city is really on the fair way to ruin.

Now a theatre is one of the institutions of a town or city.
We are in the business of exchange just as a bank, or a mercantile establishment, or a firm of brokers is in business.
We are selling entertainment on the same basis as a merchant sells shoes—cost plus a reasonable margin of profit. There are elements which enter into our work which are different and which are unique, but the bedrock principle is the same. Hence a theatre will suffer from the lack of community spirit on the same proportion as all business will suffer, and likewise it will benefit from a proper community spirit.

I mean by that, simply, that in a place where this spirit is properly developed there will be a wholesome enthusiasm for our programmes. There will be more than that. Where there is a proper community spirit patrons of the theatre will give the management the advantage of constructive criticism. Where this spirit is lacking the criticism will be made to the detriment of the theatre.

Frank F. Mickley, says:

"I want to say that I am getting a lot of good points out of the CLUB and have used some things in it to very good advantage. In fact I turn to the CLUB news first when I receive the NEWS each week.

If I can ever be of any assistance to any of the boys, please call upon me.

Cameo Theatre, Allentown, Pa. The question may well be asked. What can a theatre do to help develop a proper community spirit? The answer is surely not difficult to find. In the first place the theatre management must show itself willing to cooperate in every worshwhile community undertaking. If a convention is meeting in the city or town, then let the theatre lead the way in special decorations for the occasion, and in the putting out of welcome placards.

Again, when a community project is on the theatre can help greatly by extending the courtesy of five minute's time to a selected speaker on the enterprise (by this I mean matters like the Red Cross, etc.) Just here, of course, care must be exercised in case some one may take advantage of this to occupy more time than the patrons will stand for. However, I believe, used with discrimination this bit or service to the community invariably tends to make friends for the theatre.

community invariably tends to make friends for the theatre. In connection with the occasional free entertainment—there are some things which we can do which will help to develop a proper community spirit. In most cities there is a crippled kiddies' hospital. Several of the little people are always at a stage in their treatment where they can be brought to a show, and any service club in the city or town is always willing to provide transportation to and from the theatre.

After all the problem of community life is one of the basic problems of all life. The problem is that of learning to live together. The liquid air professor told us the other day in Regina that even molecules get together when the temperature goes down. So in the presence of all the pressing needs of life with prejudice towards none we need to learn to get together. And the true basis of this is friendship that overlaps all barriers of race, creed, politics and natural prejudice.

Then we are told that he who would have friends must show

Then we are told that he who would have friends must show himself friendly. If a theatre shows itself friendly it will certainly have friends, too. And our business, like every other business, needs to live in the midst of such a spirit.

J. F. Thames Another Go-Getting Young Showman

And now we present to our members, J. F. Thames, Jr., Manager of the Istrione Theatre, Jackson, Miss.

Mr. Thames is another one of our typical aggressive, young showmen, and sive, young showmen, and from all appearances, (not only of his picture, but of the material which he is continually engineering), we believe that he will make his mark in the show business.

Among his other accomplishments is the ability of doing art poster work, and we are delighted to be able to show some of the things that he has done along these lines.

Since he must do this work only in his spare time, it naturally lacks a whole lot of the fine points which would come to a man who could do it more frequently. However, what we show you here is even far superior to many of the art posters turned out by the so-called professionals in this line.

Thank you J. F. and let's hear from you early and often.

lished a precedent in Zanesville by being held over a second week at their Quimby Theatre.

We know that the Brown organization as well as its President, Mr. Caldwell H. Brown, is pulling some mighty fine showmanship out there in Zanesville, and we would be delighted at the opportunity of passing along some of their activities via these pages.

Sorry I didn't meet you at the Gus Sun party this year, Mr. Brown, but we will have to blame that on Gus Sun,—because there was no party.

O. F. Glass' House in North Platte Soon To Be Open

Here is a snap-shot of the new theatre being constructed at North Platte, Nebr., for the McCook Amusement Co., of which O. Fred Glass, one of our ROUND TABLE CLUB boosters, is the head.

This snapshot gives promise of a mighty fine theatre when it is finished and we certainly hope that the McCook Amusement Company meets with the success they deserve for their confidence in the theatre-going public of North Platte by building this beautiful theatre.

We are going to keep this snap-shot handy, and when we have a photograph of the completed front we will publish it alongside of this one to just show what the house looked like during its early stages of construction and when it was finished.

Be sure and keep us posted on what is going on, will you, Glass? Thanks a lot in advance.

Sid Lawrence Continues To Use Good Will As B. O. Plug

Our old friend, Sid Lawrence, still continues his good-will activities at the Lockport Palace Theatre, in Lockport, N. Y.

His latest achievement was bringing Mr. T. E. De-

Vor, the District Superintendent of Service of the Electrical Research Products, Inc., into Lockport to address the local Rotary Club.

In addition to creating a marvelous impression and entertaining the large turnout at the luncheon, Mr. DeVor was introduced by Sid personally and the theatre came in for a lot of good praise. His activities in Kiwanis, Rotary and other local organizations has been one of his greatest steps in welding a marvelous spirit of community welfare between any theatre he manages and the public in general. And this latest stunt of his was not a bit surprising to your Chairman.

Sid is going to work the old turtle gag on the "Noah's Ark" picture offering $10 to anyone who can make the turtles spell out the title of the picture. He has promised us some photographs and a more detailed description in an early letter, so we have something to look forward to.

Thanks a lot, Sid, and let's hear from you again real soon.

Stevenson's Ads Are B. O. Magnets For Lincoln Thea.

D. F. Stevenson, Director of Publicity for the Lincoln Theatre, in Trenton, N. J., and an active member of the ROUND TABLE CLUB, drops us a line to tell us that he is going to shoot along some stunts that he especially engineered in conjunction with several recent productions, that he has had to handle at the Lincoln Theatre.

At the same time, "D. F." passes along the mighty fine sample of real newspaper advertising. You will note from these four ads, how Stevenson believes that plain type is far more attractive and impressive than illustrations, which for the time being are just left out because they have been overdone by everyone else.

Which is damn good logic in any man's town, so if you find anything in these ads that is of value to you, take a tip and make use of them, because he knows his onions, and what he accomplished is worthy of the attention of any of us.

We'll be waiting, "D. F." for those promised stunts.

Matt Reilly Still Ballyhooing Some Good Ones In R. I.

Matt Reilly, Manager of the Victory Theater, in Providence, R. I., not only succeeded in stopping traffic, but he drew plenty of extra B. O. trade, with a mighty novel exploitation stunt on "Street Girl."

The dope is practically set forth by glancing at the photograph with this story, but in case you don't quite get the idea we want you to know that a very pretty blonde young lady, advertised as the "Pajama Girl' entertained with a one-girl Fashion Show. (Her entire wardrobe consisting of a suit of striped pajamas.)

Matt has been engineering some mighty good publicity for the Victory Theatre, and his exploitation stunts have created quite a lot of comment in and around his section of New England.

Why not pass along some more of this stuff so that we can, in turn, let the other boys see what you are doing.

Crban has come through in response to our many requests with one of his recent photos, as well as some pic-

You will note from the picture of the front of the theatre how effectively the plain block lettering of his sign makes Jolson's name stand out, and that, after all, is what he was out to sell. On the picture of the Five and Ten Cent Store tie-up, you must admit that they have a beautiful a n d attractive window display, which must have certainly attracted a tremendous amount of interest besides building up a desire on the part of those seeing this display to see the picture.

or whether it came out of the press book, it is nevertheless effective because he makes good use of the large display type, and this admust certainly have commanded attention from anyone looking through the local paper.

In addition to the pictures shown with this story, he had several other displays in different music stores around the town. Three days in advance of the opening a truck was on the streets of Mansfield carrying a twenty-four sheet banner and phonograph which played the song hits from the picture. The only cost to the theatre for this stunt was the banner. The phonograph records and truck were furnished free as these dealers were given credit on the truck. Another detail of the campaign was an airplane carrying Jolson's name flying all over surrounding towns and dropping heralds announcing the opening of the attraction. We are certainly glad to pass on this campaign of Anderson's and sincerely trust that he will continue to keep us posted on his future activities in the show business.

Box Office Angles

I have never attempted to set myself up as a picture critic, but strictly from the Exhibitors' and Box Office viewpoint, I would say that any of you boys who have "The Greene Murder Case" booked for your theatre should know right now that you have a box office knockout.

Here is a picture that, besides being way above the ordinary in entertainment value, possesses a million angles for exploitation. This is one picture you can rave about, and what's more, the eash customers can never claim, after they have seen it, that you have exaggerated anything you say.

Take this tip from me,—if you want to wear out the Ticket Register Machine, get behind "The Greene Murder Case" because you can make up your mind right now it is going to do business.

Talking about Box Office angle of pictures makes me say that if you have to play Bill Haines in "Speedway," you have to do some tall plugging to keep the cash customers happy when they leave your theatre.

Outside of his name and Anita Page, who does not get much of an opportunity to make herself conspicuous in this picture, you have nothing to sell but a lot of exciting race track scenes and for this reason you will have to bolster up your program when you run "Speedway."

From the exploitation angle, you will find many of the old gags will fit here perfectly. The flivver with the home-made racing body and all the other stunts can all be used to good advantage, but I can only tell you that this one is nothing to write home to the folks about.

Several of the boys have asked me whether I have seen "Our Modern Maidens" and what I thought of it for a box office bet.

This much I will say, "Our Modern Maidens" don't come anywhere near holding a candle to "Dancing Daughters," but, regardless of how much the local critics may pick it to pieces, it is going to do business.

You have a cast and plenty of good angles to sell this picture, so don't be afraid of it. But I wouldn't draw too many comparisons between this production and "Our Dancing Daughters" in advertising it.

Nolan Uses Good Tie-Up For "Black Watch" In Ottawa

Manager "Patty" Nolan, at the Avalon Theatre, in Ottawa, Canada, engineered a good one when he had an Irishman entertain a whole regiment of Highlanders on Friday, the thirteenth and reported that a delightful time was had by all.

The occasion for this stunt was the parade of the Thirty-Eighth Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, affiliated with the famous "Black Watch" Regiment, and this parade marched to the Avalon Theatre, where the kilties were the guests of Manager Nolan,

With all of these fine activities finding their way to CLUB pages from our new peppy crowd in Canada, we hope that managers in other parts of the world find their doings as interesting as they have found their brother managers' experiences. We hope they continue this fine work.

Marc. J. Wolf's Activities Are Attracting Results

Plain, inexpensive beaverboard, plus a little paint and a little showmanship created this attractive front for the Palace Theatre, in Gary, Indiana, under the direction of Marc J. Wolf, the mgr.

The only colors employed in the entire layout were black, grev and white, the the mystery angle of the picture was through this arrangement. There is no denying the effectiveness of Mr. Wolf's showmanship, and that it attracted plenty of attention in Gary is taken for granted.

Another angle of Mr. Wolf's that we would like to call your attention to is the miniature stage which he built in the lobby of the Palace, and which attracted a tremendous amount of interest, not only among regular patrons of the theatre, but others who passed by or through the lobby of the house.

This miniature stage was 6 ft. long and 5 ft. wide and 3

ft. deep, and was practical in every respect. There were two sets of border lights, foot-lights, wings, drops, drapes, etc., and every bit of it was working.

On the stage was an endless belt motor driven on which was attached cutouts of the chorus, principals, also the words Fox Movietone Follies. This belt moved continuously and with the girls appearing and disappearing in and out of the wings it attracted much attention. There was a crowd watching the display at all hours of the day. Great work, Marc, and let's hear more about your up-to-theminute activities.

Notice To New Members

In the event that your Membership Certificate was not received as soon as you expected it, kindly keep in mind that to get these certificates out a certain routine must be observed.

They are first sent to the artist for the lettering and then to the framers, where they are placed in the attractive frames which are sent out to members in.

They are then carefully packed, labeled and shipped. All of these operations require a certain amount of time and certificates cannot be expected by new members in less than four weeks after their applications for membership have been received.

Kindly keep this in mind, and bear with us if you feel that there is any unnecessary delay.

Thank you.

E.E. Bair Always Springs New Ones At His Theatres

Our good friend, E. E. Bair, Manager of the State Theatre, East Liverpool, Ohio, offers a mighty good suggestion.

In this photograph showing the "poor" business at the State Theatre in a fine night shot, you will notice how > his upright sign stands out so prominently.

> Well, E. E.'s idea was after taking his photograph that he could get a fine looking signature cut for a newspaper ad. and the accompanying ad shows how he used this idea to good advantage.

> This is a mighty good suggestion, and if there is some sign on your theatre that lends itself to this idea, why not take advantage of it?

We also want you all to take a look an another angle of the usher advertising idea which Mr. Bair recently used in the form of a regular newspaper ad.

Mr. Bair informs us that Mr. B. C. Bailey, connected with the local newspaper staff, was entirely responsible for this ad, and it gives the ROUND TABLE CLUB great pleasure in publicly crediting him with the fine work that he is doing in co-operation with Mr.

Bair.

You probably all recall the fine usher card angle which we received originally from Mr. Bair, and this is right in line with the same idea, we suggest that you take advantage of it as soon as you can. It is damned good advertising, and I am sure Mr. Bair, would gladly tell you where to get (YOUR USHER SPEAKING) Ladies and Gentlemen the cut that goes with Due to the Tremendous Crowds I Advise You to Come Early it, Write him direct to the State or American Theatre, East Shows Every Night 6:00 8:00 10:00 P. you again very soon.

The Real Club Spirit! "All For One And One For All"

"Don't Be A Step-Child"

I made a little trip to a theatre not far from New York last week-end because I had heard of some fine exploitation being engineered and felt that since the manager of the house was a member of the Club he should certainly tell me why he had failed to send in some of the details of his campaigns.

After meeting this manager (the first time I had the pleasure) we spent a mighty interesting hour chatting about the business in general and his theatre in particular.

When I brought up the primary object of my visit he was very frank to tell me:-"I didn't think anyone would want to waste good magazine space on anything I had to say. I've always thought that a manager had to be a 'big shot' or connected with one of the large chains in order to get something printed in a trade paper."

Now that I have convinced this manager that he was all wrong to entertain any such impression, I hasten to shout to the show-world at large and every manager and showman in the business that as far as the MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB OF MOTION PICTURE NEWS is concerned no one is a "step child"

Our Club pages are just as wide open for the "little" guy as well as the bigger boys.

As a truthful statement of fact, I, personally, would sooner give space on these pages to the little fellows than the big ones. And I'm sure that the big boys won't feel peeved at my saying so because we can all learn something new from some of the managers in the smaller theatres and Get wise you showmen and don't keep yourself a deep, dark secret. Here is the medium for everybody to come out in the open and make themselves known to the whole industry.

If more and more showmen every day were not agreeing with our viewpoint, why would we be increasing the number of pages so often?

We said it and we repeat it: We are—

"ALL FOR ONE AND ONE FOR ALL." And How-!!!

Prendergast Is Proud Of His Club Membership

Mr. Prendergast was very proud to receive his attractive Membership Certificate and promises us, in the very near future, a photograph of the certificate hanging on the wall of his office.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE

Jack O'Connell Back At Helm Of Vita-Temple

We are sure that it will be great news, not only to the other members of the ROUND TABLE CLUB, but showmen in general, especially out through the Middle West, that our friend, Jack O'Connell, who made theatrical history when he put over the Vita-Temple Theatre, Toledo, is once more back at that post, having signed up for another year.

It was only a short time ago, at the beginning of the summer season that we announced that Jack had resigned and was going to Europe for a much needed rest, upon his return he was prevailed upon to once more take a hold of the Vita-Temple, and so we can again look forward to reading from time to time about the fine stuff he is engineering in that theatre.

The MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB, through its Chairman, presents to Jack their best wishes for another great season and hope that he keeps us informed of his activities via the CLUB pages.

Al W. Gillis Was Responsible For Fox-Poli Opening

Al W. Gillis has certainly measured to the task which Hershel Stuart placed upon his shoulders in preparing all the opening exploitation and advertising for the rejuvinated Fox-Poli Theatre, in Springfield, Mass.

Mr. Gillis, as you will recall, handles the theatres in Meriden, Conn., and through his ability to handle big openings, Mr. Stuart drafted him for Springfield.

How well he handled his job can be best answered by calling your attention to the reproduction of the newspaper tie-ups which he effected in a supplespecial ment of the Springfield Union.

This supplement, in addition to the full page we are showing. carried interesting photographs. readers, cuts and advertisementsall pertaining to the new house. Prominent on the second page of the supplement is the credit for the exploitation work done under the direction of M Gillis, together with his own photograph, and we are sure he was entitled to this recog nition for the hard work that he put into the job.

He did not lose sight of any angles and among the pictures in the special section was one taken in a nearby park showing the 15 usherettes and (and every one a little beauty), all dressed in their natty uniforms.

The manager for the rebuilt theatre will be Samuel Torgin, a native New Englander, who was born in New Bedford and a resident of Providence, R. L. for many years. In this respect he has a thorough understanding of the New England viewpoint as regards theatrical and stage shows. Torgin was discovered, if we may use that word, by Mr. Stuart, and under his guidance has developed into a marvelous showman. We are certain that he will carry on the fine start that Al had left in the advertising and exploitation of the reopened house.

With the Springfield Theatre now under way, and headed for a big season, Mr. Gillis has returned to look after the Meriden houses and from that city we expect to hear frequently about his various activities in the show world.

There is one feature about Mr. Gillis' advertising and publicity experience that many other showmen could well afford to copy, that is:

in all the reading matter he prepares for his various stories, he uses as little salve as possible, he confines it mostly to news the average citizen would like to know about his local theatre, and in this respect Al certainly shows that he is what we have always claimed him to be-a darned good

More about Al as fast as he keeps us posted.

Changing Main St., To B'way, A Good Gag For Salt Lake

were plugging, but at any rate, it was a good gag and the picture which we are showing with this story will give you some idea of how the good looking girlies corralled names for the petition.

We have heard some interesting things about the Capitol at Salt Lake City, and we are wondering why they keep themselves so deep and dark a mystery, when the eyes of the industry are now directed at every theatre and showman with ability to put things over.

Ralph Cokain Offers An Opinion On "Tin" Ushers

A long time ago we wrote a story about a youngster named Ralph Cokain, who was the advertising manager for several theatres in Marion, Ind.

This youngster, we were certain would make a mark for himself and we are still of the same opinion. And at this time we want to present to our many members and readers a short article which he has captioned "Theatre Routine" and which we are sure contains some mighty sensible advice, especially when applied to smaller towns and theatres.

Read on for yourself and you will be surprised at the common sense and good showmanship displayed by this boy:

Theatre Routine

By RALPH COKAIN

Advertising Mgr., Indiana Theatre, Marion, Ind.

I have not yet had supervision over employees in any of our theatres, but my experience and close affiliation enables me to give you the results of my observations, and things I would do if I were managing a theatre.

In the first place, I do not think strict iron-clad rules should be imposed on all employees. There are exceptions, of course, but if the manager lets an employee do his work on his own honesty, it will be better for all concerned. Some managers are afraid to go out of town and leave their theatre for even a day, because they think nothing will go smooth while they are gone. If I was manager, I'd go out of town without worrying about my theatre, fully knowing that my help was competent and efficient enough to take care care of all difficulties that might arise.

The question of employing ushers is one that must be worked out by the individual theatre owner himself. Personally, I do not think the manager should take part in the hiring or firing of them. A good method is to employ a captain of ushers, who hires his own men, teaches them the rules, and fires them if they do not possess the qualities he deems necessary for a good usher. In the larger cities, military training is a wise method of making them polite and refined, but in the smaller towns, some differences must be allowed. There are different types of people. The exhibitor in the small or average town is going to the extreme, in my opinion, when he attempts to make his ushers "tin soldiers." His patrons are not attempts to make his ushers "tin soldiers." His patrons are not used to this, and they sometimes resent it. It should be much better if he taught his ushers to be polite at all times, and to be HUMAN, not tin soldiers. This will be appreciated by his patrons, because they themselves are, we presume, HUMANS. In the big cities, the patrons have been educated to expect military discipline from the ushers. Therefore, the size of the town in which you operate determines the methods you use in taking care of your patrons through the employment of ushers.

Thank you, Ralph, and I wish you would make it a point to keep in touch with us more often, as we know you are engineering some mighty fine stuff out in Marion, Ind.

C. H. CHIDLEY has his hands full looking after the destiny of the Rialto Theatre out in Casper, Wyoming, and we were sure glad to welcome him into the Club because we happen to be light on membership out his way and once we get him "bet" up about this peppy organization of ours we know we can count on him to plug for the outfit. How about this, Chidley? And also how about your own photo? Thanks, HAROLD L. RICHARDSON manages the Smalley's Theatre, in Fort Plain, N. Y., and you may recall only a short time ago the story we printed about his various and numerous activities up that way. But we must keep him interested and contributing right along now to these pages. Don't forget, Harold, all the boys pages. Don't terret, flaroid, all the boys like to read about the stuff you are engi-neering in Fort Plein. And your photo would be a good way to start off your second article on the Club pages.

Proposed by Merle R. Blair:

JACK KUECH, manager of the Hildreth and Gem Theatres, in Charles City, Iowa, and a showman whose ability to namage a theatre and sell the shows to the public should be mighty interesting reading for every one of us in future issues of the Club pages. Listen, Jack, how about a short letter, just for a starter, telling us a little about your past experiences in this business? (And be sure to enclose your own photo.)

C. D. ARMENTROUT manages the lowa Theatre, in Masen City, Iowa Although "C. D." has only a small house he nevertheless manages to keep the customers coming often enough to show that he knows what it is all about. Some of the little stunts he is always putting over out there should be of interest to our many memhers and readers. BUT we cannot pass them along until he sends them. How about this, Armstrong?

Proposed by Ernest R. Lim:

TH. TH. VAN DER IE (sounds rather hard to pronounce but welcome just the same). This gentleman, brother members, manages the Central Bioscope Theatre, in Meester Cornelis, which is located in West Java, D. E. Chicago Assistant House Manager Kills Perpetrator Of Many Theatre Robberies

C HICAGO's theatre bandit terrole last Sunday night when he was shot three times and killed as he was making an escape from the McVickers Theatre with loot amounting to $4,500. Recognized as the thief who a year ago held up the Chicago Theatre and escaped with $6,500 and identified as the perpetrator of numerous other theatre holdups in which his cunning and nerve have safely carried him through, the thief who remains unidentified, fell a victim to an ingenious bit of precaution taken at the McVickers Theatre for just such an incident. The precaution consisted of a false door knob with which the robber fumbled a few brief seconds-sufficient time, however, to enable Bernard Cobb, assistant manager at the McVickers to get his gun and shoot the thief three times in the head through a peek-hole panel, also a part of the trap, in a door immediately behind the one through diately behind the one through which the robber was about to make his get-away.

The robbery occurred at 10:15 Sunday evening while a capacity house and a waiting line were on the last performance. Cobb had just escorted Miss Doris Cahill, one of the cashiers, to the treasurer's office. As he left her in the office he was confronted by the armed robber whom he recog nized as the same one that had held up the Chicago Theatre just a year ago to the week. With a gun at his side, Cobb was forced to cali on D. R. Kennedy, cashier, to open the door. B. Hansen, secretary of the theatre was also in the room.

While the bandit covered the quartette he swept a pile of currency and silver into a canvass bag and with a warning for five minutes," closed the door behind him and made ready to leave through the door in the adjoining office.

Cohb drew his gun, pushed back the slide that covered the peep hole in the door the bandit had just closed and fired three times in the space of the few seconds that the robber fumbled at the false door knob. All three shots took effect in the back of his head.

In addition to the Chicago Theatre job of a year ago the dead robber is believed to be responsible for recent holdups at the Avalon Theare, the Congress, the Grove and Howard Theatres.

At a coroner's jury following the shooting, Bernard Cobb was exonerated and commended by the jury for his hravery.

NEW BEAUTY for the SOUND SCREEN

Eastman sonochrome embraces the widest range of tinted positive films that has ever been available for the screen. And—what is all-important in this new age—the sixteen delicate Sonochrome tints are so adjusted as not to interfere with the faithful reproduction of sound....Successors to the tints of the silent era, these Eastman films bring new color moods—new beauty—to the sound screen.

"THE LUNKHEAD" Yack Sennett Talking Comedy

One of the finest Sennett Comedies to enter the current scene is "The Lunkhead." starring Harry Gribbon, who can apparently lay claim to the title of "the screen's dumbest man" . . . and Gribbon just wrings every sequence dry of laughs so that they're popping every minute. It is one of those rare comedies which is just about flawless. It is frankly, unashamedly funny, and it won't take long for an audience to take it to heart and laugh uproariously ... It is a knock-out number. -M. P. NEWS

THE MAN ON THE COVER!

HARRY LANGDON gets first place in the week's news because with only two TALKING comedies released thus far he has leaped to the top of the talking shorts along with M-G-M's LAUREL-HARDY, "OUR GANG," CHARLIE CHASE, COLORTONE RE-VUES. All of them Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, naturally!

Sound And The Short Subject Producer

COUND is apparently a made-toorder situation for certain short subject producers. For instance, take Educational's offerings at last week's trade showing in the RCA studios. Three pictures were shown that deserve a prominent position on the bill of any de luxe theatre. They are: "The Golfers" (Sennett) "Fire Proof" (Lupino Lane) and "Peaceful Alley" (Lloyd Hamilton).

Not only do these comedies strike a new and higher grade note in short subject production, but what dialogue has accomplished for certain players is also particularly noticeable. Hamilton and Lupino Lane, always featured as silent players, take to the new process film as fish take to water, and are more attractive film personalities than ever before.—E. G. J.

¶ "Paramount pulls one out of the bag that tops them all as a box office draw!" yells Exhibitors' Daily Review of "Why Bring That Up?" ¶ At the long run Rialto, New York, the ticket takers are getting arm-weary as the crowds surge in. In Buffalo, New London, everywhere the Two Black Crows have lit so far, the story is the same: A SELLOUT! ¶ The same magic touch that put Moran and Mack over on the stage, the air and the phonograph, is working overtime on the talking screen! Gentlemen, here's one of those great super-attractions the New Show World makes possible. All the famous Two Black Crows comedy, plus a big supporting cast headed by Evelyn Brent and Harry Green. Plus story by Octavus Roy Cohen. Plus direction by the Broadway stage wizard, George Abbott. Plus song hits and a girly-girly revne. ¶ Better bring up "Why Bring That Up?" with your Paramount exchange TODAY!

ANOTHER NEW SHOW WORLD HIT FROM THE HEAD COMPANY:

don't wear overalls with a dress suit!

¶ You can't make a hit when your ensemble doesn't match. They laugh at you and turn away. It's the same when you dress your program. You can't put on a fine feature production and then hook inferior talking shorts with it and expect to get by. The shoddy shorts will crab the whole show. It used to be hard to get quality one- and two-reelers in sound. PARAMOUNT'S entrance into the field of talking shorts solved that problem. PARAMOUNT, with the highest production standard in the business, is releasing talking shorts of the same high quality as PARAMOUNT talking features. ¶You get the leading stars of Broadway in the sparkling featurettes from PARAMOUNT'S Long Island studio, where the cream of Gay White Way talent is assembled. "These Live Wire

Showmen"

Mr. Charles E. Lewis, Managers' Round Table Club, Motion Picture News, 729 - 7th Ave., New York City.

Dear Mr. Lewis: -

October 7th, 1929.

Thank you very much for the nice things which you say in your letter of October 4th about our press sheet on Harold Lloyd in "Welcome Danger". Coming from the head of a large and influential body of theatre managers like the Round Table Club, your approval is very gratifying to us.

I am also very happy to tell you that out of the fiftyone successful contributing showmen, thirty-one are members of the Round Table Club. We certainly appreciate this cooperation from these live-wire Round Table members. They have helped us tremendously in creating a press sheet by showmen for showmen.
Wise and practical assistance like this from practical theatre men does a lot towards making press sheets more usable and will help eliminate the traditional criticism that they are created by people not familiar with the problems of theatre managers.

Please convey to the members of the Round Table Club the appreciation of the Harold Lloyd Corporation, Leslie Whelan and myself for their hearty response to our request for ideas for this press sheet. We all hope they will be rewarded by making a lot of money out of "WELCOME DANGER."

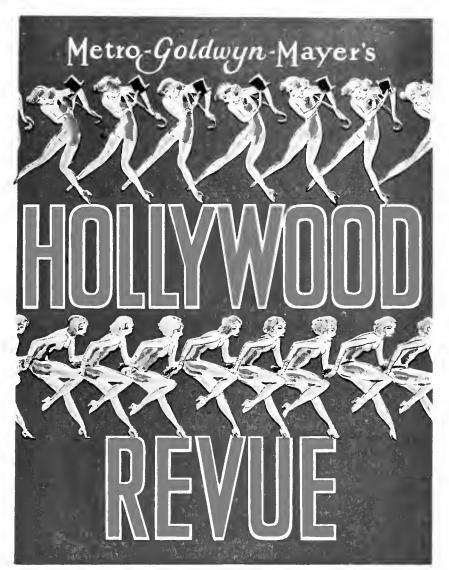

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

Russell Holman

Without question, the finest motion picture entertainment that we have ever seen is "RIO RITA." We expected much—we saw and heard ten times as much. We might also say that it opens up a new epoch in the presentation of musical and dialogue entertainment, for it is so much greater than the stage success of which it is builded that it puts the stage in eclipse.

ANOTHER UPHEAVAL LOOMS

By William A. Johnston

A NOTHER upheaval in the industry, equally as important and far reaching as that which followed the advent of sound, looms on the horizon and so far seems to have been observed only by exhibitors.

We risk possible displeasure for thus focusing attention on this newest impending change. It has been launched by Paramount, under the guidance of Russell Holman, Director of Advertising.

It concerns trade advertising and swings far from the beaten track. His first efforts away from an established form of trade paper advertising have registered effectively at the sources to which they were directed. Letters to us from theatre managers have contained comments extremely significant.

These field reactions indicate that in his pioneering courage Mr. Holman has struck a pay lode among live exhibitors that promises to become an advertising gold mine. Accordingly the idea and its possibilities assume sufficient importance to merit comment.

Mr. Holman's initial move in a new idea that sought increased sales benefit from his trade paper advertising for Paramount was in his campaign for "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu." He wrote the same text that he would have used in newspaper advertising for this production in any first class theatre.

Here was copy written for the public, but presented in a trade paper to first sell the picture to exhibitors.

As one theatre man wrote: "That advertising sold me 'Dr. Fu' because it contained text I knew would sell it to the public in my local newspaper advertising."

Thereby the campaign became double-barrelled, creating sales confidence in the production, because it convinced the exhibitor that the picture had screen merit, and, equally important, local advertising values that would bring people to his box office. There has been more exhibitor discussion about the text used in the campaign on 'Dr. Fu' than anyone at Paramount may realize, and, as we interpret the exhibitor reactions written and spoken, largely because it visualized for theatre managers that very important factor in every picture—its values for advertising by the exhibitor to the public.

Recently Mr. Holman followed up the start he made by asking exhibitors throughout the country to aid in the preparation of the press sheet for "Welcome Danger." Of the ideas submitted by theatre managers for advertising and otherwise exploiting the new Harold Lloyd production, fifty-one were accepted. Thirty-one of the ideas accepted were submitted by as many members of The Managers' Round Table Club of Motion Picture News.

The exhibitor reads the language he writes. And he writes, to the best of his ability, to bring people to his theatre. It follows that his personal reactions to the box office values offered in trade paper advertising are most productive for the advertiser when that advertising convinces him in the language he writes for his newspaper copp, that the picture has exceptional local selling angles as well as exceptional entertainment content.

To what extent this revolutionary method of advertising to exhibitors is increased in its application to product remains to be seen, but there can be no question of its interest value to exhibitors, now that the returns are in on the pioneering campaign conducted by Mr. Holman.

John Stahl Quitting T.-S.; Plans Trip Abroad; No Successor As Production Head Yet Announced

Director and Cook Negotiating Cancellation Of Balance Of Fire Year Contract

A CLLYWOOD.—John Stahl is to relinquish his post as head of production for the Tiffany-Stahl organization. A series of negotiations between the director and Grant Cook, vice president and general manager of the organization, have been in progress for a number of days tending toward the cancellation of the three years' contract between the company and Stahl. The original contract was for a period of five years.

With the passing of Stahl the control of the organization will be entirely in the hands the Detroit capital which has been financing the company. M. H. Hoffman originally organized the producing and distributing company and placed Stahl at the head of production activities later coming to the coast to exercise a general business supervision over that end of the activities.

Several months ago Hoffman sold out his interest in the organization and about six weeks ago Grant Cook, who represents the capital, came to the coast and took charge at the studios.

No successor to Stahl as active head of production has been announced as yet. Stahl is contemplating a trip abroad before resuming his picture activities.

New York's First All Night Picture Has $13,000 Gate

To Moran and Mack, the blackface team, goes the honor of inaugurating the first allnight picture performance on Broadway with "Why Bring That Up?" at the Rialto. The film opened last Friday night to a reserved seat audience and immediately thereafter started on a grind that continued for 23 hours. In that time the house did a gross business of $13,000. On Sunday, with the regular number of shows for that day the picture drew $10,500, giving it $23,500 over the week-end.

The success of the initial try at an allnight show will lead to a repeat of the experiment this week.

Drive For Tax Reduction May Result In Northwest

Scattle.—Film and vandeville houses will launch a drive to reduce Federal tax on carned incomes at the next Congress, theatremen deciding on move at special meeting of Theatre Managers' Protective Assumption of Scattle as part of drive being conducted by Hearst papers. Petitions will be circulated in houses throughout the city.

"Applesauce"

Out in front of the Criterion in New York where Paramount is presenting Miss Helen Morgan in "Applause" there is an electric sign in script lettering announcing star and attraction. A check-up of the crowds passing on the opposite side of the street revealed that two out of every five people who read the sign aloud said: "Helen Morgan in "Applesance."

To top that the "N. Y. Daily Mirror"

To top that the "N. Y. Daily Mirror" in its review morning after the opening stated in the head that the title was "Applesauce."

Canada Charters New Exhibitors Co-Operative Group

Government Makes Grant To Same Firm Which Asked Investigation Of F-P-L

Ottawa, Ont.—Dominion Government has issued Federal company charter, without share capital, to Exhibitors Co-Operative of Canada, with offices at 314 Yonge Street, Toronto. This is doubly interesting in view of the fact that it was this group of independent exhibitors which brought about inquiry into Famous Players Canadian Corp. and other motion picture firms in Canada by Canadian Government under the Combines Investigation Act. This inquiry is now proceeding under direction of Prof. Kenneth Taylor.

Exhibitors Co-Operative of Canada has member of Parliament as chairman, this being J. Earl Lawson, Toronto. Secretary is N. A. Taylor and film buyer of group is F. R. Lennon, veteran film exchange manager of Toronto.

Heyl Claims RCA Photophone Leads In Wiring Europe

Expecting a total of 200 installations in England by end of 1929, RCA Photophone is wiring 40 houses per month, it is declared by E. C. Heyl, company's foreign vierpresident who sails shortly from New York to resume foreign supervision. He claims RCA Photophone leads Enrope in wiring Continental theatres.

Edward L. Masters, one time "Hearst's" and "Cosmopolitan" promotion manager, has been appointed executive sales manager Stanley Film Advertising Co.

All Deals Off On Reade Chain Is Latest Report

Wrangle Over Values Seen As Cause; Circuit May Be Expanded

It is reported in New York City this week that Walter Reade, head of the Reade circuit of theatres in New Jersey, has definitely abandoned all plans for disposal of his holdings to any of the producer-distributor chains. Disagreement over values is the reason advanced.

A mouth and one-half ago Publix was said to have undertaken a survey of the Reade houses with a view towards purchase and at that time there seemed to be an extreme likelihood of the deal going through. Subsequent reports then liuked RKO as heing interested in securing control of the Reade houses and this gained strength with the announcement that the Columbia Theatre, a Reade house in New York City, would become an RKO theatre.

It is stated that Reade places a higher valuation on his theatre real estate than estimated by the chain anditors and that tiring of bickering over the matter has decided to cease all negotiations and proceed with an expansion program on his own.

Report Paramount In L. A. May Quit One-Week Policy

Los Angeles.—The Paramount theatre this week breaks the weekly change policy under which it has been operated by Publix to extend the engagement of "Why Bring That Up" for a second week, and reports current are that the move will mark the initiation of a long run policy.

Change from the weekly run, should such be adopted by the Paramount, would leave only one downtown first run operating on a weekly change basis, that being Loew's State. Report of a policy switch by the Paramount was not confirmed.

Fine Arts Now Enters Production; Reported Colvin Brown Joins

Hollywood.—Fine Arts, new producingdistributing organization reported headed by Colvin Brown as executive vice-president and general manager and Sam Rork, as vice-president and general production manager has arranged to produce at Metropolitan during construction of its own studio. Billy Leyser handles publicity and advertising.

Sam Wood Pinch-Hitting

Hollywood.—With Jack Conway, M-G-M director, slowly recovering from sudden appendix operation, Sam Woods has been selected to pinchhit for Conway on "Take It Big," starring Van and Schenck.

Thalberg Thoughts

MERCHANDISING—an all-important step, undoubtedly the next and yet so little attention is being paid the urgency of the problem. The task of informing the exhibitor how to exploit his wares so that the results increase as effort is applied calls far immediate solution. Who is to do it? * *

"I? * * *
"From where will the proper material come to guarantee the uninterrupted flow of high-calibered star pictures? They are the backbone of all programs, the backbone of the whole industry. The situation is always scrious, worrisome and never solved." * * *

This is Irviny Thalberg, youthful competent who pulls the strings that make the M-G-M production wheels spin, talkiny.

■ OLLYWOOD.—Where to turn for material? Another important production problem which Hollywood finds sharply divided. The scramble for stories, an ancient and honorable practice in this business, is becoming more frenzied as the weeks roll by. When it is borne in mind that this industry produces between six and eight hundred features every year, the difficulty which faces production executives will become easier to understand. Certainly the demands for stories in the silent were heavy, but by comparison with the exigency prevailing now the silent days look to many like the good old days.

The demands foisted upon the studios through the widespread use of dialogue have added many working hours to an already burdensome schedule. It is well realized in California that the days when the anything went are gone and that, in lieu of hurriedly prepared lines, dialogue, carefully conceived and timed, is vital; yet while it is true that sound has heaped many worries on Hollywood troubled minds, it is nevertheless a fact that talking pictures are gradually making for a higher standard in production. A curious truth,

When talkers are scheduled now, a certain period of time—usually generous—is set aside for preparation and rehearsals. The reasons, of course, are obvious. Once the cameras begin to grind the microphone is recording voice in unison. This opens up several opportunities for imperfection since the directors and the actors are answerable once to two masters. The extreme need for care is consequently leaving its wholesome mark.

* * *

To return to the question of stories, many argue contrawise. They declare sound as a new factor makes it possible to re-film the success of former years. Producers understand this full well, and for indications that this realization exists one need but glance quickly over current programs to note how many sound versions of pictures already filmed in silent form are planned. But here other troubles are encountered. A difficulty involved in re-makes concerns the dialogue writer. Hollywood is woefully lacking in pen-wielders with stage background.

In and around the studios it is granted that a topnotch scenarist does not necessarily make a passably good dialogue writer. The fault is nobody's in particular. Hollywood has been called upon to perform veoman's service in a direction wherein few of its constituents have had experience. Producers know it and for them it must be pointed out that the situation was early recognized and efforts made to meet it by importing in wholesale numbers practically every figure of renown or near-renown in the American theatre. Whether this introduction of creators alien to motion pictures is practicable remains to be seen.

Perhaps the fairest way of cross-indexing Hollywood's status today would be to describe what is now going on as an inbetween period where nobody can quite figure what the outcome will be. Directors whose experience hinges almost entirely around silent production are passing through extreme cases of brain fatigue in their attempts to dope out an intelligent answer to the sound question. Some of them will naturally fall by the wayside, others whose names may mean nothing today will demonstrate themselves to be the leaders of tomorrow. Stage directors who not so long ago were pretty much in the lead of the Hollywood parade are not faring so well today.

All Wide In 3 Years

MOTION Pictures will be praduced and exhibited on wide film within three years. I don't mean some motion pictures, but all. Far close-up and for intimate drama, the new film offers possibilities that defy a complete grasp at this time, yet I am confident the Iuture for this new step is assured. * *

"You ask about silent pictures? I have already expressed any belief they will remain. In what form, however, would be a foolish conjecture to make at this time. The formula that the silent film will assuaue, is unknown."

Cecil B. DeMille thus sums up his reactions on two subjects which Hollywood discusses in studios and out.

Some, of course, will survive; the remaining unquestionably will shortly find themselves back in New York devoting their energies and whatever brain-power they possess to the requirements of the legitimate stage.

Insofar as players are concerned, a parallel condition exists. Sound, as is well known, gave the opportunity long awaited to artists whose day was practically done. Then, too, the tremendous vogue for music on the screen has brought to Hollywood a number of male and female song birds, most of whom remained for one picture. A few will probably attain some degree of permanency.

All through the metamorphosis through which Hollywood is now passing, it becomes apparent that the period of change is on the increase rather than on the wane.

To attempt to set down via the printed word what the final picture will be is both impossible and futile, because it is to be seriously questioned if any one individual or any group of individuals in this entire industry can do so. One result is inevitable-and this has been pointed out previously—the American public will emerge as the prime benefactor. The picture theatres of the country have been handing out to their patrons for many years now, far more value than that public has been paying for. But what is to come this winter and next spring will be an amazing procession of de luxe entertainment such as has never before been held possible.

There will be the usual number of duds in sound exactly as there were in silent. For that nobody will prove at fault. Producers are spending more money today than ever in their history, yet they know the whole proceeding is an enormous gamble. They are hopeful that what they are trying to do will demonstrate itself to be what the American theatregoer wants to see. If their time, their energies and their efforts are found to be heading in the wrong direction, the slate will have to be cleared and the whole blooming affair started all over again. Such is the picture business!

Look For California To Swing To Allied States As Nearly 200 Exhibitors Meet On West Coast

Myers, Steffes and Hanson Explaining Organization And Franchise To Conclave Now Under Way

(Hollywood Bureou, Motion Picture News)

CLLYWOOD.—Allied leaders are confident California will be enrolled in its ranks as a result of the three-day meetings now under way here. Nearly 200 independent operators in California have gathered to listen to an exposition of the Tiffany-Stahl five-year franchise plan. Abram F. Myers, president of Allied, has just arrived to attend.

The meetings will continue until Saturday, and are being held daily at the Ambassador under direction of Al Steffes, of Allied. The gathering is the only one planned for California, and invitations to the meetings were extended to all independent exhibitors in the territories served by the San Francisco and Los Angeles exchanges.

Oscar Hanson, general sales manager of Tiffany-Stahl, has established headquarters at the Ambassador, and is discussing the entire franchise proposition with exhibitors during the convention.

Tiffany-Stahl will entertain visiting exhibitors at the local studio on Saturday afternoon, at which time the theatre owners will make a tour of inspection of the plant and watch current pictures being made.

Kansas City.—Reports of secret meetings by members of the Kansas-Missouri M.P. T.O. organization were circulated here in connection with rumors that that exhibitor body will be the next to swing over to Allied.

Paramount Astoria Lab Capacity Now Million Feet Daily

Paramount's big laboratory at Long Island City, New York, has swung into action with daily capacity of 1,000,000 feet of film. Plant is claimed to be largest of its kind in world and it is thought that Paramount will not find it necessary in future to go outside of its own organization for this class of work. Six Spoor-Thompson units with capacity of 7,000 feet per film hour are among modern equipment installed.

Regarding MCs

Hollywood, Oct., 10.—Not so long ago, a big first run fired its master of ceremonics. Regarding which one sage remarked: "Maybe he wasn't offensive enough?"

Another On De Mille

Hollywood, Oct. 10.—A new sprinkler system was recently installed in a certain coast studio, following a rather serious fire. The blaze, so the funsters have it, was caused when sixty or seventy "yes" men rushed up to light Cecil DeMille's eigarette.

Believe it or not, Hollywood chuckles over the story anyway.

Wilson's Talking Film Epics Inc., Now Organized

Has Important Backing And Will Feature School And Church Showing

The exploration and adventure films series that Frank R. Wilson is sponsoring as exclusively announced in the Motion Picture News several weeks ago has been organized under the corporate title of The Talking Picture Epics, Inc., with important financial backing including a Wall Street group directly associated with the Morgan house, and headquarters in New York. The first year's program of the organization is to include a series of exploration films with lectures synchronized by the explorers. Most of these films are the result of expeditions under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History.

Coffman Made Audio Cinema Head; Co. Is Building Astoria Plant

Andio-Cinema, newly organized firm operating at Long Island City, has completed first unit of projected $3,000,000 sound studio plant. Company's board of directors met past week and elected Joe W. Coffman, president and general manager.

It is stated that banking firm of Noah McDowell & Co. are financing project and that several legitimate producers, among whom are A. H. Woods, Erlanger interests, L. Lawrence Weber, recently conferred with officials of company with view towards screening Mctropolitan stage productions during their runs.

Berlin Eagerly Awaits Showing Of Talkie Films

Big Ufa Specials Will Be Viewed During The Next Few Weeks

By Heinrich Frankel

(Berlin Correspondent, Motion Picture News)

Berlin.—The first big German talkies will be put on the market during the next few weeks and they are being eagerly awaited by the trade. The public and press, not having witnessed any sound productions except "The Singing Fool" and a few poorly made experimental talkies, are somewhat sceptical.

There has been little active talkie development here since negotiations in London, between the Enropean and American groups, called off without any definite end obtained. London is the only eity where the latest films are being shown.

First Nat'l Signs Barthelmess For Two More Years

(Hollywood Bureou, Motion Picture News)

Hollywood.—Richard Barthelmess has been signed for two additional years by First National, although his present contract does not expire until March, 1931. The new contract for 1931 and 1932 provides for two talker productions yearly, at a reported figure of $175,000 per picture. Under the star's present contract, he is scheduled to appear in three yearly for First National, and receive a flat salary of $150,000 per picture.

Caught On The Hollywood Front

"Love, Live and Laugh"

WHEN a picture tugs at the heartstrings, count it in the money. That's where Georgie Jessel's first for Fox belongs. Georgie gives a surprise prformance, vastly different from those other screen appearances of his. And the change is welcome.

Directional restraint and sympathy, such as have come to be expected from William K. Howard, lead Jessel through an intensely human and likeable role as the young Italian who loses his sight and his love while fighting for the mother country. The story at once is dramatic, strong and intelligent. Opposite the new Jessel—the amusing yet often pathetic Jessel—is Lila Lec, again charming and again demonstrating that she ranks among the hest of players brought forward by sound.

Jessel sings, but in moderation. The musical interludes, in German and Italian, carry a vast appeal because they progress the action and, therefore, have a fitting place in the story. Howard's handling of theme and players is distinguished and his niceties in treatment, thoughtful and impressive. This young director has a faculty of adding heart to his pictures. Here he demonstrates once more that he retains the key to the formula.

"Woman to Woman"

THE sacrificing mother again! Always a sure-fire motive, particularly for woman appeal and, in the instance of this Tiffany-Stahl production, running very much true to form.

The war is responsible for the complications. Betty Compson, French dancer, succumbs completely to George Barraud, British officer, who means right hy the girl, but who discovers war is war. He is recalled before marriage is possible, loses his memory and, years later, marries another woman. Yes, there is a child, the existence of which is kept secret. When Barraud again sees Betty, this time in a vaudeville theatre, his memory conveniently returns and right there the end was in sight. But, Juliette Compton, who does a nice job of the wife, persuades Betty the bally must have a name. Exit Betty; also the picture.

Inane as the yarn is, women will go for it and, on that hasis, the picture savors muchly of hox-office. The entire proceedings, however, seem very familiar. Barrand, a sterling actor, does the best work in the cast by far. Miss Compson is competent, as usual. In Juliette Compton there is a "heavy" of promise. It is the story and its construction that prevent "Woman to Woman" from being a better picture than it is.

"Taming Of The Shrew"

By Edwin Schallert

F "The Taming of the Shrew" be a fair index of what can be done with Shakespeare on the tatking screen then the supposed highbrow nature of the celebrated bard's plays need have no terrors. The wildest slapstick comedy has never been as wild as is, in spots, this tale of how a rebellious heroine was tamed by a boisterous and strongarmed hero in historic Padua. Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford have certainly turned loose in their dual starring feature and made an entertainment that may cause the soteann students of the poet to yasp, but that will probably bring audiences seeking highly diverting time into the theatres with a rush.

This production by Doug and Mary has the elements of rare novelty. The very lact that they are appearing together for the first time will draw.

Fairbanks is truly capital. He toses not one bit of the personality that his public likes. He is full of devilment and tricks. He rides, leaps, and when the occasion offers he shouts and roars. His entire performance has that vigor for which he has long been noted.

The effort to keep the picture moving along with gags has been carried out even in the smaller incidents. An example of this is the scene where Doug proposes to Mary, and she turns her back on him. He calls to her "Sit down," and when she refuses to pay attention to his command, he slides a chair half-way across a huge reception hall of the Paduan villa in such a way that it bumps into her, and she drops down onto it automatically.

Whatever dialouge is used in "The Taniny of the Shrew" is assertedly taken from Shakespeare, but not too much of it has been used. The speeches in blank verse have been reduced to a minimum, and in a boudoir episode that has been interpolated, there is scarcely any talk.

In sets and costumes the production has ample quality, and polished performances are given by certain supporting members of the cast. Amusement and entertainment have been stressed throughout in the handling of the production, and it evidences clever direction on the part of Sam Taylor in achieving this nursus.

Mary troupes most amazingly in the scene where she is dumped off a horse and into a mud-hole in close proximity to a litter of pigs. The role that she plays is scarcely an easy one, and the impression that she achieves as a whole is very effective. It looks, though, as if Doug had a little edge on the advantage in their first, and perhaps their only costarring film.

"The Virginiau"

A UDIENCES will go for this outdoor western in sound in a substantial way. Not big, but eminently satisfactory. Also it stars Gary Cooper which means plenty these days to women and boxoffices.

"The Virginian" (Paramount) might have been a superior picture, but somewhere along the line something happened. Certainly, there is enough of the colorful. Victor Fleming injected movement and the appeal of the great open spaces, but whatever dramatic flourishes may have been necessary to lift his effort into the de luxe entertainment class are not there.

Yet, as it stands, this talker version of a famous story has considerable to recommend it. Photographed almost entirely out-of-doors, natural sounds such as the bellowing of cattle, are faithfully and excellently recorded. The story is the typical western yarn with nothing added and something missing. Among the hright spots are Cooper's performance, Mary Brian's charm and an indication of an acting ability which we never before suspected was there, and Walter Huston's admirable performance as the menace.

Had "The Virginian" reached the market before "In Old Arizona," this story would have been different.

"Mr. Antonio"

A S an indication of what some day may be expected from Leo Carillo, "Mr. Antonio" is interesting. Of and by itself, this production is merely a passable piece of entertainment.

Carillo, whose chief claim to reputation circles around his amazingly successful tours of "Lombardi, Ltd.," up and down the country, demonstrates here that he will make his dent in talkers, if properly directed through the proper vehicles. The man has charm, a poise obtained through long years of stage experience and undeniably clever capabilities as an actor. Placed against stagey sets and compelled to walk through a slight story on the development of which little ingenuity was expended, the Carillo pleas antness nevertheless stands out in successful relief against all the handicaps.

As the wandering Italian organ grinder, he does the Good Samaritan business for the heroine and nahs her love as his reward without hecoming stickingly saccharine. L. Carillo will ingratiate himself with audiences and, while there will he no particular enthusiasms for the picture, he will slide over easily.

Potentially too good a bet to be submerged in indifferent vehicles indifferently directed, Carillo must look to another Tiffaoy-Stahl vehicle for his opportunity.

Radio's "Rio Rita" Victorious Success In New York Debut

Bebe Daniels A Surprise Hit In Highly Colorful Screen Version Of Stage Musical Play

Radio Pietures presented its screen version of the Ziegfeld stage success "Rio Rita," at the Earl Carroll, last Sunday night, the picture scoring an immediate success. It was Radio's debut on Broadway in a theatre controlled and operated by the company in the $2 run division. Previously the company had presented "Street Girl" at the Globe under a rental.

Bebe Daniels, playing the lead and singing several numbers, seored a triumph, and the manner in which John Boles supported her proved that his experience with "The Desert Song" stood him in good stead.

Notices in the daily papers were unanimous in praising the production and the business from the first public matinee on Monday was a sell out. Both William Le Baron and Luther Reed, producer and director, respectively, were given lavish praise for their work in turning out what some term the "most perfect screne presentation of a musical to date."

Film Ills Shelved While Industry's Leaders Join In Honoring "Red" Kann

"Waving The Red Flag"

WHEN Harry Reichenbach in his intro-duction of Jesse L. Lasky harkened back to the days of the old Lasky company when the offices of the organization were in the Longacre Theatre Building and Harry could have been President of the company if he had had $300 in cash in his pocket, he reckoned without the possibility of a Lasky comeback. Lasky turned Harry's wit neatly, by saying: "Well I am at least Vice President of Paramount and Harry Reichenbach is still Harry Reichenbach."

E. B. Derr of Pathe couldn't wait for the dinner to begin, so he dashed next door and got a sandwich and then came back still in time for the soup.

The regular diners at the Motion Picture Club were afraid that they could not get service when they walked in and found everything in readiness for the big party. But Joseph M. Schenck, Oscar Price and several others were shunted off into a corner and fed before the real doings started.

Dinner Dance At Motion Picture Club As Testimonial To Popular Editor Starts A. M. P. A. Social Season

The leaders of the motion picture industry created history on Thursday night of this week by doing honor to the editor of a trade paper devoted to the interests of the industry. This is the first time within the history of the screen that such an event has come to pass. The Associated Motion Picture Advertisers were really the sponsors of the affair, and under the direction of Paul Benjamin, such leaders of the motion picture business as Harry M. Warner, Jesse L. Lasky, Nathan Burkan and several hundred others prominent in the activities connected with the production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures gathered at the Motion Picture Club to honor Maurice D. "Red" Kann, lately appointed editor of the Motion Picture News. "Red" Kann smilingly suffered under the shafts of wit that Harry Reichenbach, toastmaster for the occasion, directed at his size and flaming head of hair.

John C. Flinn's joint tribute to the late Joseph Dannenberg and William A. Johnston found ready response in the thoughts of those present at the dinner.

Mrs. Kitty Kann, wife of the editor, thought she was going to get an earful of inside stuff on her husband's activities in Hollywood when away from her side, but Jesse L. Lasky said that when he learned Mrs. Kann was present he decided to omit that portion of his speech. He intimated, however, that "Red" now knew all there was to know about Hollywood.

The Motion Picture Club was jammed early, but in addition to being a dinner there was to be a dance following it. This brought out the ladies as well as the industry's notables. It was admost eight o'clock before those present were seated and about an hour later, Edward L. Klein, president of the A.M.P.A. arose and after welcoming the guest of honor and those present, turned the affair over to Harry Reich-

Reichenbach immediately compelled a laugh from the audience by remarking that the dinner showed the effect of the merging that was going on in the industry. The economy which usually follows mergers was apparent in the fact that only Jesse Lasky was present. He said that Zukor told Lasky that he could attend the "Red" Kann dinner but that Zukor had to have their jointly owned suit of evening clothes

Influx Of Five New Specials For Runs In Legit Theatres Revives Screen Show Interest

Eleven Run Features On B'way Two Grind Houses Get New Attractions; Regular Houses Quiet

TIVE new special features hit Broadway last week for extended runs in legitimate theatres, giving interest to what would otherwise have been passive week along the big street. The regular grind houses did nothing startling at the box office and the two run grinds were finishing out runs preparatory to receiving new attractions. Moran and Mack in "Why Bring That Up" came into the Rialto late in the week and Harold Lloyd is due at the Rivoli today for at least a six week run.

The business in the grinds last week was Roxy with "Married In Hollywood" for six days of a second week $79,217; Capitol with "Madame X" for the first time at popular prices $77,382,70; Paramount with "Illusion," $73,800; Strand, "Hard To Get," $32,500; Colony, "Skin Deep," $14,-146 and the Cameo with "Afghanistan, $4,672. The final week of "Bulldog Drummond" at the Rialto brought $19,100 while "Three Live Ghosts" in its first week at the Rivoli got $33,500.

The new arrivals last week in legitimate houses for a run were "Young Nobody" (Continued on following page)

All Broadway Grind Theatres Now Open New Shows On Friday

With the Roxy Theatre changing to a Friday opening this week all of the Broadway theatres are now lined-up for Friday openings. The first house to switch was the Paramount, figuring that no matter what the drawing power of the picture was they would be sure of two days of big business even though the notices would prove unfavorable to the attraction offered. The week following the Strand fell into line and a weck after that Friday openings began to rule at the Capitol.

The Roxy at that time housed "The Cock-Eyed World" for its long run and when that attraction left the Saturday openings still maintained. This week however, the big house is falling into line and on Friday it opened with Will Rogers talking feature "They Had To See Paris."

Trade Fetes Kann

(Continued from preceeding page) returned in time for another dinner that he wanted to go to the next night.

"This is probably the first dinner to have onehalf a guest of honor" was another Reichenbach remark that brought a laugh. The first speaker introduced by the toastmaster was Nathan Burbank, who, in his remarks, stressed the value of the trade journals to the producers and distributors of the industry, stating that it is the trade paper editor who is the first to feel the reactions of the public, Iar and away in advance of the daily newspapers, and it is he who warns the producers and distributors of the trend that the affairs of their industry are taking. John C. Flinn paid a charming tribute to the late Joseph Dennenberg, under whose wing "Red" Kann received his first knowledge of the picture industry, and whose traditions he carried on since the death of Dannenberg. He also paid a glowing tribute to William A. Johnston, publisher of the Motion Picture News, and stressed the fact that he had done much for the general welfare of the industry, congratulating "Red" on his present association with the Motion Picture News.

Jesse L. Lasky crossed swords with Reichenbach in his opening remarks and stated that he saw in the future for the industry the almost universal use of the wide screen and a more general use of natural color processes in production of pictures. To him "Red" Kann was an example of what personality, aggressiveness and sticktoitiveness could mean to a young man in the industry.

Harry M. Warner stated that "Kann could not have picked a greater paper to do a great deal of good for the industry in the future" and this, he said, in the face of the fact that Kann would not reverse the names of Paramount-Warner in his merger stories, but hoped that before the merger was finally completed that he would at least once read in the headlines the fact that there was a Warner-Paramount merger instead of Paramount-Warner merger.

After the speeches Miss Perle Barti, prima donna, sang two numbers in a most pleasing manner and general dancing followed

Publix Paying Students Taking Manager's Course

Now Eurolling Experienced Men At $25 Per Week; Course Shortened

Publix Managers' School has adopted a new policy of three months' enrollment and pay at the rate of $25 per week for all students, it was learned this week. This is a change from the previously announced course of six months and a tuition fee made to applicants for managerial positions in Publix houses.

It is thought that the number of newly acquired theatres is the direct cause of the new policy. Heretofore, the Publix school not only enrolled men with experience as a theatre manager hnt undertook to train men without any knowledge of this business. It was under this policy that the six months' conrse was decided upon. With a number of new houses being added to the chain each week more men must be turned out in a shorter period; hence the move to enroll men with some experience for a three months' course at a nominal salary. Last week, it is said that Jack Barry, head of the school, interviewed over a hundred applicants for positions.

Election Called Victory For Progressives: 300 Members And Guests At Banquet Wednesday Night

By Merritt Crawford

ORONTO.—Serious problems, both technical and economic, which may arise to confound technicians and executives of production and exhibition due to the impending change from present film standards to larger dimensions, again were thrown into relief by discussions which featured meetings of the Society of

M. P. Engineers this week,

Hopes expressed in many quarters that something definite might be accomplished toward standardization, in advance of extensive commercial application of several wide-film processes recently perfected, were doomed to disappointment, which, owing to many complex factors involved, inevitably came. The engineers closed their annual fall convention, yesterday, after doing all such a body could do in this situation. Action consisted of recommendations, advanced in a paper read at the Tuesday session, that a standing committee, including representatives of all branches of the industry, be formed to discuss "and take definite decisions in regard to the creation and adoption of new dimensional stand-' and the emphasis which many speakers placed upon the desirability of con-certed moves toward "standardization" of wide film dimensions.

Beyond the standardization problem, which is one that will bring difficulties that must be met by all branches, the chief diffi-

Sympathy Strike Is Threat To The Legitimate Theatre; Motion Picture Men Settle Difficulties

Record For Strike Brevity Set In Everett, Wash.. Fears In Cleveland

THREATENED strike that may close the majority of legitimate theatres in principal cities as a sympathy move in connection with differences between musicians and stage hands and the Shubert and Erlanger theatre chains in Philadelphia loomed as the highlight of labor uprisings reported from varions sections of the country during the past week. The report emanating from Phila-delphia was that unless Shubert and Erlanger managers there made peace with the strikers by October 20, most of the legitimate houses in five other cities would strike. Joseph N. Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians, and W. F. Canavan, president of the I. A. S. E., in Toronto attending the convention of the American Federation of Labor, on Tuesday refused to confirm the report of such a sympathy strike.

Labor difficulties facing picture theatres in other cities have been smoothed out. However, conditions in Cleveland are not settled, although legal peace was brought about between the Cleveland Exhibitors Association and operators and stage hands

Fox In Mid-West

Chicago.-With his eye long planted on the prosperous towns in which Paramount operates via Publix and the Great Lakes States Theatres, it is anticipated here that Fox will shortly make a wholesale invasion of this territory. In Chicago, Fox operates the Monroe, an antiquated theatre in the "loop," For many months, it has been reported Fox would build a big firstrun downtown and until last season when B. and K. booked a generous percentage of Fox pictures, the chances were more than even that this would be done. At various times, negotiations have been ripe with the Marks Bros, who operate the Granada and Marbro, B. and K.'s chief neighbor-hood opposition. Purchase of those two houses has been talked about often, but until now the conversation stage has not been passed.

The convention, which was held at the Hotel Royal York, was brought to a close Thursday afternoon. On Wednesday the society elected J. I. Crahtree, of the Eastman Kodak Co., to succeed L. C. Porter, as president. R. S. Burnap, secretary, was re-elected; as was W. C. Hubbard, treasurer. This is Hubbard's fifth continuous term as treasurer.

Dr. Hickman, of Eastman Kodak, in his paper "The Present Policy of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers' voiced a criticism of the methods of the administration as being "self-perpetuating" and not sufficiently representative in view of the greatly increased membership. Discussion which followed, and later Hickman's election as vice-president, along with Crabtree's as president, were taken as a vindication of the suggestions made and the sentiment of the organization. New mumbers of the board of governors are D. W. MacKenzie, of Electrical Research Products, Inc., and E. I. Sponable, Fox-Case.

Plans for the publication of a monthly journal of the society will be determined by the board of governors. The projected ionrnal will be strictly technical in its content and make-up. From the sociability standpoint, the high spot of the convention was the banquet held Wednesday night. 300 members and their guests attended. An elaborate program of entertainment, mnsical and dramatic, was furnished and directed by Jack Arthur, known as "The Canadian Roxy."

Three Other All Talking Pictures Underway; Whale Casting "Journey's End"

A. L. Selig, director of advertising and publicity for Tiffany-Stahl, returned from a business trip to Montana and Utah in connection with the T-S Allied Exhibitors franchise plan, and Hollywood where he reviewed the production activities of his company, and is back in New York.

According to a statement issued the organization has completed two productions, namely "Woman To Woman" with Betty Compson, George Barraud and Juliette Compton and "Mister Antonio" from the Booth Tarkington stage success featuring Leo Carillo and Virginia Valli. After seeing previews of both Selig predicts they will be in the hit classification.

The next production planned is "The Lost Zeppelin' which will feature Conway Tearle, Virginia Valli and Ricardo Cortez, which is to be followed by "Painted Faees" starring Joe E. Brown and then Mae Murray in "Peacock Alley." All of these will be talking productions.

James Whale, who directed the staging of the London, New York and Chicago companies of "Journey's End" is now selecting his east for the all-talking screen version of this stage hit.

RCA Photophone Portable Device Is Demonstrated

Firm Introduces Equipment For Use In The Classroom And The Home

On Wednesday of this week at the RCA Photophone, Inc., studios in New York the new RCA Photophone portable sound film projector equipment was demonstrated before a large and interested gathering.

Several Photophone recordings exhibited through the small and compact apparatus were seen and heard surprisingly well and approached very near to the degree of perfection achieved by the larger and more eostly theatre installations. The sound came through with clarity and pleasing tone the equipment handling with particular impressiveness the wide tonal variations of a symphony orchestra recording.

The main purpose of the new RCA Photophone portable, besides home use, is for the elassroom. Via this medium lectures, demonstrations and the like by university, high and grammar school teaching bodies can be had in a large scale for use in all types of schools. It is generally realized that the sound film offers a tremendous field for educational work, practically unscratched. Many films of an educational and technical nature have already been filmed, RCA announces.

The new portable equipment utilizes standard 35 mm sound-on-film and can, it is claimed, he set up in 15 minutes. The apparatus can be transported easily, as it is available in trunk form.

Publix-Youngstown

Cleveland.—It is persistently rumored that Paramount has taken over the State Theatre, Youngstown. This is a new house. If the rumor is correct, Paramount now has two firstrun houses in Youngstown, having last year purchased the Liberty from Christy Deihel. After alterations the house was re-opened as the Paramount Theatre.

Suit Asks Voiding Of Publix' Nebr. Theatre Leases

McCook Co. In Dispute Over World Realty Houses And Claims Fox Had Option

Omaha, Nebr.—Suit has been filed in district court here asking that the leasing of theatres in Fremont, Columbus and Kearney, Nebr., by the World Realty Co. of Omaha to Publix, be set aside on the ground that the McCook Amusement Co. of McCook, Nebr., and Fox held an option to take up the leases.

The suit was filed by Earl C. Chitwood and O. Fred Glass, who operate the McCook Amusement Co. Glass is also district manager for Fox at McCook.

The suit charges plaintiffs offered World Realty $80,000 for leases on the three theatres and that the offer was accepted. Sussequently, it was stated, World refused to accept the initial payment of $20,000.

Now, the McCook men say, the leases were worth no more than $17,000, rather than the original price of $80,000. They also claim to have been damaged by the alleged breach of promise.

Belated News

Leasing of the theatres to Publix became known here only a few days ago, although the deal was said to have been completed early in August. Harry L. Goldberg, formerly treasurer of World, was made division manager for Publix shortly after the corporation secured two of his company's downtown houses here early this summer.

Edw. M. James, connected with Publix realty affairs at the New York office, admitted yesterday that while his company had not as yet been served with notice of any such suit that a situation, similar to that one described in this report, existed. He stated, however, that at the time Publix secured leases on these three houses no mention was made of any options held by others.

Widespread Moves Embracing Houses from Mississippi to the Pacific About to Crystalize

(Hollywood Bureau, Motion Picture News)

embraced in the Fox West Coast line-up, the end is not yet in sight. It is understood Harold B. Franklin has set 700 as his objective before his company's holdings are fully rounded out.

Along Film Row, the day is counted lost unless word seeps through that Fox has acquired another chain. Franklin is known to be working on a number of deals for theatres not only in California and in other territories along the Pacific Scaboard, but in the Mountain States and in the Middle West.

Cincinnati.—Fox interests have summoned John A. Schwalm, president of the Jewel Photoplay Co., here to New York to discuss negotiations for theatres and theatre sites in Hamilton, Ohio. It is said Fox would like to acquire the Rinlto as well as the site of the old Jefferson. Any deals may have important bearing on a new 2,500 seat house now under consideration by Hamilton Theatres Co., for which Fourth Avenue Amusement Co. of Louisville is said to have taken long term lease.

Houston.—According to a report here the Majestic will start operating under Fox next week. Eddic Brener Majestic manager admitted rumors were rife but that he had no official knowledge of a deal.

M. B. Shanberg, of Kansas City, who is to continue in his enpacity of general manager for Fox-West Coast following the acquisition of that organization of the Midland Circuit of Theatres, Inc., has announced that the Midland Circuit will build a new $500,000 theatre in Joplin, Mo. The new house will be on Fourth and Main Streets, and have a scating capacity of 2,300. The theatre will be completed in six months.

New York City.—It was learned here this week from an authoritative source that the Hostettler circuit had definitely passed to Publix control. It consists of 23 houses in Iowa and Nebraska, all of which have been operated under Universal Theatres Corp.

Salt Lake City.—Fox's deal for the Rialto, Rock Springs, Wyo., was closed Oct. 1, according to Walter A. Mnir, representing Tomas Berta of the Rialto Corp.

Tri-State Exhibitor Meeting Deferred Until Final Day Of National M.P.T.O.A. Conclave

Non-Members Also Invited To Attend By Pres. Lightman; Large Sound Exhibit Promised

EMPHIS.—The Tri-State exhibitor meeting which was to include exhibitors from Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee, slated for this city on Oct. 14-15 has been deferred and will now take place on Oct. 31. This will be the final day of the national convention of the M.P.T. O.A. which is to open on Oct. 29 and last three days. By changing the date tri-state exhibitors will be enabled to be present at both the national as well as their own convention.

M. A. Lightman, president of the national body, started letterizing the exhibitors of the country, including non-members of the M.P.T.O.A., last week and urged their attendance at the convention "to discuss problems of our industry at the most critical period in its history and to study them with the leaders of the industry in an effort to work out solutions for them."

The entire space on the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Peabody where the convention is to be held will be given over to exhibits of sound projection and reproducing equipment. Three complete units for the showing of sound pictures on special screen will be installed and in operation during the convention.

The schedule as outlined calls for an opening on Tuesday, Oct. 29 at 11 A. M. with a formal welcome from Governor Horton of Tennessee. On Wednesday night there will be a dinner dance and Thursday morning will see the final business session of the convention. The tri-state meeting will be held on Thursday afternoon after the final session of the national convention.

In a statement issued from the national headquarters of the M.P.T.O.A. in New York this week it was said that a complete resume of the sound adjustment situation would be made at the Memphis convention by either S. R. Kent or a representative for the producers and distributors and by M. A. Lightman for the M.P.T.O.A. Hundreds of settlements have been effected according to the statement, and exhibitors having claims for adjustments are being urged to attend the Memphis convention where direct aetion on their claims may be had.

Farm Editors Give Answer To Letters Sent By M.P.T.O.A.

Replies to letters sent out by Secretary M. J. O'Toole of the M. P. T. O. A. with a view toward aiding the small exhibitor by securing opinion from suburban communities on what might be deemed an improvement over present picture conditions, indicate vital interest in the motion picture but also carry a critical note on some points. One, while pointing out that the industry is admittedly doing its best, advises an advance classification of films to insure attendance; another urges more pictures of educational character, and this same author deeries "utter worthlessness" of many pictures manufactured.

A full report will be submitted at the Memphis M. P. T. O. A. meeting.

when Common Pleas Judge Thomas Kennedy granted the exhibitors a permanent injunction, prohibiting operators from going on strike in sympathy with stage hands. The latter have not renewed contracts with the Association. More than half a dozen neighborhood houses have dispensed with stage hands following the issue of the injunction. Exhibitors have pledged to stand together, to uphold the ruling and refrain from employing stage hands in houses where there is no work for them.

One of the most short-lived strikes in Pacific Northwest theatrical history began and ended in Everett, Washington, last week, when motion picture operators in the theatres operated by Fox Everett Theatres, Inc., a subsidiary of Fox West Coast Theatres, walked out to enforce a wage inerease, and three days later walked back after signing an agreement to continue on the old scale. The day of the walkout, each theatre was supplied with a corps of expert non-union operators through the cooperation of the Washington Theatre Owners organization. When the strikers realized their absence made no difference in the operation of the theatres, they made overtures to return, but Fox West Coast officials refused to put them back to work until all differences were settled and the same wage seale accepted without further question.

3 Changes In Paramount District Manager Ranks

Three changes in Paramount district managers, made public last week by Paramount Western Division Manager John D. "Movie Schools" For Scenarists Still Flourish

Gullible Caught By Ads On "How Easy It Is" And Pay Editing Charge

The fake "scenario schools" continue to pick up easy money that in the aggregate amounts to handsome sums contributed by the gullible and the movie-struck throughout the land. According to Chester B. Bahn, dramatic critic of the Syracuse Herald, the schools have found many victims in Syraeuse.

The trade is picked up through advertisements spotted in publications where such can be inserted. The ads tell how easy it is to make a fortune by writing for the movies—"the demands of the studios far exceeds the supply of story material." The literary efforts on the part of the people whose wish for fame and fortune as "seenario writers" to a great degree is fathered by the ads of the racketeer who tells how easy it is to write for the pictures.

St. Louis Paper Scores Treatment Of Theatre Advt'g

Thinks Talkies Have Helped But Sees Obsolete Method Still In Use

Sensational motion pieture theatre advertising was severely scored by the "St. Louis Post Dispatch" in an editorial of the Sept. 24th issue. It said:

"The idea of honesty in advertising seems to have gotten around to almost everybody but the motion picture exhibitors. These gentlemen still hold to the theory that the public is entirely jazz and sex erazy and won't hear of anything not related to booze, cheating and wild parties. So the picture, regardless of its plot or treatment, is too often described in red ink, the most innocuous of fantasies being whooped up in terms suggestive of carnality and abandon, to attract the boobies.

"Well, the boobies are not that simple. The emptiest headed movie goer has long since learned that the most unreliable guide to a pieture is a Inrid advance description. The blasts serve no purpose. They do offend the public's sense of deceney and proportion.

"Since the talkies have crowded the dumbies off the lot, and the stage persons have supplanted most of the movie persons, those pictures which deal with gossipy subjeets have received that restrained treatment which characterizes the theatre. This has indeed been a relief, and it is too bad the exhibitors cannot see their way to making it unanimous.'

No Chance For Seat Tax Relief Under Terms Of The New Agreement Until After 1935

THE Music Publishers' Ass'n, has just signed a new contract with the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers under the terms of which there will be no possibility of rehief from the motion picture theatre seat tax until after 1935. The contract is for five years, dating from the expiration of the present contract on December 31, 1929. The current agreement still has a year and three months to remain in force and the new contract applies to the five years following.

"In the event that the exhibitors take us to Washington in an effort to have the seat tax either decreased or aholished, we will show that all of the houses have increased their admission prices since the advent of sound and synchronized pictures and that we have not increased our rates of taxation. The exhibitor by increasing his prices is showing that the music and sound means a lot to his box office, but even though we are the people who provide the means at the source that makes it possible for him to make this increase we are not asking for more in the way of reimbursement for our efforts."

J. C. Rosenthal, executive secretary of the Authors and Composers Society stated this week that under no consideration would there by any lessening of the seat tax to theatres.

Mr. Rosenthal also stated there was an erroneous opinion in some quarters that with purchase of various music publishing eompanies by motion picture producers they would insist on abolishment of the seat tax, especially in theatres they control and operate, but that by the purchase of these companies pieture producers receive only publishing rights to the music, the performing rights being vested in the author and composer. In the matter of the contract with Electrical Research Products and the RCA Photophone, he said, those contracts are made with the proviso that the American Society may demand of the electrical companies removal of their equipment from houses that do not meet the seat tax arrangement. Otherwise the American Society may revoke the license granted the electrical companies that refuse to comply with their request.

John G. Paine, who is connected with the legal department of Warners, has been elected chairman of the board of directors of the Music Publishers' Protective Ass'n., replacing E. C. Mills, who resigned to head the new Feist-Fischer combination.

Hollywood Goes To School Again

HOLLYWOOD—As the fourth step in a program of education and research into the fundamentals and application of sound to motion pictures, The Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences has organized and has under way a semi-technical school for studio employees. The possibilities and limitations of sound equipment are being discussed of general Academy meetinas. A joint committee of producers and technicians is probing sound with a view to bringing about a standardization of non-competitive methods and devices. Technical problems affecting both theatres and studios are subjects of investigation and, of late, a committee appointed to recommend practices for the size and shape of camera and projector apertures.

Last is the newly-formed school. Four classes, each with 125 students, are now functioning. All branches of production are represented and in the first, for instance, the student body includes several directors. Experts in sound comprise the lecturers; highly technical language avoided and practical illustrations given to make the subject matter more easily understandable to non-cehnical minds. Each lecture is followed by an open discussion giving the classes an opportunity to clarify points on which their members may not be certain.

Motion Picture News, with this issue, inaugurates publication of the lectures now being delivered before this school. The first, delivered by William C. de Mille, was "A New Art in the Making," was purely introductory, and in it he stressed the significance of sound. The published series begins with "The Nature of Sound," first of the semi-technical papers. Dr. A. W. Nye is the author:

In this course we are interested in studying the nature of sound in order that we may know how it acts, and thus be able to control it, record it, and reproduce it. We are thus concerned, first of all, with its physical phenomena, that is, how it is produced, how it travels from place to place, how it affects human ears and diaphragms, and other things which it strikes; how it is reflected, refracted, absorbed, diffracted; how it may be made to produce a similitude of itself in the form of a varying electric current; how this varying current may later be made to move a diaphragm and thus reproduce the original sound, etc.

The Speed of Sound Travel

Although light travels so fast (180,000 miles per second) that we never notice any time lag in its passage from place to place, it is common experience to observe a very considerable lag in the time of arrival of a sound. For example, the steam jet from a locomotive whistle is often seen some time before the sound arrives; when a shingler is working on a roof some distance away the sounds and the hammer movements are entirely out of step with each

The Second Lecture

"THE Nature of Speech and Hearing," second of the lectures delivered before "The Academy School in Fundamentals of Sound Recording," spousored and operating under the wing of the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences, was prepared by Dr. Vern O. Knudsen, of the University of California, He deals with the mechanics of speech, the qualities of sound, the acoustical energy of speech, frequency components and the relation of pitch to recording—all problems of moment in sound recording. The text will be published next week.

Who Dr. Nye Is

A. W. NYE, M.E., author of "The Nature of Sound," published herewith has been head of the Department of Physics at the University of Southern California since 1907. During 1918-1919, he was a physicist in the Ordinance Department of the United States Army and his experience in scientific research includes an association with the Morgan Engineering Co. as well as with General Electric. Dr. Nye is a member of the American Physical Society.

other; a sound in the mountains comes back as an echo perhaps five seconds later. Measurements can easily be made of the rate of travel (speed) of sound and give us the result of about 1,100 feet per second or something like five seconds to the mile. This means that in a room 50 feet long, the sound of the speaker's voice is heard at the rear about a twentieth of a second after his lips are seen to move. This lag is readily perceptible and we have learned to expect it, so that in the adjustment of sound pictures this lag should be present to the right extent to give the proper distance-illusion.

Sound is found to travel a little faster in warm air, but this is not an effect of great importance. Sound will also travel through solids, like wood, through concrete floors, metal rods, and through liquids like water. In fact, it usually travels faster in them than in air.

The Method of Propagation

When we investigate the way in which sound travels, we notice first that all sound producers are vibrating to and fro, all the time that the sound is being produced. These vibrations are usually fairly rapid, probably a 100 or more per second, although much slower and much faster enes are also common.

faster ones are also common.

The vibrating body communicates its vibrations to the surrounding air and causes it to be alternately compressed and rarehed. Suppose that the vibrating body moves outward. It compresses the air which is immediately in front of it, and this compression is quickly handed on to air layers farther along, so that by the time the vibrating body has moved back to its initial position, the compression has moved to a point perhaps several feet away and the air in contact with the vibrator has returned to its normal pressure. The vibrator returned to its normal pressure. next moves in the opposite direction and tends to lower the pressure of the air close to it, and thus produces a "rarefaction." This rarefied condition in turn travels outward just as the compression did. In the meantime, the first listener some distance away will eventually have it arrive at his ear. The compression will be followed by the rarefaction and this in turn by another compression, as the vibrating body continues to produce first one and then the

The sound thus consists of variations of pressure in the air following each other in regular succession, and the numbers of these increases and decreases of pressure which reach a listener per second is evidently controlled by the speed of the vibration of the sounding body.

Pitch

If the sounding body vibrates rapidly then the listener receives many pressure variations per second and experiences the sensation of a high pitched tone. If the sounding body vibrates slowly the listener receives few pressure variations per second and experiences the sensation of a low pitched tone.

In ordinary speech and music, these variations range from 50 per second to about 5,000 per second, but lower and higher are often present and may be heard.

Wave Length

Perhaps it may seem strange, but it is true that whether the vibrating body vibrates slowly or rapidly, the pressure change travels through the air at the same rate, viz., about 1,100 feet per second. This means that if the sounding body vibrates to and fro 100 times per second then succeeding condensations in the air will be 11 feet apart, while if it vibrates 200 times per second, the condensations will be 5.5 feet apart; if 500 times per second, then 2.2 feet apart, and so on. These distances are called the "wave lengths."

The frequency, wave length, and speed of travel are always related so that the product of the first two equals the third. . . .

So we see that when sound is travelling through air, the air particles or layers are not propelled from the sounding body to the listener but move back and forth through very small distances. This is easily comprehended when we think of the propagation of sound through a metal bar. If one end of the bar is struck a series of regular rapid blows, these will set up compressions and rarefactions in the metal which will travel to the other end just as sound travels through air, but of course no individual particle or layer of the metal moves more than a minute distance.

Diagrams of Sounds

In order to make a diagram of a sound wave we often draw a wavy line thus:

This kind of diagram must be carefully interpreted, otherwise a wrong idea may be gotten from it. What it means is, if an ear or microphone were receiving sound through the air, that at a certain instant, A, the pressure on it is ordinary air pressure while at an instant later, say B, the pressure is more than ordinary by the amount represented by the distance Bb on the diagram. Again, at the instant C the pressure has decreased again to the ordinary and at D the pressure is less than ordinary by the amount Dd.

The diagram does not mean that the air particles move up and down along the wavy line, but does show the pressure variations of the air, from instant to instant. The second diagram shows the same sort of thing except that pressure variations occur oftener, thus representing a tone of higher pitch. Greater loudness would be shown by a curve which reaches higher and lower values, measured from the dotted line.

All Studios Cooperating

THE Blue Bank of Hollywood production executives has been raided and enlisted for support of "The Academy School in Fundamentals of Sound Recording. In charge of eurollment are:

B. P. Schulberg at Paramount; William Sistrom at Pathe; Harry Rupl at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer; William Le Baron at RKO; Sol Wurtzel at Fox; H. Keith Weeks at Fox Movietone City; John M. Stahl at Tiffany-Stahl; Hal Wallis at First National; William Koenig at Warners; John Considine, Jr., at United Artists; E. H. Allen at Educational, and Walter Stern at Universal.

Equity Proposes A Hospital For Stage And Screen Talent

Erection of Hollywood hospital to take eare of actors from both stage and screen, is the plan of Charles Miller, western representative Actors' Equity Association. Hospital will be operated by Equity Relief Foundation.

Funds for construction and operation will be seenred from several sources. Substantial revenue is expected through benefits in addition to yearly Equity earning. Equity relief fund of about $50,000, dishursed to actors during recent strike, will form nucleus of huilding fund. Miller states relief given to members during recent controversy was made in form of loans, and actors are repaying advances as they seeme picture engagements.

Plans for permanent Equity relief fund and hospital were exclusively published three months ago in Motion Picture News.

Christie Finishes Season's First 10 Paramount Shorts

Christie has completed first ten releases of Paramount-Christie Talking Plays for the current season, with total of 12 "name" stars in groups of ten. List includes: Marie Dressler, Taylor Holmes, Louise Fazenda, Ford Sterling, Buster West, Charley Grapewin, Raymond Griffith, Bert Roach, Johnny Arthur, Carmel Myers, Will King. Featured in series are Polly Moran, Frances Lee, Kathryn McGuire, Jack Luden, Barhara Leonard, John Litel, Harry Woods, Frank Riee, Adrienne Dore, Geneva Mitchell, John West, Walter Long, Sammie St. Clair.

Color-Art To Film "Mamba"

Color-Art has purchased "Mamba," an original by Ferdinand Schumann-Heink and John Reinhardt, and will produce it as an all talker for release through Tiffany-Stahl. Al Rogell has been signed to direct, and Jean Hersholt will he featured.

What Is A Studio?

Hollywood, Oct. 10.—Al De Mond, well known out where Hollywooders meet, is credited with the following description:

A studio is where those going down meet those going up and executives can't tell them apart.

First Eltinge Talkie, "Maid To Order," Is Now In Work

Jesse Weil has started production of Julian Eltinge's first talker, "Maid To Order," at Tee Art, Elmer Clifton directing. Cast includes Georgie Stone, Jane Reid, Jack Richardson, Kerman Cripps, Joda Marinoff, Hadley Kerr, Al Hill, Jean Reno, Louise Claire, Charlotte Young, Sylvia Shore. Bud and Lon Marray are staging six songs and dances. It is intended to road show the picture, with Eltinge making personal appearances.

Mable Normand Fights T. B. In Hollywood Sanitarium

Mabel Normand is making desperate fight against tuberculosis at Pottenger Sanitarium, according to Dr. Francis M. Pottenger, attending specialist. Dr. Pottenger added it was impossible now to determine what outcome of her illness will be, or how long she will have to remain in the sanitarium.

Foy Appoints Wright And Silvers To Direct Shorts

Tenny Wright and Sid Silvers have been appointed directors of Vitaphone Varieties by Bryan Foy, heading Warners shorts department. They will co-direct "The Barber Shop Chord," original musical as their first.

Aimee McPherson Plans To Produce Talk-Sound Films

Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, plans to make talker films, according to word received from Sacramento where Angelus Productions, Inc., have filed incorporation papers with State Secretary Jordan.

The evangelist is reported to have had several offers from various companies and individuals to star in films. Within past few months, it was reported that she had agreed to appear in talker presenting her life story, but the director who had lined up proposition could not get backing.

Fox Will Produce "Salute" Sequel, J. Ford Directing

Fox officials are so pleased with "Salute" that they have assigned John Ford, director, to prepare another production based on naval life, to be produced in cooperation with United States Navy. Sequel deals with submarines and will be produced at San Diego naval base, starting Nov. 1.

U. A. Launching "Swan" Soon

United Artists will soon launch production on "The Swan," Lillian Gish's initial starring talker for that company. Paul Stein has heen borrowed from Pathe to direct, and Melville Baker is adapting the story. Cast lined up to date includes Rod La Rocque, Conrad Nagel, and Marie Dressler.

Hoffman Directs Dowling Film

Renand Hoffman has taken over entire direction of Eddie Dowling's second Sono Art production, "Blaze O' Glory," heing produced at Metropolitan. George Crone, first announced as director, is preparing Dowling's next, "A Year and A Day," which goes into work upon completion of "Blaze O' Glory..." Hoffman authored latter story.

The diagrams just given are very simple cases. In speech and music the pressure varies in a much more complicated and intricate fashion, such as:

This is because many different kinds of vibrations are occurring simultaneously and their actions add together to a complicated way. It is possible, however, to analyze such a curve and break it up into its component curves, each simple in form.

Such a curve as this helps us to realize why microphone diagrams and all other sound equipment must be so carefully made, because poorly constructed and badly designed equipment would not respond to all these pressure variations. The human ear is very sensitive and recognizes pitch, loudness, and quality in all the fine detail of these variations. If the receiving or reproducing equipment leaves out some of these little variations or smooths them over, the ear quickly recognizes a difference.

Reflection

Reflection

The pressure variations which constitute sound, spread out in all directions and their inteosity rapidly decreases as we go farther from the sounding body. If the latter were out in free air high above the earth, the actions would spread out in the shape of a sphere, and the intensity would decrease as the square of the distance, but in the ordinary case the direction of the sound and its intensity are greatly modified by reflections from ground, walls and other objects. Reflections may belp to increase the intensity in a certain direction, although some absorption always occurs at each reflection.

Low pitched sounds are not reflected much by small surfaces. Such sounds have long wave lengths and bend around and pass by small obstructions without being affected by them. The effect of small surfaces on sounds is readily noticed by an automobile driver when passing a fence or grill work on a bridge. The high pitched sounds are reflected so as to cause a definite "swish" while the deep rumble is entirely lacking. Ordinary street noises show much the same effects. On the other hand, an automobile passing through a tunnel will have all of its sounds, high and low, reflected by the large wall of the tunnel.

Musical Tones

Musical Tones

Sounds from musical instruments are generated in several ways. In stringed instruments the strings are bowed or plucked and vibrate at a rate which depends on the length, tension, size, and material of the string. The pitch is varied by using different strings at various tensions and by changing the lengths of the strings by fingering.

Strings cannot set up any audible effects in adjacent air unless a body or sounding board is used. The vibrations of the string are communicated to the body or sounding board and it, in turn, is extensive enough to set large amounts of air into motion. The same idea carries over into loud speakers of both cone and horn type. In the cone type, the whole cone vibrates (the cone shape being used for the sake of combined stiffness and lightness) and communicates its motion to large quantities of air. In the horn

For SONO-ART type, where a diaphragm is employed, the horn serves the purpose of confining a large amount of air in front of the diaphragm and thus allows the diaphragm and the set this air in motion. Instead of the horn acting as a resonator this effect is avoided as far as possible and the effect of a "load" of air on the diaphragm is sought for in design. In some loud speakers, baffle plates are employed so that the cone will be sure to communicate its motion to the whole body of air in front of it and not simply wherate in a small mass of air. This idea that a vibrating body should have a large mass of air in contact with it, which is compelled to move when it moves, is well illustrated by the case of water waves. If we wisbed to set up waves in a pond of water we would use a broad paddle and not a narrow rod.

In wind instruments use is made of the resonating properties of confined columns of air. These are well known in the cornet, trombone, flitte, clarinet, etc. The origical source of vibrations may be the lips and tongue of the musician as in the trombone, or the vibrating reed, as in the clarinet, saxophone, etc. The various pitches are obtained by hlowing in different ways and by changing the length of the resonating air column. ing air column,

Ing air column,

The human voice is similar. The vocal chords originate a series of air puffs (vibrations) and the mouth and nasal cavities act as adjustable resonators. Pipe organs are similar, the wood or metal "flue" pipes resembling flutes and borns, and the "reed" pipes resembling claimets, choes, etc. By adjusting the construction, an imitation of the human voice and of stringed instruments is possible.

Overtones-Quality

In all nusical instruments we never get a so-called "pure" tone and would not want it if we could get it. A pure tone would consist of a single vibration frequency and its pressure variation diagram would be like the first diagram shown above. But instead of that, we always find that instruments give a "fundamental" frequency plus a considerable number of "overtones." For example a piano string, when struck, might give a fundamental frequency of 250 vibrations per second, plus other frequencies such as 500, 750, 1,000, 1,500 3,000, 6,000, all being simple multiples of 250. These may be present in varying intensities, but they all add "brilliance" to the tone. Without them it would be dull and lifeless. We are accustomed to them in all music and in the speaking voice.

The varying number and intensity of them cause the distinction between different voices and between different unusical instruments. If some of these overtone frequencies are climinated, the character or quality is changed, whether it is low, high, or intermediate overtones which are missing.

It is one of the big problems of design, construction, and operation of sound recording and sound reproducing equipment to faithfully accept and transmit all these frequencies. It is evident that if sound equipment bas a frequency range from 50 to 2,500 then all tones whose fundamentals lie below 150 will be distorted because only the overtones would be heard, and all other tones having overtones above 2,500 will lack fidelity of reproduction. Present day equipment is usually fairly responsive in a frequency range of about 100—5,000. The response should not only be present at all these frequencies, but it should be uniform.

The ear and brain working together have the ability.

The ear and brain working together have the ability to supply missing fundamentals to a certain extent, and to recognize speech even when not all the frequency range is reproduced, but we do not wish to depend on this.

The frequency ranges above 5,000 are not so vital pleasing tones or the recognition of speech. In the lecture demonstration examples to show the effect elimination of certain frequency ranges will shown.

No sharp distinction can be given between noise and musical tone. Generally speaking, a tone is a regularly maintained series of uniform vibrations and anoise is an irregular one. But a tone may vary in its pitch, loudness, and quality in such a way as to become a noise. Again, certain noises are important in music and are essential in speech. The vowels are essentially tones, but the consonants are more like noises. Both are essential to intelligibility.

Talk In Hollywood

By Walter R. Greene

A PRODUCER connected with one of the big companies for the past few years, recently completed his contract. In leaving, he held out for certain adjustments called for under his contract, and, as a result, gained the displeasure of the studio head. The latter left instructions that the producer was never to come on the lot again-and the order went.

A few weeks after his departure a studio showing of his last picture was arranged, and the producer heard of it. He 'phoned the studio head, who refused flatly to allow him to come on the lot to see the preview, and was informed that he could wait until the pieture opened downtown next month.

The producer will wait.

FILM companies are now learning what it means to have to hold up production waiting for a leading player or star to recover from a cold or throat affliction. This condition was unheard of in the silent drama, but with the "mikes" eatching every little defect in voices, the players have to steer clear of colds while working or holding up production.

H ARRY POLLARD was running some sound tests for "The Girl Who Gave In," Mary Nolan's next talker for Universal. In the script, Miss Nolan's character name is "Jenny" and she is called

"Jen."

When the sound tests were run off, the name "Jen" registered as "Gin"; much to the surprise of Pollard. After hearing the effect with three runs of the film, Pollard decided on a very simple solution-he changed Miss Nolan's character name to "Sally," and when the picture is shot it will be recorded with that name.

Broadway Show Reviews

By Fred Schader

'Fast Company' For World Series Week At Paramount Timely Booking

I T was smart booking that placed "Fast Company," the screen version of the Ring Lardner-George M. Cohan play at the Paramount for the week of the baseball world's series. Undoubtedly it is reacting at the box office as expected. The balance of the show is built to the feature which proved to be a real laugh getter. The show with just three minutes of trailers included ran just short of two hours and twenty minnes.

The Paramount Sound News reel which opened the show ran thirteen minutes, included in which was the showing of the trailer announcing the coming of "The Four Feathers" to the house next week. Following this Jesse Crawford held forth for nine minutes at the organ with "Same Old Moon," "Little Pal," "Singing in the Rain" and "Song of the Nile." There was a vocal chorus of "Singing in the Rain" which got a hand, no announcement, however, to the effect that it is the hit number of "The Hollywood Revue."

C. A. Niggemeyer's production entitled "Shanghai Jesters" was the Publix Unit on view. It has Seed and Austin, Bemis and Brown, the Williams Sisters, and Electa Havel as its featured players. In addition there is the usual unit of a dozen chorus girls. This week's troup was furnished by Mme. Serova but despite the fact that they are called "Chinese Rosebuds they are just plain American. Seed and Austin open in one with a cross fire gag scene and then the scene is shifted to the Shanghai cabaret. A chorus number and then Bemis and Brown with their eccentric "tough dance." Not too hot. Seed and Austin offer a clean version of a dirty story as a "blackont." A vocal number of Electra Havel is nicely spotted next with the chorus working on their toes for it. The Williams Sisters are a team of harmony singers with one of the sisters trying for "nut" comedy and getting very little with it. They are plugged from the stage for an encore. Seed and Austin with a specialty on just ahead of the finale scored. The feature ran hour and twelve minutes.

The feature, presenting new starring talent in Jack Oakie, provided plenty of Atmosphere and comedy relief on the diamond

John Gilbert In 'His Glorious Night,' A Torrid Feature, Heads Capitol Bill

John Gilbert steps right out and talks in his latest "His Glorious Night," which tops the program at the Capitol this week. The feature is based on the play "Olympia" and proves itself to be a decidedly torrid story. As a matter of fact it may be a little too much so for some of the towns, but on Broadway they are just eating it up. The balance of the bill has a combination of Fox Movictone News and Hearst Metrotone News, an overture by Yasha Bunchuk entitled "Rachmaninoffiana" in which the brass dominates as usual with this director, and a stage show entitled "Reflections." The entire entertainment runs two hours and thirteen minutes.

"Reflections" is an Arthur Knorr production staged under the supervision of Louis K. Sidney, with Ray Bolger, Boyd Senter, Chilton and Thomas, and Jack North as the featured entertainers working in front of the Capitolians and the Chester Hale Girls. The revue runs forty minutes.

The opening has the Chester Hale girls working the old vaudeville reflection stant with eighteen girls in each of two lines facing each other. It is effective in the manner in which it is handled. Chilton and Thomas, a dance team, follow the opening and their work was really the hit of the revue. Jack North has the next spot and gets away with a few langhs, with the Capitolians offering a new arrangement of the ''Pagan Love Song'' not particularly effective or original in the manner done.

A flash number by the girls follows and then Ray Bolger takes the stage and crossfires with Walt Roesner holding off until his finish for a brief minutes on the piano accordian.

The stage setting is a beautiful flash from a scenie standpoint and that in a measure saves the revue from being ordinary.

Roxy Jams A Lot In 2 Hour Show Featuring 'Salute'

There is a lot of entertainment in the program that S. L. Rothafel offered with the Fox naval academy feature, "Salute" at the big Broadway house. With the feature running an hour and twenty minutes, Roxy managed to line up a very interesting bill and still kept the running time of the whole program down to two hours.

There was but one minute allotted to Lew White at the organ and his effort was followed by the overture which was an arrangement of the most popular compositions of Paul Lincke, including "Glow Worm." This was run through in eleven minutes.

"La Dame Aux Camellias," with Patricia Bowman, the ballet corps and the Roxyettes proved to be a delightful novelty, the blossoming of the bouquet of Camellias into the ballet and the tulip number of the Roxyettes to the tune of "Tiptoe Through the Tulips" from "The Gold Diggers" scoring.

Coincident with the celebration of Rosh Ho-shannah, "Rachem" was presented, representing the plea for divine mercy. The vocal ensemble, headed by Viola Philo and J. Parker Coombs, managed to present this number in a most effective manner. The huge wall with the stone bearing the Ten Commandments before which the male chorus sang finally faded into a tableau.

The Fox Movietonews and the Hearst Metrotone News combined to make cleven minutes of topical subjects enjoyable. A prologue to "Salute" was effective be-

A prologue to "Salute" was effective because of the synchronized hornpipe by the Roxyettes, the setting being the deek of a warship.

Strand Offers Very Draggy Program Of Sound Films

There isn't a single bright spot in the entire program of the all sound bill offered at the Strand this week. Were it not for the very excellent east that there is in the feature "Evidence" there would be nothing at all to the show. As it was a Mickey Mouse cartoon comedy entitled "Mickey's Choo-Choo" carried off all of the honors.

A Pathe Sound News reel opened the bill running nine minutes. This was followed by Frank Hurst and Eddie Vogt in "Before The Bar," a typical small time two man act, without much comedy value, the ranning time of which was seven minutes. The cartoon comedy followed and then came a Castlefilms colored specialty of dances from all parts of the world to which music has been synchronized. Dave Apollon and his Russian stars in a Vitaphone short preceded the feature.

Blackmail

A Fair Program Mystery Film (Reviewed by Freddie Schader)

(All Dialogue)

THIS was heralded as the best British made talking film to date. If this is a sample of the best that the English can turn out, we have only to say that it is of the quality that in this country is usually booked into Class B and C houses and never gets into the de luxe first runs. To bring this picture to Broadway and offer it at $2 top is going a little too far. It is a murder mystery tale with Scotland Yard as its background. The one who really committed the crime goes scott free. There's no moral in that, is there?

But the picture has a moral. It is simply this: Never permit your love for cheese to persuade you to place a chunk of it at the head of your bed, and above all never leave a knife with it. For if this artist chap, who is the heavy, hadn't left a piece of cheese and a knife with it on a table where it was possible to reach it from the bed he never would have been murdered.

"Blackmail" is made from the stage play of the same title, written by Charles Bennett. Alfred Hitchcock, who directed, made the adaptation. It is a story of a young detective in the Yard keeping company with a tobacconist daughter who is a bit of a flirt. Evidently she picked up the artist chap and dated him, so when she conveniently stages a spat with her young man she is at liberty to walk with the artist and finally visit his apartment. The artist tries to seduce her but she grasps the cheese knife and stabs him to death.

The balance of the picture is devoted to the tracking of the one responsible for the crime, the blackmail element entering through the fact that a petty grafter saw the girl with the artist the night before and also saw her young detective lover return her glove, which he found in the murdered man's apartment. The blackmailer is the one who is finally compelled to fall to his death, while through the young detective the impression is given to the Yard executives that he in reality was the murderer. The chap who played the blackmailer must have been the architect of the British Museum judging from his familiarity with the various stairways, halls and doors in the building during a chase which seemingly ran more than a reel. There is no one in the cast that matters to this market.

Produced by British International Distributed in America by Sono-Art-World-Wide. From the play by Charles Bennett. Adapted and directed by Alfred Hitchcock. Length, 7,136 feet. Running time, an hour and a quarter. Release date undetermined.

Evidence

Slow Moving Society Melodrama (Reviewed by Freddie Schader)

(All Dialogue)

A SPLENDID acting east fails to save this picture from being a very draggy affair. The screen play is based on the stage production that was made under the title of "Divorce Evidence" and directed by John Adolphi. It is a melodrama of English society life, based on a mother being framed into a compromising position and her husband, who is a noted attorney, taking circumstantial evidence to be the real thing and refusing to believe his wife's innocence. The ''names'' in the cast, however, should attract at the box office and the picture will get by on the strength of them.

Pauline Frederick is starred and supporting her are Conway Tearle, William Courtenay, Lowell Sherman, Alec B. Francis and Ivan Simpson. Myrna Loy has what is little more than a bit, while Freddie Burke Frederick, has the role of a ten year old youngster and carries it off tremendously. In fact he about carries the picture. At that, the easting of this youngster is one of the bad spots in the picture. No little English boy would be as forward and aggressive as this youngster is.

Sir Cyril Wymborne is wedded to Myra Stanhope, even though she was muchly admired by Harold Courtenay and Major Norman Pollock. It is the latter who tricks the young wife and mother into a compromising position which results in her husband sneing for divorce. In an effort to retain the custody of her child after the court decided in her husband's favor, she announces that he was not the father of the infant, but that the Major is. This is denied to the court by the Major.

The son is reared by the father, and some ten years later when the mother returns to London after living on the continent she contrives to see the boy in the park where he rides daily. The youngster is attracted to the mysterions woman, and finally sends her an invitation to dinner, believing that she is a Princess. From this situation events arise that bring about a reconciliation between husband and wife. The confession of Major Pollock, just prior to his death, clearing the woman of all blame.

The work of the cast is superb.

Produced and distributed by the Warner Brothers. From the play by J. Dn Rocher MacPherson entitled "Divorce Evidence." Directed by John Adolphi. Length, 7,156 feet; running time an hour and eighteen minutes. Released, Oct. 3rd, 1929.

Salute

Army and Navy Football Tussle (Reviewed by Freddie Schader)

(All Dialogue)

EVEN if the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of War can't get together and arrange for the country's armed services to fight it out on the football gridiron this year the public is not going to be cheated out of watching the two teams fight it out on the screen if Fox can help it. That's why they turned out "Salute" and had John Ford direct an all-talking picture with the traditional battle between West Point and Annapolis as background. The result is a neat little program picture that will give faus as much of a thrill as though they had actually been present at one of the games between the two schools in the past. At this time of the year the picture should spell box office.

Tristam Tupper and John Stone turned ont the story for "Salute," which has a brother against brother theme. One is a cadet at the Point and the other a middy at Annapolis. The former played by George is a go-getter of the first water, the latter a retiring lad who comes through at the last minute, spills the victory of his big brother's team and turns defeat into vietory for the Navy. Of course, there is a girl-in fact, a couple of girls-in the story, and it is when the boy believes that his brother is stealing her away from him that he goes out on the gridiron and plays football of a brand that wins the day. William Janney, who plays the retiring brother. runs away with the picture. His role has all the sympathy. Helen Chandler, who plays opposite him, delivers a very neat interpretation of the role assigned her.

The general atmosphere of the two services schools together with the football songs of each with shots of actual games interspersed showing the cadets and middies in their respective cheering sections, their parades across the field and the bands, etc., are real thrill producers.

John Ford in handling the direction revealed an insight into the spirit which dominates both schools and for an army man he certainly gave the navy far the best of it. But the Irish are that way. They lean toward the navy, unless they happen to be playing Notre Dame.

Produced and distributed by the Fox Corp. Story by Tristam Tupper and John Stone, dialogue by James Kevin McGuinness. Directed by John Ford. Length, 8,500 feet. Running time an hour and twenty minutes. Released, Sept 1, 1929.

Applause

Has B. O. Possibilities (Reviewed by Freddic Schader) (All Dialogue)

OX Broadway, where they will know what this picture is all about, "Applause" should run along nicely, especially as Helen Morgan's name is attached as the star. On the strength of the Broadway run "Applause" will undoubtedly get some money in the Metropolitan district, but when it hits outside of that area it is going to he more or less of a question at the box office unless a campaign is put behind it.

"Applause" is a story based on the burlesque racket of almost twenty years ago. It is a tale of a blonde beauty of the type that the boys went crazy about when she strutted at the head of an Amazon parade in full tights. Beth Brown, who authored the novel, got her burlesque information from those who know their stuff.

It might have had a better chance if the picture had film names with which fanwere familiar, but they don't know Helen Morgan outside of New York well enough to make them flock to box offices and lay down their dough. Miss Morgan, at that, proves to be a tremendous surprise. She is a dramatic actress of considerable ability.

She plays the burlesque queen who fades with the passing years, but still insists that she is going to be a hit on Broadway. The story opens with a parade in a one-night stand, with the queen riding in an open barouche behind the town band. That night she is taken ill and gives birth to a daughter in her dressing room. The girl is subsequently sent to a convent, where she is reared until she is seventeen. In the meantime, her mother has been playing the burlesque wheels, drifting from one man to another, until her latest, a typical parasite, who lives from the earnings of women, discovers that she has a daughter in school, and insists on breaking her into the business. Finally, in order to hold her man the fading queen consents. The kid is broken in and the mother's lover tries to make advances. In order to escape them she runs into a "gob" and sits on Brooklyn Bridge all night with him. She falls in love and they are to be married, only to be parted when the girl refuses to leave her mother. In the end the mother takes an overdose of sleeping drug and passes out.

The story and picture bring at least two finds to the screen. One of them is Joan Peers, playing the ingenne role. She is a bet, having a most sympathetic quality in her voice and no mean acting ability. The lead, Harry Wadsworth, is another bet.

Rouben Mamonlian is credited with the direction, while Monta Bell is associate producer. In atmosphere the burlesque portions certainly are complete.

Produced and distributed by Paramount. From the novel by Beth Brown, adapted by Garrett Fort. Directed by Rouben Mamoulian. Length, indefinite. Running time, an hour and twenty-seven minutes. To be nationally released probably in January, 1930.

His Glorious Night

A Graustark With Heat Effects

(Reviewed by Freddie Schader)

(All Dialogue)

THIS is a typical "Graustark" story adapted from the play "Olympia" by Ference Molnar. Willard Mack handled the adaptation and added a complete heating plant to the picture. Boy, it's hot and plenty that way. John Gilbert, who is starred, has a new leading woman in Catherine Dale Owen, who proves herself an actress of no mean accomplishment and gives a performance that should rank her with the best. The picture, however, is one that should be restricted to adult audiences.

The heroine is a princess of the blood. looked upon as a veritable icicle as far as affairs of the heart are concerned. Her royal parents have arranged a marriage for her, but suddenly she falls in love with a captain of calvary, who rides beautifully and makes love passionately. Princess and the captain meet secretly, but the queen mother is aware that there has been a change in her daughter and suspects that there is an affair between her and the captain. Taking her to task, she advises her to break off the affair. The princess, with breaking heart, informs the captain that he has looked too far above his station, that as the son of a peasant she despises him.

The same night the local commissioner of police arrives at the snite of the queen and princess and informs them that the captain is really an impostor and a swindler and that he has orders from Vienna to arrest him. The queen, fearing seandal when the daughter informs her that the captain holds two notes which she has written and a signet ring which she presented to him, prevails on the commissioner to bring the captain to their apartment so that they may secure the incriminating evidence and permit the captain to escape. But the captain, when he faces the princess, names as his price her spending the night in his quarters. Suffice to say that she gets the ring and letters and his ultimate forgiveness.

John Gilbert speaks in this picture and, while his voice records nicely, it is not the quality that one imagined he possessed. In a great measure this will probably break down illusions that existed in the minds of many of his fans. Again a word about Miss Owen. She is everything that could be asked for, while Nance O'Neil as the queen proved a delight.

Produced and distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. From the play "Olympia" by Ferenc Molnar, adapted by Willard Mack, Directed by Lionel Barrymore. Length, 7166 feet; running time, an hour and eighteen minutes. Released, Sept. 28, 1929.

Sunny Side Up

Great For Picture Houses

(Reviewed by Freddie Schader)

(All Dialog)

JANET GAYNOR and Charles Farrell in an all talking musical feature! A feature in which those two favorites both talk and sing! What could be more perfect for the picture houses? They may be able to highspot it in a few big cities at $2 but the picture is one that they won't be able to get away from at the picture house boxoffices. After all, that is where the Gaynor-Farrell appeal is strongest.

This is a "Cinderalla" story along the conventional lines that made "Irene" and a score of other musical pieces register in the success column. DeSylva, Brown and Henderson are responsible for book, lyrics and score. They have written a couple of numbers in "Ir I Had a Talking Picture of You" and "I'm A Dreamer—Aren't We All?"

Of the two stars, Miss Gaynor registers most satisfactorily when it comes to speaking or singing. Her voice is a plaintive little thing that fits her personality and the character that she plays. Farrell gets away with the dialogue well enough but when he tackles a double number with Miss Gaynor doesn't manage to come through so well.

He has the role of a yonng society man summering at Southampton, while Miss Gaynor is a department store girl living in the tenement district. The opening shows two parties in progress on the Fourth of July, one at the Long Island resort and the other on the East Side of New York. From these two points the yonng lovers are brought together, separated and finally brought together again according to the age-old formula.

But it isn't the story that puts this picture over. It is the production which is a wow. There is one scene alone "Tnrn On The Heat" which is one of the most novel seen on stage or screen. It is somewhat raw, but is is nevertheless a wow and where they will stand for it it is certain to bring a lot of dongh.

In addition to Gaynor and Farrell, El Brendel is the chief interest in the cast. As a matter of fact he about walks away with the picture with the assistance of Marjorie White and Frank Richardson. This trio are the picture, with B.B.B., of Los Angeles Coffee Dan's fame, and Joe Brown in I'or good bits early in the picture. Sharon Lynn in a society flap role handles herself nicely and scores. For regular picture house you can't go wrong on this one.

Produced and distributed by Fox. Book, lyric and music by Buddy DeSylva, Lou Brown and Ray Henderson. Story adapted by David Butler, also directing. Premiere length, 12,000 feet. Running time, an honrand 20 minutes. Release undetermined.

"The Interview" (Vitaphone—One Reel)

A STORY of the newspaper game with a guaranteed laugh films. Good for any house.

A drunk reporter, who has been bouncing from one sheet to another because of his inability to keep sober (same pattern as reporter in "Speakeasy"), is sent out by his boss to secure an interview with a financial mogul about to swing a deal that'll startle the Street. Boss sends son of the said mogul along with the drunk with instructions to keep him on the job, the son having ambitions to become a reporter and the boss promising him job if he keeps the drunk away from the gin. Identity of the boy is unknown, of course, to both boss and drunk.

When the drunk is introduced to the financial mogul by the boy and hears him spill some information regarding the deal he's swinging, he grabs a phone and sends in his story only to learn later that he got his telephone numbers twisted and phoned a paper from which he was fired months ago.

Great laugh finis.—Raymond Ganly.

Dave Apollon and Orchestra (Vitaphone—Two Reels)

THIS two reeler is supposedly a comedy subject. But it fails in that respect. Apollon is a Russian and his "Russian Stars" are an orchestra of either Japanese or Chinese boys playing stringed instruments and a girl who appears to be a high yaller by the name of Isabelle Washington who shouts a blues number. Apollon makes a number of announcements in Russian dialect that are alleged comedy; they didn't get laughs from the Strand audience. The playing of the boys is neat work but that is about all there is to the reel. Running time, fifteen minutes.-Freddie Schader.

Tita Schipa (Paramount Photophone—One Reel)

NE of the best lyric tenors in opera today, Tita Schipa, sings three songs: "Una Furtiva Lagrina" (One Furtive Rear), operatic number, and "I Shall Return" and "El Gaucho," the last mentioned a stirring Spanish refrain which will appeal to Latins. The recording is nicely done and warm tones of the voice being very effectively caught.—Raymond Ganly.

Hobart Bosworth as the rough and ready seaman in "Hurricane," Columbia's maritime drama currently released

Eric Von Stroheim in a dramatic sequence from 'The Great Gabbo" (World Wide) wherein he plays the role of a famed ventriloquist

"The End Of The World" (Pathe Talkie—Two Reels)

THIS one deserves a great big hand from the trade press and lots of bookings by exhibitors who are on the lookout for good talkie shorts. It is a picturization of Alexander Carr's playlet of the same name, and is entertainment of a sort to please everyone. It is well directed, finely portrayed by its cast, tells a story imbued with the human touch, and carries ever so nicely to its conclusion. Carr takes to the talkies like a natural. Pathe should sign him for several more talkies as his work is top-notch and will be appreciated by any audience of theatre bench warmers.

An Irish lass is about to marry a Jewish boy, whose father frowns on the match, so the boy changes the date of an old Hebrew prophet's prediction concerning the end of the world. The Jewish father believes devoutly every word of the prophet and when he reads that the time of annihilation is to arrive that very night, he gives his wealth to his son and his blessing on the coming marriage. And when the end of the world doesn't materialize the joke is on him. Carr puts it over in rare form.

Lorin Raker and Maria Manning support Carr. Bradley Barker directed, assisted by Frank Walton. Aaron Hoffman is co-a thor of the play with Carr.-Raymond Ganly.

"Billy 'Swede' & Co." (Vitaphone—One Reel)

SOME raucous humor, bordering on the vulgar in instances, is offered in this vaudeville skit of a Swedish chamber maid who recounts her love tremblings to an inquisitive hotel clerk. The several puns dealing with the boy friend and his fondling of the bashful maid are of a sort to secure few laughs from those who congregate in grind theatres. Billy "Swede" is quite goofy as the dumh heroine. His remarks should cop some merriment, but for the most part his stuff shapes up as mediocre.-Raymond Ganly.

"Before The Bar" (Vitaphone—One Reel)

RANK HURST and Eddie Vogt, a couple of vaudeville comedians offer a sterotyped two-man talking act that has little in the way of comedy on the screen. The act might have been okay in the flesh on the vaudeville stages but it is very shy on humor on the screen. The best bit is the double bit of the address to the jury with one man making the address and the other furnishing the gestures. Running time, seven minutes.—Freddie Schader.

"Marking Time" (Universal-Rooney—Two Reels)

U NIVERSAL presents another of the Rooney series in which the famous family of the vaudeville stage all appear and do their stuff. The Rooney name will always be a draw at the average theatre and it's safe to state that their dance steps are practically without equal. If any criticism can be offered with the hand-ling of material for this trio, to this writer it appears to lie with weakness of story material and a bit too much footage in certain sequences. And in spots, the recording was none too perfect. However, in reference to the latter defect, with the variation in operation of sound apparatus, it's dangerous ground to tread upon.

The story concerns the operation of separate dancing schools by Pat Rooney and young Pat. With youthful enthusiasm the younger Rooney attempts to put it all over his father but age and experience wins out in the end. Some excel-lent dancing by the Rooneys, the appearance of Marian Bent (Mrs. Rooney) and quite a flock of hoofers are introduced. Jack Foley directed –E. G. Johnston.

Tita Ruffo (M-G-M Movietone Act—One Reel)

M ETROPOLITAN Opera star's voice is heard in his famous warhorse, "Largo al Factotum," from "Barber of Seville." The aria is rendered with skill and gusto and is one of most difficult in the repertoire of operatic baritone. In this reviewer's opinion, those who will display a liking for this solo will be few in comparison with the many who will coldly m comparison with the many who will coldly pass it by. The average fan doesn't give a toot for operatic fireworks and as he is the boy always in majority, Ruffo's work will mostly go for naught.—Raymond Ganly.

"Mickey's Choo-Choo" (Disney Cartoon—One Reel)

THIS issue of the Mickey Mouse series by Walt Disney is a laugh from start to finish. In addition to round effects this one has music and dialogue and a railway thrill with a runaway freight car. The little comedy proved to be the hit of the Strand, New York, bill, topping everything else on the program for laughs and entertainment value.—

"Rhythms" (Vitaphoné—One Reel)

LEO REISMAN makes distinctly different what would have been just another band recording by employing the idea of having himsell and the boys silhouetted throughout their renditions, permitting occasional glimpses of them in the regulation medium shots. Silhouette gag makes his offering novel, giving orchestra's work a certain freshness and that prized asset of being different.

Sweeping gestures of the leader, teamwork of the band are more pronounced when viewed in this fashion. And it's just as well you are not confronted during the run of this short with shots of various mugs piping their wind instruments or scraping the strings. Reisman doesn't even hesitate to throw in a shot of a rippling stream or a seascape to intensify the mood his music creates.

However, its interest is lukewarm; it will create a response mainly from little girls. Who else likes doll houses?

In "Skyscapes" and "The Brook," third and fourth subject, the Review wisely resorts to Mother Nature. The attractiveness of fleecy clouds in the former bear out the apt phrase of the editor; "colorful celestial flounces"; the latter concentrates on the advantage of a Berkshire stream. "Opinions"

T used to be quite a hobby of mine to clip out of newspapers, magazines, etc., any paragraph, phrase or expression that might, at some time or other, be used in the course of theatre or advertising work.

Running through an old scrap book the other evening I happened across an old clipping which reads:

EVERY BUSINESS HOUSE SHOULD ENDEAVOR TO DE-SERVE THE GOOD OPINION IT HAS OF ITSELF.

I can't think of a truer phrase to be applied to the theatre-game than this one. Chiefly because there are so many circuits, small chains and independent theatre owners who have such a high opinion of themselves and their organizations that they are not doing everything they should do to be deserving of their own opinion.

It is all very fine for a group of house, district or division managers to meet and tell each other what a great outfit they are.

BUT does your paying public agree with your own opinion?

It takes a whole lot more than gorgeous theatres, ultra-modern equipment and fancy uniforms to make theatre patrons believe that any particular theatre is a fine institution.

It takes a whole lot more than beautifully worded and illustrated advertisements and announcements to shoot straight to the heart of the average theatre-goer.

If you actually do believe that your theatre, or your chain, is a marvelous organization then you will have to give them more than pretty paint and colored electric lights to prove it.

When runing a theatre or a group of theatres, I have always tried to work with the theory in mind that the public will have to be pleased at more than our theatre and our show to make them real boosters for the house.

Which in our own language means all those little services which the average patron of today likes to find without having it stuffed down his throat.

This can mean so many different things that it should hardly be necessary for us to have to enumerate them here. You know how every member of your theatre's staff ought to conduct themselves. The outside doorman (if you boast of one) the cashier, the doorman, the assistant manager (who should be in tuxedo every night) the head usher, the aisle ushers, the porters and everyone else whose duties at any time that the theatre is opened, brings them in contact with the paron.

We can only repeat with emphasis:

Every business house should endeavor to deserve the good opinion it has of itself.

A Circus Herald That Tells A Whole Story—And More

Ed Hiehle, the good old dependable from Newark, Ohio, always manages to let the ROUND TABLE CLUB know that he is still on the map and thinking of the rest of the boys by shooting along something or other that most always is of great interest to everyone reading these pages.

In this instance it so happens that switched bookings called for a revised program at his beautiful Midland Theatre, and the cut with this story is how Ed handled the situation.

This one consisted of a circular measuring 81/2 x 15 in. on light yellow (circular) stock with block printing, and since it attracted our attention we assume it attracted just as much attention in the letter-boxes or in the hands of any one of the patrons of the Midland Theatre.

Glad to hear from you, Ed, also let me know how you are coming along with the golf. 1 haven't succeeded in breaking that hundred, but may do it at your expense yet. You never can tell, funnier things than that have happened. And how-!

"Brownie Club" Is Clicking For The Bethesda Theatre

W. R. Gingell, the persistent manager of the Bethesda Theatre, Bethesda, Maryland, added a new slant to our original ROUND TABLE CLUB suggestion when he organized the Ken Maynard Brownie Club down in Maryland.

In order to create interest he sent a mimeographed letter to practically every family in the town addressed to the parent, and explained the purpose of the Brownie Club. This, naturally, started the interest right in the home.

When the kiddles applied for membership in the Club,

F. W. Tierney Says:

"I have stalled this thing off long enough.I have been more or less of a piker.... have read but never contributed....So here is my application to the MOST CON-STRUCTIVE AND PROGRESSIVE CLUB I EVER HEARD OF."

they had make pledges which included many noteworthy resolutions.

After being accepted they were given a button which we show pinned to one of the Brownie Club cards and which, by reading will explain how the kiddies must toe the mark in order to keep in good standing in the Brownie Club.

This stunt was instrumental in boosting the kiddie business well over 100 per cent as compared to the kiddie trade previously handled by the theatre before the Club was

W. R. tells us that he read about the Brownie Club idea in MOTION PICTURE NEWS and grasped at the idea for being the foundation for what he proposed doing. The success that he has met with is ample testimony that the idea is good, and if you want a different slant to the Brownie Club suggestion, try this one out and see how it

Let's hope that we hear from this theatre again in the near future.

"Free Piano Classes" A Business Booster For "Mac"

Here is a story that came to us about W. P. McCartney, Manager of the Jefferson Theatre in Punxsutawney, Penna. The way the story is described sets it forth as good, or better, than we could possibly do, so we will just pass it on in its original shape.

Greater Talkies Month was exploited in a novel and unique way in Punxsutawney, Penna., by W. P. McCartney, manager of the Jefferson Theatre by combining the inauguration of the JEFFERSON THEATRE FREE PIANO CLASSES with it.

Front page stories every day throughout the two-week organization period was gladly given by the Punxsutawney Spirit in return for sharing sponsorship of the classes.

Mrs. Frances Van Dyke, organist at the theatre and a well and favorably known local musician with years of teaching experience will teach the classes which will embrace a course of twelve lessons running over a period of three months.

For the benefit of pupils who do not have pianos at home, Mr. McCartney arranged with a local music store to give each pupil who applied the use of a private room and a piano for practice purposes. This enables parents to get their children started in music; get over the hard period of the first lessons and find out what talent their children have for music without even huying a piano.

At the end of the course a series of recitals reaching over a period of a week will be held. These children all having plenty of friends and parents, the house business that week will naturally benefit.

Mr. McCartney received much praise and appreciation from his townsmen who characterized this as one of the finest civic efforts for community betterment in the history of the city. The announcements from the stage also helped bring to the attention of the people the extra fine program he arranged for Greater Talkie Month.

Here is an angle that many small towns, as well as neighborhood theatres in big towns can cash in on. It is original, it is novel and its appeal is to the women and children whom we know are bound to bring the men with them. Suppose you give this a lot of thought, boys, and see whether you can't take advantage of this marvelous suggestion. It has great possibilities.

Thank you, Mr. McCartney, and let us hope that your next letter will include a photograph of yourself.

Some Novel Stunts From J. McKoy Of Miami Olympia

Here is a good "gag" used by Jimmy McKov, who runs the Olympia Theatre in Miami, Fla.

We are showing the front of a throw-away which was distributed throughout

Miami by the Olympia Theatre, and it certainly is the type of circular that will attract attention and appeal to those who are curious to know "what it is all about."

This throwaway was on heavy stock and measured about 3 in. x 8 in. The card when held up to the light spelled out the word "Illusion," which is the title of the picture they were selling.

This is a simple "gag" and can be worked on many different pictures, providing they can tie up with the right printer so that the missing letters on the reverse side of the throw-away line up in their proper position and the word is spelled out plainly when it is held up to the light, as directed. This is a better gag than the mere description of it might sound so don't pass it up without giving it some serious thought.

Now, let's go on to the next stunt: We could not pass up the opportunity of letting the rest of you boys see this one. It happens to be a stunt which will offer many a laugh and get a lot of the cash customers kidding about it, which means the Theatre name is bound to be brought into the talking and kidding, all of which constitutes "word of mouth" and valuable publicity. However, we won't attempt to bore you with a long explanation, but respectfully direct your attention (and your spirit of showmanship) to the reproduction of a small card which measures 3½ by 6 in. printed on neat white card stock, with green ink.

Also keep in mind that you don't have to consider the picture married to the idea, because it can be used either alone or in connection with any picture that you are anxious to plug. However, try the thing yourself and be surprised as we were "to learn that the total 3858" always came out as claimed.

We are indebted to our friend, Wally Allen, for sending the above to us, and we would like to get many more like it from Jimmy and the rest of the gang down there in Florida.

The Showman's Viewpoint

"Great Gabbo"

You probably have read what the various critics had to say about "The Great Gabbo" in the trade papers, so, far be it from me to poach on their preserves, but this I would want you boys to know,—regardless of what any particular critic may have told you about "The Great Gabbo,"—it nevertheless does offer plenty of good exploitation angles. And that, after all, is what we need to build up business at the Box Office.

In my opinion, "The Great Gabbo" is an audience picture. It possesses all of the fine points that the average theatregoers look for in their picture fare, and, in addition, it has several good musical numbers that should provide music store tieups and become song hits in every man's town.

At any rate, keep in mind that if you are going to play "The Great Gabbo," I think you are going to do business with it. Besides being a satisfying picture, it will give you many opportunities to show what kind of an exploiteer you are by reason of the numerous openings that this picture offers along such lines.

"Lady Lies"

In speaking about Paramount's "The Lady Lies," you may as well know right now, if you haven't found it out before, that this is the type of picture for a "class" audience.

Those of you boys who must run this one in neighborhoods catering to other than the better class of movie fan, will have to watch your step on just how you sell it.

The acting of Walter Huston, Claudette Colbert and Charlie Ruggles are outstanding in any way you look at it, and if you have previously run "Gentlemen of the Press," it would be a good idea to capitalize on Huston and Ruggles' performance in that picture while selling this one.

I can think of no better all-talkie picture up to this writing than "The Lady Lies"—and as far as satisfying entertainment is concerned it can be rated 100 per cent.

"Madame X"

With all you have heard about this one in various key city runs, it hardly seems necessary for anyone else to put in their two cents and add to what you have already read.

But this much I would want to tell everyone of our readers about "Madame X." It is one of the most forceful dramas ever screened, since talkies made their appearance, and I suggest that you make a particular play for local opinions from judges, lawyers, prosecuting attorney, and others identified with the machinery of justice in and around your community.

This offers an opportunity to inject their opinions in your newspaper advertising, by the use of a pre-view or a midnight show.

Don't hesitate about going out and speaking of this picture in the highest terms, because it possesses every element of entertainment necessary for the average theatre anywhere.

Introducing The Firm Of Weiss-Perlberg & Co.

We have frequently published stories about Alfred Weiss and his activities in the Florida Theatre down in Jacksonville, but we are afraid that we neglected to mention the part that Jonas

Perlberg takes in the successful execution of the various stunts put over by the Florida Theatre.

We will now take this means of writing a more up-to-date article about this progressive theatre and the men who are putting it on the map theatrically down in their part of the country.

Now you may step up and shake hands, as we say on the CLUB pages, with Alfred Weiss, Jr., the energetic manager of that theatre, and a man whom you have read about very often on these pages.

Next in line for introduction is Mr. Jonas Perlberg, who is the house manager and advertising man for the theatre.

Now that we have made you acquainted with the "men," permit us to make you acquainted with their "activities." We have made up a cut consisting of six separate photographs and will try to give you a little dope on these stunts according to the position of the photographs on the cuts. In the upper left hand corner and the center photograph we show you the lobby and front arrangement for the advertising of "Dr. Fu Manchu" and we are sure you will agree with us that it is attractive and original. The girl in the lobby lends the proper atmosphere to the stunt.

On the upper right hand photograph, we show you the neat live-ballyhoo which he staged in the lobby on Buddy Rogers' picture, "The River of Romance."

On "The Dance of Life" he executed one of the most clever campaigns ever brought to our attention, and on the lower two photographs you will see two phases of this campaign. One consisted of the dressing of a window containing live models. This stunt consisted of staging three shows in this window each day, using local talent to demonstrate their dances. They tied up with the local music dealers and had a Victrola in the window connected to a loud speaker attachment playing tunes that could be heard for blocks. The stunt, as they described it, was quite a panic and special police had to be employed to keep the crowds moving, which gave them a marvelous break. On the second day, the crowd pressing against the window, cracked it. We agree with Jonas that this was "not so good."

We also want you to pay particular attention to the living display on top of the marquee with the live models on it. Imagine the mob that watched this stunt and the performance going on above this marquee roof.

One of the features of the Weiss-Perlberg campaigns is the fact that they manage to do a whole lot and still keep well below the advertising budget generally allowed for that theatre, and this is a distinct credit to their activities. We all hear about a lot of marvelous stunts that are put over, and upon investigation we find out that they cost a whole lot of money and far too much for the theatre or the attraction. We would never term such activities profitable or original for that matter, as the way theatre showmanship is gauged today, with reference to advertising and exploitation, it is the man who puts over a big campaign on a little money, that knows his "onions," and we certainly should nominate Mr. Weiss and Mr. Perlberg for the "Inexpensive Exploitation Hall of Fame" when it comes to this type of work.

It certainly gave us great pleasure to describe these activities and to picture them with the fine photographs which Mr. Perlberg sent us, and we hope that we will hear from them at frequent intervals, as their contributions are always interesting reading on these pages.

"All For One And One For All"

Showman Plus—Is The Way We Present R. E. Charles R. E. Charles, who is operating the Strand and Liberty Theatres in Centralia, and the St. Helena Theatre in Chehalis, both in the state of Washington, for FoxWest Coast, quotes a very interesting contribution in his first letter for the ROUND TABLE CLUB.

We sincerely regret our inability to publish Mr. Charles' ty to publish Mr. Charles picture with his first story about his activities, but since he failed to enclose one, we will have to let it go until we succeed in getting a photograph from him.

We would first like to have you look at the souvenir from the Fox-West Coast Theatre of a piece of Movietone Sound Film, which he used as part of his Greater Movie Season Campaign.

There are thousands of theatre-goers who have become so fascinated with sound pictures, that a little square of sound film showing the track is a valuable souvenir to them and gives them much to talk about,

This was used with great success and we are sure that our many members and readers will find this suggestion a good one.

The hair-pin stunt has been worked in many different forms, but we rather like the way Mr. Charles handled it in the form of a neat little folder, the front page of which apears on the left side of the cut, and the inside as you see on the right hand part of the cut.

The wording is self-explanatory and can be rearranged to fit any other mystery picture that you want to plug. It's a good idea to inject novelty into "so called" thrillers and the Lord knows you don't have to look far for mystery pictures, the market being flooded with them right now.

"R. E." also took advantage of the local southwest Washington Fair by fixing up a booth and dressing it up very attractively. This you can readily see by looking at the accompanying photograph. And you will also note the cute little usher that he has dressed up passing out literature about the Greater Movie Season in the Fox-West Coast theatres.

We also received some copies of the newspapers out there showing the co-operative ad spreads which he ran in conjunction with the merchants, the mayor, etc. The entire ad was paid for by the merchants of the town which made it some mighty fine free publicity for the theatre.

We certainly welcome this first contribution, as well as the new member himself, and we trust that Mr. Charles will let us hear from him regularly, and will be sure to enclose his own photograph with the next letter he sends us. How about this, "R. E.," can we depend on you?

Notice To New Members

In the event that your Membership Certificate was not received as soon as you expected it, kindly keep in mind that to get these certificates out a certain routine must be observed.

They are first sent to the artist for the lettering and then to the framers, where they are placed in the attractive frame in which they are sent ou to members.

Then they are carefully packed, labeled and shipped. All of these operations require a certain amount of time and certificates cannot be expected by new members in less than several weeks after the applications for membership have been received.

Kindly keep this in mind, and bear with us if you feel that there is any unnecessary delay.

Thank you.

D-O-U-G-H, Spells Dough For Ellis With This Tie-Up

Here is one about "dough" that paid dividends in real B. O. dough and so we hasten to let you all in on the secret and the stunt so that maybe, perhaps and who knows, you might use it yourself.

Because doughnuts play an important part of the comedy situations in "Fast Company" Manager Paul Ellis tied up with a doughnut company in exploiting the picture at the Paramount Theatre, in Youngstown, Ohio.

Arrangements were made with the Doughnut Co., to make a huge doughnut. It was four feet in diameter and was made from real dough. The over-size doughnut was then placed in the lobby of the theatre on an easel, with a large card of beaverboard being used for the background.

On the beaverboard in back of the doughnut was copy suggesting that patrons try and guess the weight of the doughnut; those guessing correctly would be admitted gratis to see the picture.

The stunt blocked traffic in the lobby; people could hardly believe that this huge commodity was made of real dough. Some even pinched it and took small specimens in order to be convinced of its reality.

A picture was taken of the display and then a cut was made and this was planted with a story in the newspaper. It was a three-column cut and made an excellent showing on the newspaper page.

This one is certainly novel enough to talk about and we were glad of the opportunity of passing it along to the rest of our members and readers. Let's hear some more about your "doings," Paul, will you?

"Results" Mean "Action" With J. H. Stodel, So. Africa

Our South African Regional Chairman, Mr. J. H. Stodel, Superintendent of Theatres for the African Theatres, Ltd., of S. A., thought our article published last July, which we lished last July, which we headed "Throw Away Your Crying Towels" so appropriate that he fashioned a neat little bulletin which he entitled "Results."

Although he feels that this bulletin is not applicable to all men in the show business, we nevertheless feel that it would do no harm to reproduce it. If the shoe fits you, why not wear it?

R · E · S · U · L · T · S

J. H. S.

Thank you, J. H., for this contribution and I am certainly delighted to know that the boys were encouraged with the way that I am presenting their exploitation. Just pass along the word, for as much as you send in we shall be tickled to death to use as we are demonstrating beyond all shadow of doubt that you boys way down in South Africa are just as much up to date in your methods as the boys over here in this country. As a matter of fact, we received hundreds of letters commenting upon the fine South African exploitation stunts which you have so kindly sent.

Let us hear from you and the rest of the boys again real soon, and tell them to follow the CLUB activities every week in MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

Dick Ryan Tries His Own Style Of "Phantom Organist"

Dick Ryan, of the Sunnyside Theatre, Woodside, L. I., added a different slant to the "Phantom Organist" gag by using an organ solo record furnished by the music publishers, instead of a back-stage console, as used by another manager who pulled a similar stunt.

Dick had his sign painter make up two cards with the words "Phantom Organist" on them, placed them on both sides of the stage, put out all his stage and house lights, and had the operator run this record on the non-synchronous machine. When the music came through the horns, they put a pale green spot on the organ a second or two, and then slowly moved it around the pit, as though in search of the organist.

According to this report, the patrons in the house were very much mystified, and asked many questions about the whole stunt.

This presents another good use for your sound equipment, and we suggest that you try and work out either the same idea or something similar. In any event, whatever you succeed in putting over just drop us a line so that we can let the boys know that you are on the alert for some new suggestions as well as to take advantage of what they are doing.

Shows, Music And Employees All Important, Says Blair

M. R. Blair, Managing Director of the Regent Theatre, in Cedar Falls, Iowa, sums up his important points on theatre operation into three parts: 1. The presentation of the shows.

2. Music. 3. Employees.

We rather like the way Mr. Blair expresses himself, and therefore pass on his suggestions verbatim to our many members and readers.

1. PRESENTING OUR SHOWS .-- On time. Not a few minutes before or after but on the dot. It is a set and fast rule that this must be. Our house is always cool, refreshing and above all CLEAN. It is gone over every morning. We use varied effects in color with our lights to create pleasing effects at the opening of our program and our orchestra or enects at the opening of our program and our orchestra or sound which ever we are using opens with soft pleasing music. We keep away from a lot of merchant advertising. I presume that many will differ with me on this but I feel that I am selling amusement and am not a newspaper. I run no trailers other than those of my own coming attractions.

2. MUSIC.—We have always carried an orchestra up to the time of our installation of sound. We are still running two days of eight and I appraise the orchestrates the development.

days of silent and I am using the orchestra on these days but will change that to non-sychronization, soon, I think. We are using the new records that plug the theme songs on our coming attractions. These work out fine. Today I received slides on a new picture that we have coming and that opens up another new way to sell 'em.

3. EMPLOYEES.—We like them—they like and work FOR us. We treat them human. We know their troubles, help them out when we can and all that. We visit with them and encourage any new idea that they might have to better the theatre that they are in. We pay them every cent that we can for the work that they do and try and help them get ahead in their own homes as well as our business. We hold picnics for them and have good old fashion times. We make them see that the work they do is important and that we need them. We play fair with them and when they have seed them. We play fair with them and when they have a good suggestion that works out and gets results we give them credit for it.

Thank you, M. R., for these suggestions and let's hope that we get many more like them in the near future.

Marvin Park Turns Out A Fine Program Without Cost

Combining beauty with economy must sound like a funny way of describing a theatre's house organ but in this case, it is kind of appropriate as you will all agree when you glance at a reproduction of the fine looking theatre program turned out under the direction of Marvin Park, Manager of the Fox Ritz and Fox LaBrea Theatres at Los Angeles, Cal.

All of which is just a peculiar way of telling you that the advertising in this program pays the entire cost and you must agree that the listing of the attractions at both of these theatres, and the front cover all tend to make this an outstanding little theatre house organ.

Mr. Park is deserving of all the credit that he has been given for this fine piece of work and we shall certainly delight in telling our members and readers more about this showman's activities.

MR. WILLIAM A. JOHNSTON

Publisher of Motion Picture News

My dear Mr. Johnston:

In the issue of May 18, 1928, you were kind enough to write an editorial for the Managers' Round Table Club pages to commemorate their first anniversary. At the conclusion of your fine editorial you said: "The Managers' Round Table Club argues for the future stability and prosperity of this busi-

May we respectfully direct your attention to a very recent occurrence which, we are sure, bears out your statement and confidence in our organization?

The Harold Lloyd Corporation decided to make up a press book on the picture "Welcome Danger" from ideas submitted by practical showmen, and in addition to soliciting suggestions from every theatre in the United States and Canada, they made a direct appeal to the members of the Managers' Round Table Club via a special announcement in the issue of July 13th.

Out of the thousands of contributions received from all parts of the country, the suggestions of fifty-one (51) showmen were selected for press book material and, Mr. Johnston, out of those fifty-one showmen. THIRTY-ONE (31) ARE MEMBERS OF THE MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB of "MOTION PICTURE NEWS."

We believe this is a record never before achieved by any group or organization in the history of our industry, and we are sure that every individual member of our Round Table Club joins their Chairman in thanking you for your marvelous confidence in the organization you have encouraged and hope that we will continue to merit your great faith in us.

Cordially and Sincerely, MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB.

"Free Baby" Gag Went Over Big For Wallis In Ft. Worth

It certainly did not take L. A. Wallis, manager of the Rose Theatre, in Ft. Worth, Texas, very long to cash in on the "Free Baby" idea.

two weeks old and advertised on the screen, on the program and through a four-inch ad in the newspapers that a two months' old baby would be given away at the Rose

MRS. WILES WINS PRIZE

Mrs. F. A. Wiles, 1615 Lincoln Avenue, was the winner of the two-months old baby given away at the Rose Theatre last Monday evening.

It developed, however, that the baby was a two-months-old pig. The crowd that gathered to wit-ness the event was one of the largest ever assembled at the Rose Theatre.

Theatre on Monday night, September the ninth, at 8:30 p.m. To further impress the public he took out adoption papers, too. This kept up both the interest of the people as well as camouflaging the identity of the "baby" until the last moment. This stunt certainly enjoyed a huge success, and, to prove it, we have before us the newspaper clipping which we are reproducing and which is ample evidence that the stunt went over with a bang.

Our many members and readers will certainly recall our description of Lloyd Sinclair's free baby pig stunt and how effectively it could be utilized in practically any and every theatre in the country.

Here's a corking angle that can be surrounded with all the dignity necessary according to the type of theatre that you are running, but don't slip up on it, because it will get you many a laugh and plenty of extra business.

We were certainly glad of the opportunity of hearing from Mr. Wallis again, and trust that he keeps us posted more frequently upon his activities.

We are passing this idea along without knowing whether it will be too expensive for the average theatre to consider.

But, at any rate, we want to credit Larry Jacobs, the progressive director of publicity for the Stanley-Davis-Clarke Theatres (and taking care of over thirty-fice thea-tes at that), with having contributed this little throwaway. Of course, you will note that it is printed in such a way that when handed out, the first impression is that there are two tickets in the envelope, however, you can judge it for yourself, and if you can arrange to have something like it printed for yourself, we unhesitatingly recommend it.

> This novel form of herald has always been popular in various different forms, but before we can do more than pass them on to our members and readers, we like to call their attention to the fact that especially cut stuff of this kind is apt to run into more money than you feel the idea is worth.

Use your own judgment, and if it can be put through without going into too much money, try it for something new in the line of exploitation and advertising.

Thank you, Larry, once more for your prompt contribution of your various activities.

"Your Ushers"

You have probably read so much on the subject of ushers' conduct in a theatre that the mere mention of it will make you want to shoot whoever is responsible for anything else about that important portion of

As far as I am concerned, I don't give a tinker's damn whether you are running a five hundred seat shootin' gallery or a five thousand seat palace. The topic is just as vital to one as to the other.

Some managers have the knack of instructing and training their ushers to be of real service and attention to the patrons; while others seem to think that all they need do is put the usher into a uniform and place him (or her) on the floor.

Visiting, as I do, so many different theatres of so many different types might sufficiently qualify me to say that the usher problem (and it really amounts to just that) is one that calls for careful supervision.

And what is more, Times Square is not exempt from the discussion. It was only a few days ago that I witnessed theatre patrons being treated like a lot of cattle in one of the foremost houses right here on Broadway and all without just cause.

Too many of us are apt to get the impression that when the theatre is "packing 'em in" we can get away with most anything. Well, anybody who thinks so is either crazy or thinks his customers are.

A well timed "Please" with a necessary "Thank You" will go a long ways towards cooling off a heated patron who had to "go through the mill" to get close to a seat in a crowded house. Deprive said customer of that little bit of politeness and you are clocking up a dissatisfied patron whose money amounts to something when estimated in dollars and cents.

I once described "Service" as that little extra something which goes a long way towards building up a good name for any theatre and in the case of your ushers you must keep in mind that they have more contact with the patrons after they pass the doorman than any other employee in the house. They must be trained to act polite under any and all circumstances and unless your ushers are doing their job right you, as the manager, are the one who is lacking in ability to properly run your house. Chas. P. Carroll Becomes P. A. For W-B Jersey Houses

Charles P. Carroll, who for a while was Director of Exploitation for Fox Metropolitan theatres, handling the New Jersey division, has resigned from that outfit to connect in a similar capacity with the Warner Brothers Theatres also over in Jersey, but confined to Hudson County.

Charlie has been responsible for many novel stunts while functioning for the Fox outfit, and with so broad a field to work in and apparently a whole lot more freedom of action, he should give results that will surprise not only his employers, but himself.

The ROUND TABLE CLUB, as usual, wants Charlie to know that they wish him all the luck he so well deserves, and we would certainly like to tell our many members and readers of these pages about his activities.

So, Mr. C. P. Carroll, it is up to you to pass along the "dope" by becoming a regular contributor to the ROUND

Ken Hoel, Resident Manager of the Harris Theatre in Findlay, Ohio, makes a suggestion which we believe very clever and can be utilized on practically every talkie feature that has a

The stunt is just this: Place a Victrola behind a large sign to read: "The Year's Biggest Laugh" and underneath that the name of the feature you are showing. Purchase, as Mr. Hoel did, one of the old laughing records which consists of a man and woman laughing throughout the entire record. Some of you will probably recall this one, and realize what a peach of a ballyhoo this would be paying in the lobby or front of the theatre.

The same idea could be used by theatres having a loud speaker horn connected to their non-synchronous machine, and playing the horn on the top of the marquee with the sign as described above, would make an even more impressive ballyhoo than the way Mr. Hoel used it.

We are very grateful to him for remembering us, and we hope that he will continue to send us some of the stuff he is putting across out there in Findlay.

J. J. Revolt Tells Us A Good One About Time Clock

J. J. Revolt, Jr., assistant to E. T. Zadra, Lyric Theatre, Manistee, Mich., tells a funny story about a dummy clock which was used to announce the next show. (Dick Kirschbaum please note.)

The hands of this dummy clock were set to read, "next show at 8:45" and J. J. was out in the lobby busy keeping the patrons happy and informing them how long they would have to wait, when a couple of men apparently from the country appeared in the theatre and asked what time it was. His friend piped up, "Don't be dnmb, there's the time right over there at the box office," and thereupon the first gentleman set his Big Ben accordingly and walked out of the lobby which by that time was reechoing with the laughs of the crowd waiting. (Joe says that the actual time was only 7:30.)

This is a great way of starting his active membership in the ROUND TABLE CLUB, and our sincerest wish is that J. J. Revolt becomes as active and interested a member as his immediate superior, Mr. Zadra, who has been one of the charter members of the CLUB for over a year.

Let's hope that we hear from this combination regularly.

Earl Wellman Ties Up With Store For Free Display & Ads.

Earl Wellman, who is taking care of the Liberty Theatre at Watertown, N. Y., recently engineered a most successful campaign on the picture "Twin Beds."

Part of this campaign was a tie-up with one of the largest furniture stores in town, whereby they not only dressed a fine looking window, but gave the major portion of their newspaper advertising over to the tie-up for the Twin Beds which were to be given free to the first couple getting married during the run of the picture, at the Liberty Theatre.

We are reproducing a portion of the ad on which we have also placed a copy of the theatre ad on the right side, to give you an idea of how they both treated this stunt.

In addition to the above tie-up, Mr. Wellman also had thousands of c a r d s reading "Who will get the T w in Beds." distributed at the close of the business day, when workmen and women were on their way home from offices and shops. Of course, this created a tremendous amount of mouth to mouth advertising, and started the ball a-rolling, which led up to the announcement by the furniture house, the theatre and the window display, all combining to make this a most successful and emphatic campaign.

Another feature of Mr. Wellman's successful campaign, and additional evidence of his showmanship, was, that he paraded pajama boys all around the town prior to the opening of his exploitation campaign. The Watertown and Syracuse papers took note of it and a little later he put a cloth sign on the back of each boy reading "Snappy, breezy, 'Twin Beds,' Liberty Theatre, starting Saturday."

Mr. Wellman is successful in handling many types of high class showmanship and we are certainly delighted with the opportunity of passing on his activities to our many members and readers. Let us hope that he includes his own photograph with his next letter.

Spoken Like A Real Showman-!

"I have watched the Managers' Round Table Club from its inception and I consider it one of the most constructive movements in the field of the trade papers for the exchange of ideas in exploitation, publicity, advertising and the general management of theatres: it is a benefit to every man connected with theatre operation and ... you should get credit for the development of this splendid service ... I can't understand how I ever neglected to join, but I am hesitating no longer and ask if I may join now. I promise to be a regular contributor.

Every Employee An Equal—Firm Rule With Mgr. Levin

Our brother member, M. Levin, Manager of the New Palace Theatre in Coatesville, Pa., finally consented to send us a newer picture of himself than the one which we recently published.

That last one certainly did him an injustice, and we were certain that he was more "showman" looking than that picture gave him credit for.

At this time, we also want to pass on some little notes on theatre operation which Mr. Lewis makes it a rule to follow in the operation of his theatre. There are many points that, while they are old and well-known, they are just old enough to become new to many of us who are inclined to pass up the smaller things in looking for the bigger ones.

We suggest that you take the few moments necessary to read what Mr. Levin has to say on the operation of a theatre.

"I have a few suggestions to make on theatre operation routine, as follows,

"My experience of the past 17 years both in England and in this country, has taught me the only way I get the very best results is to co-operate in every way with each one of the staff.

"I put each and every one on the same footing as myself, I do not slight them in any way, I feel they are as important os I am in helping to get successful results.

"I tell them we are not here for the benefit of our health, nor our good looks, that we are all expected to help in every way, that satisfactory results can only be attained by working in harmony with each other.

"I tell them all that each and everyone will be expected to do his and her part, and in return they can depend upon my hearty co-operation in every way.

"This has proved to me how willingly the help work together in harmony, as if they were all rowing a boat to gain the goal of success, and that nothing succeeds like success."

We want to take this opportunity of passing on a recent stunt which he worked on the picture "Scandal." He printed some 2,000 envelopes captioned them as shown on the accompanying cut, these were distributed by hand throughout the town and around the theatre.

He tells me that some people were afraid to look inside for fear they would see something not they would see something not just according to Hoyle. However, the stunt attracted attention, and for that reason it has merit.

Thank you for these contributions, Mr. Levin, and let us hope to hear from you regularly.

Local Movie Shots A Corking Angle If You're Awake

This is the time of the year when live-wire managers can cash in plenty by getting a movie cameraman, or taking shots themselves, of the school children, high school students and various football teams.

This is an angle which has been successfully worked a great many times, and always keys up a whole lot of interest in the direction of the theatre on the part of the students and the youngsters.

Only recently, Manager J. C. King, of the Paramount Theatre in Marion, Ind., did exactly what we described above by making a local newsreel which included practically every student in that city.

He worked it by arranging a schedule, whereby they visited every school in the city and the children posed for this cameraman.

In addition, shots were taken of the high school football team and also of the team in action, and we heartily agree with "J. C." when he says that nearly every school child in Marion flocked to the Paramount Theatre to see themselves in the movies.

Here is a good angle, boys, and your Chairman heartily recommends it to your serious consideration.

Those of you boys who succeed in putting anything over along these lines would confer a favor by passing on the details to the rest of the boys through the pages of the ROUND TABLE CLUB.

WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR?

More New Members!

JOHN NAJDEK is the assistant manager of the Broadway Theatre in Astoria, N. Y., under the direction of our friend Paul Binstock and with so able a teacher we should venture the opinion that Johnny will soon be running a theatre himself. Better let us know a little more about yourself, Najdek, and how you are aiding Paul in the exploitation and advertising your attractions out there.

JACK HOWE manages the New Theatre in Woodstock, Va., one of those smaller, but nevertheless important, type of houses. Big ideas often find their birth at theatres like the New and under the management of men just like Jack Howe, so we won't be a bit surprised to learn some interesting things about this new member. And don't forget to send your own photo with your next letter, Jack, will yon? Thanks!

HOWARD J. RECKEFUS, better known out his way as "Reck," comes into the Round Table Club through our old friend Frank Mickley. "Reck" manages the Embassy Theatre in Allentown, Pa., a 1,200-seat first run house, and putting over some mighty good stuff in the line of exploitation, etc. We would sure like to class Reck as one of our active members and would appreciate one of his photos so that we can better introduce him to our many other members and readers. How about it, Reck?

P. J. LA VIA manages the Carroll Theatre in Brooklyn for the Fox Metropolitan Chain and has been instrumental in engineering some unusually fine exploitation. Just how he is doing it is what these pages are anxious to find out and we hope he won't keep us waiting long either. (Don't forget your photo with your next letter.)

H. CONRAD ROEMER is at present managing a Motion Picture Column in a Washington (D. C.) newspaper, but will shortly enter upon the task of press agenting for one of the big first runs down there. Just as soon as he gets both feet on the ground in his new task we are going to expect some mighty interesting things from him. And your own picture must be included, Roemer, so we can show the other boys just what you look like. Makes it rather chummy. Oak?

WILLIAM E. SCHMIDT has a sort of "doctor's" position with the Comerford Circuit up in Pennsylvania because they use Bill whenever they think a house needs a little "pepping" up or needs some additional life injected into it. So therefore we can not locate him at any particular house or town. But just the same, any man capable of filling the post which he occupies should have plenty up his sleeve to pass on to the other boys in the field. How about a photo of yourself plus some details of your past experiences?

JOHN J. REVOLT, Jr., is assistant to Ed. Zadra of the Lyric Theatre in Manistee, Mich., and under the guidance of a man like Ed., he should show some results in the line of showmanship. Just what he is doing to make himself useful to the Lyric and on the exploitation of pictures is what these pages are craving to find out. Shoot your first letter along real soon, "J. J.," and make it peppy.

SID FINKELSTEIN manages the Oasis Theatre in Brooklyn for Sol Brill and we would all be interested in learning how they are getting the cash customers into that well-known neighborhood house. Sid might find a few spare moments to sit down and write us a little ahout himself, the theatre and his experiences in the show business.

LOUIE M. SCHNEIDER adds still another live-wire showman from South Africa to the rapidly growing rolls of the Round Table Club. Mr. Schneider is connected with the African Theatres, Ltd., and we shall look forward to including his contributions to these pages in the next batch of S. African exploitation and theatre news used. He might also include his own photo with the next letter he sends us.

JOHN R. BODLEY is the managing director of the Gaiety Theatre in Trenton, N. J., and a real showman to boot. Some of his activities in Trenton were recently called to our attention and now we are auxiously waiting for him to send us some of the details. Start your active membership off in good style John and include your own picture which we want to use with your first contribution. Don't forget us, will you?

Cliff Gill Now Handling Pub. For Fox-Metro. Chain

Cliff Gill, who formerly was Director of Exploitation for the Fox-Midwest Theatres has been brought to N. Y. to act in a similar capacity for the Metropolitan Chain in and around

New York.

Already knowing how well he can engineer a good campaign or exploitation stunt, the ROUND TABLE CLUB would gladly give all the necessary space that he would require to broadcast all his activities.

Unfortunately some chain exploitation men seem to be a little shy about talking of their activities in a trade paper.

But those men who are really the most progressive have long since murdered that illusion and are now steady contributors to the ROUND TABLE CLUB pages, as well as being followers of our activities and the activities of our members and readers.

Here's hoping that this little sermon will attract the attention of men like Cliff Gill, Charlie Carroll and others.

Frank Goldquit's Activities Are Always Up-To-Date

We haven't heard lately from our friend Frank Goldquist, of the Web Theatre, Savanna, Ill., so we were tickled to open a letter from him and find out he is very much on the job.

In his last letter he sent some interesting contributions which we know will be read with much interest by our other members.

To offset the opposition of a Dramatic Company's Tent Show, Frank tagged every one of the automobiles outside the Tent with a red summons, a copy of which we are reproducing. This will give you an idea of how the thing was worded, and since the tage was similar to the one used by the local police, it certainly commanded all the attention that Goldquist expected of it and then some. There was quite a howl when the folks came out and found them. Plenty of them got just far enough to realize that it was a joke, while others actually went to the police department, or consulted their lawyers. At any rate, after the smoke had cleared away everyone had a good laugh, and Monday and Tuesday night filled the Web, much to the discomfort of the tent show backers. That Frank follows the activities of the ROUND TABLE CLUB is amply attested to by the clipping of the corner of this ad carrying the famous advertising gag about "If I owned this newspaper.' In this case, Frank made use of it in conjunction with his regular ad, whereas the original idea was for a separate ad to be run off in the theatre page. However, he must know which was the best medium and worked it to Whitbeck's Right!

The MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB certainly agrees with Frank Whitbeck in the Weekly News Letter of the Fox-West Coast outfit, where in he says: "A manager should discourage any advertising carrying the catch line 'TRY AND GET IN'.

As a matter of fact, this slogan was the topic of a most interesting discussion at CLUB headquarters between several showmen, one of whom happened to use the line in a newspaper ad which he was showing us, and for the life of us we could not get to agree with his viewpoint: that it was good advertising because it attracted attention and appealed to the "sportsmanship" of the theatregoer.

After all, a theatregoer as defined in any man's town or city, is every man, woman and child who can be appealed to to attend a performance, and I doubt whether the ladies and children, and, for that matter, the men, would give a tinker's danin about accepting a challenge to get into anybody's theatre.

Frank, do you mind if we steal your line, and pass on your advice to the rest of the boys to substitute any phrase like "Try and Get In" with the one which you suggest, meaning, "WE'LL SEE THAT YOU GET IN"?

Read this one over a couple of times, boys, because it is worthy of your attention, and touches upon an important angle in your newspaper advertising.

Hollywood

Lane Chandler and Louise Lorraine are being starred by Universal in a ten-episode serial "Lightning Express." Flovd Criswell, Jim Pierce and Robert Kelly have been signed for the cast. Henry MacRae will direct.

Frances Marion is writing the screen play and dialogue for "Anna Christie" in which Greta Garbo will star for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer under the direction of Clarence Brown, "Anna Christie" will be Miss Garbo's initial talker production.

Frances Marion, Hollywood rumors state, will marry George Hill, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, within the next few months. No denials are forthcoming on the reports.

Harvey Gates has finished the scenario for First National on "In The Next Room." The picture will feature Jack Mulhall and Alice Day, under direction of Eddie Cline.

Charles Le Moyne, former screen actor, who has devoted all of his time to his ranching interests for the past several years, has decided to return to the screen. He is now renewing friendships with easting directors and studio officials.

Carl Laemmle, Jr., has signed Warner Fabian, novelist, to write an original for Universal under title of "What Men Want." The picture is slatted to star Mary Nolan.

Jason Robards has been signed by Tiffany-Stahl for "Peacock Alley" in which Mae Murray will star in her first talker. Marcel De Sano, borrowed from Paramount, will direct.

Anders Randolph has been added to the cast of "Son of the Gods" in which Richard Barthelmess stars for First National. The balance of the cast includes: Constance Bennett, Mildred Van Dorn, Jimmie Eagles, Frank Albertson, Alyn Warren and King Hou Chang. Frank Lloyd is directing.

Raymond Hackett has been added to the cast of "Dulcy," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, starring Marion Davies, which King Vidor will direct.

Florence Lake has been added to cast of "Rogue's Song" starring Laurence Tibbett for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Lionel Barrymore is directing.

Douglas Girard will appear in "The Man," John Barrymore's next Warner Vitaphone production, under direction of Al Green.

J. Charles Davis is producing two western talkers at Presidio, Texas, with Art Acord and Art Mix starring. Acord appears in "The Texas Battler," while Mix is starred in "Beyond the Border,"

Frank Fay, Broadway cafe entertainer, recently brought to the Coast by Warners for one production, has been signed to a contract calling for four more pictures under the Warner Vitaphone banner.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer are planning to star lohn Gilbert in "Captain Heartbreak" upon his return from Europe. The story is an original by Willard Mack.

Rene Cardona will produce a series of pictures for Cuban International Films. The productions will be made with both English and Spanish dialogue; with the first listed as "Hawana," with Helene Costello and Cardona featured. Cliff Willard will direct.

William Holden has been added to the cast of "Dulcy," Marion Davies current dialogue production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Donald Davis has been signed to an optional term contract by Fox to write and direct dialogue features. The writer is a son of Owen Davis, prominent author, who is also writing for Fox, and has been with Paramount for the past year. Owen Davis, Jr., 18 also under contract to the same producer as a featured player.

Delmar Daves, scenarist and actor under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, has been assigned to play a part in "The Bishop Murder Case" which Nick Grinde will direct.

Chester Morris will play in Alice White's next First National production, "Playing Around," under direction of Mervyn LeRoy. Screen version is by Adele Commandini with dialogue by Humphrey Pearson.

Dudley Early and Sherman Lowe are writing an original story along romantic lines as a starring vehicle for Joseph Schildkraut which Universal will produce.

James Ashmore Creelman will supervise the production of "Vagabond Lover" RKO's first starring musical for Rudy Vallee. Creelman wrote the original story.

Lois Wilson and H. B. Warner will be featured by First National in "The Furies," from story by Zoe Akins. Alan Crosland will direct the Vitaphone production from the dialogue and script by Forrest Halsey. The Wilson-Warner team recently completed featured parts in "The Dark Swan," also for First National.

Danny O'Shea and Eddie Nugent have been signed by RKO as a comedy team in "The Vagabond Lover" starring Rudy Vallee Marshall Neilan will direct the production.

Robert Hopkins is writing dialogue for "Take It Big," M-G-M talker starring Van and Schenck of vaudeville fame. Hopkins recently finished similar assignment on "Roadshow" for same producing company.

Renee Macready has been placed under term contract by RKO for featured parts in filmusicals. Aliss Macready has appeared in several English film productions.

Francis X. Bushman, Jr., returned from a vaudeville tour and was immediately signed by M-6-M for prominent part in "Take It Big" starring Van and Schenck.

NEW BEAUTY for the SOUND SCREEN

Eastman sonochrome embraces the widest range of tinted positive films that has ever been available for the screen. And—what is all-important in this new age—the sixteen delicate Sonochrome tints are so adjusted as not to interfere with the faithful reproduction of sound....Successors to the tints of the silent era, these Eastman films bring new color moods—new beauty—to the sound screen.

"What HAROLD LLOYD

means to my theatres"

An Analysis by a Leading Showman

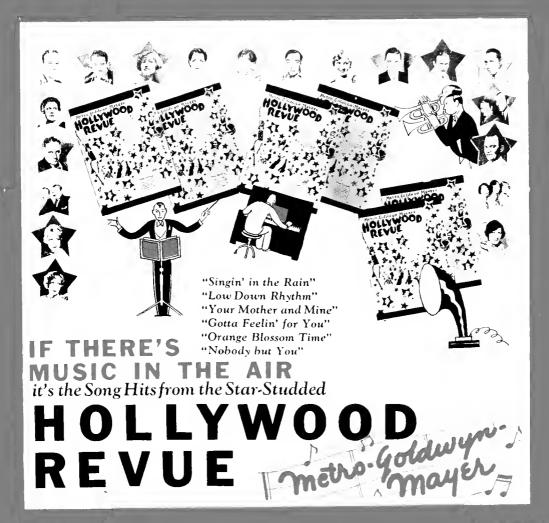

There are certain essential attractions in this business that a good showman makes sure of booking. I play Lloyd because his name guarantees me outstanding business on the engagement. I also play him because he builds permanent customers for my theatres. A new Lloyd picture is an event in any town. He not only draws the regular patronage 100%; he attracts kids and occasional movie-goers who come only when a Lloyd or a "Covered Wagon" is on the bill. The clean fun Lloyd gives these "occasionals" often turns them into "regulars." My average week-to-week gross moves up. All this will be doubly true of Harold Lloyd's first all-talking picture, "Welcome Danger." There isn't a person anywhere who won't be anxious to hear Harold Lloyd talk. Preview audiences hailed it as the greatest Lloyd yet. The theatre man who will permit this picture to slip to a competitor is lacking in the fundamentals of box office jndgement."

BUSINESS!

¶ A mighty procession of hits to date! An avalanche of record-smashers on the way! That's what makes PARAMOUNT'S NEW SHOW WORLD more than a slogan. It's the name of a revolution in show business. Bringing mightier entertainment, bigger box-office profits than you ever dreamed of! ¶ The difference hetween Paramount's new style hits and other product means a fortune to Paramount exhibitors!

Carroll, Helen Kane, Jack Oakie and others.

Ziegfeid's "GLORIFYING THE AMERICAN GIRL." With Mary Eaton. In revue: Eddie Cantor, ttelen Morgan, Rudy Vallee.

MAURICE CHEVALIER in ERNST LUBITSCH'S "The Love Parade." With Jeanette MacDonald.

DENNIS KING in "THE VAGABOND KING." With Jeanette MacDonald.

"THE VIRGINIAN." All-outdoor, all-talking. With Gary Cooper, Walter Huston, Riehard Arlen, Mary Brian.

MORE! MORE!

aramount 🖁

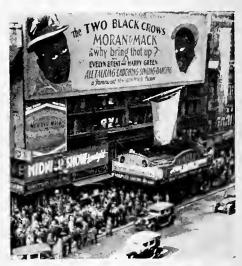

we apologize, Mr. Whalen!

—but see the pictures yourself and you'll realize why the sidewalks are blocked ¶ Coincidental with the opening of two great Paramount Pietures on Broadway—THE TWO BLACK CROWS, MORAN AND MACK, in "Why Bring That Up?" at the Rialto Theatre and "APPLAUSE", the $2 sensation with Helen Morgan, at the Criterion Theatre—the above sign appeared a block from each theater. ¶ The sign bears the name of Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen. It appeals to the crowds below to keep traffic open. ¶ We admit the sidewalks in front of the Rialto and Criterion have been jammed since these two sensational attractions started their runs. We pledge the Commissioner to use every resource at our command to handle the crowds and to accommodate the thousands besieging the Rialto and Criterion box offices. With this idea in mind we are using a 21-hour continuous performance policy at THE TWO BLACK CROWS show.

SIME SILVERMAN in "VARIETY" . . .

"It's a picture full of entertainment and polish for the classes and masses. The music alone would carry this film to success anywhere... the stage can never hope to catch up. In casting, the picture is perfect, with the paralyzer Bebe Daniels. RKO is entitled to take several bows for itself... an expensive picture on looks, but worth it, and a big profitmaker for the exhib. and RKO."

BLAND JOHANESON in "NEW YORK MIRROR" . . .

"A triumph! 'Rio Rita' is one you mustn't miss!... Bebe Daniels is everything you've heard obout her. A rich-voiced, dazzling light-opera prima donna. Her voice will knock you silly. Her beauty will enchant you. Bebe of the movies makes all these Broadway talker stars look like so many glasses of milk. She is superb... Besides the sensational new Bebe Daniels, 'Rio Rita' offers beautiful scenic spectacles, riotous comedy, catchy music and a charming love story. John Boles' splendid voice is heard in the leading masculine role. He makes a great romantic hero... Bert Wheeler's comedy provokes an uproar. No wonder the movies have snared him to a long term contract... Lavish settings and costumes, snappy dances, good voices, beautiful girls, 'Rio Rita' has every element of sure-fire musical entertainment. It's an ace picture and a great credit to the new giant of the movie industry, Radio Pictures."

In eighteen months Publix Theatres, Inc., has purchased over 70,000 Heywood-Wakefield chairs! NOW they order 40,000 more! What finer or more convincing recommendation could be made for any theatre chair? Before Publix officials ordered the first 70,000, their chemists, engineers, and maintenance men made an exhaustive study of theatre chair construction, comfort, and style. The contract was placed with Heywood-Wakefield. NOW, after 70,000 chairs are installed, Publix officials have been so impressed with the chairs, service, and the installations that they repeat with an order for 40,000 more. . . . Pantages, Orpheum, Schine, Saxe, and many other leading showmen in the United States are installing Heywood-Wakefield chairs for good, money-making reasons. Let us tell you and show you why. . . . A note to the nearest Heywood-Wakefield sales office will bring detailed information on the merits of seating or reseating with these de luxe theatre chairs.

The finest commercial gears in the world were not good enough

MAKE us the finest commercially practical gears in the world," ordered the engineers of the Bell Telephone Laboratories of the most skilled gear manufacturers in this country.

The gears were to be used to connect the disc turntable with the drive motor. But the gears — the finest which modern engineering could manufacture—failed to meet the exacting standard set.

It was found that even they produced a mechanical vibration, causing a slight flutter or quiver in the reproduced voice and music. Less exacting designers of talking equipment would have said, "good enough"—but not the engineers responsible for the Western Electric Sound System.

This mechanical filter iroas out vibrations caused by the action of the geors between motor drive and turntoble.

The problem of removing this flutter and quiver was finally overcome by designing an ingenious mechanical filter which successfully irons out all the vibrations and jars which otherwise would be transmitted to the turn-table. This mechanical filter also reduces to a minimum the possibility of needle jumping.

Because of such efficient refinements as this mechanical filter the Western Electric Sound System is acknowledged the best reproducer of sound pictures—setting the standard of quality reproduction. Because of such refinements theatres everywhere prefer to use this system.

In a Thrilling Murder _Case_

THE most virile, realistic story of newspaper life ever seen on the newspaper life ever seen on the talking screen—that in a nutshell, is the Pathe all-dialogue picture production, "Big News". The story is dramatic and every scene from start to finish has a thrill of its own. With its snappy dialogue, "Big News" will hold the attention of every spectator as by a magic spell. It is a tremendous them admentally openented and its dramatic programs. theme admirably presented and its dramatic situations are as engrossing as they are realistic. As a box office asset of transcendent merit "Big News" has no superior on the vocal screen.

Two screen players of ever increasing popularity are featured in the leading roles. They are Robert Armstrong and Carol Lombard, Mr. Armstrong won his spurs in "Celebrity," "Ned McCobb's Daughter," "The Leatherneck" and other notable photoplays. Miss Lombard achieved screen fame by her virile portrayals in "Show Folks," "Ned McCobb's Daughter" and "High Voltage." It is doubtful if two screen players of finer ment could have been chosen for the difficult characterizations they present in the virile talkie "Big

The supporting cast comprises many The supporting cast comprises many famous screen and stage players. The list includes Charles Sellon, Tom Kennedy, Warner Richmond, Wade Boteler, Sam Hardy, Louis Payne, Robert Dudley, "Cupid" Ainsworth, Gertrude Sutton, Fred Behrle, Herbert Clarke and Colin Chase. They render adequate support to the principals the result ate support to the principals the result being an even and artistic performance throughout.

The man wno directed "Big News" is Gregory LaCava, who achieved fame by his direction of Richard Dix in many of his screen successess. A trained newspaper writer of experience, he was well qualified to direct this virile newspaper story

The director of dialogue was Frank Reicher, who for many years was stage director of signal worth. He also was successful as stage and screen player, as well as writer of numerous film hits.

"Big News" is an adaptation by Jack Jungmeyer of the famous stage play written by George S. Brooks. The dialogue was written by Walter De Leon. All of these writers were identified for years with newspaper work and are now equally successful as playwrights and screen dramatists.

ly with life in the editorial rooms of a great modern newspaper. See it!

PATHE REACHES PEAK IN DARING MURDER TALKER!

URDERED in his office while he was dictating a dictaphone message to the District Attorney, in circumstances that pointed to Steve Banks, a discharged reporter, as the assassin, the body of James Addison, owner and publisher of the Courier, was found, badly mutilated, by his girl secretary yesterday morning. A dictaphone record later not only exonerated Banks, the suspected slayer, but proved beyond question that Reno, a notorious cafe owner and operator of underworld speakeasies, had committed the crime and his arrest followed.

A Natural Ballyhoo for A Natural

"BIG NEWS", with Robert Armstrong and Carol Lombard, broke on Broadway at the Colony Theatre, opening October 5 and playing a week to big business.

Audiences applauded, critics raved, and the box office cash register tinkled a merry tune.

Above is reproduced one of the many ballyhoos that are naturals for "BIG NEWS." It brought them into the Colony on Broadway. It will bring them into any theatre in any town.

The story of "Big News" deals whol- "BIG NEWS" is GOOD NEWS for every exhibitor looking for a live one.

It appears that Banks was discharged by Addison for dereliction of duty. His wife, Margaret Banks, a member of the reportorial staff of the Herald, had threatened to obtain a divorce and Banks in consequence, appeared greatly dejected. He went to Reno's cafe and quarreled with the latter who, as a heavy advertiser in the Courier, obtained his discharge. To revenge himself, Banks obtained the Peretti confession a few minutes before the lession a few minutes before the woman was slain by gangsters in Reno's employ.

With this confession, Banks appeared at Mr. Addison's office. Reno was awaiting his turn to see the newspaper proprietor in an adjoining room and heard Banks' and Addison's quarrel. Banks left the office in great agitation, and a few minutes later Addison's body, with the skull crushed, was discovered.

Now comes the amazing feature of this crime, one of the boldest and far-reaching in its consequences, ever committed in this city. Banks was arrested at a nearby barber shop by Officer Ryan, after his (Banks') pocket knife had been found in the street beneath Addison's window. He denied positively that he had brought about the publisher's death and said that he had not only been restored to his position by Addison for obtaining the Peretti confession, but that Addison was dictating a message to the District Attorney regarding the confession when he left the office.

Obtaining the dictaphone record, which Reno sought to destroy, an astounding thing occurred. The record proved that Addison while telling the District Attorney of the murder of the Peretti woman by Reno's agents, and of the confession obtained by Banks was interrupted by Reno. His voice was recognized by all who listened to the revelations of the record, with the command to stop talking. Addison ordered Reno out of his office whereupon Reno crushed his skull. The sound of the blow could be distinctly heard! Reno was placed under arrest.

"Big News" will make money wherever it is shown. It is one of the most absorbing mellers filmed in a long time, and, although its theme centers in a newspaper office, it is handled and enacted in such a way that every sequence has a one-two sock.

Pathe's "Big News" is worthy of any rave it gets. And that goes for the superlatives they'll probably use in the press sheet.

The theme picks a news room of the daily in a second class city. Radio recorders never forgot to keep the typewriters clicking into their mikes. The writing tempo never ceases.

It's a case of the star reporter sleeping off a stew in the editor's chair and getting the gate when the advertising manager kicks that the constellation's toughness is causing him to lose a good account. Director LaCava remembers his own daily days sufficiently not to let the editor blow up until the reporter has actually called the turn.

Robert Armstrong, Charles Sellon, and Louis Payne couldn't fit the roles of reporter, editor and advertising manager any better.

The romantic interest is skillfully worked in. Not a girl friend, but a wife of two years, trying to get her reporter husband, Steve, away from bar inclina-tions that are becoming a habit. As Mrs. Banks, sob-sister on a rival paper, Carol Lombard steps before the camera just often enough to provide the necessary touch and not spoil a good job.

Sam Hardy is excellent as a speak prop and coke runner. He plays Reno, the underworld guy who gets Banks fired.

Action gets into a big blaze when Banks, returning with a confession which involves Reno in a murder, is given a raise along with the job. At the same time Reno, across the hall, overhears the conversation and bumps off the editor, using a knife Banks had left in the speak.

Tom Kennedy makes a good Patrol-man Ryan. He is just the kind of a cop who would rile the boys in the office of a small daily. Waly.

Peppy Program Picture Rates Three-Stars; "Weavers," 55th St. Film, Wins Two

By IRENE THIRER
"Big News," a Pathe production, directed by Gregory La Cava and presented at the Colony Theatre.

THE CAST:

Without having had a blare of special exploitation to pave its way into the Colony theatre, "Big News" is, to this reviewer's way of thinking, the most realistic talkie of the fourth estate yet to reach a program cinema house.

Reporters are the way that Robert Armstrong is in this picture -and Gregory La Cava who used to be a newspaper man once himself, understands the workings of a stately (?) plant of journalism, and presents his story in fast moving, thoroughly entertaining fashion.

(NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL)

"Big News" Is Fast Moving Melodrama Entertaining and Well Directed porter and his wife, who quits earlier in the story.

AT THE COLONY

the week's attraction at the Colony.

ROBERT ARMSTRONG plays the leading role, that of an irresponsible reporter who, upon being fired, bucks up and goes after a big story on the local dope ring. He brings a signed confession to his editor who is later found murdered in circumstances which noint to the guilt of the hero. The point to the guilt of the hero. The manner in which he clears himself and reveals the identity of the murderer is neatly handled.

And "Big News," a fast-moving BIG NEWS" is entertaining and melodram of newspaper life, is ably directed by Gregory La Cava, even though the city room sequences make it appear that reporters spend their time doing nothing but dinarily has heavy parts, is deserving hurling wise-cracks at each other. Armstrong does well with his role, and others in the line-up are Sam Hardy, grand as the master mind of the dope ring; Tom Kennedy, amusing as a policeman; Carol Lombard, Charles Seldon, Warner Richmond, Louis Payne and Wade Boteler.

"Big News" (PATHE) At the Colony

Big News is the best newspaper story that has yet been brought to the screen. The entire production is filled with comedy that, while akin to wisecracking, is original enough to give the customers a great number of laughs.

A drunken reporter, who is on the verge of the season's scoop, is framed by the bad gangster on the murder of his boss, with whom the reporter is constantly rowing, and the solution via the dictaphone that the boss has obligingly left on, solves the question of who did the trick and reunites the reporter and his wife, who have called it

The cast includes Robert Armstrong, Sam Hardy, Tom Kennedy and others, with the best work done by Armstrong and Hardy in the roles of reporter and gangster, who prove their ability to handle difficult parts. Hardy, who orof something much better than has been his lot in the past. This picture, with perfect sound recording and fine dialog, will do good in any type house. The shortness of the screening time will necessitate more fillers than are J. F. L. ordinarily used.

Motor driven, with two turntables, its equipment includes four 12-inch Electro-Dynamic cone speakers. Another major improvement, adding to the simplicity of its operations, is the introduction of two central levers in front of the turntables, which release the pick-ups at exactly the right point by the toneh of a finger.

The RCA Photophone Phonograph not only reproduces non-synchronous music or speech perfeetly, but it also permits the addition of syn> chronous discs for synchronous speech or music at any time. Thus it never needs to be replaced.

> No other theatre phonograph offers you such revolutionary improvements. Order this equipment now, while the limited supply lasts. Immediate shipment guaranteed.

NOSES SMUDGED WITH DIRT

THESE are the days of secret conclaves.

The industry's headline names are conferring behind closed doors; telephones are cut off and secretaries turned into guards to keep away the undesirables and the unwanteds.

Your business leaders are discussing such gravely serious matters as wide film and the necessity for standardization lest another wholly unnecessary and equally amusing debacle like the mad scramble over sound whip itself around the celluloid loins of that panting giant occasionally referred to as the motion picture.

Those deliberations, we hold, are essential. The leaders—there are merely a handful—must properly exercise sufficient business acumen to live up to the reputations with which they are credited in order to settle among themselves a procedure for all to pursue, rather than meander on their individual ways toward industry disruption and discord.

And, if it has not been done, we should like to suggest that they meet again—and shortly at that—to determine what to do about the increasing use of spoken smut with which pictures today must be afflicted if they are to be successful—according to a prevalent yet misguided vogue.

We are assured by those who agree with us that there remain in this country unnumbered thousands who think and act in terms of politeness; who resent the obvious lowbrow course of inducing a belly laugh by hitting the ribs with a sledge hammer wallowed in dirt. For these unorganized and, therefore, expressionless thousands and, believe us, for the ultimate prosperity of the industry itself, we take the platform with a plea for less mud and more subtlety in talking pictures.

It is inconceivable to us that this industry will fail to recognize the road down which it is traveling. Talkers are keeping children out of theatres. The young boys and girls of America, the boosters of tomorrow, mind you—are no longer attending pictures because the films of yesterday are off the country's screens. Any conscientious parent will tell you, if you inquire, how difficult it is to fashion film entertainment for his family.

It is not because pictures are turning sophisticate. Rather it is because Hollywood believes, and New York stands for it, that the smart thing to do is to tear the clothes from its women, thrust them into questionable situations, wisecrack about the entire proceedings and consider it both good fun and impeccable taste.

The far-sighted and constructive elements in this business must take the job by its horns and wrestle with it until victory is theirs.

The troublesome head of censorship must be kept reposing quietly on its downy couch. This industry is big enough to take care of its obligations without outside, unsympathetic interference. Yet, this can be done only if faith is maintained.

Noses smudged with dirt have no place of standing in the broad scheme of motion picture affairs. For this reason if not for the many which common sense business dictates, the smut cancer must be cut out. Not next week, or next year, but now. Today.

Zukor to Combat Fox in Britain; Latter Still After Canadian Chain

WORKING VIA GAUMONT

Canadian Ally Of U. K. Chain Already In Field, May Be Fox's Way To Break In

Montreal.—Reorganization of the staff of Gaumout British Corp. of Canada is taken as a step toward concentrated activity in the exhibition field throughout the Dominion. Gaument British of England, Britain's most powerful theatre chain, is controlled by Fox. The inference in some circles is that Fox may use G. B. of Canada to gain a theatre footbold in this territory.

Both Fox And Publix To Build In Joplin

Joplin, Mo.—M. B. Shanberg, head of the Fox-controlled Midland circuit in Kansas and Missouri, has awarded contract for the construction of a new $500,000 theatre here, the seating capacity to be about 2,500. While Publix is not represented in this city at present, word from New York headquarters indicates that the company will take immediate steps to build.

Fox Building In Salamanca, N. Y.

Rochester, N. Y.—Fox will build a 1,278 seat theatre at Salamanea according to announcement here by Walter L. Trauss, manager of the Fox-Andrews.

Fox Atlanta House Nearing Completion

Atlanta.—R. T. Newton is now in charge of the new Fox theatre, rapidly nearing completion here. No definite date for the opening has been set, but it is expected the house will be ready in November.

El Capitan, Frisco, Turned Over To Fox

San Francisco.—The El Capitan has been taken over by Fox West Coast, with A. M. Bowles, division manager, now in charge of the house recently acquired from Ackerman Harris & Oppen in a deal involving approximately $500,000. The acquisition gives the Fox interests 3 theatres here. The others are the new Fox and Loew's Warfield.

Report Fox Has Bought Liberty In Watertown

Watertown, N. Y.- According to an unconfirmed report the Liberty, operated by Charles Sesonske, has been acquired by the Fox interests.

Paramount Split

When Paramount Famous-Lasky common reaches 80 on the N. V. Stock Excbange, it is understood a split will again be made. This action is understood to have been determined upon by the Paramount directors at several meetings held in New York this week.

The split is designed to meet the exchange in stock whereby Paramount and Warners pool their holdings. Paramount common closed at 72½ Thursday.

Co-Op May Battle F P In Dominion

Toronto.—Indications of formation of an organization that will take the field in competition to the theatres of Famous-Players Canadian is seen in the progress being made by the Exhibitors' Co-operative of Canada, Ltd., which recently obtained a Canadian Federal company charter, in the organization of independent groups in each of the provinces. The first has been organized in Halifax, by F. R. Lennon, national buyer of the organization which has a dual objective. First is reduction of sound rentals and second, raising of funds to secure equipment for unaffiliated theatres.

At the demand of the Exhibitors' Cooperative, the Dominion recently undertook an investigation under the Combines Act into Famous Players Canadian and several exchanges. The independents recently held a meeting in Toronto with 70 theatre men attending. They were addressed by Dama Baillie, president, and also by Phil Hazza, William Gearing and Carl Goe, of Tiffany-Stabl

Nathanson, Quitting, Denies Move Against F. P. Canadian

Toronto.—N. L. Nathanson, former managing director of Famous Players Canadian Corp., in a public announcement announcing his retirement, denies he is interested in developing a chain in opposition to Famous. This is held to put an end to reports that William Fox was backing Nathanson in a wholesale invasion of the Canadian field either through purchase of F. P. Canadian or development of a new competitive circuit.

Publix Acquiring More In Southeastern Towns

Atlanta.—An unconfirmed report has it that Lucas-Jenkins-Publix has acquired the Lyric and Orpheum at Wayeross, Ga., which were owned by the L. B. Farrell Amusement Co. I. E. Shields is named as manager of both.

SAILING FOR EUROPE

Ostensibly On Vacation But Trip Is Really To Fight Fox Hold On Gaumont British

Plans to offset Fox's acquisition of the Gaumont British chain, England's most important circuit which totals 300 houses, are expected to engage attention of Adolph Zukor shortly after the latter's arrival in Europe next week. Zukor sails on the Ile de France tonight presumably on a vacation.

Fox's control of G. B. is conceded to give him a significant hold on the exhibition field in England, and has created widespread comment not only in London but in New York film circles as well.

Richards Theatre Sconting For Publix; El Paso Next?

El Paso.—Publix may build a big first run theatre here. Reports are current following the visit of E. V. Richards, Jr., former president of Saenger Enterprises and since the latter's sale to Paramount a vice-president of Publix. He has been swinging through the Southwest and has already covered the Rickards and Nace houses in Arizona, recently acquired by Publix.

Publix To Build 3,000 Seater In San Antonio

San Antonio, Tex.—Publix has completed plaus for a 3,000 seat theatre, according to announcement by W. J. Lytle, general manager for Publix here. Site of the new house will be on Travis St., directly behind the Texas theatre, the leading Publix house of the Alamo City. Construction work will be started in 60 days.

Publix leases on the Princess and Empire expire in December; the new house will take the place of one of these, and the Old Majestie on Main Ave., leased to Publix by Carl Hoblitzelle soon after the opening of his new Greater Majestie. At present there are three major type de luxe houses here; the Texas, Publix; Greater Majestie, Fox, and the Aztee, an independent house. Seating capacities are respectively 3,000; 4,000; and 2,500.

O'Donnell To Join Publix

Dallas, Tex.—Robert O'Donnell, for the past five years general manager of the Interstate Amusement Co., with headquarters here, has left for New York to fill a post in the general offices of Publix.

R-K-O Organizing for Theatre Drive; Long Run Chain Developing in Keys

RCA Pledges Aid For Small Houses

Los Angeles.—RCA or its affiliated companies will not market any product in the electrical or mechanical entertainment field that would be injurious to the picture theatres. Neither will RCA introduce any improvements in the entertainment field without having in mind the exhibitor and his needs. This statement was made by Col. E. K. Hawkins, sales promotion manager of RCA Photophone, in an exclusive interview with MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

Hawkins further pointed out that it was the intention of RCA and its affiliated organizations to assist the theatre owners of the country in every possible way so that the smallest house could still remain open and do a profitable business. Through that procedure, RCA expected to assist exhibitors and still make a legitimate profit on the equipment and merchandise the company sells to exhibitors.

Goldstone May Head T-S Units

(Hollywood Bureou, Motion Picture News)

Hollywood.—Grank Cook, chief executive of Tiffany-Stahl, is dickering with Phil Goldstone to assume charge of all production when John M. Stahl retires from the organization on Nov. 16. Goldstone originally produced for T-S until two years ago. One of his last pictures for the company was "Wild Geese."

Stahl, it is reported but unconfirmed, may return to M-G-M as a director.

Tiffany Considers Name Change With Stahl Out

A new name for Tiffany-Stahl will be determined upon momentarily. With resignation of John M. Stahl, the company will either become Tiffany Prod. or Tiffany Tone Prod.

DeLuxes Only For L & T Chain

Chicago.—L & T, subsidiary of Balaban & Katz, has taken over the Crystal, an 1,860-seat house of the de luxe type as a move in furtherance of a new policy under which smaller houses will be dropped in favor of a string of high-class neighborhood theatres to encircle the city, the helief being outstanding neighborhood house being selected as the type that will survive.

B & K plan two new neighborhood de luxe theatres for the North side to seat . 2,500 each.

R-K-O in Iowa Tussle

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—RKO added some excitement to the theatre situation in lowa in signing a 20 year lease on the Iowa here at an annual rental figure said to be $50,000. This is said to be largest lease that has ever been negotiated in this territory. The theatre has already opened under the new management with Joe Gorman in charge. This will be the first of the theatres which RKO will place under their active management in lowa territory.

Des Moines.—Fox's acquisition of the Palace at Muscatine is seen here as a prefude to a general expansion program throughout Iowa and a move to round out the Fox holdings in Missouri and Kansas, obtained through the recent deal with M. B. Shanberg and Midland theatres.

Publix is expected to be the third major factor in the impending Iowan theatre race. Sam Katz, it is reported, is ready to step all through the Middle West as part of his company's national theatre purchasing campaign.

LeBaron Signed Again By RKO

At a salary figure reported to give him rank with the highest paid executives in the industry, RKO has renewed its contract with William La Baron, vice-president in charge of Radio Pictures production, for three years.

Editor, author, playwright, musician and composer are the titles which Le Baron has won during his career. In 1919, he entered production at the request of William Randolph Hearst, becoming director-general of Cosmopolitan. Hearst took him from the post of managing editor of "Collier's Weekly." Le Baron joined Paramount in 1924 as associate producer at the Long Island Studios, later becoming associated in his present post with RKO.

Compson in "Grischa"; 7 RKO Units Busy On Coast

(Hollywood Burcou, Motion Picture News)

Hollywood. — Betty Compson yesterday was selected to play the feminine lead in "The Case of Sergeant Grischa," war story to be produced by Herbert Brenon for RKO as a special.

The RKO plant is now one of the busiest in Hollywood. Dix yesterday began work on "Seven Keys to Baldpate," his first for Radio with Reginald Barker directing, "Love Comes Along," Bebe Daniels first since "Rio Rita" is also in work and, after its completion, Miss Daniels goes to New York for a vacation. "Hit the Deek" is in its second day under direction of Luther Reed. Olive Borden and Arthur Lake are busy on "Dance Hall."

MOVE A NATIONAL ONE

Will Acquire Rather Than Build As Faster Method To Add Links To Chain

Radio-Keith-Orpheum is mapping plans for a widespread theatre campaign all over the United States. Recognizing the tendency to acquire, rather than build, it is understood Hiram S. Brown and Joe Plunkett are shaping their course in accordance with the prevailing movement.

Facing a deficit of approximately $400,000 for the first quarter of 1929, the forthcoming statement of R-K-O for the third quarter of the eurrent year is expected to show a profit of approximately $1,250,000. It is understood further that original plans for revival of vaudeville in all key spots are undergoing a change and that the policy in the future will be to give the public the form of entertainment which shows the required results at the box-office regardless of what the ingredients may be.

David Sarnoff of the Radio Corp. of America who was responsible for shifting Brown from the U. S. Leather Co. to the presidency of R-K-O, is preparing to take over an office at company's headquarters in order to devote more of his time to the widespread interests of RCA in the amusement and allied fields.

Radio Pictures, wholly owned subsidiary of R-K-O and operated by Joseph I. Schnitzer in New York and William Le Baron in Hollywood is making further plans for production. These plans are expected to take Schnitzer to the coast next week.

11 Long Runs Planned; 7 Now In Operation

Radio-Keith-Orpheum will have a minimum of 11 long run theatres housing its own product in the United States. With opening of the Temple, Rochester, N. Y., early in November, the number increases to eight. With the exception of the Earl Carroll, New York, which is playing "Rio Rita" on a two-a-day basis, each house is operating on a grind policy. The houses are the Keith, Washington; Keith, Boston; Hippodrome, Cleveland; Orpheum, St. Louis; Carroll, New York; Globe, New York, which opens with "Jazz Heaven" soon; Woods, Chicago, and Temple, Rochester.

RKO Switches Temple In Rochester To Long Runs

Rochester, N. Y.—The long idle Temple, downtown film and vaudeville house owned by RKO, will be revamped and wired as a straight film theatre. Workmen are wiring the house with RCA equipment. The theatre will get a new front and complete renovation before its opening Nov. 7, with "Rio Rita."

Steamroller To Dominate At M.P.T.O.A. Nat'l Conclave

The steamroller is expected to encounter no opposition in the path it will take at the 10th annual convention of the M. P. T. O. A. to be held in Memphis, Oct. 28-31.

Organizations represented at the convention will be limited largely to the three exhibitor bodies of Tri-State, taking in Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee; the North Carolina unit, and representatives of producer-owner chains.

The convention will carry out the program which has been mapped out well in advance. The national directors will be nominated Wednesday morning and the election will take place Thursday.

An exposition of sound apparatus will be held in connection with the convention, and addresses will be made by Dr. Lee De-Forest, J. E. Otterson, of "Erpi," as well as discussions of sound problems by acoustical engineers and other technical experts.

A representative of Governor Henry H. Horton, for Tennessee, will greet the assemblage at the opening session. Sidney M. Nutt, owner of a chain of theatres in and around Hot Springs, Ark., will bring the assembled exhibitors official greeting of the association. R. F. Woodhull will return to the convention floor to deliver his report as president for the first ten months of the association year. President M. A. Lightman will follow Woodhull with his report of activities since his installation in Memphis on Sept. 12. The social climax will be the formal dinner-dance to be held in the ballroom of the Hotel Peabody on Wednesday night, Oct. 30.

Schines Build New N.Y.-Ohio Circuit

Gloversville, N. Y.—The Schines are developing a new chain following the recent Fox Metropolitan deal which gave the latter considerable of their holdings. The brothers are negotiating for new acquisitions in up state New York and Ohio.

Warners Plan For Two New Theatres

Youngstown.—A new theatre to cost $1,000,000 will be started here early next spring by Warners, according to local capitalists who recently returned from a conference in New York with Harry M. Warner. The location will be on W. Federal at Chestnut St.

Erie, Pa.—Warners will start construction of their new 4,000 seat theatre here next spring. The project will cost $1,000,000.

'Say It With Songs' Leads Coast Runs

(Hollywood Bureau, Mation Picture News)

Hollywood.—With the advantage of good weather, six Los Angeles houses in the week just closed enjoyed very good business while one broke even, another had a normal week and two were slightly under the weather.

"Say it With Songs," opening at the Warners Hollywood with a $5 top, obtained $28,300 (201%). The receipts and percentages of the other houses were as follows: "Gold Diggers of Broadway," third week at Warners Downtown, $26,800 (185%); "Cock-Eyed World," third week at Grauman's Chinese, $25,250 (163%); "They Had To See Paris," fourth week at Carthay Circle, $19,200 (154%); "Dance Of Life," second week at United Artists, $19,050 (140%); "Great Gabbo," second week at Criterion, $12,900 (129%).

week at Criterion, $12,900 (129%).

"Side Street," at the RKO, grossed $17,600 (100%); while "Marianne," sixth week at Mayan, broke even, getting $8,200.

"Why Bring That Up?", second week Paramount, and "Her Private Life," at Loew's State, were both slightly off par, the former getting $24,500 (98%) and the latter $26,700 (99%).

Jolson's Draw Waned In Jacksonville Run

Jacksonville.—Al Jolson in "Say It With Songs" lasted but one week at the Palace. Popularity of the star seems to be waning here, the chief complaint being that he doesn't appear in blackface. Davey Lee drew more comment than Jolson.

Deny Publix Deal With "U"

Universal yesterday denied that any deal is on between that organization and Publix for the latter was to take over the remaining theatres that Universal is now operating. There have been negotiations between Universal and several of the chains but nothing as definite as a deal has been arrived at as yet. It is merely a question of trading around for the best deal possible.

The only deals made to date have been with Publix which took over the Hostettler circuit and the Rickards and Nace chain in both of which Universal held an interest. As a matter of fact while Fox West Coast was trying to effect a trade, the deal with Publix was made at $1,800,000, which was $200,000 better than Fox offered to pay

A number of Universal houses in Pacific Northwest cities were disposed of early in the year, so that chain operation by Universal at this time is ont of the "red" and showing a profit.

Despite the denial of the deal for the balance of the circuit with Publix it is a known fact that Universal is preparing a set of figures on present theatre operations for Publix so that a trading basis may possibly be arrived at.

Chi Theatres In Booking Combine

Chicago.—Owners of small theatres are discussing plans looking toward the reduction of operating costs through a joint buying and booking arrangement. The plan was inspired by the apparent successwhich is meeting the RKO and Tiffany-Stahl franchise, now being vigorously sponsored in this territory by Al Steffes.

From a discussion as to booking arrangements for small theatres, the first meeting called by Ed Brunell of the Metropole theatre, drifted into the discussion of possible formation of a theatre owners' organization composed of exhibitors operating honses of 600 seats capacity or less.

It will remain for developments at later meetings that will be held to reveal what progress has been made along the lines discussed at the initial gathering. This was attended by L. Blum, Françis theatre; A. Caruso, Francis; Charles Stern, Wallace; M. D. Zimmerman, Eagle; L. R. Fleiseher, Home and California theatres; M. Cooper, Rosette; H. Nepo, Lindy; R. Sola, Model; J. and F. McCarthy, Lyric and Loomis theatres; W. Babitz, Grant at Cicero, Ill.

Ackerman-Harris Chain May Be Party To Merger

San Francisco. — Changes, in the form of consolidations, are being contemplated by his firm, states Sam Harris, of Ackerman, Harris and Oppen, chain theatre operators. Harris brands as premature a report that the company's Casino, now operating as a second run, would present first run talkies and stage presentations.

Washington Still Probing Mergers; Adverse Legislation Faces Industry

OFFICIALS ON WATCH

"Sitting Tight" Right Now, But Operatives Are Now Working In Many Cities

(Woshington Bureau, Mation Picture News)

Washington.—What lies ahead of the industry during the coming regular session of Congress, which convenes in December, today is shrouded in mystery. So far, the present special session being called solely for discussion of farm relief and tariff, few measures affecting the industry have been introduced. Many more will be submitted early in December, but what action, if any, is taken on them now appears to depend entirely upon the ability of Congress to dispose of the tariff.

The file of picture bills to date contains the bill sponsored by Senator Brookhart of Iowa, with its lengthy title designating it

The only other measures pending would repeal the ban on interstate transportation of prize fight pictures and would prohibit the importation or interstate transportation of films showing, directly or indirectly, any offense against morality.

Another measure anticipated during the coming session is the Lord's Day Alliance bill providing a Sunday blue law for the District of Columbia. The reformers, it is understood, are now seeking a man who will introduce this bill, which in the past has been the cause of terrific opposition, at one time culminating in a real fight during a committee hearing. It is quite likely that other bills dealing with the industry may be introduced.

Washington Sees Small Chance for Passage of Brookhart Bill

(Washington Bureau, Motion Picture News)

Washington.—Senator Brookhart is out in the open with the avowed intention of seeking passage of his block booking measure when the regular session of Congress convenes in December. However, what with the vexatious tariff question and the necessity for setting the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1930, legislative circles see little or no chance for the Brookhart measure.

(Washington Bureau, Mation Picture News)
Washington—Dept. of Justice operatives are conducting a systematic intives are conducting a systematic investigation into film practices in a number of key cities. This procedure is understood be largely a routine. When the attention of the department is called to specific matters, usually hundreds of inquiries are made before official action is taken.

For several weeks operatives of the Dept. of Justice have been probing general film practices in the Greater New York territory. It is understood six men have been assigned this task by Washington and are making a careful and secretive investigation of the entire field in New York. Merger tendencies in the industry are understood to be engaging their particular attention.

Favors Revise In The Ethics Code

(Washington Bureau, Motion Picture News)

Washington.—The Federal Trade Commission would welcome a suggestion that a second Trade Practice Conference be held by the industry to amend the Code of Ethics which developed from the parley in 1927 so as to cover any developments which may have arisen since that time. Trade practices, however, are considered to be voluntary meetings sought by industries desirous of "cleaning house" and, on that basis, the first step toward a second meeting must come from within the business.

Officials of the commission are watching with interest recent developments in the industry with a view to determining their effect upon the Code. There is, however, nothing the commissions can do to amend these rules

In the interim and with the Paramount case still to be settled by the courts, the commission at present is paying little attention to the industry. So much depends upon the outcome of this case, which now has been running for nearly a decade, that there is little the F. T. C. can do in the film business until a final decision has been rendered.

If the Federal Court in New York, where the suit is now pending, renders its decision this term, it is very likely that the defeated party will appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court. If that court decides that the commission was without authority to issue its famous "cease and desist order" of July 9, 1927, that phase of the government's activities will come to an end; on the other hand, if the Supreme Court finally upholds the order, it is probable that cases will-immediately be instituted against other companies charged by the commission with similar activities.

BROOKHART ACTIVE

To Push Block Booking Bill, But Law Makers See No Chance For Passage

(Washington Bureau, Motion Picture News)

Washington.—Having failed to find a satisfactory substitute for the so-called Donovan plan for considering proposed mergers in industry, officials of the Dep't of Justice are "sitting tight" and, while casting about for means of improving the procedure, following the policy laid down by Colonel "Wild Bill" Donovan when he was in charge of anti-trust activities.

At the present time there are several picture mergers before the department, but this information comes from the industry and not from the government. Nor will officials of the department talk about these cases or make public any action taken with respect to them.

This policy of secrecy on the part of the department is recognized in Washington as having a very solid foundation. Naturally, if it were learned that the government had given approval to the merger of important concerns, there would be an immediate reaction on the stock market. Similarly, adverse action would also affect the market. The government departments do everything in their power to avoid influencing the market; unless it is a matter of general public interest, activities which might affect stock prices are kept confidential. Where it is felt the welfare of the country outweighs any market reaction, the information is made public after the close of the N. Y. Stock Exchange, so that it may be digested thoroughly before trading starts again. Thus, its reports on cotton crop probabilities, brokers loans and similar subjects are made public late daily.

Further, it has been explained by officials here, if the department makes public its approval of mergers it must also make public its disapproval. A merger might be frowned upon, it is pointed out, without in any way being criminal, but announcement of disapproval would result in public condemnation of the companies and men involved, no matter how voluminous an explanation might accompany the verdict. The department has no desire to hold any honest business men up as a target for mud-slinging.

Congress And Legislation

(Washington Bureau, Motion Picture News) Washington—The legislative fate of the industry depends largely on the personnel of House and Senate committees assigned to handle motion picture matters. The flouse committees are not yet made up and several of the Senate committees are as yet incomplete. Changes are certain and, until the personnel is made public, it is impossible to figure how the industry will be affected.

"Dubbing" Foreign Lines In Talkers, New Coast Practice

By Walter R. Greene (Western Representative Motion Picture News)

Hollywood-Producers are going slow in the making of German or other foreign versions of talkers at this time due to patent difficulties in various countries over equipment where Western Electric is involved. The majority opinion is that the only satisfactory foreign language talkies to be made is by directly recorded versions made after the English has been recorded, with companies maintaining a small group of stock actors capable of speaking the necessary languages. One important executive states that present grosses on talkies in the English-speaking markets make it unnecessary to think about other markets at this time, and expresses confidence that a solution can be worked out later should the need become important.

Paramount has done nothing but is watching developments. The same may be said for Columbia, Tiffany, First National and Warners. However, the latter have produced one picture in German at their Eastern plant, this being "The Royal Box," starring Alexander Moissi with Camilla Horn opposite.

M-G-M has one foreign language film and preliminary plans have been formulated to make talkies with backgrounds of the specific country in which the story is laid with a language version for that country besides English. Ramon Novarro's next, 'The House of Troy,'' is laid in Spain and very likely will have English, Spanish and French versions with Novarro speaking each. Victor Seastrom's next starring Vilma Banky probably will have both English and German versions, although this is not definitely set. M-G-M also contemplates introducing a new master of ceremonies in 'The Hollywood Revue' for special editions of that film for France, (Continued on page 32)

Chevalier's Next In French And English

A beau geste to the French market is seen in plans of Paramount to make Maurice Chevalier's next, "The Big Pond" in both French and English. The picture will be made in the Long Island studio and for it a leading woman who can speak both languages will be secured.

In Two Tongues

Friedrich Zelnik, German producer, has "dubhed" into the English version of "Lummox." German dialogue. The German lines were matched up as closely as the English would permit and noist instances are reported to be fool proof.

The experiment, previously tried by Universal on the coast, is held to be extremely successful. Jos. M. Schenck, who leaves for Hollywood Saturday, is preparing to submit all of his company's releases to the same treatment, with the Spanish tongue the next to be adopted.

Go To See "Paris"

In Hollywood, the underground has been buzzing about "Paris," stage played annexed by First National, who then annexed Irene Bordoni to repeat her flesh-and-blood role on the screen

The other day we saw it. And this is what the screen had to say and show:

A fluff story played in a slapstick, broadside fashion that tickles mightily in the rihs. You won't remember the picture after leaving the theatre, but most certainly will you appreciate the good time that was yours. Miss Bordoni is starred, but Louise Closser Hale, the icebound New England mother who melts alarmingly under the pleasantries that can be Paris's, well nigh steals the picture. She is immense, a fine comedienne and a lovable, white-haired person all in one. And that, you will concede, is plenty.

Miss Bordoni sings in the charming, chic French manner and Jack Buchanan, London musical comedy rage is very good indeed. Together they do much to make the picture what it is. And the production! Gorgeous color, beautiful sets and a stageful of girls—the kind that are good to look at. Music, splendid. Tempo, fast. Comedy, rampant.

Throw them all together, mix 'em and you have "Paris." Easily one of the big babies for the fall and winter.

Cleveland Record For "Cock-Eyed World"; Cut In Boston

Cleveland.—All records here were broken at the Hippodrome when "The Cock-Eyed World" hung up a gross of more than $10,000 for the first week of its run at the Hippodrome. The Hipp seats 4,500 and played eight shows a day for the first three days and seven shows daily thereafter. The second week's business almost topped the previous house record.

Boston, Mass.—Censors made 22 cuts in "The Cock-Eyed World" during its week day showings at Keith's Memorial. A special print had to be made for Sunday because of the deletions ordered.

Larger Budget Sought From Congress For M. P. Division

(Washington Bureau, Motion Picture News)

Washington.—An increased budget to finance the rapidly growing duties of the M. P. Division of the Dep't of Commerce is expected to be sought when Congress meets in regular session in December. At that time, the budget for the Government's fiscal year beginning July 1, 1930, will be set. The M. P. Division, of which Clarence J. North is chief and Nathan D. Golden assistant chief, was elevated to its major classification from a section last year. It serves as an informative clearing house for the industry and works in close co-operation with consular offices and commercial attaches all over the world.

English Spreading Via Talking Films

Five months spent abroad on the continent studying conditions and reactions to the American talking picture brings the opinion that American producers need not worry about the foreign market as far as American-made talkers in the American tongue are concerned. Those are the conclusions reached by George Schneiderman, chief cameraman of the Fox studios, who has been in France, Germany, Austria, Italy, as well as Ireland and England for five months making sound sbots for the establishment of a sound library.

In France and Italy especially he noted long lines of natives waiting to get into theatres where American talkers were being shown: In Germany he found musical films were getting a strong play, while in England and Ireland, theatres were jammed.

In Paris where the "Fox Follies" were being shown the line was blocks long waiting, according to Schneiderman, who says the revue type of entertainment is the favored one and will continue to be for some time, until foreign nations become better acquainted with English. Then, he thinks, it will be possible to present a straight talking picture with the result that the entire world will eventually speak English.

Schneiderman and his erew, as well as members of the production staff on the John McCormick production, returned to New York on the ''Olympic'' and are en route to the Coast. The party included Joe Shea of the publicity department, Russell Muth of Fox Newsreel unit, and Chester Lyons, Joe Thompson. Arthur Von Kirbach and Pet Costello, sound engineers.

New Financing For Emelka; Jannings May Join Company By Heinrich Frankel

(Berlin Correspondent, Motion Picture News)

Berlin.—While for a time it seemed certhat that the 40 or more theatres controlled by Emelka would be linked up with Ufa, the deciding parcel of shares has been acquired by a group headed by Commerz & Privatbank, a leading German bank. Supplied with ample new finances, Emelka again ranks among the foremost producers in Germany, with a well-equipped sound studio near Munich.

It may be only coincidence, not many connect the decision of Emil Jannings to settle down in Munish in lieu of Berlin with the new Emelka operations, and it is regarded as not improbable that, after completion of his present Ufa picture, the star will work for the South German concern, Reports are that B. P. Schulberg, now on vacation in Central Europe, has made overtures to Jannings to return to Hollywood.

U. S. Court Decision A Bombshell; Uniform Contract to be Revised

ARBITRATION ILLEGAL

October 19, 1929

Judge Thacher Rules Trade Commission Case Against The Hays Association

Decision by Federal Judge Thacher in the U.S. Court for the Southern District of New York that the standard exhibition contract is a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law comes as a bombshell to the industry. The suit, one in equity, had been filed by the Government against Paramount Famous-Lasky, First National, M-G-M, Universal, United Artists, Pathe, F. B. O., Vitagraph, Educational, the M. P. Prod. and Dist. of America, Inc., and the Film Boards of Trade in thirty-two eities. In his ruling, Judge Thacher restrains the defendants from the unlawful enforcement of the standard exhibition contract and the arbitration clauses which are part of

The fact that the Sherman law had been violated was stressed in the decision, but Judge Thacher indicated that the contract's provisions might be revised and brought and brought into conformity with the law. The judge held that:

"One can hardly imagine a more direct restraint upon trade than an agreement among competitors in an open market not to trade except upon terms which they have fixed in advance."

In a statement issued by Edwin P. Grosvenor of Cadwalader, Wickersham and Taft, counsel for the defendants, it was indicated that a speedy revision of the eontract would be made in order to comply

Plug Newsreels In Special House

Plan of Fox to convert the Embassy, New York, into a newsreel theatre does not necessarily mean a chain will be established throughout the country. As a matter of fact, the purpose is to direct public attention to the drawing power of the newsreel with the eventual anticipation that theatre owners will come to a fuller realization of its merit, thereby making it possible for Fox, at least, to increase his revenue from this type of subject.

The Embassy will be operated on a grind policy, the theatre opening at nine in the morning and closing at one the next. A 50 minute show will prevail at 25 or 35 eents top. The four issues of Fox Movietone News will dominate, although Hearst-Metrotone News will come in for the plug

The plan will have the backing of the publicity and advertising resources of the Hearst newspapers in New York behind it.

Defines Decision

Judge Thacher, in rendering his decision in favor of the Government, made clear the difference between this action and the one in which he made a decision favorable to the producers and distributors a week or so ago. In referring to his previous ruling, he

"The decision in United States v. First National Pictures, Inc., supra, is distinguishable because in that case the distinguishable because in that case the collective power of the defendants was exercised to correct fraudulent and irregular trade practices by demanding reasonable security for the performance of new contracts. Under the circumstances there disclosed there was nothing oppressive in what was done pursuant to the Credit Rnles. This case presents an entirely different situation. The distinction lies in the inherent nature of the restraints imposed, and in the instant case the restraint if not shown to have been voluntary on hoth sides is oppression, and therefore nndue and unreasonable."

Exhibitor Charges He Was Forced To Run Old Films

St. Louis.-Charging that unnamed distributor forced antiquated pictures on him when he took over the Lange Family Theatre, at 5118 Shaw avenue, Hyman Liss has filed suit in the circuit court against Mrs. Giovanna Lange asking return of $1,400 paid for lease and $2,000 damages for operating loss. Liss claims he demanded new product and that after being refused sought to show foreign pictures obtained from other exchanges. Mrs. Lange stated Liss was fully informed as to all contracts signed prior to his lease.

Sales Executives In The Air Over Existing Contracts: Some See Return On Deposit System

A general feeling of uncertainty as to the actual scope of the decision declaring tha standard contract illegal handed down by Judge Thacher is expressed in several independent exhibitor circles. They question if the decision would be retroactive and speculate if those independents who had rulings against them in arbitration cases might bring an action in the civil courts to compel a return of the amounts that they were assessed by unfavorable decisions. In the ranks of the distributing executives, it is felt that such would not be the case, but that there would have to immediately be a number of meetings of the members of the Hays organization to decide what steps were to be taken to protect themselves in the matter of existing contracts in order to make them enforcible while the new arbitration system, acceptable to the Government, was being worked out.

There was a meeting on Wednesday at which this matter was brought up. Another meeting followed yesterday. Several others have been scheduled for early next week.

At the Hays organization, it was stated that there was no statement to make and that nothing could be said until a meeting

Dreiser May Write Novel With Industry Expose As His Theme

Theodore Dreiser, author of "The American Tragedy," may write a novel of the film industry in the nature of an expose using the life of Will H. Hays as its central character. The Dreiser work would be along the lines of his "The Financier" and "The Titan," which were an expose of the political ring in Philadelphia of the early '70's.

Dreiser, it is said, selected the figure of Hays as the character on which to hang his delving into the industry. Hays, with his political background in the Republican party, his handling of the Harding campaign, his subsequent post as a member of Harding's eabinet and the investigations that came out of that administration, are to be interwoven with the history of the film business.

It is said the author intends divulging a lot of the inside facts on the political activities of the Hays organization over the country and especially in Washington.

One of the publishing houses responsible for several sensational books in the past, including the Adams story of the Harding administration, is to undertake the issuing of the novel, counting on the tremendous number of picture fans to give the book an enormous sale.

Pathe Sound News To Invade Europe

Invasion of Europe by Pathe Sound News gets under way with three sound and camera men already in Paris. Accompanying the crew is a new RCA sound recording camion, the first of a fleet that is to follow at intervals between now and the new year. The equipment is in charge of Joe O'Brien, Harry Harde and Lawrence Lynn.

Plans to send others follow completion of a cooperative agreement between the American Pathe organization and Pathe Cinema Societe Anonyme of Paris. Both companies will jointly cover France, Belgium, Spain. Portugal, Switzerland and Holland. This deal was made through efforts of J. Frank Shea and Tom Debhanty of the Pathe home office, working in conjunction with Terry Ramsaye and Ray L. Hall of Pathe Sound News.

Toledo Exhibitors Want No Favoritism In Reviews

Toledo, Ohio.—Constant favoritism in comments on pictures by reviewers on local newspapers has resulted in a movement among exhibitors for franker criticism. Adverse comment has been frowned on for several years in theatrical columns at the suggestions of a majority of managers whose advertising was the weapon to enforce the idea, but Jack O'Connell and Sidney Dannenberg, managers respectively of the Vita-Temple and Paramount, declare that receipts on several better grade pictures have suffered because of the critics' inability to fairly compute values.

Albany 1st Runs Increase Earnings With Late Shows

Hollywood—At the Warners, four new Vitaphone Varieties have just been finished. The quartet includes:

"More Sinned Against Than Usual," Howard Bretherton directing, with Charlotte Merriam, William Janney, Charles B. Middleton, Sam Blinn, Theodore Lorch, Jessy Perry in the cast; "Suspicion," with Ruth Lyons, Edward Earle, Maryland Morne; Slim Timlim and Raymond in a blackface vauleville act directed by Tenny Wright and Roy Mao: "The Maid's Night Out," comedy directed by Tenny Wright and Sid Silvers with Pat O'Malley, Tyler Brooke and Aun Cornwall in the cast.

"Rhapsody In Blue" For Whiteman Film

Paul Whiteman and his orchestra depart for the Coast Oct. 21 to go into production Nov. 1 on "The King of Jazz Revue" for Universal. Already on the ground is John Murray Anderson who is to direct.

"U" has closed with George Gershwin, the composer, and Hårms, Inc., for exclusive use of "Rhapsody in Blue." the price reported to he $50,000. With importation of The "G" Sisters, a sister team discovered in Germany, Universal feels it has unearthed a new Dolly Sisters combination.

In addition the east is to have Billy Kent from musical comedy, Grace Hayes, Trini, John Boles, Hoot Gibson, Ken Maynard and others. Russell Markert, dance master for the Roxyettes, is to stage the chorus numbers, while the score will be the work of George Gershwin.

How Fox Plans To Instruct Via Films

The plan which William Fox will sponsor to make talking pictures a vital force in secular, religious and scientific education, will be worked out on broad plans to cover all branches of instruction. Under three main classifications its plans calls

Schools

Equipment and facilities in schools which will bring talking pictures carrying instructions on all subjects to 1,000,000 school rooms throughout the country. Visual and oral instruction by the foremost teachers of the subjects, it is anticipated, will reduce the present school day by one-half, thus furnishing the solution to two problems: congestion in class rooms and confinement of children indoors for long periods. Under the plan the greatest teachers will be brought into the classrooms everywhere.

Churches

There are 75,000,000 seats in churches and parish houses of which only 15 per cent are occupied on the average, according to Fox. He plans to stimulate interest in religion and church attendance by bringing into all of the edifices the greatest preachers and religious leaders through the medium of talking pictures, through which every purpit would be occupied by a "Fosdick or a Cadman for Protestants, a Kraus or a Wise for the Jews, a Hayes or a Mundelein for the Catholics.'

Science

Talking pictures will be used to further the study of surgery and medicine. The new hospital being built in Chicago for Dr. Nelson H. Lowry, specialist in cancer surgery, is being equipped with apparatus for the making of talkies of operations-the gift of a wealthy Chicagoan. A film showing Dr. Lowry operating on a cancer case with a radium knife has already been filmed. This work is held to be an illustration of the more extensive use to which talking pictures will be put in the future in connection with the surgical demonstrations for practitioners and students.

Surgeous Demoustrate Aud Lecture To Fellow Doctors

Chicago. - Talking picture records of surgical operations for caneer, appendicitis and hernia created widespread interest among the 3,000 delegates who attended the 25th annual convention of the American College of Surgeons here. Through the medium of pictures the delegates viewed actual operations performed by eminent specialists who accompanied the demonstration with lectures.

Laemmle Fails To Persuade Remarque To Adapt Novel

Berlin,-Erich Maria Remarque, author of "All Quiet on the Western Front' which Universal will film, is reported to have refused an offer from Carl Laemmle to seenarize his work for the eamera and to play the chief role.

$5,000,000 Profit For Fox Houses Expected By 1930

New York Papers Praise Fox Move

"The Evening Horld" said in part
Any plan for the extension of the use of the movies and especially the talking movies is important, and when such a veteran as William Fox, the producer, submits a definite plan it cannot be dismissed lightly.

He has a vision of a revolution in educational methods that will solve the problem of congested classrooms and release students to greater freedom in the out-of-doors; that will fill the empty pews in churches and serve the ends of medical science. . . .

"The Company of the movies of th

"The Sun" said

The plan of William Fox to develop talking movies for instruction in schools embodies the germ of more than one important idea. The producer's preliminary announcement did not attempt to go far into details; he is experienced enough in picture production to understand that these must develop according to needs and opportunities. Nevertheless his determination to contribute to the enterprise a considerable share of his personal fortune is sufficient evidence of his confidence in the soundness of this new method of instruction.

"The Graphic," in part:
There have been previous efforts to apply the movies to classroom work. Efforts that bave somebow failed of complete surcess.
The reson indoubtedly was lack of the vital spark

The reason imdoubtedly was lack of the vital spark of imagination that has made such a spectacular success of screen dramatizations.

Now, however, comes Mr. Fox. Comes with him the imagination, the experience and the genius that have built the movie industry to its present towering position in American life.

Editorial Writer Praises Fox's Rise In Business

Herbert Kaufman, noted editorial writer, in commenting on the Fox plan to spread education, religion and a greater knowledge of surgery via talking pietures, said in the "New York Evening Graphic."

"New York Evening Graphie."

His parents weren't on calling terms with the Astors—but his grandchildren will be. . . The Fox theatre chain, Fox production units and Fox realty holdings sorang from a dank basement shop and the conviction that there were just as good fish in the future as any the past had caught. He didn't broad over sour-grapes or meager backgrounds. . . Instead he explored possibility. . He did nothing you couldn't have accomplished, and accomplished it under the noses of a million contemporaries immeasurably better financed and trained for the same job.

1,000,000 The Goal

Fox officials expect patrons of their theatres throughout the nation to absorb the 1,000,000 shares of Fox Theatres A stock recently issued for this purpose. Picture fans in every city where there is a Fox theatre are now being acquainted with the financial history of the Fox organization through an address delivered in Movietone from William Fox and read by Lawrence Chamberlain, financial advisor to Fox in connection with the stock selling plan.

No figures are available as to shares subscribed for by fans as a result of the Silver Jubillee drive since an the Silver Jubillee drive since an attempt is heing made to cover the mation. The stock, traded in New York on the Curb is showing stimulated activity; the turnover for Monday being 15,100; Tuesday, 12,300; Wednesday, 4,600; and yesterday 2,700 shares.

Sale of the additional 1,000,000 will make a total of 5,000,000 shares of this stock outstanding.

Fox Theatres Corp. net earnings for the year ending Oct. 31, 1930 will reach a total of $4,500,000 or $5,000,000, officials estimate: This figure, if reached, will increase returns by $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 over the net for the current fiscal year, which ends Oct. 31, and for which net is estimated to reach $3,000,000.

These forecasts are revealed in the personal message from William Fox delivered in Movietone at Fox theatres throughout the country in connection with the Fox Silver Jubilee eelebration and sale of 1,000,000 shares of Fox theatre stock.

The message is delivered by Lawrence Chamberlin from the screen. Following are some quotations from the address;

some quotations from the address:

"Today more than 1,000,000 people will listen to these words. This week more than 7,000,000 people—a number equal to one person in every eighteen in the United States. Twenty-five years ago I started in the amusement business with a capital of a few hundred dollars. . . In the meantime the motion picture industry has grown tremendously. . There will be over 350,000,000 paid admissions this year to the American theatres in which we are interested. On the average every man, woman and child in the United States will see our performances this year at least three times. . . Our management, which serves amusement as a necessity, prefers to look now and in the future to our customers, our patrons, for a substantial part of the capital with which to enlarge and improve our service."

Lengthy Fight In France Brings 25% Tax Reduction

Paris (By Cable).—The French Govern-ment contemplates a 25 per cent reduction in the theatre tax, thus bringing to a close an extended fight conducted by exhibitors and the industry at large to bring this about. The growth of night clubs and revenue therefrom obtained is given as the reason. Exhibition in France has long been held impractical as a husiness proposition because of the various forms of exeessive government levies, such as the state and poor taxes.

New York Expects Film Theatres To Be Included

While definite word is awaited in New York as to provisions of the proposed French tax cut, it is generally hoped that the plan includes reduction of imports on pieture theatres as well as legitimate

The addition of the Empress Theatre, Empire Boulevard and Brooklyn Avenne, Brooklyn, N. Y., brings the A. H. Schwartz circuit up to a total of 24 houses. The 25th will be the opening of the new Rockville Centre, L. I., honse, the Fantasy.

Equity Planning A New Drive To Organize All Film Players

President Frank Gillmore of the Actors Equity attended the American Federation of Labor Convention in Toronto. He was present for the express purpose, it is said, of strengthening his lines with trade allied to the production and exhibition ends of the picture business, in order to have their complete support in a new drive that is to be made to organize the film players in the studios. At the headquarters of Equity in New York it was stated that there was no statement that they would make ou the report of the Toronto activities of Mr. Gillmore, but it was admitted that the organization had not given up the idea of organizing the players in pictures.

In the October issue of "Equity," the official organ of the Actors' Equity Association, it was stated that the Council of the organization had at a special meeting called for the purpose definitely assumed all responsibility for the campaign to organize the motion picture actors.

Producers Buying In On Stage Firms

The demand for material for talkers is prompting picture producers to make definite affiliations with stage producers. The latest is the tie-up between Joseph M. Schenek, of United Artists, with Max Marcin. Since completing production of "Three Live Ghosts" for the screen, Marein has signed a contract with Schenek to make a series of stage productions financed by Schenek. In return, Schenek will have first call on talking picture rights.

Warners have made a tie-up with A. H. Woods to produce four plays for them. The four Woods has produced so far this season are those in which the Warners are inter-

The Century Play Co., one of the biggest figures in the play stock rights field, is being offered to several film producers. Paramount, Warners and Fox, it is understood, turned down the proposition in the past, but interest has been revived recently.

Paramount long has had its tie-up with the office of Charles Frohman, Inc., and has held first call on the productions of that organization as well as those made by Gilbert Miller.

Charlotte.—At the semi-annual election of officers of the Charlotte Film Board, T. O. Tuttle, (Universal), was unanimously elected president, and W. E. Conn (R-K-O), vice-president.

Dallas .-- P. K. Johnston (Fox) is the newly-elected president of the Dallas Film Board. Other officers elected were Leroy · Bickel (M-G-M), F. A. Tomas (Educational), Joe Luckett (First National), and Truly B. Wildman (Warner). Don C. Douglas was reappointed secretary.

1,000 W.E. Sets Abroad By Jan. 1

Between 30 and 40 equipments are being installed in foreign theatres weekly and by the end of 1929, Western Electric expects to have 1,000 devices operating overseas. In the United States, installations have hit the 50 mark weekly while the objective is 60 by the end of this month. This, the company estimates, will give it a total of 3,500 equipments functioning in American houses by the end of the year.

To date, approximately 2,633 theatres have been equipped, the latest batch in-

Erpi In Industrial Field

With divisional offices already established in several cities, Atlanta, Philadelphia, Chicago, and others, ERPI continues to expand development of the industrial field for sound pictures.

The portable equipment, which packs into four trunks and which may be set up in less than an hour, is being sold to manufacturers and distributors for use in connection with sales and organization activities. The equipment is leased on a ten-year term at the price of $3,000. Several industrial films have been made for concerns in various lines, General Motors, among this time in sound seems assured judging by plans underway for the "horse opera."

Universal officials claim a tremendous response for Ken Maynard's first in sound, "The Wagon Master." They prophesy much for Hoot Gibson's first in sound, "The Lone Star Ranger." The latter has plans to make the remainder of the two stars' series in dialogue.

Fox is filming "The Cisco Kid" and "The Lone Star Ranger," the latter has been made several times before by this company as a silent. On the Paramount lot, work is proceeding on the first of Gary Cooper's talking westerns. Leo Maloney has completed an all-dialogue western and is now reported negotiating with Columbia it is said.

Production on westerns is also being revived by various independents who made a livelihood out of this type of film for the many years past.

Malouey Deal With Columbia For Sound Western Production

Leo Maloney, western star, who has completed an outdoor sound western, is in New York negotiating with Columbia for a release. Columbia may take over the picture outright and make a deal with the starproducer for three others or a series of four in all.

J. J. Harwood Re-Elected Head Cleveland T. O. Unit

Cleveland.—For the fifth time the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors Ass'n has unanimously elected J. J. Harwood president. Other officers elected at the annual meeting here were: George Paulda, vice-president, succeeding the late Henry L. Lustig; George W. Erdmann, secretary; B. Z. Levine, treasurer. Elected for three year terms as directors of the board were Martin P. Brown and Henry Greenberger. The other five members are Paul Gusdanovie, Alhert E. Ptak, John D. Kalafat, Harry E. Horowitz, J. A. Schwartz.

Rembusch To Sell Franchises; New Unit After 6,000 Houses

B'way Theatres Have Quiet Week

There was no outstanding wallop at any of the Broadway box-offices last week. Business failed to come up to expectations in several of the houses, this perhaps due to the proximity of the Jewish holidays. However, it was thought that the holiday of the previous week would have sent receipts up, but this did not materialize.

In the grind honses the Roxy with "Salute" topped with $98,312, which was way under the average business for that house. The Capitol showing John Gilbert in his first talking production did $82,598.55, whereas it was believed that the "great lover" would have pulled stronger than this. At the Paramount, "Fast Company," a baseball story that was timely because of the world series, managed to get $74,400.

The Rialto, which tried the first 24 hour run over the first week-end of "Why Bring That Up," did but $56,500 on the week of which $23,500 was secured over Friday and Saturday. The second week of "Three Live Ghosts" at the Rivoli brought $24,300, the picture leaving tonight and Harold Lloyd's "Welcome Danger" opening tomorrow morning.

"Big News," a Pathe release at the Colony, drew $13,732, while "Afghanistan," in its second week at the Cameo, got $4,127.

There are ten extended runs on Broadway at present, the two latest arrivals being "Sunny Side Up" at the Gaiety and "Rio Rita" at the Earl Carroll. Neither is attracting strong matinee business, but the night returns are high. The former played to $16,678 while the latter got $21,173 on the initial week.

Surprising is the strength shown by "Disraeli" at Warner's where business was $25,700 for the first full week. "Applause," another of the new arrivals, did better than $12,800 on six days at the Criterion.

"The Hollywood Revue," in its eighth week, drew $18,862 at the Astor, while at the Winter Garden, "The Gold Diggers of Broadway" came through to the tune of $26,120,25.

"The Great Gabbo," which moved up to the Globe from the Selwyn, climbed terriffiely and got $12,451 on the week, while "Blackmail" did a complete nosedive with $3,800 at the Selwyn. "Flight" at the Cohen is entering its final week. Last week the business was $13,500, and "Young Nowheres" at the Central played to $9,950.

"Hallelujah" at the Embassy got $7,924 in its eighth week and is to end its run a week or so with the house to be devoted to a grind policy showing nothing but news reels.

"Broadway Scandals" is due at the Cohan on Tuesday a week, succeeding "Flight," A profit-sharing five year franchise for exhibitors in a plan linking coast producers together on a schedule of 30 pictures annually is the objective of the M P Congress of America, now in process of incorporation at Dover, Del., by Frank J. Rembusch.

Arthur S. Fried, at one time treasurer and a director of Paramount, has drawn the contract under which Rembusch will function. Six thousand exhibitors will be sought in the national drive about to get under way. The company intends organizing exchanges in key cities and expects to release its first picture in April, Rembusch told Motion Picture News last night. Each program will consist of a unit show, probably embracing a feature of seven or eight reels and two or three short subjects, in sound or silent as the franchise holder desires. Rembusch, now in New York, will attend the Michigan exhibitor convention to be held shortly and will also address those attending the national convention of the M.P.T.O.A. in Memphis the end of this Producers, directors and stars in Hollywood are already lined up, Rembusch declares, but at this time he refuses to divulge names. "We expect to sign Allied and M.P.T.O.A. members both," he said. "There is no conflict with any other plan. There is room in the field for this proposed franchies and several more."

with the court's ruling. In his statement, he said:

"We direct attention to the fact that Judge Tbacher "We direct attention to the fact that Judge Thacher finds that 'competition between the distributors has been promoted by the adoption of the standard exhibition contract and that, in many ways, general trade conditions have been vastly improved. The important thing, of course, is to preserve this; and Judge Thacher in concluding his opinion suggests that the Government and the industry indicate provisions to be incorporated in the decree under which the use of a uniform contract containing an arbitration clause might be continued. Therefore the industry will undoubtedly proceed immediately to try to agree with the Government upon such practical changes which may be necessary to accomplish this result."

Grosvenor, however, did not continue with that part of the decision immediately with that part of the decision immediately following the portion quoted above in which Thacher says:

"But the record is equally clear that all this good has been accomplished through the exercise and irresistible economic force consolidated by combination in the hands of the distributors, who collectively control the available supply of films and by virtue of this control have exercised their will upon the industry."

A statement issued by the Allied States Ass'n touching on the decision, expressed gratification at its content and remarked the fact that "the illegal arbitration system" was imposed on the industry by the Hays association, continuing with:

"The decision sustains the position taken by the Allied States Ass'n that the system is so unfair that the theatre owners should not participate in it.

"It is to be hoped that instead of prolonging the delay in setting up a fair and legal system by appealing from this decision, the producers will cooperate with the exhibitors through their leaders in working out a compliance with the court's decree which will be satisfactory to all branches of the industry and the Government."

In attracting the architecture of the same and the court of the same architecture of the same architecture.

In attacking the arbitration clauses in his decision Judge Thacher states:

In attacking the arbitration clauses in his decision Judge Thacher states:

"It will be noted that the effect of these provisions is that if an exhibitor fails or refuses to submit to arbitration any claim or controversy arising under any contract with any distributor, then the right of every distributor to demand security upon every contract immediately arises, and if the demand is not complied with within seven days all pending contracts with every distributor may be cancelled. In view of the exhibitor's necessity to contract in advance with several distributors for the delivery of films to be exhibited in accordance with a program laid out for more than a year in advance, it will at once be seen that the exhibitor's refusal to arbitrate will immediately subject him to heavy demands for security, which if not complied with will result in the termination of his entire supply of films for exhibition in his theatre, and probably result in conditions under tehich he cannot continue in business. It is alleged in the petition that the members of the Film Boards of Trade have gone beyond the requirements of the contracts and the arbitration rules and have entered into supplemental understandings and agreements, without the knowledge and against the general instructions of the defendant distributors and of the defendant Association, to refuse to contract for the future exhibition of any most on preture films with any exhibitor who has failed to comply with any decision of any Board of Arbitration. The proofs abundantly establish the fact that this was the consistent practice of many of the Film Boards of Trade with under exhibitors who had refused to arbitrate or had failed to comply with any advision of any Board of Arbitration with any exhibitors who had not understanding the consistent policy of the distributors with a failed by the rules. When this was done the members of the Film Boards of Trade were told that the governor whether distributors who had refused to arbitrate or had failed to arbitration whether whi of the legal committee of the association was held.

Several of the distributing executives stated that they could see no way out of their present difficulty except to return to the deposit system to insure the carrying out of contracts on the part of the exhibitors. It is a system that they state they do not approve of, but one that they may have to resort to in order to protect themselves.

The arbitration system just declared illegal was worked out just prior to the advent of Will H. Hays into the industry as a resuult of the work of the late Marcus Loew and William Brandt who was at that time president of the Therere Owners Chamber of Commerce in New York City, and was conceived to do away with the deposit system then in force and the Hoy system of collections from exhibitors,

With the advent of Hays he took the New York situation as his model and extended it over the country as part of the arbitration system by the formation of the Film Board of Trade.

Coast "Dubbing" In Foreign Lines

Pathe is considering language versions and is now experimenting with an old pieture to see what can be done in doubling voices. United Artists so far have done nothing beyond doubling voices for the German version of "Lummox."

Sono Art is making a Spanish version of Eddie Dowling's "Blaze O' Glory," with a Spanish east starring Jose Bohr following the Dowling company into sets to record seenes and dialogue in Spanish. An independent company headed by Cardona is making an all Spanish dialogue feature at Tee Art.

Universal has done more than other companies on foreign dialogue. Doubled voices for German versions of "Broadway," "Show Boat" and "Erie the Great" and now the same for "The Shanghaied Lady" have been produced, and a Spanish version of "Broadway" now is in production, as well as short sketches in both German and Spanish now being made under the supervision of Paul Kohner with Kurt Neumann directing the shorts for German release. The company has a small group of German and Spanish speaking players in stock at and Spanish speaking players in stock.

Fox is doing nothing by way of production in foreign languages, although wherever possible songs in French, Germau and Spanish are being introduced in all pictures. Clayton P. Sheehan, foreign manager, was here several weeks ago eonferring with Winfield Sheehan.

Pathe Merger With Shubert Now Cold

The contemplated merger of Pathe and the Shubert theatrical properties is cold, Mo-TION PICTURE NEWS learns. Joseph P. Kennedy refuses to state the reasons for the falling through of the deal at this time. His only remarks are to the effect that it did not appear impossible that the deal would be closed.

Negotiations were first started last spring when it looked as though the Shuberts would be in a position to sway all of their associate stage producers in a combination which they would be in a position to deliver intact to one of the larger film producing organizations. At that stage, Kennedy stepped in and started to trade. Then several of the managers who were to be a party to the deal made affiliations of their own with other picture companies.

On his return from abroad Kennedy again started to negotiate with the Shuberts and the bankers representing them. Last week it appeared as though all difficulties were ironed out and that the deal would go through. Yesterday merger details were dropped.

Warners Slowing Down Production

To correct unverified rumors that Warner Studios would cease all production activity until after the first of the year, Jack Warner states that no less than five feature productions are currently in work, with three more slated to go into production between now and Jan. 1. Warner admitted that there was the customary slackening of feature production by his organization at this time of the year, but pointed out that the Warners studio would produce an average of five Vitaphone Varieties of one and two reels every week for the next several months.

Active feature production will be resumed by Warners in January, with schedules calling for heavy production to start at that time.

Coldeway Switched Over To Vitaphone Varieties

Anthony Coldeway, executive scenario editor with Warners for several years, has been assigned to the post of supervising scenario editor of Vitaphone Varieties, dramatic playlets of one and two reels.

Coldeway will have charge of the dramatic sketches during the semi-idle period of Warner Vitaphone feature production, and it is understood that he will return to his position of production supervisor of feature units shortly after the first of the year.

Howard And Rogers Teamed

"By the Way, Bill" has been definitely set as the title of Will Rogers' next talker comedy for Fox. Ben Ames Williams wrote the original story, and William K. Howard has been assigned to direct. Plans for "A Connecticut Yankce" have been temporarily sidetracked.

Dressler Wins Dramatic Role

Having played comedy roles on both stage and screen for many years, Marie Dressler was classified as a comedienne and found it impossible to be considered for a dramatic part. But Clarence Brown has decided that Miss Dressler should play a serious role, selecting her for a prominent spot in "Anna Christie," which he will direct as his next for M-G-M with Greta Garbo starred.

Plan Marine Sequel

Fox has delayed production on the sequel to "Cock-Eyed World," which Raoul Walsh will direct; and Walsh has started on "Hot for Paris," with Victor McLaglen starred. Walsh is expected to produce the sequel to "Cock-Eyed World" early next year.

Pathe Prepares Musical Revue

Pathe is busily preparing for immediate production of the "International Television Revue," the company's first musical in the revue field.

The picture will include various numbers from different countries throughout the world, presented on the screen as having been brought to the studio via television.

William Sistrom, general manager in charge of Pathe production, plans to make special editions of various numbers in the native tongue of the nations which will have specialties in the revue. The production will be made prior to production of "Greenwich Village Follies," which will also be made at the Pathe studio.

Second Moran And Mack

Moran and Mack, radio and vaudeville comedians, will be starred by Paramount in "The Two Black Crows" as their second talker for that company.

Lupino Lane Freelaneing

Lupino Lane has finished his series of two-reel comedies for Educational, and will free lance in the feature field the rest of the year.

Daumery Now A Director

Another assistant director was promoted by Jack Warner, when John Daumery was assigned to direct "Rough Waters," the next Rin Tin Talker. Daumery has been an assistant with Warners for the past three years.

Tibbett To Do Another

Upon completion of "The Rogue's Song" for M-G-M, Lawrence Tibbett left for the East to prepare for the opera season. Tibbett will make his first appearance of the new season on the opera stage in Puccini's opera, "The Girl of the Golden West," and will likely return to M-G-M for another production in the late Spring.

Paramount Busy On '30-31 Films

With all stories definitely set for the balance of the 1929-30 schedule with only three exceptions, Paramount West Coast Studios are in better shape from a story material standpoint than at any time in the history of the company.

In addition to having all specials and starring productions of 1929-30 definitely selected for the scenario and dialogue assignments, it is known that nearly 50 per cent of the story material for the 1930-31 season has been definitely set by the studio executives.

By laying ont definite story assignments far in advance, Paramount is enabled to have more careful preparatory work done on the dialogue and scripts, which is acknowledged a most important factor in the production of talkers.

Make Talker Series On Popular Superstitions

A series of short talkers dealing with popular superstitions are being produced by Superstition Pictures under direction of Ray Nazarro. The first will be the "Third Light," presenting a humorous story around the third eigarette that is lighted from the one match. The black cat, broken mirror, and ladder gags will each form the layout for individual films, and when the producers run out of ideas, they can easily obtain more from the thousands of former stage actors now working in talking pictures.

Halperins Lannch Talker Series For Tiffany-Stahl

Victor Halperin will personally direct "Dangerous Business," the first of a series of feature talkers that the Halperins will produce for release through Tiffany-Stahl. The picture is scheduled to go into production next week.

Pearson In Hollywood

George Pearson, of Welsh-Pearson-Elder, Ltd., English producing organization, is in Hollywood to supervise the filming of "Journey's End," which Tiffany will produce late this month. Tiffany is producing the picture in association with Welsh-Pearson-Elder and Gainsborough, both British producing firms.

Color Is Responsible For Studio Lighting Changes

The trend toward color photography is bringing about varied reforms in studio lighting. During the filming of "The Rogue's Song" at M-G-M, it was found that an exterior of green will color naturally only under an arc light while interior scenes of this nature demand incandescents. The returning use of ares, abandoned when talkies first appeared, is being widely fore-

A selected scene from Shakespeare's "Richard the Third," filmed in natural color, is among material completed for the Warner revue. In it, John Barrymore is supported by E. J. Rateliffe, Anthony Bushnell, Reginald Charland and thirty other players. Barrymore is now at work on the all-talking Vitaphone picture which has a working title of "The Man."

Paramount Signs Comedy Trio For Ben Hecht Play

Three comedians who have been features of "Show Girl" and various New York night clubs, Messrs. Clayton, Jackson and Durante, have been signed for Paramount's production of Ben Hecht's original and as yet untitled screen play. They will be east as road house entertainers.

Bow In "Station S-E-X"

"Station S-E-X" is the next talker for Clara Bow. The story is an original by Marie Nelson Lee, with screen play and dialogue by Jules Furthmann. Rowland V. Lee, one of Paramount's ace directors, will megaphone, with balance of cast besides Miss Bow including Regis Toomey and Miriam Seegar. The story has a radio broadeast background.

Hollywood

By Walter R. Greene

NE of the large producing companies was filming a picture that called for a sequence in the city room of a daily newspaper. The scenes were few, and the director wanted to get the proper newspaper office atmosphere. He suggested that the studio head use the group of former newspaper men working for the company as scenario and dialogue writers for the particular scene. The hoys were agreeable, and the scene was shot with the big priced cast of former newspaper men working in the scenes as atmosphere.

JAMES CRUZE destroyed all precedent when he appeared at the Los Angeles premiere of his first talker, "The Great Gabbo," wearing dress clothes and all of the proper accessories.

This is the first time that Hollywood remembers a Cruze appearance without his full fashioned cap, sport coat and unbuttoned neckband of his soft shirt.

It is interesting to note that many former stage dialogue writers and directors who are now attached to the scenario staffs of various producers finally finish their story or dialogue assignments to find a fat part for themselves written into the script.

One Hollywood wise-eracker, in pointing out this condition in several recent productions, rose to remark that the hoys are protecting themselves both ways—if they should flop as writers, they have at least established themselves as actors for future contracts.

TONSIL removing seems to have hit the M-G-M group of contract stars as a rather happy pastime. Lon Chaney lost his a few weeks ago, and now Ramon Novarro has admitted that his tonsils will join those of Chaney's within the next week.

N EARLY 70 radio stations in various parts of the country are tied in with Pathe whereby the broadcasters send out talks and sketches by Pathe stars and featured players each week. The Pathe studio is furnishing short skits, songs and monologues via specially made records each week to the stations, and obtain free publicity for players and productions in return for use of the records.

WITH Lillian Gish preparing to start work on "The Swan" for United Artists, it is interesting to note that this star has only made ten pictures during the past ten years. The only pictures Miss Gish has appeared in during the past decade are "Broken Blossoms," "Way Down East," "Orphans of the Storm," "The White Sister," "Romola," "La Boheme," "The Scarlet Letter," "Amie Laurie," "The Enemy" and "The Wind."

Paramount Re-Signs Corrigan

Lloyd Corrigan, writer, has signed a new contract with Paramonnt. He recently collaborated with George Marion, Jr., on "Sweetie."

Abe Meyer Lines Up Song Writers For T-S Studio

Abe Meyer, who recently came on from New York to supervise the musical program for Tiffany-Stahl to be released under its new franchise plan, has lined up considerable talent for this work.

Abner Silver, anthor of "Mary Ann," "C'est Vous," "Say It Again," "Angel Child," "Am I a Passing Faney," and many others, will compose new songs. He has written two airs for "Painted Faces," starring Joe E. Brown. One is "Bashful Baby," sung by Dorothy Gulliver. Another is "Someone You Like," sung by Lester Cole. Silver and George Waggner have written two songs for Mae Murray in Tiffany-Stahl's all-talking version of "Peacock Alley." These are to be sung by Miss Murray. One is "In Dreams You Still Belong to Me," and the other, "Everybody's Gal."

Thompson New Editor Of "Hollywood" Fan Monthly

Paul Thompson is now managing editor of Hollywood Magazine, the only monthly fan magazine published in Hollywood. Up to the present time, the magazine has confined its circulation mainly to the Pacific Coast states, but is understood to be planning a national circulation campaign immediately.

Thompson was formerly on the reviewing staff of Motion Picture News, and more recently had charge of the Fox studio photographic department.

Vitaphone Varieties In Technicolor, Warner Plan

Warners will star Ann Greenway in a series of Technicolor Vitaphone Varieties with a musical background. Warners also plan production of many Vitaphone Varieties in Technicolor during the next three months, as the company has the special color cameras available on a contract signed some time ago.

Ames And Harrigan, New Comedy Team On Fox Lot

Fox is teaming Robert Ames and William Harrigan in "Nix on the Dames" under direction of Donald Gallagher, former musical comedy star. It is reported that the Fox officials figure on co-featuring the two players in a series of feature talker comedies.

Start Carroll Vehicle

"Flesh of Eve," tentative title, in which Nancy Carroll will be starred by Paramount is now in production with the following players added to the cast: Gnstav Von Seyffertitz, Francis McDonald and George Kotsonaros. Story was snggested by Joseph Conrad's "Victory."

The Melody Makers

C HARLES WAKEFIELD CADMAN, the composer, has signed a contract with Fox—not to compose musical numbers at this particular time—but to play the part of a concert pianist in "Harmony At Hone," which Russell Birdwell will direct. Cadman will play his own famous composition, "Land of the Sky Blue Waters."

is the title of a new song which Famile Brice sings in "It's a Pleasure," her first talker for United Artists. Billy Rose, song-writing husband of Miss Brice, wrote the number.

AL DUBIN and JOE BURKE, Warner songwriters, are now busy composing several original numbers for the Warner Vitaphone production, "Hold Everything." Most of the melodies will be sung by Winnie Lightner in the picture.

RAY PERKINS, head of the Warner and First National song-writing departments, has collaborated with Harold Berg on a special musical featurette for Vitaphone Varieties called "A Jazz Rehearsal."

E DDIE WARD, former musical conductor for Irene Bordoni, has been teamed with Alfred Bryan at First National and the pair will write the songs for the Vitaphone version of "The Lady in Ermine."

CUS EDWARDS finds time in addition to his directing musical films at M-G-M to write original melodies for current productions. Edwards composed "Poor But Honest," which Marie Dressler sings in "The Road Show"; and "He's Good Enough for Me" for Blanche Sweet in a sequence in "The Night Hostess."

"M ANHATTAN SERENADE," a melody that has become popular as a jazz classic, will shortly be brought to the screen by M-G-M in a short musical. Sammy Lee will direct the picture, which is from the song composed by Lonis Alter.

HOWARD JACKSON has been assigned to arrange the musical score for "It's a Pleasure." Fannie Brice's first starring picture for United Artists. Jackson recently completed the synchronized scores for "The Great Gabbo," "Broadway" and "Hearts in Dixie."

THERE will be ten songs in the forthcoming M-G-M production, "Take It Big," feathring Van and Schenck. Jack Yellen and Milton Ager are the writers. The score includes a wide variety of tunes.

H AVING completed the musical scores for the two productions they contracted to do for M-G-M. Jack Vellen and Milton Ager have signed to write the words and music for the Paul Whiteman picture. They are already at this task on the Universal lot, working with John Murray Anderson.

The Love Parade

Very Sweet Indeed (Reviewed by Red Kann)

(All-Dialogue)

THE charming Frenchman who made femi-THE charming Frenchman who made reminine hearts skip a bit faster in "Innocents of Paris" is up to his old tricks in "The Love Parade." You should know that his picture includes the devastating appeal of Chevalier, the brilliance of Lubitsch's direction, the eye appeal of Jeanette MacDonald, recruited from musical comedy, and all of the risque touches that go with a Continental light operetta.

It sounds like a picture and is. Chevalier, as Sylvania's dashing military attache, is recalled from Paris leaving many broken hearts behind him. The queen meets him and flops. They marry, but Chevalier is merely the queen's husband. His manner of circumventing an embarrassing situation-for him-makes up the rest of the yarn.

Paramount this time reached out for the best. Guy Bolton did the libretto. Victor Schertzinger, the music; Clifford Grey, the lyrics. And, of course, as the hasis, "The Prince Consort" by clever Ernest Vajda.

Woman To Woman

Average Triangle Yarn (Reviewed by Don Ashbaugh)

(All-Dialogue)

M ADE for the feminine contingent—all the way. A familiar yarn with Betty Compson effectively playing the mother angle. This is the sort of story that producers have been turning out for years with no other idea in mind probably than a direct appeal to women audi-

Against a war background, you find Betty, a French dancer, falling in love with George Barraud, a British officer. They have an affair. It is his intention to marry her, but orders carry him back to front before the ceremony can be arranged. Barraud, shell-shocked, loses his memory, later marries another woman, then meets Betty. The struggle then ensues between the two women, but in the end comes recognithe two women, but me the characteristic that the child's name must be protected. Betty bows out of the picture. Not a new story, and not outstandingly handled, but satisfact the characteristic for the factory for the mob. Angle hard for the women, It's folder for them. The mother angle should be the keynote of advertising copy and by handling the picture in that fashion you may persuade them to come in. Once in the theatre, the picture will prove satisfying.

Taming Of The Shrew

DeLuxe Money-Maker (Reviewed by Edwin Schallert)

(All-Dialogue)

OUG and Mary in a co-starring vehicle, their first and perhaps their last. A ribald, slapstick comedy with the gags piled on as broadly as you can possibly imagine. There you have "The Taming of the Shrew."

To outline the details of Shakespeare's immortal comedy would indeed be gilding the lily. The famous couple adhered rather religiously to the manner of the famous bard. It is true, some efforts were made to improve on Avon's best known son and for that, Doug and Mary will probably hear plenty as soon as the nation's critics take a peek at the picture. But, for practical box-office, it is our opinion that the picture will click generously and loudly. Doug plays the role of the shrew tamer for all it is worth. He outdistances Mary, perhaps largely because the part gives him that opportunity. His performance is at once vigorous and competent. Mary, likewise, does extremely well in a part the like of which she has never previously had. Supporting cast splendid.

The Virginian

Class A Attraction (Reviewed by Red Kann)

OWEN WISTER'S famous story is familiar clear around the country. Here you get it, right down to that memorable "Smile when you say that" line. Made almost entirely outdoors, Victor Fleming has injected into his treatment the glamor and the appeal of the open

The story concerns cowpunchers, their liquor and their women. Gary Cooper, lanky and long, gives an air of realism to his part which, of gives an air of realism to his part which, of course, is another way of remarking he is a good trouper. We take it for granted the reconnting of the yarn itself is unnecessary. The kick — when The Virginian and Tranpas—played in grand style by Walker Huston—shoot out to kill carries a fair degree of suspense, but not what you might expect. Something went wrong some place here, with the result that the picture while good into twices being cuttarted. picture, while good, just misses being outstanding. At that, it will draw principally because of Cooper. Mary Brian, it should be said, does excellent work.

Evidence

Strong Programmer (Reviewed by Red Kann)

A SSEMBLED in this one picture is a cast of unusual merit. Much better than the story it had to counter with. Pauline Frederick, as the mother in the case, does splendid work. Always a good actress, Miss Frederick here does much to maintain that reputation.

Likewise, William Courtnay, Conway Tearle. Lowell Sherman contribute much to the acting standards and Freddie Burke Frederick, a lovable blonde boy who is new to us, gives a charming and clever performance. The story itself concerns a narrow-minded husband who discovering his wife in an apparently compro-mising position files suit for divorce. He prac-tically ruins her life and keeps it ruined until Sherman, the heavy, returns from the East to conveniently deposit a written confession in mother's hand and then dies. Comes reconciliation and there you are. Despite its shortcomings, this is strong program stuff. It carries a very definite appeal for women and it is to them that that advertising play should be directed.

Mr. Antonio

Carillo, The Bright Spot (Reviewed by Red Kann)

(All-Dialogue)

NEW personality in talkers is promised in "Mr. Antonio." However, and unfortunately so, that promise is never fully realized. Leo Carillo, long a theatrical barnstormer throughout the land best known for his apparently never-ending appearances in "Lombardy, Ltd.," demonstrates here that he has the stuff, if the vehicle thrown around him would give him half an opportunity.

"Mr. Antonio," however, fails to do that. Against a stagey, unreal and more or less careless production Carillo struggles manfully. The opposition is plenty, but even as it stands, the picture will please because Carillo and his charm dominate. The skimpy story concerns an Italian knight of the road who hits a purist town and, through an unimportant chain of circumstances, saves her home for the girl he happens to learn to love. Pretty shoddy story, indifferently produced. Carillo deserves a better opportunity. If he gets it, the stage will have then contributed another personality of importance to the talking screen.

The Exalted Flapper

A Fluffy, Lightweight Comedy (Reviewed by Raymond Ganly)

(Silent)

WILL IRWIN'S story is in the light farcical vein and well fitted as a vehicle for Sue Carol. While it has a mythical kingdom background, it is not exactly a royal flush for the box office. Being fluffy, this will fit in best as part of a double feature bill. By itself its draw is dubious and it is for flappers and their boy friends that the picture holds chief appeal.

Sue, as a flapper princess, refuses to marry a prince of a nearby kingdom whom she has never seen. But she falls for him when he is traveling incognito. When the queen, not knowing his identity, has him shanghaied, Sue gets him back to safety with the result that her country and the prince's become stronger allies. The nuptials result, of course.

Its trite theme makes this obvious all the way. Yet it will probably amuse the unsophisticated Good performances are had from Irene Rich, Albert Conti and Lawrence Grant. Barry Norton will probably make the flaps hearts beat a little faster in his role of the prince.

Modern Love

Good Comedy Drama (Reviewed by Raymond Ganly) (Part Dialogue)

NIVERSAL has a nice little number here, one that's sure to please the majority of patrons. It co-stars Charley Chase and Kathryn Crawford, with Jean Hersholt in the principal supporting role. It is bound to make new admirers for Chase, borrowed from Roach for the role of the young husband whose marriage is almost disrupted when a career beckons temptingly to the wife. This is when the seriions note is struck; for the most part the picture being gay, winsome and satisfying. Acting, direction, etc., all make for a good comedy Charley sings a song very well during the course of the story. His personality is ever apparent and he should have no difficulty clicking in features.

Charley's wife almost goes to Europe with a French designer to advance herself further in the business world, but at the last minute rushes back to Charlie to find that he has sold his firm an idea that brings it out of bankruptcy and gives him a fitting reward.

Exhibitors can well afford to play up Chase. Hersholt, of course, should also be mentioned prominently as well as Kathryn Crawford.

A Wearisome Foreign Film (Reviewed by Freddie Schader)

(Silent)

THIS picture, made from a novel that was a best seller, is just a long drawn out, tire-some affair that fails to get anywhere, to hold the interest of the audience, or to stack up as a box office bet. The title is its chief asset. It was produced in Germany and is laheled "a Natan Production." Maurice Gleize, who was an assistant to Murnau on his two productions in this country for Fox, is credited with adapting story and its direction. He has done an atrocious job, except for photography and sets.

This story deals with a young Englishwoman of the nobility, widowed and wealthy, who advertises for a male secretary and who "expects everything from her secretary." Then the plot runs off in a long drawn out attempt to obtain a concession from the Soviet to operate oil wells. The secretary, who happens to be a Prince, is thrown into a Russian jail, escapes and returns to England. Finally, the Russian representative who was to obtain the concession and in turn receive the hand of the Englishwoman, fails to come through with his part of the bargain and releases her from her promise to wed.

The Saddle King

Average Western (Reviewed by Raymond Ganly)

(Silent)

THIS has no star pull in Cliff (Tex") Lyons, there's nothing new in its story and the horseriding and fighting are of the ordinary western brand. Therefore, it can be classified as "average." For houses of the grind or neighborhood type. A "revenge motif" predominates the story. His hrother murdered by a gambler, the hero gives up his sheriff's badge to trail the killer. He finds him at a camp of outlaws and leave raise him to get away after a heldung. later aids him to get away after a hold-up. Then when he has him alone he reveals himself as the murdered man's brother. rival of the gang prevents him from killing the man, who is led off to prison to pay the death penalty, the sheriff finding romance with the murderer's wife.

"The Saddle King" will pass muster as a Western filler on the same bill with a stronger attraction. Of course, it is okay for a kids' matinee on Saturday A. M.

Lyons has a likable personality but is nothing to write home about in his riding. Neva Gerber gets nowhere with her role of the poor wife while the role of her husband is appropriately drawn by Al Ferguson.

Masquerade

Fair Program Offering (Reviewed by Raymond Ganly)

(All Dialogue)

PRESENTING Alan Birmingham, from the stage, in a dual talker role, this attraction makes a fair programmer for the box-office. It has some fast action, lots of comedy relief and a bewildering sequence of events showing a crook impersonating the hero and the hero impersonating the crook so that Birmingham is kept quite busy alternating between the parts. Outside of this, the picture has not sufficient draw to give it more than rating of four.

A young woman rifles the hero's apartment in search of incriminating papers against her father. A crook, who greatly resembles hero, takes his place after blackjacking him. The girl, as well as the audience, is soon at a loss trying to dope out whether the hero impersonates the crook or the crook is impersonating the hero. It ends, of course, with the crook going to jail and the girl and hero to the altar.

Crook Drama Is Fair

(Reviewed by Raymond Ganly)

(Part Dialogue)

O-SO film entertainment is this drama of a crook's redemption. Dorothy Revier and lan Keith make a team of fair box-office strength, but the story well nigh licks them. This one was evidently turned out as a programmer and, as such, just eases in.

Until he met the girl whose father's jewels Until he met the girl whose father's Jewels he intends to steal. Keith had never any qualms about his trade. But the girl sets him on the right path and Keith recovers the jewels when they are hooked by his erstwhile companions. Promising that he'll hereafter stick to the straight and narrow, the chastened crook becomes the successful suitor for the girl's hand.

Dorothy Revier is competent as the girl Keith is snave and cool after the manner of the gentleman crook but Tom Rickett's is the best of the other minor roles. Joseph Henabery's direction is lukewarm. Grind house material.

Recording has been well done, the voices of Keith and Revier coming through nicely. Keith's stage training stands him in good stead in the talking pictures.

Red Hot Rythm

Most Enjoyable (Reviewed by Walter R. Greene)

THIS may be briefly summarized as excellent entertainment that will click with all types of audiences. Although it has plenty of laughs and clever wise-cracks, there is a humaness in story development that makes the picture most enjoyable.

Alan Hale steals individual honors as a smart Broadway racketeer who finds it profitable to publish songs for ambitious amateurs who believe themselves budding geniuses. But Hale is so smart that he is easily taken over the boards by a golddigging blonde—and what a sucker he proves to be! There is a fast tempo to the picture, which greatly enhances the comedy development. There are a couple of song numbers logically spotted, and two cabaret dance "flash" numbers in all-color.

Kathryn Crawford is a surprise discovery. She looks great, can act, has a fine recording voice, and puts over song numbers with plenty of pep and personality. It is also surprising to see Walter O'Keefe, song writer for Pathe, playing one of the principal characters. Josephine Dunn, as the blonde golddigger, gives a graphle performance.

Whispering Winds

Ordinary Triangle Drama (Reviewed by Raymond Ganly)

(Part Dialogue)

A DRAMA laid in a little Maine fishing town that tells of a wife's worries over the influence of "the other woman," hubby's first flame. There's very little action to enliven the sparse plot, although Patsy Ruth Miller, Malcolm MacGregor and Eve Southern are seen to good advantage in their respective roles of wife, husband and menace. Dialogue sequences aid the story's appeal, especially one seem where the wife flares up and hysterically reveals her heartaches. A theme song and an effective synchronized score also enhance the production, but the story is not strong enough to carry this one beyond usual program run.

When his sweetie leaves the little fishing village to win success as a Broadway warbler, the hero marries another village lass who on the day of their marriage experiences her first doubts as to her hold over her husband. The other girl eventually visits them, holds the husband aloof, only to have the wife discover she purposely assumed the attitude to insure their ultimate happiness.

Song of Kentucky

A LTHOUGH the story develops the well-known theme of struggling youth falling in love with a rich heiress, "Song of Kentucky" will nevertheless prove very satisfactory as a well above average program attraction.

The story starts with a glimpse of Tin Pan Alley, and then follows through with a love theme that includes a running of the Kentucky Derby, and climaxes with the rendition of an original symphony.

The symphoty idea, planted to show that the youthful composer included all the joy and sorrow of his recent love affair, is dramatically worked out through a series of multiple exposures while the boy is conducting the orchestra. It is what might be called an artistic, but realistic touch, that demonstrates what might be done in the future with the addition of sound in pictures.

Joe Wagstaff, newcomer to pictures from musical comedies, gives an acceptable performance as the young song writer and singer. Lois Moran plays the girl to good advantage, with the balance of the cast satisfactory.

There is plenty of musical background, with song numbers by Conrad, Mitchell and Gottler that are catchy.

Hold Your Man

Con't Hold An Audience (Reviewed by Freddie Sebader)

(All Diologue)

NE of the draggiest program pictures that has come along in a couple of months. Knowing the good work that Emmett Flynn has done in the past, one would never deem it possible that he would turn out a picture with as little movement and action as this. It has no place in de luxe houses, but is fair enough to get by in daily change theatres. Laura La Plante, as the star, is a sore disappointment. Mildred Van Dorn, one of the secondary players, overshadows her like a tent. Walter Scott and Eugene Borden, the lead and heavy, show nothing in this to put them in the Hall of Fame.

Maxine Alton is responsible for the story which has a young lawyer, so immersed in his own business that his wife takes up painting and decides to go to Paris to complete her art. There she engages a model, who is just the romantic type she has always craved. Finally she receives word her husband is coming over to secure a divorce and then makes up her mind to "hold her man," hy pretending a divorce is just what she wants. Finish it off yourself.

There are comedy moments that are fair, but for the greater part the story is very draggy. Little box office appeal and principally for adult audiences.

The Three Outcasts

A Good Western (Reviewed by Raymond Ganly) (Silent)

YAKIMA CANUTT stars in this western which boasts outdoor snap, fast action and other ingredients in sufficient proportion to send it over as a satisfactory attraction of its type. For the houses catering to thrill-loving audiences this should prove pleasing fare.

Supporting Canutt are a horse and a dog.

Supporting Canuit are a horse and a dog. These three feature the story. When Canuit's horses are stolen by his ex-step father, Canuit's wild horse leads them back to his ranch and when the girl is in danger of an attack from a drunken cowboy the dog brings Canuit to the rescue. The story ends with Canuit retaining all his stock, winning the girl and sending the villains off to jail.

Canutt demoustrates he's a horseman of the same calibre as Ken Maynard. The girl is lukewarmly portrayed by Gertrude Short. Of the support, Al Ferguson is the best.

It has several tricks in horsemanship from Cauutt, several shots taking the star galloping along on his horse but standing on the saddle. The hero has a tendency to get entangled in traps of various kinds and he made the mistake of sitting in one. The humor is nicely proportioned with the action.

Hardboiled Rose

Average Program Picture (Reviewed by Raymond Ganly)

(Part Dialogue)

S HAPES up as a good bet for the neighborhood and similar type of house. An average program attraction with a rather wild story enhanced by worthwhile performances from the cast. Myrna Loy in the role of a Southern belle does nice work, her support coming from Gladys Brockwell, William Collier, Jr., John Miljan and others.

Her father having killed himself after delivering his firm's securities in payment for a gambling debt, the girl dons the dress of an adventuress and gains entrance into the gambling house where the son of its proprietress falls for her. The girl persuades him to steal the securities and although he is discovered, she has time to scoop them up and make a getaway. With the securities in her possession she is able to free her lover who went to prison to protect her father's name.

Girl In The Glass Cage

Very Weak (Reviewed by Raymond Ganly)

(Silent)

J UST a program picture. Nothing outstanding. Story is thin and unconvincing, direction is sloppy and cast turns in medicere performances, its a weak sister which can only get by in the grind houses.

The story deals with a theatre cashier in a small town. Her uncle, a souse, kills one of the corner loafers who had broken into her room at night and the girl's sweetheart, a student in the college nearby, is charged with the crime. There follows the usual courtroom scene with the murderer finally betraying him-self and the girl and boy finding a happy reunion.

A small town story best suited for the small town movie crowds. Carroll Nye plays the youth tortured in love while Loretta Young handles the title role. Ralph Lewis and Matthew Betz the uncle and town loafer, respectively, are the best of the lot.

The Weavers

No Appeal For U. S. (Reviewed by Freddie Schader)
(Silent)

THERE is very little that is appealing in this German-made version of the novel by Gerhardt Hauptmann. For the regular run of picture theatres it hasn't a chance, but put on in "arty" houses in centers where there is a preponderance of German population it may do.

The story deals with the labor uprisings in Germany prior to the Civil War of 1848. The action takes place in one of the smaller German kingdoms, later included in the empire, where the mill owners were giving their employees barely enough to live on and virtually maintaining them in a state of half starvation. A young man who has served his enlistment in the army returns to his native village to find all his kin half dead from lack of food; at this time the mill owner says he is going to institute a further cut in salary. The hero leads the uprising, the greater part of the picture showing the mob scenes and the strife between the works and the troops. There is no love interest.

There are a number of finely drawn pieces of character work by the players, but in this date of talkies it is hardly probable that any of them will ever make the grade in America.

Fair Program Feature (Reviewed by Freddie Schader)

(Silent)

THE title with its possibilities for exploitation together with the fact that Constance Talmadge is the star in this French-made production give it an edge over the average for-eign film. In the "little theatres" there is a chance to work up the art end on the title, and in regular houses still running silent, the pic-ture will get a fair break.

The story makes the star a princess who is running a steamship line. One of her captains strikes a passenger who has insulted the name and reputation of the owner of the line and kills him. As a result he is dismissed from the service, principally because he will not defend himself by telling the cause of the quarrel. He learns that the woman owner of the line never even reviewed his case and signed the order for his dismissal out of hand. This embitters him against all women and her, in particular. Later when the woman through the threats of blackmail, discovers the real reason for the captain's onslaught she seeks him out to make reparation, falls in love with him, and finally marries him.

Production values are good. Miss Talmadge gives a convincing performance and Jean Murat as her lead fits the role pleasingly.

The Soul Of France

Appeal Limited (Reviewed by Freddie Schader) (Silent)

N the centers where there is a French population or where there is a lation or where they haven't lost their taste for war stuff this one will get by. It is a French "Four Sons" only here three sons and the father go to war and but one of them is killed. It isn't the calibre of picture that will ever hit in the de luxe or the first runs, but in the "arty" theatres and the neighborhoods it may pick about an average gross.

in addition to the mother love element there is a juvenile love story that holds the interest, but the real kick is the reproduction of several of the big battles of the war, the saving of Paris by the taxi-cab brigade, and the touch of anti-war propaganda from the graves of the dead.

The opening scenes are laid in a small town with a family of four. The mother and father and two sons. The third son is disowned because he is supposed to have deserted the army. cause he is supposed to have deserted the army. The father, a veteran of the War of '71, is sending the second to St. Cvr, when his class is called to the colors in 1914. The wayward son returns from Algeria and later brings in his own brother from No Man's Land.

Jean Murat, playing the role of the wayward son, handles his role impressively, with A. Heuze as the father giving a fine character performance.

The Girl In The Show

Due For Moderate Response (Reviewed by Raymond Gardy)

(Silent)

PLENTY of backstage stories have hit the screen, so many in fact that it takes a real live one to make the fans flock in. This picture, while better-than-average, will not stand them up and is just a notch above the program status. The exhibitor might go after Bessie Love's following, which has increased since "Broadway Melody."

The film lacks singing-dancing-color appeal of some of the recent backstage yarns and merely offers a romance between a couple of "Tommers" touring the sticks. As things develop, the girl almost marries a small town undertaker after a quarrel with the boy friend, but the latter becomes a successful manager and the two are reunited.

Will do nicely in the neighborhood class, but as a big time booking it is out. Make a bid for the leigitimate theatre crowd, if any.

In The Money (Reviewed by Red Kann) (All-Dialoque)

N which the public will see a new Georgie Jessel. The bravado is gone and in its stead, Jessel becomes a sympathetic and warm character. He reaches and plays tricks with the heartstrings in a manner that will knock women, in particular, for a loop. The role makes him an Italian immigrant, called back to the mother country by his father's illness, enmeshed in the excitement of early war days to eventually end on the Austro-Italian front. He loses his sight, spends three years in a prison camp and, upon his return to America, discovers his sweetheart, played with a vast sympathy and understanding by Lila Lee, married because all reports indicated Jessel had been killed in action.

William K. Howard, in his direction, imparted warmth and feeling to the story and by his dramatically effective and appreciative treatment raised what easily might have been an over-sentimentalized affair into the ranks of the

"The Three Diamonds" (Universal Talkie-2 Reels)

THE Rooney family in another talker. The story is far-fetched and is merely an excuse for young Pat to sing and dance. The story is far-returned and is increas an excuse for young Pat to sing and dance. The stepping, of course, is fine, but when the Rooneys—father and lad—get into the throes of acting there's another tale to tell. They, however, have grown more restrained in their emoting and the improvement is apparent. The bulk of this story falls on the elder Pat who is searching for his wife's diamond bracelet. He hunts high and low, insults several of his guests and finally calls the police only to discover the bracelet at the bottom of the punch bowl. In playing this be sure to go strong on the Rooney name. To be released Nov. 11.

FISHING expedition into Algonquin Park, Canada, is included in this Sportlight in sound. It was aimed directly for the sports-man's heart and gets there beyond a doubt. The trip is shown getting under way in a car, then follows a canoe portage until a logging dam is reached and the attempt to land the trout begins. After the catch is made to land the takes to the rapids until camp is reached where everyone joins in preparing the teast to come. This Sportlight has the goods. Excellent material. A Sept. 1 release.

"Gentlemen Of The Evening" (Pathe Talkie-2 Reels)

LEW HEARN is co-featured with George LeMaire in this talker produced and di-rected by the latter from Hearn's story with Evalyn Knapp as the lead. It is a fairly humor-ous piece of business dealing with Hearn's tete-a-tete with the girl in her room. LeMaire, as the house detective, enters and throws him out. Hearn's dialogue and cackle of glee are good for fair audience reaction, but there is nothing here to make them fall out of their seats. There are about five real good laughs in the entire footage. To be released Oct. 20.

Pathe Audio Review No. 27 (Pathe Sound-1 Reel)

WITH views of a miniature doll house ("Titania's Palace") scenes of what transpire on a Pathe Culver City studio lot during the filming of a ballet sequence for "Paris Bound" ("Ballet"), and glimpses of a famous French summer resort ("Deauville"), this Pathe Audio Review offers a fairly entertaining ten minutes. The first and last subject were seen before in silent reviews. A very effective musical accompaniment now gives them a better appeal. Fair screen magazine short.

"The Baited Trap" (Ace Scutland Yard Episode—2 Reels)

THE Universal talkie serial is drawing to its close as Blake, the Ace of Scotland Yard, reaches the denouement in which he is to unmask the villain. In this, the eighth chapter, it looks as if Prince Darius is the guilty party in asmuch as Blake, working hand in hand with the Diamond Queen, apparently has obtained some strong proof of his treachery. As the chapter ends, Blake and Darius are indulging in a fist fight into which all of Limchouse is drawn. In the scuffle a lamp is overturned and the gunpowder room wherein the tussle is on goes up in smoke. The serial still maintains its interest and also gives evidence of the quality of its cast, photographic and recording assets.

Pathe Review No. 41 (Pathe Silent-1 Reel)

A N issue of the Review that's okay. Scenes of Natchez, sleepy Southern town whose glory went with the Civil War, are shown in the first offering which includes some attractive Southern mansions. A very interesting bit of entertainment is to be had in "Gopher Men of the Desert," presenting shots of the wild Arabs who burrow into the ground like rabbits. The camera procures several views of a desert chieftain's harem and the subject concludes with some beautiful scenic shots: clouds, a forest, a lake, mountains, etc., all photographed by the Pathechrome process. If your looking for educational screen magazine material, here it is.

"The Border Wolf" (Universal Silent-2 Reels)

TED CARSON stars in a "mounty" drama I laid out along conventional lines, which makes it a filler. The story tells of how a mounty captured a notorious thief, the Border Wolf and saved a girl from his clutches. On this structure is strung the usual scrap between the law and the desperadoes, with danger hovering near the girl and mounty fighting against terrific odds until reinforcements arrive. It is neither better nor worse than the many other releases of its type.

"The Smooth Guy" (Pathe Talkie-2 Reels)

FRANK T. DAVIS spills a great line of gab in the title role of this Checker comedy produced and directed by George LeMaire Evelyn Knapp plays the feminine lead. Davis, Evalyn's childhood sweetheart grown up, re-turns to the home town as a bean salesman. The comedy deals largely with his conversations with the girl and his typical salesman spiel. Davis' repartee should get laughs.

HAPTER 7 of this Universal serial gives an account of how Blake turned the tables on Prince Darius when the latter threatened to kill him. But the Egyptian gets the ring, anyway and Blake is still suspected of being in league with the underworld. When Darius is refused by Lady Diana, he plans to abduct her but Blake gets wind of the affair and they kidnap his servant, Jarvis, instead. Then Darius, seeing Blake step inside the mummy case, has the case thrown into the water. But Blake is safely hiding behind the curtain and is prepared to brand Darius a rogue in the next chapter. The serial is still stepping along.

"Doing His Stuff"

(Universal Silent—2 Reels)

A FTER a good initial comedy in the Arthur Lake series of shorts being produced and distributed by Universal, a considerable drop in quality is noticed with this release. As a matter of fact, the material afforded Lake is of the correctives broad that maked his of the same stereotyped brand that marked his "Horace in Hollywood" series. The fun in this one is rather forced and, therefore, quite tedious.

"Nutty Notes"

VALTER LANTZ, Bill Nolan and their

Oswald cartoon here. It should shine brightly on any program conceived and presented as it is with great ingenuity. This undoubtedly will win a large share of laughs from any appre-ciative audience. Oswald and a goat go through some funny routine, introducing a piano for some effective sound gags. An excellent cartoon comedy. Set for Nov. 11 release.

Every Week-for Mutual Benefit and Progress

-CONDUCTED BY AN EXHIBITOR FOR EXHIBITORS -

"Carelessness"

HIS little chat has been prompted by the fact that in my many visits to theatres and theatre managers I notice little and big things that they, in the course of their daily rounds, seem to have overlooked.

I can also claim, as a reason for this topic, some experiences on the subject which makes me all the more convinced that a good many house managers are not watching their step.

Dozens of different things around the average theatre today lend themselves to the proper operation and beauty of the house itself.

This expression can be applied to, not only the necessary or mechanical portions of the theatre, but to the furnishings and other little details all costing plenty of money to purchase and install.

Yet, after a while some careless managers let them go into neglect or discard without a thought (when they are doing so) that they are spoiling the operation and appearance of their theatres.

I remember while completing a theatre in Worcester, Mass., we had a tough situation to meet in the form of a modernistic fountain treatment which under ordinary lighting hardly meant a dog-goned thing. So after much experimenting I arranged to conceal two spot lights back of the entrance doors and to flood the fountain with varicolored lighting through the use of automatic revolving color wheels on the spots.

The effect was far more gorgeous than my fondest hopes and it created a whale of talk among everybody in and out of the theatre. Patrons flocked around the fountain for fifteen and twenty minutes at a time and repeated the same thing almost every time they came to the theatre.

I had occasion to visit this theatre only two months after it opened and really looked forward to seeing this "pet idea" of mine in operation again,

I will leave to your own imagination how I felt when I passed into the beautiful foyer and found that one color wheel had stopped entirely while the other was revolving so slowly that the effect was not only lost, but was spoiled.

Yet all the manager had to do was to send any one of his twenty or thirty employees up a small ladder to where the spots were located in order that they be oiled or the speed control of the wheels adiusted.

I find many parallels to this story in houses that I have visited and since I feel that this form of neglect is a demonstration of poor showmanship on the part of the manager I am taking this means of calling attention to it with the fond hope the suggestion will be taken in "Chick" the right spirit.

George Laby Finds Another Idea For A Lobby Display

Manager George Laby used a lobby stunt that was of utmost value in selling Al Jolson in "Say It With Songs," playing at the Washington Street Olympia Theatre, Boston, Mass.

In the lobby was a mammoth cut-out head of Jolson apparently in the act of singing. Right in back of the opened mouth was placed a loud speaker which was connected to an automatic phonograph which in turn was operated from the check room-playing the theme song and other feature songs from the picture.

Under the Jolson cut-out was a brass-bound frame announcing, the star, cast and feature, while above the cutout appeared Al Jolson's name in large cut-out electrical letters which were painted red and orange.

This is the first word we have received from George in some time and we do know that ever since he left New Haven he has been actively engaged in putting over some mighty fine exploitation and advertising.

Come clean, Laby, and don't make us dig the stuff out of you all the time. Oak?

Thomas Baldridge, manager of the Kettler Theatre in Florida met a pretty tough situation when the recent hurricane down there hit his part of the state a short time ago.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

W. H. Hemphill's Activities Bring Results At Vivian

W. H. HEMPHILL, the progressive manager of the Vivian Theatre in Daytona Beach, Fla., certainly believes in doing things in a big way, as witness his tieup, not with one automobile dealer but five of them to donate 22 cars for a tremendous parade ballyhooing the picture "On With The Show."

We show you on the accompanying illustration part of the parade of cars with the patron-drawing copy on some of them, and the line-up of girls who were placed in these cars wearing bathing suits and pajamas.

That Daytona Beach had a whole lot to talk about,

That Daytona Beach had a whole lot to talk about, theatrically, must have been the result of this fine piece of showmanship, and Mr. Hemphill is deserving of a lot of credit for the thorough a n d businesslike way that he engineered the entire stunt.

On the second day of the run of this picture, he arranged an "Elk's Club Children's Day" in which some 1,300 or 1,400 youngsters paraded through the streets of the city direct to the Theatre with a front banner reading "We are on our way to the Vivian Theatre to see 'On With The Show.'"

This is showmanship in any man's land, and it gave us great pleasure to recount these experiences of Mr. Hemp-hill's activities on this one particular picture.

Undoubtedly, he is doing fine work on many other attractions, and we will look forward to reading about them on these pages. We would also like to have the gentleman's own photograph, so that we can make him known to our members and readers.

Harley Fryer Puts Over Big Campaign With Local Tie-Ups

Harley Fryer, the manager of the Linwood Theatre in Kansas City, Mo., showed the proper community spirit when he donated the entire proceeds of a special benefit show held at eleven o'clock at night to the Relief Fund which was being raised for the families of three firemen in that city.

Considering the fact that Mr. Fryer is operating a suburban theatre makes it all the more impressive that he was able to get front page recognition for his house in that city.

In order to successfully engineer his part in this Relief Fund benefit, he secured the support of the Chamber of Commerce and the Fire Chief. He also managed to get some film from the local exchanges, and, of course, every-

"All For A Laugh"

Dick Kirschbaum, cartoonist for the Club Series of Lobby Laughs, comes forward with the suggestion that any member or reader submitting an idea that he can convert into a cartoon, will receive the original cartoon for sending in the idea.

And if you don't know how good Dick's originals are, just wait until you "lamp" a few of 'em.
Come on, boys. Where's your funny bone?

"LOBBY LAUGHS"

body at the theatre donated their services, with the result that the entire receipts were turned over to the Fund. Incidentally, the benefit was very successful.

Another phase of Mr. Fryer's showmanship is contained in a red tag which measures about 5 x 7 inches printed on card stock and very effective for door knobs or antomobile tie-ups. We will show this tag in a later issue.

We would like to hear from Mr. Fryer again very shortly.

Ballyhoo Stirs Up Good Business For Mgr. R. K. Fulton

Manager R. K. Fulton of the Princess Theatre, in Sioux City, Iowa, used two girls to ballyhoo "Our Modern Maidens" as a means of giving that picture some extra publicity when it played at the theatre.

One of these girls he dressed as a modern flapper, while the other was dressed as the flapper of "long ago." Both of them carried signs on their back, and attracted a good deal of attention throughout the town.

The business district particuluarly was good hunting ground for this ballyhoo stunt, and, as you will judge from their costume on the accompanying photograph, they must have made traffic stand on its head.

This was but one phase of Mr. Fulton's campaign, while another feature of it was the arrangement for a marvelous parade using ten new automobiles all of the roadster type. He packed these cars with about sixty high school girls, sitting and standing on the running boards, and these were likewise used in a parade throughout the town.

Horns, confetti, serpentine and motorcycle policemen to escort them made this a real old home week celebration for Sioux City and the Princess Theatre.

In addition to the above angle Mr. Fulton also had eight full window tie-ups in the leading department and drug stores and altogether he put through a most effective campaign, resulting in plenty of business on this attraction.

Let's hear some more from you, Fulton, and enclose your own photograph with your next letter, so that we can introduce you to the rest of the boys in a more intimate manner.

Ernie Smithies' Tourist Tie-Up A "Biz." Booster

Ernie Smithies, manager of the Capitol Theatre, in Kingston, Ontario, and one of Jack Allan's livewires, has broken the ice, and from now on we can expect to get something at frequent intervals for publication on these pages.

The first thing that Ernie contributes to these pages happens to be a stunt which really commands the respect and admiration of every showman in the business for the way he carried it out.

It was a tie-up with the Tourist Ass'n of his city through which he engineered that the city paid all the expenses.

For the benefit of those whose geography may not be up to tap, we want you to know that Kingston is situated at the Gate-way to the Thousand Islands on the St. Lawrence River and the city has a great revenue from tourists visiting the Island.

Ernie felt that he was not getting his share of the Tourits' money, and figured out if he could only get them to stop somewhere around the theatre, he could induce them to come in and see his shows.

It so happens that the Official Tourist information office was on a side street, so he suggested to the Association that they use his outer ticket office for an information booth and that it would give them an information department right on the Main Street of the Ciy.

Ernie also offered to supply them with a girl who would give out the necessary information, and work directly under their supervision.

One of the fine points of this entire tie-up is as follows: you will note on this accompanying photograph the banner strung across the street, directing attention, not only to the information office, but to the Capitol Theatre, and we might as well tell you here and now, that it is an absolute impossibility to obtain permission to string any kind of a banner in Kingston. This gave Smithies an opportunity to gain something that he was long anxious to put across, and, of course, he made the stringing of the banner contingent upon the the acceptance of his offer.

Managers' Round Table Club Employment Bureau

A service without cost to all Subscribing Members.

All correspondence should be addressed to Charles E. Lewis, Chairman, personally, and will be treated in strict confidence.

Theatre owners, chain executives or others seeking managers of the highest calibre can make such contacts by advising the Chairman of the type of man, or men, they are looking for.

Managers wishing to register in this Bureau are requested to write, immediately, for the proper form to be filled out.

> MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB 729 Seventh Avenue New York City

So now you know the whole story, because they not only gave him permission, but the City paid for the banner, painted it and instructed the Fire Department to hang it and service it throughout the summer.

In closing we want you to know that the Tourist Association was so enthused with the amount of Tourists who stopped at the Information Desk, that after the first week they paid the girl's salary themselves, and up to the time of writing, 2,500 tourists had registered.

This means 2,500 outside people have entered his lobby, used his theatre, writing room, waiting room, etc., who would otherwise have passed his door. And it is likewise safe to say, that many paid admission to see his shows.

We have before us the newspapers showing the cuts and stories dealing with this great campaign and we are here to tell the world that Denny came through with flying colors. Pictures-stories and what-not, all without costing the house a red cent. Which in our own parlance spells-Showmanship.

We want you to take a look at a snap shot of the front of the Belmont as dressed for this attraction and everything considered it must have made the natives stop and look it over as often as they passed his way.

As to the way he handled the newspaper advertising-well, we would rather you take a look at one of his ads and then you can judge this angle for yourself. But don't fail to note the Free Ride announcement on the very top of the ad. That's the catch line that attracted attention-and how!

We are glad to pass this stunt along to our many members and readers and would certainly appreciate more contributions from They smack of real Denny.

ability and show that here is another manager on his toes to grab off some extra shekels for the theatre.

Advertising Material

T is generally conceded that the time is past when a theatre can turn out any old piece of advertising matter, and expect to get results. In our opinion any advertising coming out of a theatre, should reflect the caliber of the theatre itself. It can hardly be called economy to distribute among prospective patrons a circular, poorly set up or printed on cheap stock. Investigation will disclose that the difference in cost between a cheap piece of advertising and a good piece of advertising is very small.

To those managers who like to use circulars or heralds as an advertising medium, we suggest that they use cuts or mats to liven up such advertising. Plain type set-up is not always eye-arresting, and a good cut might tend to make a person read it through instead of throwing it away.

Then there is the so-called "trick circular," which most certainly will be read if not worked too often. We used one some time ago, and from personal observation we found it was being read by practically everyone who got hold of it.

After all "good" advertising is not expensive because if it really is good, it is bound to bring back, in additional business, more than you paid for it, but keep in mind at all times that a herald or circular is used for the purpose of attracting patrons to your box-office, who might ordinarily not attend, and with such an idea in mind, make it peppy.

Harry Klein Now Managing Farragut For Century Chain

Harry Klein, who formerly managed the Roth-Lyons Theatre in Madison, New Jersey, has left that house to take over the managerial reins of the Century Circuit's Farragut Theatre in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn.

The MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB wishes Harry a lot of luck in his new position, and we hope to hear many things about him and his activities with the Century Circuit.

Imagine such a thing. We have made a mistake. Not that anything like a mistake is impossible, as a matter of fact, we make a lot of them, but don't get on the house tops and shout about them.

However, let's get down to business.

It seems that we announced a short time ago that talkies were introduced into Halifax, N. S., by our friend R. J. MacAdam and his Casino Theatre. But . . . we apparently were misinformed, because talkies, according to the party who roasted us, were really introduced at the Orpheus Theatre in Halifax some time during April with the 100 per cent talking picture "The Home Towners."

However, we stand corrected and humbly apologize, and we hope that the manager of the Orpheus Theatre will overlook this little mistake, and that Mr. MacAdam will bear with us in case any one blames him for the announcement. Just the same we are willing to hear a lot more about Halifax activities from both the Orpheus and Casino

"Tell 'Em The Truth"

Pictures are entertainment. At least that is what the producers are always trying to tell us. And our contention is, that entertainment must be sold with as good a form of salesmanship as any other item requiring the services of a salesman.—Plus that "Something" called showmanship.

among the exploitation angles of the picture. Think over what the chances are for tying it into something local. Advertise it so that your prospective patrons will actually want to see it and not just come because they have no other place to "kill" a

Carl P. Rose Now Mgr. Of The Beautiful New Granada

Carl P. Rose, who has been successfully managing a theatre in Columbus, Nebraska has left to take over the reins of the magnificent Granada Theatre in Norfolk, Neb.

The MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB would certainly like to tell on these pages something about his activities in his new theatre.

We would welcome the opportunity of publishing his contributions, and look forward to hearing a whole lot more about this active member and showman.

He has kindly sent us a set of rules which he has used in every theatre which he manages, and while it contains many points about handling the ushers, that have been rehashed before, it nevertheless provides a neat chart which should be posted in the ushers room or a copy handed to the ushers when they start to work, or at frequent intervals when they are at the theatre. We pass them on for your own attention.

RULES FOR USHERS Direction For Flashlights

- Keep light out of the patrons' eyes.
 Place light so that patron can see the aisle.
 A flashing light annoys the patrons.

Direction for Seating A Patron

- Know where your vacant seats are. Greet the patron with a nod of recognition.
- If in doubt, ask how many.
- If you have a choice of seats, find out where the patron wants to sit.
- Always give the patron the best seat that you have, When speaking to anyone use "sir," etc.
- Be polite, smile.
- Do not become mechanical.
- Talk to the patron in a low voice, Do not walk too fast down the aisle, the patron may not be able to keep up.

General Direction for Ushers

- "Check" your seats as quickly and accurately as possible.

 Be sure the Captain sees your "check" signal.

 When you think a break will occur go down to the end of your aisle and follow the patrons up the aisle, checking
- 4. This will enable you to have a check as soon as your aisle is clear.
- People moving over to another aisle for better seats, will change your check. Watch for this.
- Do not watch the picture.
- Do not visit with friends.

- Keep a good posture always.
 Go to your Captain for advice, he will help you.
 REMEMBER! THE PATRON IS ALWAYS RIGHT.

Thank you Mr. Borland, for this contribution, as well as the program which we will show later. Try and find the time to keep us posted on all of your activities.

Ernest Austgen Takes Place Of J. McManus In Dayton

Ernest Austgen has just been appointed manager of Loew's Theatre, Dayton, where he succeeded John McManus, who had been handling that theatre for the past year and a half. Mr.

Austgen has had a long and varied career in the show business, having managed theatres in Pittsburgh, Memphis and other large cities, prior to his coming to New York, where he has been affiliated with the executive offices of Loew's Inc., as well as handling the opening of the new Loew's King Theatre in Brooklyn.

He is the type of showman who is aggressive, and with a knack of creating and holding many friends wherever he works, and it would not surprise us to find that he is making another mark for himself in Dayton.

The MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB would welcome the opportunity of broadcasting Mr. Austgen's activities, and we trust he will keep us in mind as soon as he gets settled in his new location.

By the way, Ernest, you might include your own photograph with the first contribution you send us, as we are mighty anxious to show the gang what you look like. Best of luck, and make them sit up and take notice.

Good Old Ballyhoo Came In Handy For Mgr. A.E. Hamilton

Apparently the good old-fashioned ballyhoo idea has not died up Springfield, Mass., way because we have visible evidence that Manager A. E. Hamilton used a novel ballyhoo to exploit Broadway Theatre in that

"Smiling Irish Eyes," at the Broadway Theatre, in that city.

The ballyhoo consisted of a one hundred year old Irish jaunting car with mule. The rig carried two occupants; one made up as an old peasant with clay pipe in his mouth and wearing an Irish peasant's regalia. And he also carried a small pig.

The ballyhoo was a novel attraction as it traveled back and forth through the city's streets for four days bannered with copy about the attraction.

Incidentally, the ballyhoo stunt was cause for the appearance of a four-inch story on the editorial page of one of the papers—the last paragraph mentioning the picture, theatre and play dates; in fact, about everything except the admission prices.

All of which we would call "great stuff" to friend Hamilton and to assure him that any of his other activities would find a welcome spot on these pages.

Start the ball arolling, "A. E.," and include your own photo with the next stunt you send in. The other boys would like to get a look at you. Don't be bashful.

Flivver Gag Was Good Stunt At The Earle In Philly

That good old exploitation standby, the Flivver, did exploitation service in ballyhooing "The Sophomore" at the Earle Theatre, in Philadelphia, recently, and we picture here what the poor old tin can looked like when the exploitation engineers were finished with it.

Plenty of tin cans dragged behind the ear as it sped through the streets of the Quaker City, supplying sufficient noise to attract notice, and the signs were depended upon to do the selling.

The Earle Theatre, under the direction of Harry Shaw an active ROUND TABLE member, has been putting over some mighty interesting stunts and we trust they will keep us posted more fully on their future activities.

Paul Doblin Moves To The Ritz In Elizabeth For S-W

Paul Doblin, Manager of the Hawthorne Theatre in Newark, N. J., recently used a very good stunt in the form of paper bags which were distributed to about 20 stores in the neighborhood.

Naturally, costing them nothing, the stores grabbed them up and asked for more. Altogether, the many thousands that Paul used cost the theatre about $16, and he felt that practically every one was handed to a patron, which is something that cannot always be done with heralds and circulars.

Paul has the real spirit of the ROUND TABLE CLUB, and tells us that he reads the pages with a good deal of enjoyment and profit, and has contributed this stunt because he felt that someone else might be able to make use of it.

Thank you, Paul, and we certainly wish you would write to us more often, Incidently, Paul has been transferred to the Ritz Theatre in Elizabeth, N. J., and of course your Chairman hastens to wish him all the success in putting over the Ritz that a real showman deserves.

Maybe we'll hear from him more often now that he is in a peppier house. What say, Paul, old scout?

Wallace Allen's "Bulletins" Chock Full Of B. O. Stunts

Wallace R. Allen, in charge of the Florida District Office for publicity and exploitation in the Publix Theatres, has started issuing a very helpful bulletin which is being sent to all the theatre managers and publicity men in that state.

In looking through one of these bulletins, we were delighted to note the number of good suggestions which Wally selected from among the many contributions appearing on the pages of the ROUND TABLE CLUB.

It only goes to prove our contention about Wally, that as a live-wire showman, he would not hesitate to take advantage of the "other man's" ideas, as well as contributing some of his own.

Keep your eye on Wally Allen, because he is headed straight up to the top of the pile, and IT WON'T BE LONG NOW.

Metcalf Peps Up Front With New And Novel Display

Attractively dressed lobbies are by no means confined to the big city movie palaces, because the small theatre and the small town showman is just as alert to the possibilities offered by this angle of dressing their lobbies, as any manager in the big city.

We are particularly anxious for every one of our readers to see how Manager Metcalf, of the Liucoln Theatre in Massillon, Ohio, not only dressed up the lobby of his theatre in an attractive style, but also dressed his two boys in atmospheric costumes to plug the picture and attract attention through the streets of Massillon.

In submitting these photographs to the ROUND TABLE CLUB Mr. Metcalf made mention of the lobby dressing of another theatre, whose story and photos appeared on the ROUND TABLE CLUB pages, which is still further proof that he, like thousands of other readers, is following the CLUB pages religiously every week.

We know, that they are deriving a great deal of pleasure and profit by following our activities, and since it is the showmen themselves who are contributing the material which finds its way on to the pages of the CLUB, we have still more confidence in the way that it is being read.

still more confidence in the way that it is being read.

Let us hear from you again, Mr. Metcalf, and keep us posted on all of your future stunts.

Charles M. Welstead

The Managers' Round Table Club deeply regrets to announce that a very active member of our organization and a well-known figure in theatre circles on the Coast, Charles M. Welstead, was one of the unfortunate victims of the San Juan disaster off the coast of San Francisco.

The best tribute we can pay to the memory of Mr. Welstead is the expression of his former employer, Mr. R. D. Whitson, who said:

"It is with the deepest regret that we find it necessary to carry on without him, as he was indeed a gentleman among gentlemen and the highest type of employee from every standpoint."

Giant Litho. Pass A Good Angle For Waterbury Capitol

this pass measured 22 by 12 inches.

In the event that you have the mistaken idea that the illustration with this article represents just another lithograph pass, we would like to stop your trend of thought long enough to tell you that inches.

Now if you just cut out a piece of wrapping paper that size, you will be far better equipped to realize how effective this type of advertising really is. Not that it is claimed to be orginal, because we showed you one from Bill Hendricks, out in Steubenville, Ohio, as far back as October. 1928, but it nevertheless represents something different.

Perhaps one of the chief angles that makes this thing attractive advertising is the fact that everybody receiving one of these enlarged lithograph passes laughs enough about it to show it to all their friends. And thereby hangs the word of mouth angle in connection with this form of advertising.

We are grateful to Mr. Howard Waugh, of the Palace Theatre, in Waterbury, Conn., not only for sending us this contribution, but for making it out in our favor. (Too bad we can't use it.)

Here's A Youngster Who Is Making 'Em Sit Up & Take Note.

Although quite a youngster, W. C. Ricord, Jr., manager of the Fox Wilshire Theatre shows a real twist of showmanship in turning out the neat little house program which we are reproducing with this story.

Although the reproduction and the cut does not add to its appearance, it will nevertheless, give you an idea of how he ties up with his local merchants, and at the same time turned out a fine little house organ.

The ROUND TABLE CLUB pages welcome the opportunity of printing more of this young showman's activities. Come on along, Ricord, and shoot us your own photograph and we will tell the rest of the boys all about you.

Window Tie-Up A Knockout For La-Bar In Asheville

Manager M. LaBar, Jr., of the Plaza Theatre out in Asheville, N. C., pulled a wow of an exploitation and publicity stunt in conjunction with "The Dance of Life." He made an arrangement whereby the town's leading department store, located opposite the theatre, gave over to the theatre one of the front windows, where LaBar placed a talented dancer who performed three or four times a day, in advance of the run of the picture.

That the stunt attracted plenty of attention is plainly shown by the mob snapped in front of the store window which we are showing on the photo.

In connection with the store window dancing exhibition, Mr. LaBar also passed out heralds throughout the day to everybody stopping to look at the window, and these announced that the dancer was taking a few steps from "The Dance of Life." The stunt proved mighty effective and from the standpoint of free publicity, it grabbed off plenty of newspaper space, and commanded a whole lot of attention from the theatregoers and passersby of the main street.

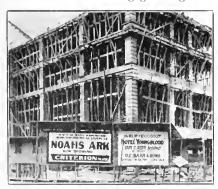

We are also showing a photograph of how he fixed up the front of the theatre with a very novel dressing to ballyhoo this picture.

We would like to hear from Mr. LaBar again, and would also appreciate one of his own photographs, so that we can show the rest of the gang just what he looks like.

A Corking "Darb" Right In Center Of City For Avery

Manager Avery of the Criterion Theatre in Enid, Okiahoma, did not let the grass grow under his feet when he saw the new hotel construction work going on.

You will note from the accompanying photograph how he utilized their construction shack for a corking good sign to sell "Noah's Ark."

This new hotel is being constructed right in the heart of the business district, and thousands of people pass this corner every day in the week. It is safe to assume, therefore, that his e y e attracting copy recalled to many of them that the picture was playing at the Criterion, and no doubt resulted in much extra business for the attraction.

But aside from that angle he has placed his theatre's name before the public and that in itself is an achievement for any showman to accomplish.

"Fire Works" Start Fred Johnson's Activities In Oil City

Fresh frem triumphs as general manager of the theatres in Cambridge and Marietta, Ohio, our good friend Fred E. Johnson was the pivot around the opening of the beautiful Keith Drake Theatre in Oil City, Pa., when that house officially threw open its doors after a complete redecorating and renovating.

That Fred injected his usual showmanship is amply attested to by photographs which we are reproducing. The one on the left shows the mob on the street for the opening parade and ceremonies, and the one on the right shows Major Blair, of Oil City, presenting Mr. Johnson with a huge floral key, representive of the key to the city.

It was a gala event for Oil City and in his new environment with an organization like R-K-O back of him, Fred Johnson should certainly "strut his stuff" to perfection, making a lot of so-called showmen sit up and take notice.

Another factor in the management of the Drake Theatre is the spick and span line up of doormen and ushers of that theatre, a group picture of which we are also showing with this story.

and its Chairman wishes to convey their heartiest congratulations and best wishes upon his new connection, and we are certain that the ROUND TABLE CLUB has in Mr.Johnson a well-wisher and a plugger for the whole crowd of us.

Let's hear from you, Fred, as often as you have something you would like to pass on to the rest of the boys, and here's hoping that I get to shake your hand again soon.

Albert Metcalf says:

Believe me the MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB should have been started years ago on account of the good you are doing; it seems that all Managers are reading this department and becoming acquainted with one another. GOOD LUCK.

Brodie Finds Use Of Lobby A Real Good Eve Catcher

Utilizing both sides of his lobby for a display on "Show Boat" netted Manager E. Brodie some worthwhile publicity when that picture played at the Palace Theatre, Haverhill, Mass.

The wallboard extended the full length of the lobby on both sides and reached from the floor to the ceiling.

On this wallboard was painted a Show Boat. The windows were cut out of the boat and photos of members of the cast were inserted.

This display was unusual and attracted no little attention from the many passers-by who stopped to look at the display.

In addition to t h e attractive lobby display, Brodie had seven co-operative tieups with merchants on records, sheet music, novelty toys, books and cosmetics that further helped to publicize the picture.

A man on stilts was also good as an attention-getter; the man wearing a sign on his back announcing the attraction.

We call attention to this stunt of Brodie's because it is an idea that can be used in conjunction with many other pictures besides "Show Boat."

If you want to try something along the lines of a wallboard display, even as used by this progressive manager, remember it can be fitted to tie in with any picture you are seeking to exploit in this fashion.

A second glance at the photo with this story will show that its very crudeness of finish makes it all the more attractive.

"Personal Endorsement" Another B.O. Angle For Collier

Bill Collier, Manager of Victory Theatre of Tampa, Florida, certainly added a "different" slant to his newspaper advertising when he used personal endorsement from his own paper and residents of the city to boost the picture was reproduced from one of his newspaper ads, how effective this angle must be, especially since the majority of theatregoers are pretty well fed up with reading quotations from this critic or that critic on some great newspaper in the bigger cities.

This adds the local touch and regardless of whether it is original with Bill or not, he deserves credit for the way he handled it and for the layout on this ad. Anybody running a picture over three days can pull the same "gag" by handling it the way Collier

The idea was that during the afternoon and evening of the first day of the performance of the picture, patrons were interviewed as they left the theatre and their expressions were noted, together with their names and addresses, which gave them material for the newspaper ad,

An interesting sidelight of this story is the fact that you gain many valuable names for your mailing list, and don't forget that we are great believers in the value of good mailing lists.

Thanks, Bill, for this one, and shoot along a few more of your recent activities, we rather like the way they

J. McManus Goes To St. Louis State For Loew Circuit

John McManus, who for a year and a half was considered one of the most popular theatre managers in the State of Ohio where he handled Loew's State Theatre, has left that theatre and city to take over the management of Loew's State Theatre in St. Louis.

This is a wonderful upward stride for Mr. McManus, as the St. Louis State Theatre seats over 3,600 people and is considered one of the most marvelous amusement palaces in the middle west.

The MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB extends to Mr. McManus its best wishes for the successful operation of the new theatre which he has taken hold of and we hope that he will not forget his membership in this live-wire organization of showmen, and tell us a whole lot about his activities in the St. Louis State.

ANAGERS' ROUND TABL

This Is What We Would Call A Complete Coverage

We have an idea that Lem Stewart, of the Publix Home Office, was responsible for the description of "Four Feathers" Cohen's campaign described below. The whole campaign is so thorough that we decided to pass it on "as is" in the hopes that many of our members and readers would be able to find some items of value for their own use.

All of which must not detract from the credit due M. D. Cohen, the house manager, who was the man to engineer all the co-operative tie-ups in connection with this exploitation. BUT here is the story:

20,000 mimeographed handwritten heralds urging people not to miss the picture with a few highlights as to what they would see. were circulated in selected sections of the city through the carrier boys of the Denver Post.

500 letters were sent to teachers inviting them to be the guests of the management on certain days of the first week; the letter calling their attention to many interesting events that take place in the picture.

For the first time, local drug stores were tied up. Eleven of their downtown windows were arranged plugging the sale of the novel; 5,000 paper napkins were used in the Luncheon Service at the storss. Copy on these napkins were printed in red. 50 snipes on "Four Feathers" sundae were used on the back bar mirrors throughout the downtown stores and "Four Feathers" sundae was featured on all their counter menus.

Cohen had a Rocky Mountain Premiere showing that took place 8:30 the night before picture opened. The front was changed at 8:30 the night before picture opened. The front was changed between 6 and 8 P. M. and was all set for the showing including an abundance of flowers which were donated by florists who had a flower show on that night. All publicity passes were dated for this night to insure a full house. A few over 500 paid admissions made the opening look great.

3,000 stickers (red) gummed on the back were sniped on the 9 o'clock issue of the Post that went into hotels; 50 large window streamers were sent out by a Confectionery company to their ice cream dealers on a "Four Feathers" sundae and a calliphone was decorated with six-sheets and daters that was driven through the city three days prior to the opening.

Blumenthal Still Up-And-At-'Em For Passaic Capitol

We should venture a guess that the Capitol Theatre in Passaic, N. J., is attracting plenty of attention these days with the stuff being engineered by Harold Blumenthal, the go-getting manager of that playhouse.

We want you to see how he dressed all his ushers for the showing of the picture "Hottentot" and the ballyhoo man standing in the starter's box, as well as the jockey with the banner tied to the horse.

This is the kind of stunt that when engineered properly attracts a whale of attention to any theatre, and Harold is deserving of a slap on the back for the fine way that he is handling his job out there in Passaic.

We like to recount this particular story because "Hottentot" is not a strong attraction but if properly exploited will bring some extra money to the box office.

Let's hear some more from you, Harold, and be sure and keep us posted on all of your activites.

Sid Oshrin Found 18 Day Diet Gag A Good B.O. Angle

"Don't let yourself DRAG." "See inside pages."

Sidney Oshrin, is another live-wire CLUB member to take advantage of our suggestion about the Eighteen Day Diet, and has incorporated it in a neat card folder, which measures when opened about 5 x 7 inches, and when folded, the cover reads

Inside of the folder he printed the Hollywood Diet the same as we printed it in an issue of the NEWS not so many weeks ago. This was a corking good angle on Sidney's part, and shows that he is alive to the possibilities of our suggestions.

Let's hear some more from you, Sid, and here's hoping that business is up to expectations.

WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR?

Some More Newcomers!

ARTHUR CAMPBELL, JR., operates the Strand theatre in Memphis, Tenn., for the Loew Circuit and works under Mr. Emerling, another Club hooster, who suggested that he join the Club. We are certain that Arthur is just the type showman that we are anxious to line up in the Club and would appreciate a little letter from him telling us some more about his past experiences in the theatre game as well as his own photo. Whatsay, Arthur?

WILLIAM HOCK manages the Plaza theatre, a neighborhood house in Pittshurgh, Pa., and already established as a fine sound theatre. Since Harpster left that city for a new assignment in Ohio we have been lacking in an active member who could keep us posted on the neighborhood activities of the theatres in Pittsburgh. How about it Bill, can we count on you? Good. And shoot us your own photo by return mail.

BEN LANES is now connected with the Crescent Gardens theatre in Revere, Mass., another of the Interstate (Stoneman-Anson) group, and knowing his bosses qualifies us to say that he is working for a "regular" outfit, so he ought to appreciate that fact by giving them the best that he has. How about it, Ben? And see that you keep us posted on your own activites in the future.

LESTER W. SPARKS is the manager of the Strand theatre in Dolgeville, N. Y., another theatre to recently go "sound" and we other members should like to know what Lester is doing in the way of publicity and exploitation to keep up interest in his theatre and their shows. Also a little more information about his past experiences, plus a photo of himself, would provide us with the material we want to introduce him via a more detailed story in an early issue.

HARVEY G. COCKS manages the Capitol Theatre in Boston, Mass., and any HARVEY G. COCKS manages the Capitol Theatre in Boston, Mass., and any man with a 2,000-seat house on his hands has all he can do to find relaxation. But we are certain that Harvey will line up as a real spirited Club member and will keep the Club pages posted on his various activities. What we would like to get right away from this new member is a letter telling us a bit about his past experiences in the show business and a picture of himself. What do you say, Harvey?

Photos of Members

THE Club is anxious to publish photographs of every member and would, therefore, appreciate receiving as many as possible for use in future issues of the Club columns. If you have not already done so, PLEASE send us your own photo at once. Thank you.

M. B. NADLER is the second new member to join the Club from Ambridge, Pa., where he is managing the Ambridge theatre. We generally like to line up more than one member from a town or city because it interests us to note which one will be the most active in the Club pages. Start it off right, Nadler, and enclose your own photo with your first letter, will you?

I. M. BERG is the house manager of the Capitol theatre in Lynn, Mass., and you will read a most interesting story about this new member on the Club pages in a very early issue of the News. With the start he has made we are sure that his contributions will be looked for with much interest by our other members and readers. (Don't forget to send us your photo Berg, will you?)

FRANCIS SHERIDAN manages the State theatre in Nashua, N. H., and with his policy of straight talking pictures should certainly have some interesting "dope" to pass on to our other members and readers. Suppose you start your membership off with a photo of yourself and a few details about your past experiences in the show business, Francis?

Proposed by Pete Egan:

JACK LUNDHOLM manages the Lyric theatre in Swift Current, Sask., Canada, and of course we are mighty glad to extend a hearty welcome to another of those progressive Canadian showmen. We sincerely trust that Jack will follow in the footsteps of his brother Canadian managers by becoming a real active member and booster for the Club. Send us one of your own photos, will you Jack, so we can introduce you properly—Thanks.
